RIGHT BEFORE OUR EYES

THE MARAUDER 1993

BAY SHORE HIGH SCHOOL

BAY SHORE, NEW YORK

VOLUME 70

More than ever, the world seems to be changing right before our eyes. Over this past year we have witnessed tremendous changes in foreign countries, the United States, and our own Bay Shore. The Berlin Wall has crumbled into a pile of rubble, the Soviet Union and Yugoslavia are no longer unified nations; Florida has barely survived one of the worst hurricanes in history; Fire Island has eroded down to a thread of a beach area. In the past presidential campaign, one of the three candidates came from neither of the two traditional parties which have dominated politics for decades, and many changes have accompanied the new president into office. AIDS has continued to plague our nation and seems to run rampant. Family values became a major issue in the campaign and remains a prominent topic for discussion. Detroit has introduced an entire line of aerodynamic cars with increased passenger space.

These changes have affected the people of the world as well as the students of Bay Shore High School. We are students from a generation of change. We want to look into the future and see not problems but possibilities. Acceptance of what is new and different in the world is our key to coping to this ever-changing world.

As students we have learned that many more changes are necessary before a better life can be guaranteed for every person in society. Prejudice needs to be stopped. People must be viewed as equals regardless of skin color, race, sex, or ethnic background. Our attitude towards the environment also needs to be changed, as well as our participation in the government of our nation.

While such things as cultural diversity and basic freedoms must continue to endure, there are many other things that are within our grasp to change. With the education given to us at Bay Shore High School, we have the knowledge and ability to select what should change and what should remain the same in order to create a better life for the next generation.

(top) Jason Ramos and Lonnie Slater examined the changing world beneath the lens of their microscope.
 (middle) One of the changes was to hold an outdoor pep rally in October, and most enjoyed the chance to get out into the fresh air.
 (bottom) Peter Oosterom adapted to the ever-changing music scene using computers to orchestrate his composition.

In-School Spirit!

This year was marked with many new and exciting changes at Bay Shore High School. For the first time in many years, the traditional Pep Rally was held outdoors during an extended eighth period. Students left the building eighth period and headed for the bleachers. They were greeted by a warm and sunny day, and the air was crackling with excitement.

The students were then addressed for the first time by the new principal, Mr. Robert Consigli. The award-winning Marduder Marching Band entertained the crowd with its spectacular half-time show. The lively tunes and energetic spirit of the band raised the energy level of the crowd. Mr. Mahoney, the director of student activities, began introducing all of the members of the various Varsity and Junior Varsity fall sports. Members of each team were introduced individually to the enthusiastic crowd of their peers.

As the pep rally drew to a close, the Varsity and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders wowed the crowd with high-risk stunts and pyramids. The crowd was brought to its feet by the cheerleaders. Amid thunderous applause and cheering, the students of Bay Shore High School were introduced to their Junior Varsity and Varsity football teams.

Many of the students enjoyed the pep rally and went home feeling enthusiastic about the coming football season. The change in scenery from the traditional pep rally was met with great approval. An outdoor setting made this year's pep rally both a unique and memorable event.

(right) Mrs. C. DiPane, Mr. D. McGilvray, and Mr. T. Ford got into the spirit of the pep rally.

(clockwise from top) Students watched as the Varsity teams were introduced to the crowd.

Thalia Lopez, with the help of her partner, rose to new heights. Tasneem Hoque, Jessica Brech, Karen Gabrois, Keith Herrador, and Robert Scully enjoyed the festivities and the break from classes.

Kerri Harris stepped forward as she was introduced as a member of the J.V. Girls' Soccer team.

(top) Keith Knacke and Jed Kennedy stopped to talk about the weekend's events on the way to class. (above) James Taylor gave Simone Mickle a quick hug between classes.

(top) Monica Skala stopped at Aurora Rivera's locker to borrow her jacket. (middle) Katie Werner stood on the river bank and found that getting into a canoe wasn't as easy as she thought. (bottom) Cory Wallace walked to lunch with "his women," Saeeda Rahaman and Joann Phifer, while Catherine Pope and Joe Albury enjoyed their food.

'93

As freshmen the High School appeared to many as a colossal giant unable to be conquered. Many feared the rumors that they had heard about the "evils" which lurked within those brick walls. Others were filled with curiosity over the mystery which shrouded a realm into which they had never entered. Unbeknownst to them was the fact that those fears and intrepidations, along with their hopes and dreams, would in the four years come to be "changing right before their eyes." New faces and new challenges helped to transform timid freshmen into young adults with new values and convictions. Some chose to experiment with new friends and interest groups, while others sought to better themselves, improve their skills, and take on new challenges.

As the members of the class of '93 progressed through their sophomore and junior years, the changes continued on. No longer the smallest or the youngest in the building, they now became fully involved in the building and an integral part of the high school structure. These years in their lives contained many important struggles and decisions for themselves and the people around them. As they made the transition into mature individuals, they looked forward with enthusiasm and anticipation to their final year in the school.

As seniors, leaders and role models of the underclassmen, a whole new flock of challenges, changes, and commitments, faced the freshmen of yesteryear.

As this typical high school tale comes to an end, many new changes lie ahead. Be it college, work, or other endeavors, the future years will reflect the many changes that have already taken place and many new changes yet to come. The one constant that we all share is that we have gone through this metamorphosis together. Who knows who will be there in the future to lend some support and guidance. On the road of life we will continue the process of "changing right before our eyes."

"Coming into the High School in my senior year has helped to toughen me mentally and enhance my character for when I take my next step up the ladder of education. Bay Shore High School has given me experiences that I can rely upon in the future."

When I was younger, the school year seemed to drag by, months seemed to last years. Once in high school, I participated in many different and exciting activities that made these past three years fly by. It seems like only yesterday that I was in elementary school, and now I'm a senior.

Not Your Average Gym Class

"What?" This is the question that about thirty seniors have been hearing each time they mention their gym class. Outdoor Ed, officially known as Outdoor Education, is a senior elective gym class that was offered for the first time this year. The students in the class are mainly athletes who are already in good physical condition. Mr. Rick Damore, the instructor, recognized that gym can become mundane after years of playing the same sports and not learning any new skills. With the Outdoor Ed class, Mr. Damore aims to introduce students to activities that can be continued throughout their adult lives.

Class time is spent learning basic skills that pertain to the numerous field trips taken by the class. One morning, students in the building were puzzled to see tents being erected on the track and football field. There was no need to worry, though. It was only the Outdoor Ed class preparing for its upcoming camping trip.

The first trip the class took was a canoeing trip to the Carmens River. In preparation the class learned about weather patterns, tidal changes, and paddling methods. Once on the river, students found practical application for their classroom knowledge. Maneuvering the canoes took a little practice, but soon everyone was paddling like pros. Students even learned to laugh at being caught in brush or stuck on rocks. The end result of every field trip was that everyone got to experience something new and have a great time in the process.

In Memory of

Derek Hatcher

1975-1992

Derek "Dinky" Hatcher was a man who loved the world and was loved by it.

Dinky dreamed of being a baseball star, always wishing to make that winning hit.

His gentle manner touched many lives;
his cheerful smile brightened each day.

Dinky, your generosity, kindness, and friendship will be greatly missed.

Your friends at Bay Shore High School.

UNDERCLASSMEN

The Underclassmen Years are some of the most formative years in a person's development and maturation. They are important years of change when students go from adolescence to the threshold of adulthood. During these years every experience leaves its impact on the individual helping to mold him or her for the future. No one is able to predict the future so each experience, memory, and friendship remains stored away for further use. The children of today will become the adults and leaders of tomorrow. Almost right before our very eyes, we can observe these changes taking place and the influence they exert on our lives. The face we see in the mirror today is rapidly changing to behold the character of the person we will be tomorrow.

(right) Mrs. Reilly said, "Open wide and say 'Ahh'," as Erik Lee tried to get early dismissal by complaining of a sore throat.

As juniors raced to achieve independence from parents and teachers, they quickly realized that their destiny was in their hands. Along with this realization came a sense of urgency. College planning, senior portraits, and class rings were no longer in the distant future. Time for planning was running out. The time to take control of the future became a sudden reality. Teachers continuously reminded students of the importance of junior year grades and SAT scores. Recommendations, resumes, and autobiographies were requested by the guidance department. College Days presented a myriad of possibilities which both helped and baffled students. Visitations from Bay Shore alumni brought the voice of experience and proved to be helpful in answering many questions. With all of these great decisions facing them, juniors realized that the responsibility of the future lies in their hands.

Pet Peeves

Is it an exotic breed of animal? Or perhaps an animal illness? NO! Pet peeves are those things in life that really bother or annoy people. After taking an informal survey of some juniors, we discovered that these annoyances vary as greatly as the individuals in the junior class. Here is a sample of the eleventh grade "pet peeves."

"I hate when people mispronounce the word, 'ask,' and say 'axed.' I personally would rather be asked to do something rather than axed to do it."

Colleen Krowl

"I get really annoyed when we get a Thursday off but not a Friday because then we end up with a two day weekend instead of a four day weekend."

Matt LaPenta

"My one and only pet peeve is the sound of cardboard being scratched to a pitiful nothing."

Kim Slater

"It really gets on my nerves when people wear socks or pantyhose with sandals."

Jennifer Saracco

"I hate it when I'm in the shower and my tenant gets in; she steals the hot water, and I have to stand all soapy and wait for her to get out."

Dennis Thomas

"A pet peeve of mine is when I'm sitting down talking with somebody and after I'm done, another person will ask me 'Do you know them?'. Of course I knew them or else I wouldn't have been talking to them in the first place!"

Jeremy Davis

"I get really angry when I walk into my kitchen with just socks on and I step into something wet because I have to put on a new pair of socks every time!"

Dennis Owen

"It really bugs the life out of me when people sing along with the radio and their voices are terrible, especially when I leave subtle hints that would normally tip them off, but they think that they are blessed with their voices."

Laurie Stack

"I hate it when people tell me something and say 'ya know.' 'If I knew, I would've stopped them before they told me."

Brian Dieumegard

"I can't stand it when my parents don't believe that I'm going to my girlfriend's house after school to study."

Tom Ehlers

"What bothers me most is when people ask 'What's wrong?', or 'How are you?' when they really don't care what your response is."

Katie Dennis

"It drives me crazy when people constantly tap their feet, or bang their hands on things."

It Costs How Much?

Towards the end of October, juniors and seniors flocked to the large cafeteria for the first of several mini-college days that were held this year. The objective of these college days was to provide the students with the necessary information to make rational decisions about their college careers. Being able to speak directly with the representatives from the different schools enlightened many students about the curriculum offerings, school life, and extra-curricular activities of each of the various colleges. The college search can often be daunting but these representatives helped to make the task less formidable. The wealth of information provided by the representatives and the catalogues they distributed helped many to put their futures into perspective. As junior Jaime Forlano said, "The College Day was extremely beneficial for me and helped me to start making my plans early to alleviate the pressures in senior year."

Junior Student Council

With the new principal stressing the importance of student government, the year began with many changes for the junior class. Mr. Consigli held meetings with the officers of each class to discuss what each class was planning to do and to get first hand student input about what was going on around the building. The meetings began in September with Mr. C. Campbell, the advisor, and the election of the officers — Jessica Loudon-President, Christie Driscoll- Vice President, Randi Paige - Treasurer, and Kim Nornes- Secretary. The first decision of the year was the selection of a class word. They chose "pride" because so many of the juniors demonstrate their devotion to Bay Shore High School through their participation in the various activities that our school offers. It was a fun-filled year which included many junior sponsored events, such as the Junior Winter Wonderland Dinner Dance, the Junior-Senior Prom, Battle of the Classes, and community involvement projects among many other successful activities. Under the leadership of Mr. Campbell, and the enthusiastic officers, the junior class showed much enthusiasm and involvement within the school, and looked forward to a senior year that will be just as memorable!

Lights Out!!!

(top) April Carhart and John Michel laughed at the photographer's funny joke.

(bottom) Dancing the night away, before the lights went out, were Cynthia Lorenz and Keith Napodano.

On the eve of the "storm of the century," the Winter Wonderland Junior Dinner Dance was held in the south cafeteria, where the students in attendance experienced some good food, good ambiance, and the camaraderie of their friends. Dressed in a variety of attire ranging from jeans and sneakers to velvet gowns and suits, students began arriving around six-thirty ready to party the night away. The chilly December tenth evening began with a Conga Line which continued into the Limbo. Everyone laughed and cheered as the dancers gyrated under the pole.

After two hours of dancing, chatting, and eating, the festivities came to an abrupt halt when the electricity went out right in the middle of the song "Blister in the Sun" by the Violent Femmes. This unfortunate course of events forced the disappointed students to disperse and find something else to do. Even though it was cut short, the basic sentiment of juniors who went to the dance was very positive. All agreed that it was an immensely enjoyable evening which helped to bring the members of the class together.

After entering their second year in high school, the sophomores came to the realization that besides looking up to the upperclassmen, the freshmen were looking up to and watching them. This realization brought with it a sense of responsibility. They were now taking on the responsibility as role models for those younger than they. In addition, the responsibilities of academic life became their top priority. Striving to receive those extra A's and making captain of the team was extremely important. As tenth graders getting involved with schoolwork and extra-curricular activities was a concern that must be dealt with now. Many sophomores took the PSAT as a great preparation for the SAT tests in junior year.

As tenth graders, these students realized that understanding the difference between right and wrong was extremely important. They realized that life is full of choices and that they had the responsibility of making the decisions that would affect their futures. Their lives would be what they made out of them.

As the members of the sophomore class become juniors, they will continue the process of changing right before our eyes. They will continue to meet new challenges and put their lives into perspective. The Class of '95 knows what it wants and realizes that the responsibility for their future successes will rest entirely with them.

What is Your Favorite Period of the Day?

After interviewing a number of students at Bay Shore High School the Marauder staff found that, to no one's surprise, lunch and study hall were the favorite periods of the day. The social studies and business courses were the third and fourth favorites, respectively.

The reasons for so many students favoring lunch and study halls were quite obvious. Students enjoyed having the free time to talk with their friends. Lunch was a great opportunity to finish any homework that was left uncompleted from the night before. During this free time, students also took advantage of Bay Shore's weight room to tone their bodies and stay healthy. For any students who felt they needed to talk over a problem or get advice from Mr. McGowan or one of the peer counselors, lunch was the perfect opportunity to visit the Time-Out Room. Mike Vannoni said, "My favorite period is study hall. I like to be able to go where I want. I can go to the Music Theory lab or to the Orchestra room to practice my music." "I love lunch because I can finish last night's homework," commented Scott Widor.

The interesting information that students learn in the social studies courses accounted for these being rated favorites. Bay Shore kids seem to enjoy learning about the different cultures of the world both past and present. Eleni Xikis told the Marauder, "Social studies is my favorite class, besides music theory, because my teacher, Mr. Cash, makes the subject interesting." Also included about the social studies classes was that students want to learn about their government. Through these classes they were taught about the ideas which the government is based on.

The business courses were considered on top of many students' lists because the information would be helpful in their futures. For example, balancing a check book, budgeting personal finances, and getting started in the business world were topics that carried a personal relevance for all in the class. After graduation, these skills will be very important in careers and household management. Each student in school has, of course, his or her favorite period of the day. Which is yours?

Female vs. Male

One of the changes this year was the first Battle of the Sexes, sponsored by the sophomore class. This was a great opportunity for the guys and girls of the class to battle it out in a series of activities that were fun, and yet maintained a strong competitive spirit. Participants did battle in such challenging activities as crab ball, volleyball, musical chairs, eating contests, and relay races. The males and females went head-to-head in each event in an effort to determine which was the dominant sex. As the end of the night approached, the score was tied and the win depended on the final event- a volleyball game. After many near wins throughout the game the guys proved to be victorious by a score of 35 to 25.

An added feature to this event was that the profits were donated to a good cause. Admission price was one can of food which was then distributed to needy people in the community who didn't have enough money to purchase a Thanksgiving dinner.

Everyone who attended enjoyed the competitive atmosphere and the opportunity to demonstrate their talents and athletic prowess. The sophomore class showed that it really is possible to combine community service with an evening of fun and excitement.

Clothing Styles of 1993

What was everyone at Bay Shore High School wearing this year? At one time, students were wearing slouchy socks and overalls with the straps hanging down. People were also wearing sweatshirts inside out and in fluorescent colors. As anyone can see by looking at the students in the corridors, tastes have certainly changed.

This year most people were again stocking up on oversized jeans and tops. The college look was popular and clothes from The Gap were worn throughout the student body. Cross Colours were the hip thing worn by many. B.U.M. Equipment which is sold at many popular stores was also a hot commodity. In footwear clodhoppers, combat shoes, and keds in unusual colors were being worn. Doc Martens also made the scene and set the trend for many students.

Classic fitting jeans, button-down shirts, and rugby shirts in classic colors continued the preppy-college look that was popular in 1992. V-neck sweaters and t-shirts offered a casual alternative to the fashion-conscious students.

The rap look with baggy jeans and pants in a full array of colors continued to be popular. Cross Colours was a brand sought by many in the local stores. Making a fashion statement of his own, designer Calvin Klein sent his models down the runway with their jeans backwards and baggy following the young rap sensation Kriss Kross.

Starter jackets with their school and team logos kept students warm throughout the winter months. Georgetown, Notre Dame, The University of Miami, and The L.A. Raiders were popular among the students.

Tastes in clothing seem to change right before our eyes. Stores continue to do a booming business as students were lured in to buy more and more to keep up with the latest trends.

Sophomore Unity

The sophomore student council, led by president Kristina Nifora, vice-president Liza Fernandez, secretary Elissa Rezac, treasurer Gillian Mattimore, and historians Jocelynn O'Brien, Laura DellaVedova, and Katie Holmes, was busy planning many trips and activities for their class this year. Their efforts came through with outstanding results.

In October they worked hard on their banner for the homecoming activities. In November contests in volleyball, crab ball, relay races, and obstacle courses were the determining factor in the males' victory at The Battle of the Sexes. To promote the class holiday food drive, admission to this event was a can of food for the needy. To get the class into the holiday spirit, the officers arranged a trip into New York City to see the Christmas Spectacular at Radio City Music Hall. The students also collected "Toys for Tots" in Bay Shore to give needy children something special for Christmas. They held a very successful formal dinner dance where members of the class enjoyed exquisite cuisine and danced the night away. Another exciting event was the Open Gym Night in March. On this evening, students were invited to come to the school gym to play their favorite indoor sports. In April, the sophomores went into the city again to see the Broadway hit "Miss Saigon". Everyone who saw the show was impressed by the excellence of the cast. The annual trip to Great Adventure in June was also a success. It proved to be a great way to escape from school and all its pressures for a day.

Through all these activities the class of '95 proved that when everyone pulled together and worked hard, anything can be accomplished. "Unity" is the best word to describe the sophomore class and their officers.

(clockwise from top left) Bruce Lee and Melanie Mickle shared a quick hug before heading off to class. Nicole La Puma, Natalie Lawson, and Imelyn Fernandez cheered on the home team at their first Homecoming as high school students. Freshmen hurried to their lockers before beginning another day of studies. Craig Filaski was amazed at Mr. D'Antoni's energy and enthusiasm.

As the students of the class of 1996 climbed the steps of Bay Shore High School on the first day of school, they were struck by the many differences between the High School and the Middle School. Many freshmen shared experiences similar to that of Tasha Morales. "When I first entered the High School, I was scared. I knew I was going to get lost, and I did. By the third day, I was starting to get used to the school and the kids."

Before entering high school, the freshmen were the oldest and biggest students in the Middle School. As the youngest members of the student body again, they have the burden to adjust to a whole new set of rules, teachers, and responsibilities. Freshmen faced harder courses with many new challenges. Although some freshmen may have found the changes difficult to cope with, they became more independent and mature people because of these changes.

Along with changes in their courses, the freshmen also had the opportunity to join a much larger variety of clubs and activities. Some, such as student government, sports, and the musical, are old favorites. Other activities, such as Moot Court, Status, and SADD, were new to the freshmen. These many diverse activities have fostered an interest in a new field of study or a career choice. After school organizations also allowed freshmen to interact with students of all grade levels. As they got to know the upperclassmen, the freshmen no longer felt lost as they walked down the corridors of the High School, for they had many new friends to talk to.

Although the beginning of the freshman year of high school can be traumatizing, by the end of that year full of change, the freshmen have found their niche in the school. By June, they are, in the words of Tasha Morales, "Not afraid to face tomorrow or anything that may come their way." Many of them also agree with Elizabeth Munoz when she says that, "This school is well ... AWESOME!"

Changes In Our Community

Throughout the past year, there have been a number of additions to the Bay Shore community. Some of these exciting attractions include a supermarket, a YMCA, and two clubs.

The arrival of the new YMCA, which opened to the public last September, has added much to our community. It offers the atmosphere of a health club with programs geared for the family. The "Y" also offers swimming lessons, karate, weight training, and volleyball. Many students and teachers here at the High School took full advantage of the new programs. There are also special classes for teenagers, pre-school classes, and gym classes for young children.

Hollyrock, a new twist on the traditional movie theater, recently opened on Main Street. This theater/club offered current movie releases at prices rarely found on Long Island. For four dollars, adults viewed movies while relaxing in comfortable chairs, as opposed to standard cineplex styles. While patrons enjoyed a movie, they could order food ranging from appetizers to elegant entrees. Hollyrock also became a popular place for children's birthday parties.

The newest supermarket in Bay Shore is Finast. From the start, at its grand opening this past summer, customers flocked there because of the low prices and friendly atmosphere. As a result, all the supermarkets in town began lowering their prices and announcing great sales to lure customers back. An additional benefit to customers was that many supermarkets updated their interiors, thereby making shopping more convenient.

The newest attraction for the teen scene is a dance club called Streaks. A dance floor complete with colored and strobe lights allowed teenagers to dance to the year's hottest music each weekend. While the reggae, rap, techno, and house music played, dancers could take a break to enjoy some cold soda and snacks or even a game of pool.

Business in downtown Bay Shore has dropped over the past few years. Along with plans to revitalize Main Street, the openings of the "Y", Hollyrock, Finast, and Streaks have made the future prospects of the community brighter. Plans for a new pedestrian mall on Main Street, which were first introduced about ten years ago, were once again being considered quite seriously. The new establishments and visions of the mall have created a great deal more business and provided residents opportunities to gain new experiences in the areas of shopping and entertainment. Bay Shore certainly is experiencing some changes right before our eyes.

One World, One Chance!

(below) Tara Turpel, Karen Phelan, Steve Balsamo, Nicole LaPuma, Nick Loughlin, and Keith Herrador proved they loved the environment by hugging a tree on campus.

For years people watched as our precious ecosystem became unbalanced and our environment was destroyed through pollution. The time has come for people to intervene and stop this self-defeating cycle of wasting and polluting. The students of Bay Shore have accepted the challenge to save the environment. Although some problems, such as the hole in the ozone layer, are irreparable, other destructive tendencies can and should be rectified before permanent damage occurs. Enlightenment about the condition of our environment has given birth to a determination to save our environment before it is damaged beyond repair.

Because polluting the environment is as natural to us as driving a car or turning on the air conditioner, a new ideology has to be instilled in the population. Students at the High School expressed great concern over the state of the environment and what should be done to save it. April Boynton said "Recycling shouldn't be a choice, it should be a law. People fail to remember that the place they litter is the place they live in." Carrie Teufel added, "I wish people would realize what they are doing to our earth. They should take charge by recycling and becoming more efficient."

Deforestation of the rain forests is also a major concern of Bay Shore students. Danny Riviera pointed out, "Workers in the rain forests are destroying 60% of our world oxygen supply. I think most of our efforts in protecting the environment should be concentrated on the air supply."

Positive steps are being taken. Both Bay Shore and Brightwaters have established recycling programs that recycle plastics, styrofoam, glass, and paper. By recycling paper and using products made of recycled paper, fewer trees are needed to make new paper. A battery bin has been placed in the main lobby of the school to help limit the amount of toxins which are leaked into the ground.

Before our environment can be saved, every person needs to admit that they commit a crime every day. It is not a crime against the state, but against the future. We only have one chance and one world.

Freshmen Student Council

Led by Mrs. D. Kaplar, the freshmen class had a busy year. Instead of a traditional slate of officers, the class elected four representatives to share the responsibilities equally. These representatives acted as officers during the class meetings and represented the class of '96 at the student government meetings. Elizabeth Munoz, Tasha Morales, Rebecca Ramos, and Erica Sadler were elected unanimously to this position. They worked closely with Mrs. Kaplar on various activities that the freshmen class sponsored. They also helped to revise the school constitution and the student code of conduct. They attended bi-weekly meetings and student government meetings with Mr. Consigli and Mr. Mahoney.

Many freshmen became involved in the Homecoming Parade tradition of Bay Shore by helping to make the class banner which this year replaced the usual class float. Those who participated in the banner-making agreed that the experience was, in the words of Rebecca Ramos, "Great!" The freshmen class also made centerpieces as decorations for the Homecoming reception.

During the Christmas season, the class adopted a family with funds raised during their years at the Middle School. The freshmen class also sponsored an all-school dating game for Valentine's Day.

All of the students involved in the freshmen student council said that being a member of the student council helped make a smooth, easy transition from the Middle School.

The main focal point of every student here at Bay Shore High School is academic success. With the help of the talented professional staff, the students aspire to reach their goals, surpass their expectations, and improve their futures. Around the building students can be observed in a variety of activities, aimed on developing their skills and increasing their knowledge, both inside and out of the classroom. It is the information acquired during the four years of high school and the relationships that are nurtured that last a student throughout his entire lifetime. In order to keep up with the rigorous demands of our modern day society and technology, the academic offerings here at Bay Shore are changing to meet the challenges of the future. New courses of study are continuously being developed. The academic life of the High School is constantly changing to keep up with the changing complexion of the world in which we live.

Who is Bay Shore High School's New Principal?

This year began with many new changes facing students as they returned to school in September. The biggest change was the lack of a principal to lead the school, although many students were unaware that Mr. J. Okulski had left Bay Shore. When school started on September ninth, Mrs. A. Schwartz took on the position of Acting Principal. Within a few weeks, the Board of Education ended its search by appointing Mr. Robert Consigli, former principal of Jamaica High School in Queens, to the position.

Mr. Consigli started teaching in Brooklyn in 1962 where he taught social studies in grades seven through nine for six years. In 1968 he was appointed to Jamaica High School where he remained until his move to Bay Shore. While at Jamaica, Mr. Consigli became the assistant principal of social studies and then principal in 1987. He is very proud of his accomplishments at Jamaica especially since not too many teachers rise through the ranks to become a principal.

Upon arriving at Bay Shore, Mr. Consigli was faced with many changes. One such change was a smaller student population in Bay Shore and a totally diverse ethnic background.

Mr. Consigli described the arrival of students on yellow school buses as "weird" since his former students used public transportation to commute to school.

As principal of Bay Shore, Mr. Consigli brings with him a fresh perspective on how a school should be run. One of the first changes he made was to implement a new non-homeroom schedule. Mr. Consigli also planned to "update" the school. He felt that there is a lack of technology here at Bay Shore and would therefore like to see more computers brought into the school.

Mr. Consigli planned to add some additional courses and programs such as an affiliation with surrounding colleges so students could visit their science and performing art departments. He also planned to implement a program providing a full scholarship to Stony Brook University. New clubs and activities were formed to increase student involvement. Mr. Consigli also aimed at opening the lines of communication with the student body by activating the student government and making personal appearances in social studies classes.

"Being principal in a new school is a challenge," Mr. Consigli said. He felt that it will take time for him to get used to all of the policies and programs here at Bay Shore. He added that he has a high regard for the teachers of this school. He looked forward to working with them closely as well as getting to know the students better. Having a new principal at Bay Shore High School is just another change happening right before our eyes.

If you are looking for a class that gives you real life experience in child raising, you need not go further than Mrs. Dipane's parenting course.

Students in the class learn many of the things that they will need to know when they one day decide to have children. The course covers everything from early pregnancy to child raising. A health conscious diet for pregnant women was discussed. Guest speakers lectured the class on early child development and dealing with pregnancy. Children from the community were brought to school for the students to observe. This year the classes also made stockings for the babies at Southside Hospital.

The highlight of the course is the week of simulated parenthood in which students must care for their children (dolls) throughout the week. By doing this, students gain insight into the difficulties of parenthood. In the beginning it was really exciting. Everyone thought that the babies were cute and cuddly. The parents had to treat the dolls as if they were real children. If they wanted to play gym or to go out, they had to find a babysitter for the child. The parents also had to deal with various childhood diseases and problems, such as a heart murmur or club feet. By the end of the week, the novelty and cuteness had worn off, and the students began to understand how hard an occupation parenting actually is.

All the students agree that this course offers powerful insights into the career of parenting.

The proud parents, Pat McGee and posed with their "baby."

Lending a Helping Hand

Besides the cafeteria, the guidance office is the second busiest location that is frequented by the student population. Under auspices of Mrs. Petralia, the department consisting of five counselors and four secretaries assisted students in fulfilling their goals. As well as helping students with their schedules, the guidance department aides students in finding jobs and becoming more successful. The counselors also give students suggestions on study skills and advice and counseling in their personal problems. Guidance offers special programs for each grade level. For freshmen, conferences are held in which the students, their parents, and their counselors talk about how students can maintain their academic goals. For the sophomores, guidance offers help preparing for the PSAT's; for Juniors they have conferences on college awareness, and for the Seniors they have financial aid workshops.

Whenever students need help, assistance, or support the guidance department and its friendly staff of secretaries stand ready to lend a hand. Because of the pleasant atmosphere students feel comfortable to seek out the counselors and the secretaries who enthusiastically help each student reach his/her potential.

(below) Mrs. Petralia, the head of the Guidance Department, oversees the work of her fellow counselors as well as giving advice to the student population.

Mr. Braddish Returns to the Classroom

In a decision to put his education to work in the political arena, he took a leave of absence from his twenty-two years of social studies teaching four years ago to devote his time and energy to local politics.

Well, he's back! Mr. K. Braddish returned to the classroom this year as a high school social studies teacher. After the time away from working with students he returned to the academic life and his first love. His hiatus was spent working as an elected official and President of the city council in Long Beach. He also worked on the Clinton presidential campaign. Mr. Braddish feels that politics are a great responsibility in that he was elected by his fellow citizens because they felt that he would best represent them.

Between teaching and politics, Mr. Braddish doesn't have a preference. He treats the two as separate entities and derives a great deal of pleasure from both. Said Mr. Braddish, "It's been really enjoyable being back." He didn't find any major differences between teaching Middle School students and those of high school age- teaching each day is an exciting challenge with any age group for him.

Double The Learning, Twice The Fun

Every year new courses are added and old ones deleted from the student course catalogue. One type of course which has been received with considerable popularity and has expanded each year is the interdisciplinary course. Simply known as "Humanities" it reflects some of the latest changes in educational philosophy. Through this course students are enabled to earn three credits for two periods of work each day. The humanities class provides students with an opportunity to learn and understand literature, art, and culture as the subjects relate to one another. Taught by three dedicated professionals, Mr. J. Nash, Mr. P. Palumbo, and Mrs. P. Ponzi, the students of this class are intrigued. The combination of the subjects and the teachers "makes it easier and more fun to learn," said Katie Holmes. Jen Maroney added, "The subjects come together in a way that makes learning exciting." With the enthusiasm everyone is showing and the results being as great as they are, this is a course that is sure to remain popular among students and faculty alike.

Can you tell who these people are? Since the theme of this year's book is "Changing Before Our Eyes", the staff decided to include a special section to see how much some of our teachers have changed from when they were students here or their early days as teachers in the building. We dug into the Marauder archives and found these pictures in some past yearbooks. You can find the key to these photos on page 123.

Presidential Campaign '92

1992 was a busy year for the American public. Trying to keep track of who was in the presidential race kept voters guessing right on through to November's Election Day. Without any formal party's endorsement Ross Perot entered the race at the beginning and then abruptly withdrew without giving any viable explanation to his supporters. Bill Clinton ran on the Democratic ticket and eventually won the contest with his promises of change for the American people and their ailing economy. The incumbent George Bush attacked many of Clinton's policies and especially his somewhat "shady" past.

Bill Clinton campaigned by traveling across the country with his bus trips trying to reach as many segments of the American public as possible. The highlight of the whole campaign was the television debates watched by millions of viewers. Perot's wit won him many new supporters, but many of his arguments lacked substance since his experience was more in the realm of business than politics. Some of his tactics might have worked well in dealing with commercial difficulties but were questionable when dealing with an entire country and a Congress to oversee his actions. Many felt that had he stayed in the race from the start he would have had a better chance of winning. George Bush held firmly to his trickle down economy theory and his "low" tax plans, but had little else in his favor except his role in the Desert Storm Operation.

As the campaign wore on, Americans wondered what changes in their lives would come from each candidate if he were elected. The country's economy and healthcare status were major issues that each candidate promised to improve. Clinton won the election by an electoral college landslide and in his inaugural address stated, "There is nothing wrong with America that cannot be cured by what is right with America. At the edge of the 21st Century, let us begin anew with energy and hope, with faith and discipline, and let us work until our work is done. . ." The world is watching to see what changes will be affected by our 42nd President.

In Appreciation...

Between scenes of the play rehearsal, Mr. J. D'Antoni and Mrs. C. Jones did a final check of the proofs before sending them back to the publishing company.

Those of us on the Marauder staff would like to make special mention of Mrs. Carol Jones and Mr. Joseph D'Antoni. Their dedication to this publication over the past five years has been immense. In addition to their full class schedules they are also the directors of Bay Shore's outstanding drama program. Both the play and the musical require them to put in very long hours each day. Whenever the auditorium was needed, Mr. D'Antoni and Mrs. Jones have also taken care of the lighting and stage work.

Along with their drama work, they have always been here to, among other things, design more layouts and improve articles. They've put up with us through long hours of searching for pictures and struggling to make deadlines. We feel that their work has gone way beyond the call for school service and we wish to thank them for it.

Mrs. Jones and Mr. D'Antoni, without your help and encouragement, this book would never have been completed. Your tireless efforts and superb dedication have been greatly appreciated.

These magazine covers represent some of what has changed right before our eyes. From popular culture like Tom Cruise's fame, changes in clothing styles, musical groups, television stars, to the hit movie, "Malcolm X," which brought its namesake a resurgence of popularity, the year was filled with excitement and activity. The media did not neglect serious issues either. Issues such as abortion and AIDS among teenagers and sports figures such as Arthur Ashe received considerable attention. Hurricane Andrew, which destroyed part of Florida, was also covered extensively. Locally, our own town was under the national eye when little Katie Beers disappeared. The famed "Long Island Lolita" story of Amy Fisher was even made into movies on three national networks. And just when we thought our military could rest for a while, they were called to Somalia. These times have been quite intriguing and have kept the media and the American public on their toes.

Building Blocks of the Future

Students looking to get ahead on in the competitive business world while still students in high school have at their disposal a variety of challenging, practical business courses as part of the occupational education department. Students, taking the courses, sought to improve their business skills and learned how to market themselves more effectively. The courses offered a wide range of topics including bookkeeping, computer technology, and business law. Other topics included preparing for a successful job interview and how to budget money. The students were amazed to learn of the many fraudulent practices found in consumer markets today. They were taught how to spot the frauds and how to avoid them. As a result, they acquired some practical skills and became wiser consumers at the same time.

Two questions often asked by teenagers preparing for their futures are "What career should I choose?" and "What type of goals should I set for myself?" Through these classes, students learned various ways of looking at the questions and were shown how to determine the answers for themselves.

The business world is continually growing and changing. It is fast-paced and extremely impersonal. The training received here taught students how to prepare for the frustrations and pressures of the outside world while opening many avenues for future careers. By using these building blocks, the students were getting a head start on the road to success.

A sports season can change within the blink of an eye. The extra shot that makes it into the goal or that superb block that prevents the other team from scoring could mean the difference between winning and a championship season. It's the thrill of victory and the agony of defeat that adds an element of excitement and anticipation to the average students' lives. From spectators to athletes, from football to tennis, everyone agrees that sports and athletics add a necessary part to all of our lives.

GYMNASTICS

It was a season of change for the boys' gymnastics team which underwent a major transition this year. This was a necessary step as only one senior, one junior, and one sophomore returned from last year. The remainder of the team was comprised of freshmen. Throughout the two month season the guys worked out every day compiling skills. The result of all this hard work was that Bay Shore's young team surprised many of its opponents. Under the leadership of senior Keith Kastner the team vaulted from victory to victory finally placing third at the county championships. At the individual county championships, members of the team competed in their specialty events. Keith Kastner and Dave Drew competed in the all-around; Rob Roberts displayed his floor routine; Rob Knapp and Tom O'Grady competed on the parallel bars and still-rings respectively. As this young team continues to improve, it is sure to become a powerful force in future years.

(top)Doing a handstand on the parallel bars isn't as easy as it seems.

"With hard work and dedication we should be up there with the top teams in the county," commented Keith Kastner.

“Although the team record was only 500, the individual performances were inspiring,” commented captain Steve LaTorre.

After a 2-8 season in 1991, Bay Shore, with an entire team returning, looked forward to a winning season. The team won its last five matches to fashion a 7 win, 4 loss record. In its last match, against the League II Champions Commack, Bay Shore was victorious with a 6 1/2 — 2 1/2 win. This match was unique in that all six golfers averaged 41 strokes on the difficult course, while team captain Steve LaTorre ended with a 2 over par 38. This was the best team score at Bay Shore throughout Mr. T. Ford’s coaching career.

Steve, along with his partner Zach Schmidt and freshman Adam Tucker, was selected for All-League honors. Matt Ward, who returns next year with Adam, played number 4 man this year. Seniors Jeff Bunge, Tom Davide and Mike Kuhlman alternated at numbers 5 and 6. Although losing five starting members, Bay Shore has a promising future due to the talented members coming “up the ranks,” and will be a strong contender next year.

"Eleven together as one." This was the motto of the Varsity Boys Soccer Team. Coached by Mr. J. Cody, the team was a combination of seasoned, determined veterans and an assortment of talented younger players. With the wisdom of the experienced players and the fresh enthusiasm of the new players, the team stormed through its league like a tornado. When it was all over and the dust had cleared, the players had achieved a League Championship and had broken shut-out records dating back to 1987. The team was ranked high in post-season polls and was expected to wreak havoc in the county playoffs as well. Perhaps more important than any records and championships, the Varsity Soccer Team had created a new following for soccer in the Bay Shore area.

Although slightly overshadowed by their Varsity counterparts, the Junior Varsity Boys' Soccer Team also had an impressive season. With an eight win, three loss record, this team made its presence known in its league. The winning record can be attributed to the team's dynamic chemistry, the diverse strengths and talents of the players, and its gifted coach Mr. F. Fleischer. The team has a deep reservoir of young talent that will surely continue the winning tradition of Bay Shore soccer.

"With a combination of young skilled players and seasoned veterans, the team has improved a great deal over the last year and will become champions," said captains Jeff Beringer and Dan Holmes.

Throughout the years, high school cheerleaders often have had to live with negative stereotypes about their intelligence and abilities. Believe it or not, the Bay Shore High School Varsity Cheerleaders do a lot more than "shake their booties." Along with at least ten hours of grueling practice a week, running the mile at least three times in that week and accomplishing difficult stunts with apparent ease, the cheerleaders definitely have proven themselves as athletes. In this past year, they won numerous N.C.A.(National Cheerleading Association) awards including the official invitation to compete in the Nationals in Dallas, Texas last December. During their time off from school, work and ball games, the cheerleaders were busy fundraising for Texas. They successfully conducted two car washes, a teen disco night at Hollyrock, a Burger King Night and many other fundraisers in order to raise the much needed money for the Nationals. In addition to all of this, they also maintained good GPA's in an attempt to prove their stereotype false. They did an excellent job! Despite the stress of a major competition and the difficulty to maintain good grades, the team pulled together, helped and supported each other, and held closer as a team. So the next time you hear someone refer to cheerleaders as being anything but intelligent or athletic, you can be certain that they aren't talking about the Bay Shore High School Cheerleaders.

"After doing cheerleading throughout high school, it will be extremely difficult to leave the team," said Joann Phifer.

The girls' varsity tennis team finished their season more successfully than their win/loss record indicated. At each of the daily two hour practices, everyone gave 100% effort and hardwork. Throughout the season, Coach Mr. J. Morrison taught the team that winning wasn't everything. What mattered was how hard they tried. Boys' team members, Eric Gonzalez and Zach Schmidt, helped the team improve their court performances.

By the end of the season, the first and second singles players and all the doubles teams had advanced to play in the conferences. Doubles team Kami Ward and Judy Norris continued to the county tournament. The team was proud of Judy and Kami's success and will strive to emulate it next season.

The J.V. girls' tennis team improved its skills and abilities throughout the season. The girls worked hard to achieve their individual goals while striving to stay on top in their conference. Because of their dedication, they finished the season second in their league. This group of girls has aspirations of a better season next year while looking forward to becoming varsity team members.

Pittelli.

"They were spirited, enthusiastic, and hard working. This paid off in success on the field," commented Coach Mr. V. Agoglia.

Under the tutelage of Coach Mr. F. Pittelli, the Girls' Varsity Soccer team had a great season. It began with earning a second place standing among sixteen teams in a summer league. This prepared the girls for a tough season which left them with a 3-2-4 record. Captains Rafaela Nikas, Lisa Lowe, and the injured Heather Alleyne led the team to being within a point of a play-off berth. Offensive players, Patti Owen, Jaime Pasquerella, Allyson Johnson, and Laura Kinney, kept opposing goalies constantly on their toes. Halfbacks Courtney Leggio, Melissa Amato, Rafaela Nikas, Jen Ewald, Heather Jones, and Jennifer Payne proved their skills time and again by creating scoring opportunities for the forwards. After many outstanding defensive plays fullbacks Randi Paige, Melissa Shaw, Lauren Fischetti, Anne Simons, Ellie Gerdes, Amanda Mazzarella, and Laurie Jao had earned the nickname "Iron Curtain." Lisa Lowe's amazing goaltending also helped to make the season a success.

As a result of a hardworking unified team, the J.V. program finished with a winning season. With only three seniors graduating this year, the young varsity squad is looking to change this "season of ties" to next year's season of wins.

VOLLEYBALL

To promote the emergence of a victorious team, the Bay Shore Boys' Volleyball team had to undergo some changes this season. With only three returning varsity players to work with, it appeared this was going to be a difficult task to accomplish for coach Ms. Eleanor Eckman. However, with determination and perseverance, Bay Shore remained one of the top competitors in its league.

New warmup sweats and shorts gave the guys a sharp new look on the court. Captains James Oosterom, Keith Filaski, and Greg Sassone provided strong leadership and tough play. This was a main factor in the team's success. Rounding out the starting lineup were juniors Craig DeMott, Dennis Owen, and Mike Smith.

The JV team, coached by Ms. Lauren Schultz, had a successful season despite the large number of new-comers. Next year, with six returning varsity players and promising J.V. talent, the Boys' Varsity Volleyball program will remain a dominant one. Captain Greg Sassone commented, "As we improved during the season, our attitudes changed. These new attitudes made us a success."

"Considering our placement in a more competitive league, the Bay Shore field hockey team had an outstanding season," commented Kelly Durant and Cathy Longo.

Hardwork, perseverance, sacrifice, and dedication are the words which best describe this year's Varsity Field Hockey team. Entering into a new league, much harder and more challenging than the last, the team culminated the season with a winning record of 4-3-3, qualifying for the playoffs for the first time in over seven years. Teamwork was never lacking from those both on and off the field. Team spirit was a great motivating factor throughout the season. Three of the starting players: captain Kelly Durant, and outstanding defensive players Mary Persson and Lori Kowalski, will be greatly missed by the team after their graduation. Under the coaching of Ms. Karen Kauer, the team is looking towards another successful season next year. All team members agree — this season will never be forgotten.

BOWLING

What a season! The bowling team had its most outstanding record in about ten years. With a team score of 1055 points, each team member averaged approximately 211 points. With that game, they achieved the highest team score that coach Mr. J. Morrison has seen in his twenty-six years with the team. Junior Joe Camacho finished fourth out of one hundred and twenty bowlers at the county singles tournament. The team finished in third place overall in Suffolk County, an accomplishment which certainly left the team with something to be excited about. Since every member of the team will be returning next season they left the following message to their competition: "Look out, Suffolk, here we come!"

It was hard work from August on, but unfortunately it was a frustrating season for both J.V. and Varsity football squads. Morale waned each week as the opposition grew stronger and more competitive. According to Coach Mr. T. Cox, "The 1992 season was very disappointing with only a 2-6 record." The two wins came against Half Hollow Hills East and North Babylon. On offense Sheran Ryan led the team in rushing and Brian Stewart was the team leader in reception and touchdowns. Randolph Howard, Kerry Ware, and Keith Pitt distinguished themselves for the outstanding defensive play. The coaches worked hard to hold the team together after each loss. Under the leadership of team captains John Payne, Brian Stewart and Keith Pitt, the team mustered the energy to continue to play in one of the toughest divisions in Suffolk County. Senior Kerry Ware, made all-county and Keith Pitt won all-league. With seventeen seniors graduating, next year will be a big re-building year for the Varsity squad. Many of the J.V. players are Varsity prospects.

CROSS COUNTRY

(top) The boys' cross country team captains were: Visna Harris and Bill Mahler.

(bottom) The girls' cross country team were: Emily Germano and Chante Daily.

As fall arrived, Bay Shore's Cross Country runners came out of hiding to brave the weather and endless miles of track and pavement in preparation for the grueling three mile course at Sunken Meadow State Park. In his second year as head coach, Mr. R. Hawkins conditioned his runners and taught them how to be a team. Varsity captains Visna Harris, who made all-league and all-conference, and Bill Mahler, along with senior Joe Azim, sophomores Phil Vigliotta, Peter Sheehan, Sean Leggio, and Sanjeev Chopra, were constantly improving their times and were always racing for the lead. Looking toward the future, the Cross Country team expects promising runner Phil Vigliotta, as well as his fellow classmates Sean Leggio, and Peter Sheehan, to take the lead and bring the team to victory.

The terms League and Conference Title were nothing new to Bay Shore's Girls' Cross Country Team. They have been winning these distinctions for years. Coach Mr. R. Goldin had his team run an average of six miles each day in practices. The practice paid off, and it showed in their winning of every invitational meet that they attended. The team's top runners; captain Emily Germano and Chante Daily, Melissa Keckler, Tasmine Hogue, and Melanie Mickle, were all freshmen. At the county championship meet, Bay Shore placed second. Chante Daily and Emily Germano each qualified for all-state. With this core of strong freshmen runners, the team remained optimistic about its future.

Basketball

The Boys' Basketball team got off to another great start this season with a 9-2 record in their first eleven games as they tried to capture their fourth consecutive League III title. Although they lost to a team from the City in the Hempstead Tournament and were defeated in a disappointing loss at Brentwood, the Marauders rebounded to win the Amityville Tournament with Gary Williams, a fifth year Varsity starter, capturing Tournament MVP honors. The team started off with a 6-0 record in League III behind a potent offense led by Williams, who averaged 30 points per game. The other starters, senior Terrance McCray, juniors Tom Ehlers and Darryl Banks, and sophomore Andre Williams, were all major factors in the team's success. Bryan Stewart, Orden Roberts, Lonnie Slater, Kareem Farmer, and Zach Schmidt all made important contributions off the bench. The team's goal this year was to improve on last season, when they reached the County semifinals, by winning this year's County Title.

The highlight of the season came when the Marauders played Bellport at Madison Square Garden. What an exciting game!

Tom O'Grady kept his opponent on the floor by wrenching his arm back.

Choke holds, half nelsons, and pins. Most people have no idea what these words mean. However, the guys on the wrestling team knew them very well. From December until March these moves and many more were practiced. Every day, including Saturday, they ran, drilled, wrestled, and ran some more. The grueling practices paid off when the team placed second at the Sachem Tournament, one of the most difficult in New York State. Each person wrestled within his own weight class so there was no problem of sheer size winning a match. Seniors Don Maroney, Dwayne Hobbs, Rob Stocks, Eric Pascale, Mike Albergo, Greg Gordon, Eddie Hubbard, John Payne, and John Stafford have all enjoyed their time on the team. It has taught them great discipline and self-control which will be helpful in the future.

WEIGHT TRAINING

"One, two, three, lift!" These sounds, accompanied by an occasional groan, frequently emanated from the weight room as the members of the weight training club went through their daily workouts.

The club, at any given time consisted of approximately fifteen to thirty boys and girls. Anyone who wanted to build up his/her muscles could go to the fully equipped weight room and "pump up". Although some people lifted weights purely for their own benefit, a great number of the members, softball, track, and football players, lifted as a means of sports training. Others viewed it as a sport in itself. The club was conducted on a very informal basis, with no structured meetings. Members could lift at their own leisure during fifth period or after school.

Weight training has provided the student populace of Bay Shore with the opportunity to maintain their health. Through this club, many students have seen their physiques change right before their eyes.

Roy McCloud strengthened his chest by doing butterflies.

Coach Mr. T. Cox spotted Felix Gonzalez while he bench pressed.

BASKETBALL

Glorisha Brothers jumped high above the crowd at the net to score.

"It's not whether you win or lose; it's how you play the game that counts." The girls' varsity team kept this in mind, and by the end of the season it emerged with a winning record of seven wins and five losses. Only five seniors were on the team this year. Although the contributions of Pam Carter, Tammy Danglade, Shelia Callaway, Nadine McKenzie, and Kelly Durant will be a great loss to the team, the girls are looking forward to an even more successful season next year.

The J.V. team also had a good season. At this level many of the girls are still honing and developing their dribbling, passing, and shooting skills. The effort and enthusiasm that they play with in each practice and game are what makes the experiences worthwhile. This strong squad of young players is a great asset to the Bay Shore program and will be providing the varsity team with a large pool of talent from which to draw next year.

Shelia Callaway commented of her years with the basketball team, "For the past four years the team has improved in a great many ways. But it will be tragic for me when I graduate because the team and the coach have meant a lot to me."

BOYS' HOCKEY

The boys' floor hockey program began in Bay Shore about nine years ago with a couple of Middle School boys getting together on Saturday mornings to play floor hockey in the gym. The numbers quickly grew, and within a short time hockey nights became popular and featured visits from guests like former Islanders star Patrick Flatly. The hockey program continued there even after advisor Mr. F. Pittelli moved over to work at the high school.

Four years ago, he introduced the program to the High School. Now much larger than the original club, it has grown to about sixty-five players. The six teams, each consisting of about eleven players, competed against each other with combination ice-hockey and deck hockey rules throughout the season in hopes of winning in the play-offs. Through single elimination games, the competition was narrowed to two teams: The Chiefs and Team U.S.A. At the end of an exciting final game, Team U.S.A. proved victorious in a four to three win over The Chiefs. Players from Team U.S.A. were presented with a championship plaque.

The season closed with the members of the hockey league already excited about next year's season. Special appreciation for his thirteen years of dedication to Bay Shore's hockey program was shown to Mr. F. Pittelli, who stepped down as coach.

GIRLS' HOCKEY

"Girls' WHAT? Are you kidding?"

This was the most common response to the members of the girls' hockey league whenever someone in school questioned the rumor of there being such a thing. Face it. When the girls in Bay Shore want to play a sport, they do. Whether that means joining the guys on the field after school or forming their own teams, they make it happen. They proved this two years ago with the formation of a girls' lacrosse team.

Hockey was no different. Every Monday night the girls met for games in the gym. Advisor Mrs. A. Pfeffer provided both the coaching and the refereeing at these games. Four teams in all competed in the league. Team three, captained by Liza Fernandez, remained undefeated throughout the season with a final championship record of 6-0. No, the girls didn't want to become NHL superstars; they just wanted to get together in the spirit of fun and competition. All of the girls agreed that the hockey league was definitely worth the time and it paid off in a great deal of fun and excitement.

TRACK

Bay Shore's track teams made their presence known and continued the reputation that our teams have earned in the past. The competition knew in advance that Bay Shore would be a tough team to defeat and it certainly was.

Bay Shore's girls' winter track team, under the coaching of Mr. R. Goldin, ran its way to yet another championship season, capturing the small schools division title. This year's young team consisted of sixteen girls, only four of whom were upperclassmen. At the Suffolk County Championships, Bay Shore sped past all opponents for a first place finish. Among their victories at this meet, Sherisse Birch placed first in the fifty-five meter dash, and Chante Daily won the one thousand and the fifteen hundred. Chenoa Braithwaite, Emily Germano, Laura Mina, the 4 x 800 team, placed in the top three in their events, along with Camille Brown, Sherisse Birch, Chenoa Braithwaite, and Nicole Braxton from the 4 X 200 team. With this collection of outstanding talent, it seems as if there was no end to Bay Shore's girls' track dynasty.

The boys' team, led by captains Visna Harris and Kerry Ware, had a very productive season. Kerry Ware generated excellent numbers in the shot put circle. Other outstanding performances were given by John Ippolito and newcomers Brian Alinovi and Eric Douglas. The sprinting squad was led by Louie Marshall and Greg Hill whose fast times contributed to the team's success. Tito Miles, Can Xiong Hu, Aubrey Fane, and Anthony Garafola also helped pull the team to victory with their 4 x 200 relay team. The young distance squad of Phil Vigliotta, Peter Sheehan, Sanjeev Chopra, and Charlie Loachamin added excellent times in the one mile and the one thousand meter. They will try to follow in the footsteps of their leader and inspiration, Visna Harris, who turned in outstanding times in the one thousand meter.

The highlight of the season came in the league meet as the 4x400 relay team of Kenny Milton, Bill Mahler, Visna Harris, and Louie Marshall went all league and advanced to the county finals.

LACROSSE

Brentwood and Bay Shore attackmen challenged each other for the ball.

Oh no, not again! It seems every year the boys' lacrosse team begins its season by shoveling the snow off the field. This year was no exception- in fact, they had to do it twice! After the shovels and the tarps were finally put away, the "fastest sport on two feet" took off. Grueling workouts of repeated sprints, endurance running, and skills drilling became an integral part of these guys everyday lives. The hard work must be worth it though. Each year more students arrive at tryouts with aspirations of being on the Varsity team. Bay Shore has a long tradition of fielding outstanding lacrosse teams. From the players to the crowds in the bleachers, Bay Shore knows which sport dominates the springtime arena. Captains Howie Meehan and Doug Meehan pushed the team to its limits this season. The dedication, performance, and time they and coach Mr. R. Damore demanded, paid off after each successful game. Ask the guys on the team- lacrosse isn't just a sport, it's a way of life!

BASEBALL

America's favorite past time is alive and well in Bay Shore. The thrilling crack of the bat, a slide across homeplate, and the roar of the crowd hold the same excitement today as they did when baseball began. The boys on Bay Shore's teams sure know these feelings. The core of returning players arrived at tryouts with fresh hopes for a victorious season. Under the instruction of coach Mr. P. Todaro, the varsity baseball team practiced diligently each afternoon to better its chances of triumphing over its rivals in the league. With East Islip being the team to beat, the team certainly had its work cut out for it. Throughout the season, with all its highs and lows, the team never lost its spirit. Key players Paul Ramos, Andre Williams, Greg Murray, and Tom Ehlers, enabled the team to place well in the final standings.

The Girls' Lacrosse team was looking forward to its second year of competition at the Varsity level. After placing fourth in Suffolk county last spring, the players had aspirations of another successful season. Through many hours of grueling practice, the team prepared to take on its toughest competition, Ward Melville, Huntington, and Harborfields. Goalies Rose Micari and Jaime Szewczyk prepared to defend their team, and help lead them to victory. With the help of outstanding players Renee Pickett, Charmaine Smith, Michelle Graham, and Amanda Mazzarella, the team strived to achieve its goals. To the players satisfaction, many of these were reached. The seniors on the team made their last season a memorable and successful one. The Varsity team will have many fond memories of 1993, and the remaining players look forward to another outstanding season.

The J.V. team enjoyed its time on the field as well. Learning to play the game isn't much of a chore for many of the girls- they come to tryouts knowing the basics. J.V. is really an opportunity to improve and perfect their skills in preparation for the stiff competition at the varsity level. These girls were more than willing to work and demonstrate their talents.

Deborah Shiffman used her upperbody strength while passing the ball.

Beth Mehler kept her eyes riveted to the ball to ensure a perfect catch.

SOFTBALL

From the outset of the season, the 1993 Lady Marauders promised to be an exciting and highly successful softball team. Bay Shore has an outstanding record over recent years and has been a major contender in the playoffs. In an article in Newsday, coaches throughout the county proclaimed Bay Shore as the team to beat. Eight of last year's starters, five of whom received all-star status, returned this season. Even still it was a relatively young team with the other five of the starters being freshmen or sophomores.

The wide array of talent on the team helped to continue "The Miracle of Fifth Avenue". Captains Mary Persson and Karen Dromerhauser provided the team with outstanding leadership. Seniors Shelia Callaway, Allison Troise, and Mary Persson set good examples for the many underclassmen to follow.

From the outset, the Marauders validated the expectations placed on their shoulders. In their first scrimmage, they beat West Babylon with a score of eighteen to five. At the Bay Shore invitational, the home team placed first among the competition from Lindenhurst, Brentwood and West Babylon.

It would be extremely difficult to have such an outstanding varsity team if there weren't a strong J.V. program to build on. Coach Mr. F. Pittelli ensured that each of the girls learns the "in's" and "out's" of the game and prepares them for the tough competition on the varsity team. All of these girls worked hard for their successes and were proud to have played on the team.

TENNIS

It may be that there are some people here in school who think tennis isn't much of a sport. The crowds at the lacrosse games and the glamour of football don't follow these guys to the tennis courts. Each member of the boys' tennis team knows just how demanding the sport really is. Hard serves or speedy returns from an opponent required the players to react very quickly, possibly even having to sprint sideways to the other side of the court. Dashing up to the net and then quickly racing to the baseline are not uncommon movements. Great agility, quick reflexes, and repeated short sprints at high speeds are only a few of the requirements for being on the team. Think you're up for the challenge?

With one outstanding season following another, Bay Shore track has built quite a successful reputation in the spring time arena. With lead runners, Emily Germano, Chante Daily, Melanie Mickle for the girls, and Louie Marshall, Visna Harris, and Kerry Ware for the boys, their coaches held very high expectations for the season. From sprint relays and the shot put to the high jump and the long jump, Bay shore continually demonstrated its strength in every aspect. Along with the other track members, they practiced every day after school- first in the cold, then the rain and finally in the heat. Included in their training were weight lifting sessions three times a week. Throughout the spring season, these athletes competed in many invitationals always with great success. With each meet they strengthened their abilities for competition in the division and county finals.

Students who catch the 1:45 or 2:30 bus every day never realize what a hub of activity that the high school is. Many clubs, sports, and activities were available and large numbers of students chose to participate rather than rush out the door. Students could be seen in the gym, classrooms, and on the fields having a great time and making plans for their clubs. Whether it was the Mock Trial Team practicing for an upcoming trial, or members of the Maroon Echo getting ready for their next deadline, the school was bustling with activity. In certain classrooms members of the four student councils were busily planning upcoming events and programs for the students in their constituents. Students working out their personal problems might be found in the time-out room after school talking with one of the peer counselors. The gyms were filled with athletes warming up and stretching before practice, and the fields were mobbed with teams running laps and getting into condition.

At night there were many sports events and musical events that helped to keep the students busy and entertained. Battles of the sexes, dinner dances, concerts, theatrical productions, and a spaghetti dinner were among the many activities that were held. Special programs were presented by our local chapter of S.A.D.D., and the B.S.O.S.S. organization recognized the role of Africans during Black history month.

Whether students were looking for relaxation, a strenuous workout, a musical presentation, or just some fun with classmates and teachers, Bay Shore kept changing to meet the needs of today's students.

SPAGHETTI DINNER

Although this year's Senior Banquet was canceled, the senior class demonstrated its spirit by conducting a highly successful Spaghetti Dinner. Many members of the class took an active interest in the activity to make it one of the best in recent years. The class got together to decorate the cafeteria, design a program, and prepare and serve the dinners. In the end, the dinner went off without a hitch. The waiters and waitresses delivered the food to the tables promptly and piping hot. All who attended complimented them on their speedy service.

This year's Spaghetti Dinner was catered by Bella Italia of West Islip, and the food was delicious. Many people from Bay Shore attended this function to support the senior class. The cast and crew from "42nd Street" even stopped by for a quick bite to eat before their rehearsal began. Once again the senior class put on a wonderful activity that was enjoyed by all.

WEIGHTLIFTING CONTEST

Once a year, the men and women of the High School test their muscular prowess in a fund raising event that benefits various varsity sports. Every winter students and teachers ask their friends and relatives to sponsor their weightlifting endeavors on a per pound basis. For one afternoon the weight room was transformed from a gym class facility to a weight training forum. Grunts were heard from down the hall as the men and women of iron attempted to lift a personal best. When the noise died down and the sweat dried, prizes were given out in various weight categories for both sexes. Winners were: Kerry Ware, Herb Najera, Anthony Garafola, Karen Dromerhauser, and Allyson Johnson. A special trophy went to the lifter who raised the most money. All participants were looking forward to next winter when they could once again prove their strength and endurance.

“42nd STREET”

“Come and meet those dancing feet!” As the final notes from the orchestra faded into the night, the sound of fifty pairs of tapping feet still echoed in everyone’s ears. Another Bay Shore musical had debuted on the stage and left the audience members astounded. How did they do it again? How did those students manage to learn all of those routines and make all of those costume changes? The crew members appeared on stage for the bows, but how did they handle the set changes so quickly and effortlessly right before the eyes of the audience? The sets were magnificent and just seemed to keep coming out of the wings. The scenery, costuming, and dancing were all highlighted by the new lighting and sound systems that enhanced all of the performances. Jessica Parker portrayed the demure Peggy Sawyer flawlessly. Her many years of dance lessons really paid off as she stole the show during the “Forty-Second Street” number. Tim Hurt as Billy Lawlor and Keith Herrador as Julian Marsh captivated the audiences with their interpretations and strong characters. Kristine Swenson’s portrayal of the sophisticated actress, Dorothy Brock, was dynamic and moving.

The musical continuously gets better and has kept changing right before the eyes of the community. Everyone wondered what the staff of directors has in store for next year.

MUSIC SPONSORS DANCE

One of the few activities held off-campus is the annual Music Sponsors' Dinner Dance. Held at Captain Bill's for all of the music students and their families, the annual function is one of the highlights of the music program. All senior music students are honored and recognized for their contributions to the music program and are presented with a carnation in appreciation for all of their years of devoted participation. There are door prizes, raffles, and even a 50/50 raffle which made the night more interesting.

Beginning at 6:30, the String Ensemble performed for the crowd during the cocktail hour, and at 7:30 the band started its selections as everyone sat down for dinner. After the meal the raffles were drawn, and then it was party time. This was a chance for all of the students and their parents to let loose and have a great evening. Hats, sun glasses, and tinsel wigs were given out to many of the dancers as the dance floor was filled with students and daring parents who tried to "eat up" the dance floor.

As the evening came to an end, the few remaining party animals were still dancing and having a great time. This was a great night for all!

Katie Werner and her father enjoyed a dance together.

HOMECOMING

Alumni returning to Bay Shore this October noticed many changes to the traditional Bay Shore Homecoming. During the parade down Main Street, only two floats were seen. Due to insurance regulations, the school's new principal, Mr. Robert Consigli, and the four class advisors decided that only the seniors would be permitted to build a float. This did not prevent the sophomore class from building a float of its own in a protest to the school's new policy. Replacing the annual float competition was one for class banners. Each grade level designed, drew, and painted its own unique banner. After the procession reached the High School, spectators poured into the stands to cheer on the Marauder football team. The excitement of the crowd grew as game time neared. Despite the cold, and a disappointing loss, everyone who attended the after-game reception agreed that once again, Bay Shore had an interesting and outstanding homecoming.

New Year's Spectacle

The theme for this year's senior class fashion show was New Year's Eve. Using the set from the fall production of "Harvey," the decorations dressed up the stage and helped set the mood for the many seniors who paraded across the runway. Despite having only held two rehearsals, the annual Senior Class Fashion Show turned out to be a hit once again. Each modeling group that appeared on stage received thunderous applause from the audience. The Bay Shore community was shown the latest styles in clothing, from formalwear to lingerie for both men and women. Some of the senior guys even modeled their favorite dresses for the crowd. The evening ran smoothly and ended up with the traditional Chinese auction with some beautiful prizes being raffled. Everyone, who exited the auditorium that night, left with a great feeling. It was fun and enjoyable for all of the participants and audience members as well.

(starting at top left) Jessica Fernandez, John Payne, and Craig Scharf waited their turn on the runway. (middle row) Monica Skala, Dave Balsamo, Rory Byers, Toni Torres, and Tonya Hammonds began the show with the salute to the flag. Jason McGuigan stopped at the end of the runway so the audience could get a good look at him. Roger Bonilla posed for the crowd, showing off his leather jacket.

Spotted in Bay Shore

(starting from top) Rob Suarez lounged by the window after a rough day in English class. During the Homecoming Parade, Lori Kowalski gave the signal for the next song. Working in the main office during her free periods, Shelia Callaway couldn't believe that being a secretary was such hard work. Maggie Torres and Cindy Rodríguez decided to hang out together on a warm fall day. Harvey, himself, joined members of the Thespians to march in the Homecoming Parade. Alenda Addison wondered where the rest of her science class went.

S.A.D.D.

At this year's homecoming parade, the S.A.D.D. float carried a strong message and showed the result of drinking and driving.

Students Against Driving Drunk, or more commonly known as S.A.D.D., became very active this year under the leadership of advisor, Mr. William Rattiger. With a variety of new ideas and programs, Mr. Rattiger quickly re-activated the activity, which in the past has lacked any large numbers of student participation. The main goal of the organization was to increase student awareness of the dangers of drinking and driving and drug and alcohol abuse. By holding workshops, walk-a-thons, car washes, and assemblies, the students proved themselves very successful. Under the guidance of president Dana Rappaport, vice-president Rob Suarez, and secretary Jen Alternative, the group of volunteers employed many different methods to advertise their cause. In late December, they sponsored a spaghetti dinner for the homeless families of Bay Shore in an effort to share their kindness with the community. In the Homecoming Parade, an automobile that was totaled in a drunk driving accident was towed through the streets of downtown Bay Shore in an effort to remind students and the community of the consequences of driving while intoxicated. The Bay Shore chapter of SADD is the largest it has ever been, and it is hoped that student enrollment and activism continue to increase in an effort to deter this growing problem.

THE MARAUDER

Words like copy, quad-pak, grease pencil, cropper, rough, and pica ruler probably were not the components of the vocabulary of everyday high school students. However, to the staff of the Marauder yearbook, those terms became second nature. Unlike other clubs in the school, the yearbook office was usually still bustling with activity at 4:30 and even later on deadline days. Under the direction of Mr. Joseph D'Antoni and Mrs. Carol Jones, the yearbook staff began their work in early September and finished with the spring supplement in July. Publishing an award-winning book took a great deal of time, dedication, and hard work in order to have the book finished for the sale in June. Publishing the yearbook was much more than just pasting pictures on a page. It was a time-consuming process that required careful scrutiny of every minute detail. Before the pages could be sent in to Texas, the staff had to meet and check all the necessary criteria to meet the high standards set by the advisors and editors.

By the end of the year, the yearbook staff members were not only co-workers but also members of a closely-knit family. To get everything just right took a joint effort between staff and advisors! It required the cooperative efforts and time of everyone involved.

Editors-in-chief Jeff Bunge and Anne Simons made it all work. They coordinated sections and layouts and kept everyone on target. Their leadership and responsibility came to be appreciated and admired by all.

COLOPHON

The 1993 MARAUDER was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Texas under the supervision of Mr. Neil Sanders, our Taylor representative. Photographers Doug Brehm, Dave Lamb, and Alice Leshaw from Riveria Studios took all of the official photographs and portraits. The cover was printed on white lithocote in four colors with black and silver fractyl-foil lettering. The white endsheets were imprinted with a silver foil shield. 525 copies of the 204-page book which includes two color signatures and one four-page color tip in on #80 matte stock were printed. A student supplement will be added to the book to cover the closing activities of the 1992-1993 school year. The standard type that was used throughout the book was Korinna, which was submitted on diskette by utilizing Taylor's Type Vision and Directory Vision Software Programs. This is a student publication under the direction of Mr. Joseph B. D'Antoni and Mrs. Carol A. Jones.

How do you age gracefully?

STAGE MAKE OVER

Looking for a new look or image? Join the female members of the cast of "Harvey" who underwent a major transformation for their character portrayals. Youthful complexions became wrinkled and haggard, and hair turned quickly to silver and white. No, it wasn't the frustrations or pressures of creating a role before hundreds of audience members that did this to the young cast of adolescents. It was the makeup wizardry of Mr. J. D'Antoni and Mrs. C. Jones. Coming up with the appropriate makeup is an interesting challenge that varies from show to show. With so many older characters in the cast the makeup took even longer than usual to apply. Students had to sit up to an hour for each application. Everything must be just right from the skin color, shadow lines around the eyes, to the base under the wigs. If you'd like to know what you will look like in thirty years, stop by the makeup room for a free consultation.

Who reaps the honors?

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

With Mr. Consigli watching, Christine Howard completed her part of the induction ceremony in December.

One of the academic honors available to students at Bay Shore High School is being inducted into the National Honor Society. Each spring, juniors with grade point averages of 3.7 or greater, are invited to apply for membership into the society which is basically a service organization. These inductees must have met all of the criteria which includes involvement in school activities, athletics, and community service functions. Throughout the year the members participate in programs designed to help the community. Some of their activities included cleaning up a yard at a local hospice, serving refreshments at the High School crafts fair, singing carols to hospitalized children during the holidays, and conducting food drives. They also adopted a child through the Make-A-Wish foundation. During the year they conducted fundraisers to earn the money needed to make a child's final wish a reality.

Mr. G. Schecter, the organization's advisor, was very eager to work with these students. He had high expectations for the members of the Honor Society, and was proud of their goals and accomplishments during the year.

Senior Class "Top Ten"

Doug
Meehan

Proud of his accomplishments in Bay Shore, Doug values his integrity, honesty, and successes on the soccer and lacrosse fields. He is prepared to face college and the future.

Kim
Nguyen

Coming from a foreign country has encouraged Kim to be determined and motivated to succeed. She is proud of being a member of the Honor Society and the U.S. Chess Federation.

Renee
Pickett

Renee has enjoyed the many friends she has made while an active member of the Mock Trial and Girls' Lacrosse Teams and as president of the Honor Society.

Kelly
Durant

Kelly learned to budget her time by actively participating in field hockey, volleyball, marching band, student-athlete leadership, and peer support help.

Anne
Simons

Anne's many activities, including yearbook, soccer, student council, Honor Society, and music programs, have been very rewarding for her.

Candice
Filangeri

Candice attributes her success to the support of her family. While working two jobs, she has managed to be active in F.B.L.A., Interact, Honor Society, and thespian troupe.

Carla
DellaVedova

Known for her artistic talents and dedication to preserving the environment, Carla has found her four years challenging and stimulating.

Kami
Ward

Kami's hard work, dedication, and determination have led to her success in her academics and extra-curricular activities: tennis, Honor Society, and Mock Trial.

Rebecca
Bonanno

Becky is proud of her involvement on Mock Trial and Peer Support Program and cherishes her experiences on the stage. She even plans on majoring in theater in college.

Michael Taskbook

Following the phrase, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp," Mike has distinguished himself through his involvement in many activities and his membership in Mensa.

MOOT COURT

"Objection Your Honor!"
"Sustained."

These are just a few of the many phrases one would hear when entering room 24 on Monday afternoons. The members of the Moot Court Club prepared for trials in which they played attorneys and witnesses in real-life courtroom cases. The judge's role was played by the advisor, Mr. R. Richardson. The students were organized into teams of four and competed against each other. They then prepared opening statements, direct and cross exams, and closing statements. At the end of each case, the judge gave his ruling. Following the ruling Mr. Richardson evaluated each member's performance and gave tips for improving skills and technique.

The students in Moot Court not only enjoyed participating in the trials but learning the law as well. Mr. Richardson taught them some of the many New York laws involving robbery and burglary cases. All of the students involved in the Moot Court Club became familiar with these laws and learned courtroom procedure in the hope of becoming a member of the Mock Trial Team in the future.

Who makes the objections?

MOCK TRIAL

Bang! The judge's gavel crashed against the bench, bringing the courtroom to complete silence. The air was thicker than ever with tension as the Mock Trial Team finally took the podium against some of the finest teams in Suffolk County.

Throughout the second half of the year, members of the team spent countless hours preparing for their roles as lawyers and witnesses. They then proceeded to play that part in front of a judge in a match. Based on their convincing performances, the judge determined whether the plaintiff or the defendant would win the case and which team would then advance in the competition.

Led by advisor Mr. R. Richardson and two attorney advisors, the members of the team had a very successful year went on to become county champions.

Which weekend is unforgettable?

AWARENESS WEEKEND

Biannually, there are two weekends that stand apart from any other; these are Awareness Weekends. Armed with sleeping bags and pillows, students returned to school somewhat reluctantly at about 3:00 on Friday afternoon. Not sure of what to expect, they quickly felt at ease with the help of their supportive family groups. Each family group was made up of a student, an adult facilitator, and several other students. The main goal of the weekend was to raise awareness of the plights of others and also to discover "yourself". Throughout the course of the weekend there were several guest speakers. Some of the speakers were people who have HIV and described the pain and suffering that they go through every day of their lives. Other speakers were a drug addict and an alcoholic, who was in a drunk driving accident which left him permanently handicapped. One of the more emotional moments occurred when some students took center stage to discuss the personal hardships that they have endured throughout their lives. These students were in need of friends and someone to talk to. The Awareness Weekend aimed to provide the needed friendships for these students. After attending the Awareness Weekend, Jaime Forlano felt that "It was this weekend that made me realize where my values are in life."

Rafaela Nikas and Jessica Loudon prepared their sleeping places for lights out.

Liz Heering, Kim Nornes, Kerri Dibble, Mr. J. McGowan, Rob Suarez, Dana Rappaport, Brian Butler, Megan Mahoney, and Jen Doran enjoyed their dinner in the cafeteria.

Who goes by the Book?

BIBLE STUDY

Another one of the changes to take place this year was the introduction of a new club called Bible Study. Although starting off with a small membership, the club, along with advisor Mr. Fontinell, hoped to grow in size in future years. The purpose of the club is to analyze how the Bible relates to every day life. The club met on certain mornings before school in the cafeteria to hold devotions centering around a Bible passage and a related story. In the afternoon sessions the students examined the literature of the Bible, and the members related personal experiences. For the student who is looking for something new in a religious experience, listen to the announcements in the fall to become active in this unique and stimulating group.

MAROON ECHO

With a varying staff of about twelve people, the Maroon Echo had a productive year. Although they had a relatively small staff, they were still able to preserve the paper's award winning qualities. Editors Gina Calia, Kimberly Macey, and Johanna Brown, worked hard to get an issue out about every six weeks. With the help of a dedicated advisor, Mr. C. Litwin, a news wire service, and Macintosh computers, the paper was always the epitome of a high school newspaper. For aspiring journalists as well as students who enjoy writing and working for the media, the Maroon Echo is a great "hands on" experience. The paper covers everything from what's going on in the world and in our school to sports and entertainment.

One of the most successful columns in the Maroon Echo is Johanna Brown's "Express Yourself." When asked to comment on her column, Johanna replied, "I thoroughly enjoyed interviewing my classmates for the "Express Yourself" column. People always seem so anxious to voice their opinions, which I think is very important. I have not only learned valuable things from my classmates' opinions but have also met many people through the interviews. I'm known as the 'Interviewing Girl', and I'm happy that my column has affected so many."

For next year, Gina Calia and Kimberly Macey anticipated success after gaining experience as editors this year. Johanna will be going to college to pursue her goal in a media-related career, and she leaves them her talent and dedication. They worked to the best of their abilities on a newspaper that is changing right before our eyes.

STUDENT ATHLETES

The Student Athlete Leadership Program is an organization that worked to benefit the Bay Shore High School in a number of ways. The students were dedicated to teaching their peers and younger elementary school students about the results of drug and alcohol abuse. Their most important goal was to encourage these pupils to commit themselves to a drug and alcohol free life.

The Athletes organized themselves into a unit which not only did well academically but also demonstrated outstanding skills on the playing field. They had an interest in working with youngsters and were recognized by their teachers and coaches for their achievements and accomplishments.

Another one of their goals was to gain the respect from the youngsters with whom they frequently spoke. Under the direction of Mr. Jim McGowan, the students worked to educate their peers and maintain peace throughout the school and community.

HARVEY

Harvey made its debut on the newly refurbished High School stage on November 20 and 21, boasting a six foot and a half invisible rabbit in the title role.

Audiences enjoyed the crazy antics of Elwood P. Dowd, portrayed by David Balsamo, as he proceeded to confuse and befuddle his aunt and doctors into thinking that he was completely sane. The entire cast, under the guidance of Mr. J. D'Antoni, carried off the show extremely well.

Boasting a larger backstage crew than a performing cast, the production was made believable because of the set, created under the watchful eye of designer Mrs. C. Jones, which moved with ease before the audience's eyes and received accolades from all in attendance.

In fact, the only complaint came from Harvey. He wanted more lines.

(right) Keith Herrador, who played the role of Dr. Chumley, and Becky Bonanno, who played Veta Louise Simmons, had the crowd laughing the entire show. (above) Backstage, Judge Omar Gaffney, better known as Chris Torge, prepared for Saturday night's performance.

Who's behind the scenes?

BACKSTAGE CLUB

An important but seldom recognized part of the theater arts program was the backstage crew. For twenty weeks out of the year, they were responsible for painting, constructing, sewing, and doing the legwork to put the scenery and special effects together. The members all joked around and learned to laugh at their mistakes, such as sets that fell down on top of people, or being caught on stage when the lights came up, or props that suddenly disappeared. During the performances, everyone had a job. Some worked the spotlights, the sound equipment, and the new computerized lighting board while others were part of the running crew.

The stage, of course, was where most of the action took place. Sets had to revolve, furniture had to come on and off the stage quickly, silently, and in complete darkness. Although this created many unique challenges, the applause that closed each production made it all worthwhile.

(far left) Ian Shea and Peter Nerwinski smiled as they dismantled a piece of old scenery so that the wood can be used again.

Who will succeed?

F.B.L.A.

Hearts pounding, palms sweating, butterflies fluttering in stomachs- this is what the Future Business Leaders of America felt as they awaited the results of the district 1-S Competition held at Hauppauge High School. Time seemed to drag on as each event's winners were called. Fifth place, then fourth, third, second; only one left. Who would it be? Would the members feel defeat or exhilaration?

All members helped lead the chapter to victory. This year county winners were President Candice Filangeri-first Place in Business Calculations, and Sussy Hidalgo-third Place in Marketing. In April, all members, including other officers Vice-President Jeanine Romain and Secretary Jennifer Stange, again experienced this thrill on the state level in the Catskills.

Aside from the competitions, the organization also had time to sponsor numerous fund raisers, community and social events which kept the members (a.k.a. FBLA-ers) very busy.

(top) Always on their toes, these F.B.L.A. members checked out marketing strategies of the major record companies.

INTERACT

No other club or organization was as involved with the community as the three year old Interact Club. Under the leadership of its advisor, Mrs. M. Petralia, the club sought new ways to raise money and sponsor activities for all members of the community. Club president, Colleenann Close did a great job of organizing and motivating her officers and members so that it was a highly productive year. With assistance from her other officers, Robin Kahl, vice-president; Barbara Barcia, historian and treasurer; and Jeanine Romain, secretary, the organization sold pens during the Homecoming festivities to raise money for the victims of Hurricane Andrew. The winter snowstorm didn't put a damper on the club's spirits as the members conducted another successful Holiday Crafts Fair. With the proceeds the club hosted a surprise movie day for the senior citizens of Bay Shore.

The Interact Club sponsored a Senior Citizens' Valentine's Dance and its annual "April in Paris" Dance. These activities were a great opportunity to meet new people and bring a smile to their faces. The senior citizens enjoyed returning to the High School to re-live old memories and share the company of the students.

MARCHING BAND

"Are we going outside today?" This question was asked to Mr. T. Scalzo at least fifty times a day during the marching season. The marching season which began in the heat of late August and continued through mid-November.

During fourth period, the band would bundle up and head out to the football field to prepare the halftime performance. This year, under the leadership of drum majors Kelly Durant, Lori Kowalski, and newcomer Denise D'Alessandro, the band played selections from "Miss Saigon," the jazz hit "Christopher Columbus," and "I Got You (Sam and Dave)." When they weren't preparing for the halftime show, they were busy marching around the track to perfect techniques and formations for the Columbus Day, Memorial Day, and Homecoming parades.

Band members worked very hard and even had to attend extra rehearsals on weekends to get ready for the annual competition at Hofstra University where the group performed brilliantly and received commendations from the judges.

This performance at Hofstra marked the end of the marching band season until the spring when the group returned outdoors.

Can we fill your life with song?

CONCERT CHOIR

This year's concert choir only boasted about fifty students, four of whom were men, but their sound was enough to fill the auditorium on the evenings of their performances. Audience members were impressed with the harmonizing and blending of sound which was particularly evident in the "Hallelujah Chorus" performed before the holiday season. The choir especially enjoyed performing a medley from the hit Broadway show "The Secret Garden" at the Pops Concert on February ninth. By performing songs with a mixture of different musical styles, from popular music to gospel, the choir appealed to a diverse variety of people. At the spring concert the choir dazzled the audience with a dramatically performed medley from "Les Miserables".

The choir received numerous honors this past year. Senior Dave Balsamo sang as a member of the All-County Choir while sophomores Melissa Mountain and Jessica Parker turned in stunning performances as a part of the SCMEA choir. The choir was awarded a plaque of recognition for its annual holiday concert at Pilgrim State Hospital.

The choir continued the tradition of allowing students to conduct some of the selections. Tim Hurt, Dave Balsamo, and Jessica Parker were some of the students to learn this skill from director Mr. C. Morrow. Mr. Morrow felt that this gave the students a real challenge and a totally different perspective on the choir. He plans to continue this practice in the future. Mr. Morrow also hopes to increase the size of the choir in the upcoming years.

The Concert Choir at Bay Shore High School has always been noted for its exceptional talent. This year's group was no exception. Mr. Morrow was very pleased with all of their performances and looked forward to working with many of the same students next year.

Members of the adjunct group, known as the Madrigals, included Jenn Rajkowski, Jessica Parker, Kim Macey, Liz Germano, Joanna Brown, Lena Mercado, and Melissa Mountain.

The entire concert choir posed on the steps of their rehearsal chamber.

What group makes a difference?

B.S.O.S.S.

B.S.O.S.S. which stands for Brothers and Sisters Organization for Student Scholarships, is a club which originated in 1969 when social studies teacher, Mr. Noel Certain, and a few other dedicated students felt there was a need to address the problems that plagued the African and Latino members of the community. Although the members focus on these cultures, today membership is open to students of all ethnic backgrounds. Its main objective, however, remains to promote individualism and self-respect among people of all races. It achieves this by creating an environment in which everyone, regardless of race, sex, color, or creed, can feel comfortable.

This year B.S.O.S.S. stressed self-esteem and awareness and emphasized how people must learn to consider all sides of an issue or problem. Student leadership and pride for one's culture were two concepts that were constantly stressed in the meetings. This goal was realized when the organization presented its first Black History Month assembly. Featuring entertainment while dispelling myths about racism, the production was well received by the entire school community.

The group raised money for its senior members by running activities such as holiday parties, leadership conferences, talent shows, and formal gatherings. B.S.O.S.S. plans to continue to make a change.

PEER SUPPORT HELP

Students at Bay Shore High School who needed help during the year knew exactly where to go for friendly, supportive advice and counseling. Room 122 is where the students went who were feeling the pressure from schoolwork, parents, or peers. The peer support staff stood ready and eager to be of assistance during every period of the day and after school.

In order to become a peer support counselor, students had to attend weekly meetings, Awareness Weekends, twelve hours of training, and seminars on days when school wasn't in session. These volunteers found their work rewarding and satisfying and worth all the time and training. Their goal was to make a change in people's lives and they certainly accomplished that.

DRUMLINE

One of Bay Shore High School's newest organizations is the Drumline, or percussionists, as they prefer to be called. Under the direction of Chet Doboie, one of the stars of the renowned drum corp. "Hip Pickles," the drummers have the chance to perform as a separate entity from the band. The group commenced rehearsals during the summer, and continued to practice consistently on Monday nights for approximately two hour periods. The ensemble consists of twenty-one members who play, snare, quint, base drums, or mallett percussion. Their premier performance was at the winter "POPS" concert at which they opened the evening with an exciting "funk" tune called "Homecoming." The group has gotten off to a tremendous start, and they hope that they have set the precedent for drum ensembles for years to come.

Have you heard the strings?

ORCHESTRA

Maintaining the outstanding tradition of quality music is a difficult feat each year, but once again the High School Orchestra rose to meet the challenge and surpass all levels of accomplishment. The orchestra left its audience amazed and uplifted after this year's winter concert with its rendition of Handel's "Messiah". Likewise impressive and inspiring was the viola performance by sophomore Michael Vannoni who played the Viola Concerto No. 1 by Karl Stamitz. Michael received recognition across Long Island and played with the Long Island Youth Orchestra, a very prestigious accomplishment.

When the orchestra returned to school in the new year, it immediately began work on its music for the Pops Concert. For this performance, Mr. R. Burns, the conductor, selected the intricate score from the hit movie, "Aladdin". Students spent extra time in sectional rehearsals in order to master the superb music.

Julie Kim, Frances Sorrentino, Christina Boyle, and Tasneem Hoque also received commendations for their performances in the Long Island String Festival, with Julie and Fran being selected for the All-State Orchestra in Albany.

Each year the orchestra has continued to reach new heights and levels of achievement. As Mr. R. Burns said, "It's tough; you will be challenged, but you can do it." He certainly was right.

CONCERT BAND

Pounding drums, singing flutes, and chiming bells were some of the many sounds that could be heard echoing through the hallway during fourth period daily as the band rehearsed for its annual Winter Concert. Geared to entertain younger audiences, children were encouraged to attend the concert in their pajamas, and two of Santa's elves emerged to dole out candy canes.

Even after the winter concert, fourth period was still as melodious as ever as band members continued to practice diligently and to prepare for the Pops and Spring Concerts.

As the end of the year approached there was no rest for the band which rehearsed daily for the Memorial Day Parade, Commencement, and the next marching band season. The concert band was constantly working to keep up with the changing trends in the music industry.

What strings play jazz?

STRING ENSEMBLE

The students at Bay Shore are very fortunate to have an excellent music program. There is the award winning marching band, an orchestra with an island-wide reputation for excellence, an outstanding choir, and the jazz ensemble. One group that is fairly new to the music department is the String Ensemble.

The String Ensemble conducted by Mr. Reynard Burns, consisted of fourteen talented members who play various types of music, ranging from classical to contemporary string jazz, in order to expand their knowledge of music. One of Mr. Burns' goals was to expose the students to different styles of music. As a result of his determination, the ensemble is proud to say that it was the first group to ever try to play string jazz, and on February 6, 1993, The Bay Shore High School String Ensemble was the first and only string jazz group to perform in the SCMEA Jazz Festival.

In the few short years that the organization has existed, the students have had a fun doing what they love to do most, making music. The students have also established a notable reputation and hope to continue to build a tradition that will last for years to come to add another feather in the music department's "cap of excellence."

JAZZ ENSEMBLE

The Bay Shore High School Jazz Ensemble is no ordinary group of instrumentalists. The band is comprised of some of the most talented music students in Bay Shore. Under the direction of Mr. T. Scalzo, the band of nineteen rehearsed for two hours every Thursday evening. The Jazz Ensemble is known for its high level of musicianship and was recognized as an outstanding group when it attended the SCMEA Festival in February.

The Jazz Ensemble performed at the Winter, Spring and Pops concerts, as well as the annual Jazz Concert in which the Jazz Lab Band and the Middle School Jazz Band also played. They played different types of jazz music from slow swing to funk, and the audience loved every minute, giving the Jazz Ensemble a standing ovation at the end of the performance.

The Jazz Ensemble not only performed at the traditional concerts but also at the S.A.D.D. Holiday Spaghetti Dinner. The members of the jazz band were proud of their talents and musical accomplishments and worked hard to maintain the level of excellence for which they are known.

How do you make music?

JAZZ LAB

Students interested in learning how to make music and play jazz enrolled in the jazz lab, taught by Mr. T. Nigrelli. This introductory class emphasized the techniques of jazz musicians and taught the fundamentals needed to someday become a member of the popular jazz ensemble. This class, which has continued to grow in popularity among high school musicians, gave students the benefit of small group instruction and an introduction to performing jazz selections. At the annual Pops Concert audience members were impressed and surprised at the quality of the sound and the level of difficulty of some of the music which included such popular jazz tunes as "How High the Moon" and "Take the 'A' Train". With this much talent coming up the ranks the jazz ensemble is guaranteed to remain a vital part of the music program.

Kevin Moore, Chris Broncato and Craig Meyer added the brassy sound to "Take the 'A' Train".

(top) Peter Oosterom kept an eye on the music while keeping the beat for the group.

Class of '93' F.A., M.C., L.C., S.N., D.S., C.W., K.K. and K.P. Thanks guys for being such awesome friends, in your unique ways you all will take a place in my heart. Even though we're graduating, our High School memories will keep us connected. Mr. McGowan thanks, to my family as well. Fran, we had some awesome times, Mitch thanks for those talks. To all my friends "you guys are tops." Guys Myrtle beach '93' here we come. 7 Garner Lane, Bay Shore.

Amodeo, Matthew - 611 Asharoken Boulevard, Bay Shore.

Anderson, Rebecca Jean - KING: Now, Hamlet, where's Polonius? HAMLET: At supper. KING: At supper? Where? HAMLET: Not where he eats, but where he is eaten. A certain convocation of politic worms are e'en at him. Your worm is your only emperor for diet. We fat all creatures else to fat us, and we fat ourselves for maggots. Your fat king and your lean beggar is but variable service-two dishes, but to one table. That's the end. 535 Keith Lane, West Islip.

Options

Life is just a string of options
Of choices we must make
Different roads to journey down
Directions we can take.

And there is no perfect choice
Or pre-ordained way to go
We can't control our destinies
Or direct the river's flow.

But we know that joy cannot exist
Without the risk of pain
For as flowers bloom in sunshine
They would die without the rain.

Life is full of cannots
But they're balanced by the coulds
And where there's a chance for evil
There must be a chance for good.

And when we take our options
Whichever path we choose
For every chance of winning
There must be a chance to lose.

So your life is what you make it
You pick the pattern and the style
You can drown in tears and sorrow
Or light pathways with a smile.

And we know life won't be easy
From first cry to final breath
But remember the alternative
The other side of life, is death

So if you struggle past the hurdles
Accept the failures with the fun
If at the end, you're smiling friend
You'll have run your race . . .
and won.

Lots of love,
Mom, Dad & Lynn

Congratulations, Amie!

To the Class of 1993

*The grades are in
And the time has come
To show this school what we've done
From the moment we came
To the second we'll leave
We have come a long way
And know how to achieve.
We all played our parts and
Did our best
And now we must face
The ultimate test —
To leave this school and
Survive on our own
To use our courage and
Demonstrate how we've grown.
Let's use what we learned here,
Our knowledge and our minds
To accomplish what we want
And to face what we find.
Bay Shore High
Is a part of us all
So let's stand together —
As one we stand tall.*

Jessica La Mantia

CONGRATULATIONS

As graduation nears, let us reflect on the past four years. The friends we've made, the things we've seen, and the places we've gone will forever be a part of us. May we always think back on the laughter, the tears, and the excitement with smiles on our faces and warm thoughts for those who loved and helped us all the while.

yourself and you will never fall!" -Beastie Boys. 1402 Potter Boulevard, Bay Shore.

Pascale, Eric - 1339 Brooklyn Boulevard, Bay Shore.

Payne, John - To all the people I've partied with may they travel to the Impact Zone and beyond! Good luck to the Class of '93! 115 North Penataquit Avenue, Bay Shore.

Pellin, Susana M. - 48 Arkansas Avenue, Bay Shore.

Pepito, Brian J. - 1358 Lombardy Boulevard, Bay Shore.

Persson, Mary - The most beautiful discovery true friends make is that they can grow separately without growing apart. To the Fab 4-I love you guys! You're the best!! Beep-her? Uh...ice cube anyone? How's about a banana? Okay now, who took my bed? Punch it Margaret!! Best of luck to the Class of '93! Unity Forever! 20 Meier Place, Bay Shore.

Pfalzgraf, Karen - In my high school years, I began to see... the doors start to close, the lights on, but nobody's home, free days of frolicking in the grassy knolls. Eating mushrooms and listening to Janes, feeling the gray mutt rub against my leg sleeping till the end of the day. All I can say; love comes in colors, I can't deny smashing pumpkins. To my Ray Ray, I love you. 1376 Pine Drive, Bay Shore.

Pham, Thuy - Wow! I can't wait for my graduation day. Thanks for all the good times. Special thanks to my foster parents and Mrs. Wright who's always supporting and helping throughout the year. I plan to attend Molloy College. I'll never forget Bay Shore High or the Class of '93! Good luck to the class of '94! 1383 Penataquit Avenue, Bay Shore.

Phifer, Joann - Peace to the Cheer Squad and the F.P.! LOVE YA G R E A T L Y ! Yeahrightyeahokay! Cheer Seniors: I only have one thing to say: BATHROOM FLOOR! To F.P.: Prosper In your future. K-log: no one compares to you. Special note: D.D. GROW UP and J.M. you're mine forever. 13 Amherst Street, Bay Shore.

Pickett, Renee - "Yesterday is already a dream and tomorrow is only a vision. But today lived wisely, can make every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope." To everyone who has made these years memorable: Thanks. To the Fab-4: Remember Atlantique:

the shooting stars, squat, don't sit! Shut up, no one moved your bed! The size of a thumb? Or maybe Tom Thumb! You girls are so silly! Good luck to the Class of '93. 941 Manor Lane, Bay Shore.

Piraino, Stephanie - Good luck to the Class of '93! We have had a great four years! To Michele Sanchez, Good luck in the reserves! To Debra Torres, Good luck in twelfth grade! 89 Huron Drive, Bay Shore.
