Dressed in togas and cheering for their team, Theresa Mancini, Krysti Corbett, and Shannon Buzzerio made the best of their last Homecoming which has now become just a ripple in time.

*We will always remember this ripple in time, even when we're no longer here;
we will always recall those memorable goals
we accomplished throughout the year.*

*Our teams won their games,
our band marched to perfection,
our drama performed like steel,
as we sought our own direction.*

*Our spirit was always present in every challenge that we met;
we knew we could not win it all,
and we've never given up yet.*

*Our studies have taught us many lessons;
our thanks to the teachers who've cared;
they've given us the best of their wisdom, and so many good times we've shared.*

*We all are a part of something special,
we all are included in the past,
we will always hold onto the memories to make this journey last.*

Were we all really champions, was this year that sublime, or could this year at Bay Shore High be just a ripple in time?

-Lauren Hefke

*"There's only us. . .
There's only this. . ."*

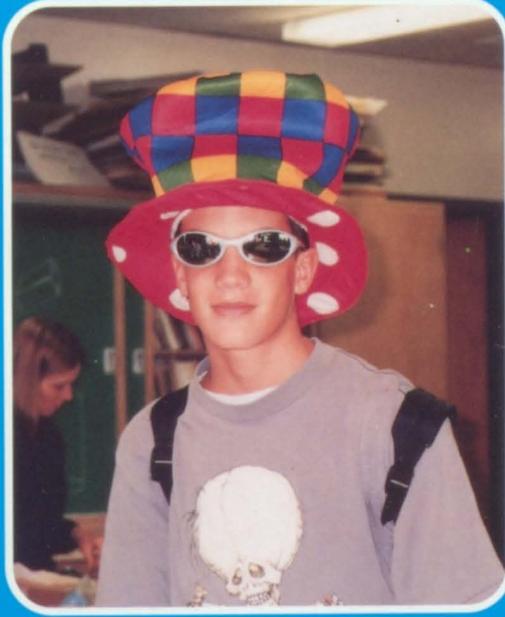

*"Forget . . .
Regret . . .
Or life is yours to miss."*

Senior Class Fashion Show

On what runway could you find Madonna, Forest Gump, and the Pretty Woman herself? No, not at a Versace show, but at this year's Senior Class Fashion Show. On that night the class of '97 filled up the auditorium to standing room only! They showed their collection of clothes from local stores, as well as saluted the fashion influences from recent years.

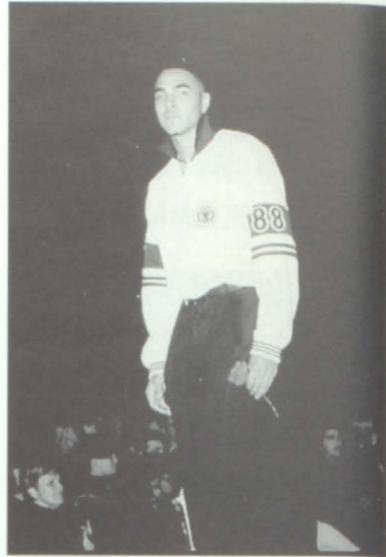

Guided by class advisor Miss D. Doyle and Mr. J. D'Antoni, normal students were transformed into models who strutted down the runway in their leather, Hip Hop, and Formalwear outfits.

"It was fun to get out of my dull school clothes and get into something more elegant, at least for one night," said Josie Rosado."Yeah, I felt like a real model," added her friend Melissa Cepeda.

In a place where a student's routine demands a simple style of clothing, it was great to see everybody dressed up.

-Gustavo Rivas

(clockwise from top) Arturo Cosme modeled the latest in a style of dressing known as Hip Hop; always the athlete Josie Rosado showed a comfortable warm-up suit and Jennifer Mc Clellan waited to referee the next boxing match; Brianne Leary and Casey Schmidt described the fashions in the leather collection; Laura Mirabella was ready for a knockout; and Grant Jenkins escorted his bride, Joy Gaines.

Millions of people die every year in alcohol-related accidents. Traffic accidents, concerning high school age students, made the headlines each day. Students were plunged into despair as they read of the loss of their classmates and friends. These kinds of senseless accidents caused heartaches and misery that could have been avoided.

Students Against Drunk Driving was an organization of caring students who tried to get the message of "don't drink and drive," across to the community and the student population. Through banners, displays, and signs, the sixty members of S.A.D.D. worked to communicate that message in an effort to reduce the number of traffic fatalities due to drunk driving.

S.A.D.D. members met weekly to discuss the latest changes in alcohol laws and a the new no-tolerance law for teenage drivers only. The consequences for ignoring these restrictions brought stiffer penalties to the offenders. The S.A.D.D. members wanted all to remember "Don't drink and drive!"

violins and cellos blending together

Under the direction of Mr. R. Burns the orchestra continued to set new standards of excellence for performing groups on a high school level. As students and visitors walked through the building on the third floor during fourth periods, they were serenaded by the sweet sounds of the string ensemble and orchestra practicing for one of their many concerts. Each year their performances get better and better and more and more professional. Their performance of music by Vivaldi, Beethoven, and Tchaikovsky set new standards for music students to emulate in the future.

The various sections of the orchestra, including strings, horns, percussion, and woodwind, worked well together to create the dazzling sounds that amazed and entertained their audiences. The amount of energy and the expertise of the performers had audience members leaving the concerts totally impressed and begging for more.

-Gustavo Rivas

(top) Jen Tomasino kept her eyes on her music during one of the last rehearsals before the concert.

coming out on top

There were very few areas of the building which could not hear the bands rehearsing during fourth periods.

Director, Mr. T. Scalzo knew he was working with a very special group of musicians. "This group is the best I've worked with since I started here." The marching band received third place at the Columbus Day Parade in New York City and excelled in all of the selections that it played.

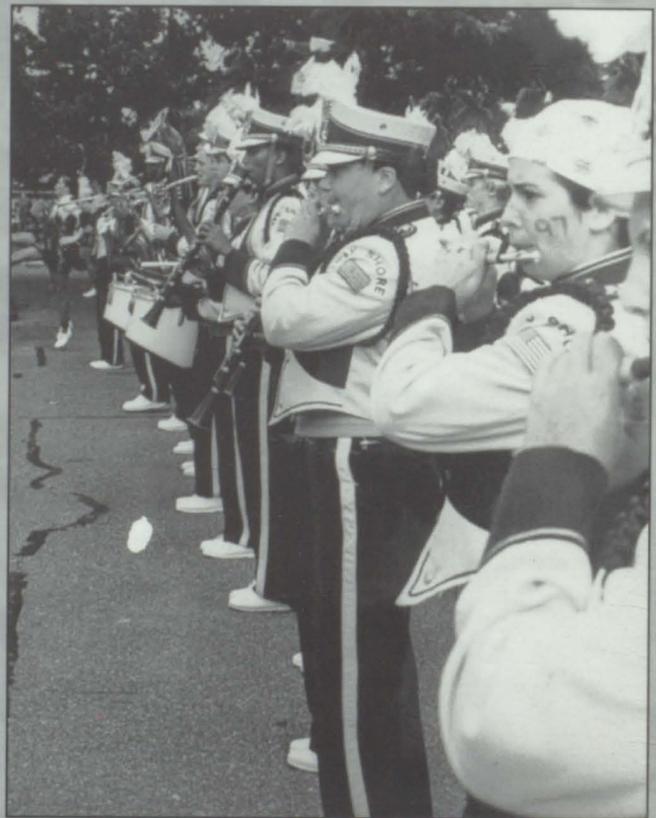

Band didn't end when the musicians hung up their uniforms. Instead, concert band began. This year the ninth and tenth grade band was conducted by the newest addition to the music department, Mr. J. Mandolia. At their annual Christmas Concert, the bands played "Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire" and the score from "Home Alone." They also impressed audiences with their rendition of the score from "Evita" in the Pops Concert.

The directors and musicians agreed that this would be remembered as the year that Bay Shore came out on top.

keeps the beat with DANCELINE

Reach! From the hot days in August to the cool days of November, Color Guard and Danceline worked hard to create a breathtaking show to coordinate with the Marching Band's music. Routines consisting of twirling flags and gorgeous kicks were developed to add excitement to songs like "Reach" by Gloria Estefan.

For all the members of the Danceline and Color Guard, this year was especially memorable. They received an honorable mention for their continuous participation in the Newsday Marching Band Festival. In the Columbus Day Parade, they received third place for their special marching technique. Along with the band, the Color Guard and the Danceline were honored by Suffolk County for their performances in the parade and were rewarded a special day in their honor. Color Guard captain Danielle Strandvold said, "Suffolk County's acknowledgement of our effort was extremely rewarding and made all the hard work pay off."

Keeping in sync was not always easy but the girls learned that practice made perfect. The halftime shows performed during the home football games added spirit and excitement to the crowds.

This terrific group of ladies will always remember this ripple in time and all the memories they shared.

-Danielle Strandvold

Dance Line and Color Guard swirled and sparkled in the sunshine during the halftime shows.

eager to lend a helping hand

Whether it's wiping tears or listening to fellow classmates, the peer leaders always were prepared to handle any emergency. Peer support was set up to educate and sensitize young people so that they can counsel each other and lend support. Advisor, Mr. J. McGowan stated, "Young people connect better with people their own age."

By attending training sessions and workshops, the students received valuable information and strategies to guide students with their problems. Peer supporters were in-involved in role playing, student panels, and guest speaking. Along with the training, they learned life and social skills enabling the club members themselves to feel more self-confident.

Over the years the peer support organization has developed into a well-known and highly-respected program, recognized not only in Bay Shore but all over Long Island.

The members have seen the best of times and the worst of times, and they continued to face any obstacles that might come in their way.

-Kellie Masterson

Naja Hughes and Brandon Ramos discussed what role playing skit to do at their next peer help conference.

Jenny Geroge and Kerri Hosek took a moment to write down their reactions after hearing a guest speaker.

(top) Joe Flick, Melissa Malkoff, Vanessa Gonzalez were attentively listening to a guest speaker's presentation about drug abuse.

knight to king's bishop

Michael Sclafani surveyed the board and carefully planned his next move.

Checkmate! Every Wednesday a group of talented young adults gathered together to display their skills at the game of chess. Chess required a great deal of concentration and patience in order to capture an opponent's king and win the match. The members learned to anticipate their foe's moves and to be prepared to retaliate.

The Chess club hosted competitions and traveled to other schools to compete against the best that the opposing schools had.

The students enjoyed the challenge of the game and the thrill of winning. The members acquired thinking skills and other qualities useful not only in the game of chess but also in a working atmosphere. Advisor, Mr. R. J. Lukaschek, said, "The students played inter-scholastically, had fun and learned at the same time." Mr. Lukaschek said that he was proud of this year's group and hoped that the members had a wonderful experience in this ripple in time.

Philip Veith kept his hand on his man before completing his move.

Mr. Lukaschek and John Greene oversaw Lucy Montalvo's match against her opponents from Deer Park.

SERVICE HONOR

honoring student involvement

High school presented a challenging forum for students to compete for the honor of being in the top of their class. Outstanding students who went above and beyond the duties of high school students were recognized by the National Honor Society and the Service Honor Society.

In order to be inducted into the Service Honor Society, students needed to earn 240 points by performing services to their community and school. Coordinated by Mrs. P. Ponzi and Mr. B. Cash, the Service Honor Society kept accurate records of students' activities before presenting names and awarding certificates at its annual ceremony in June. The inductees and the upperclassmen who received special commendations had to participate in school clubs and activities and had to have worked to improve the community or school environment in other ways. The morning announcers, members of the Freshmen leadership team, ushers, and peer supporters were among the many honored this year at the biggest Induction Ceremony in the history of this organization.

-Natosha Powell

Stephen Navratil and Jamie O'Kane were honored to receive recognition and had a long list of activities to their credit.

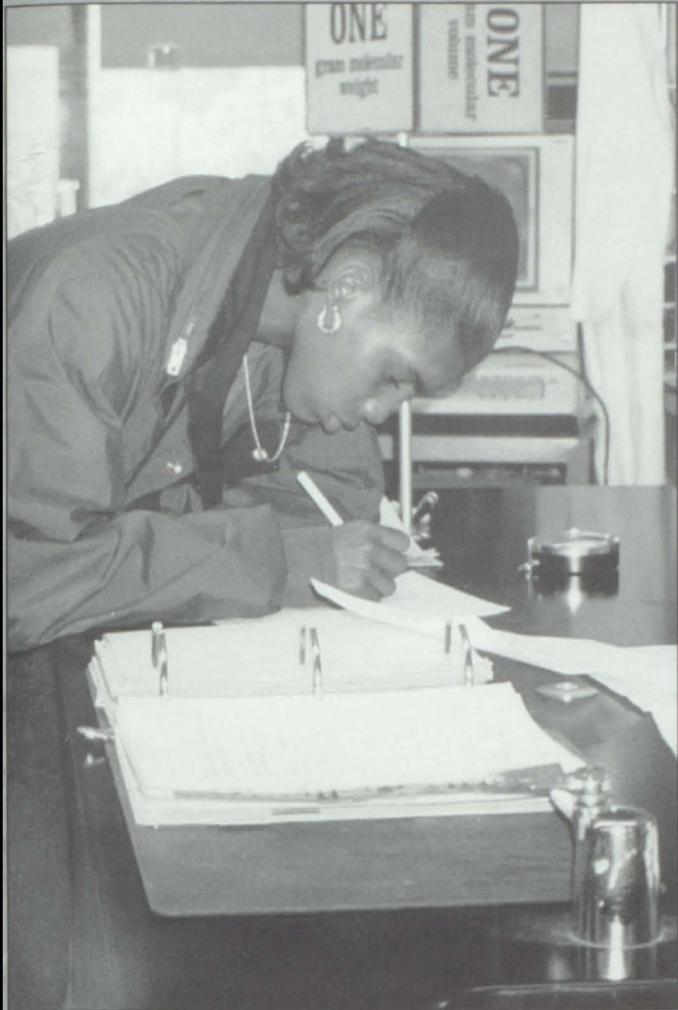

Senior Luci Windle worked hard to achieve the recognition which she so richly deserved.

Michelle Mullen and Jennifer McClellan beamed with pride as they were inducted and signed the official roster.

Sports Editor, Kim Shaw, proofread an article to make sure that it contained the right statistics about the football team.

MAROON ECHO

keeping the school informed

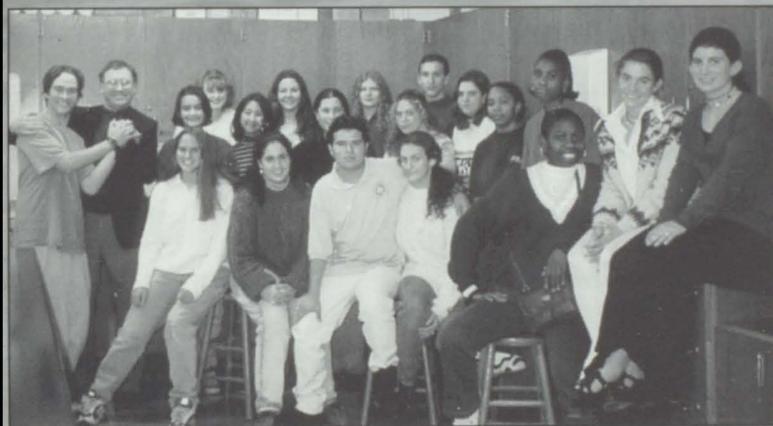

Journalists worked every day compiling information and covering events that happened within the school and the community while keeping abreast of the latest technological advances in the highly competitive publishing industry.

This year, using a totally computerized system, the entire layout and all of the copy were done on disk and sent to the publisher in Pennsylvania. Colored pages were added to the paper and additional editorials. The staff consisted of students, who spent their afternoons working with advisor, Mr. C. Litwin and writers from Mr. D. Weinstein's journalism class. During the year the paper covered important issues such as the new attendance policy and a possible school dress code. Sports Editor, Kimberly Shaw said, "Being on the paper gave me a chance to improve my writing skills and voice my opinions."

In an effort to learn more about the news industry, seven journalists traveled to CBS Studios with Mr. Weinstein where they received a tour of the studio and were allowed to watch a live newscast.

beautifying our community

One person can make a difference! That is the creed of the members of the Environmental Club. Every day they used their individual powers and collaborated with other organizations to help improve the local environment. They created classroom collection boxes to recycle paper. Joined with the Surf Club and Interact, the Environmental Club worked to have a greater impact and effect on the community. Along with the community, they built two houses for Habitat for Humanity in Bay Shore. On a cool November day, they worked to clean up Main Street and then joined the Surf Club to clean up the beaches of

Robert Moses.

As advisor for the first time this year, Mr. S. Cummiskey said, "I was surprised at the large turnout of students who wanted to be actively involved in improving the environment both on campus and in the community." Mr. Cummiskey worked hard to bring as many different organizations to the assistance of the ecosystem.

The members of the Environmental Club and other organizations tried to create a ripple that would be felt in school and the community. Their contributions have not gone unnoticed and will be remembered for many years to come.

STUDENT COUNCIL

working to improve the facilities

Ellen Behrer, Nabila Lester and John Gaibrois listened to Lisette Polyak's proposals to raise money for the sophomore class.

The most influential group in school, has overflowing reached their every aspiration, led by co-presidents Joy Ganes and Jessica Veith the student body worked on countless operations like an overnight ski trip, a Halloween Hay Ride, and a food drive that fed fifty-two needy families in Bay Shore. Their biggest job was the the club's most ambitious project yet: the renovation of the cafeterias. Intended changes were the remodeling of the cafeterias in a Nautical, or under the sea theme, other changes were round tables with chairs, and a jump in the health quality of the food. "We are still planning to renovate the courtyard, but due to lack of money it will be delayed until next year," said Joy Ganes. To help alleviate this problem all kinds of things were done to raise money, including cupcake sales, barbecued burgers with refreshments were sold at Bonfire, and a craft fair during Christmas.

It seemed as though only a ripple of time had passed, but every student put their all in, and student government had made a splash that will linger on for years to come.

THE SPIAN TROUPE

actors prove they are Steel Magnolias

The title of the play indicated that the six female characters were the pillars of strength in their community. As beautiful as magnolias, they were as strong as steel in overcoming life's obstacles. Their friendship and love supported them through life's difficulties.

Portraying these women was a difficult task for high school students, but the cast brought the characters to life under the direction of Mr. J. D'Antoni.

The set, the interior of Truvy's beauty salon, added to the realism of the production. While the performers were delivering their lines, they were actually setting hair and combing it out, creating fantastic hairstyles right before the audience's eyes. This was made possible by the incredible set designed, painted, and constructed by Mr. M. Bicknell and the members of the backstage club. Every detail was perfect, even down to the running water.

"I was very happy when we decided to do Steel Magnolias," said Kelly Schroder. "The six of us were good friends to begin with, and now we've grown even closer".

reaching out to the community

Creating a special moment in time, not only for the senior citizens, but for the students as well, the members of Interact were able to look back with satisfaction on the contributions they made this past year. Gus Rivas stated, "Being involved with Interact gave me a chance to work with many different parts of the community as well as my classmates."

From winter to spring, these club members were always busy. At the annual Christmas party, the students enjoyed the company of senior citizens as they danced, sang, and ate the night away.

Interact, along with the Environmental Club and Habitat for Humanity, built two homes in Bay Shore. They fund raised and actually worked on the construction of the homes.

In the spring the club hosted a grand ball, called "April in Paris." Almost two hundred senior citizens attended the affair in the small gym. This club was designed to give students an opportunity to volunteer their time and give something back to their community, but in truth they walked away with even more than they had given.

-Kellie Masterson

Before "The April in Paris Ball", Mrs. P. Parker gave last minute instructions to the members of the club in order to make the enchanted evening perfect!

Officers, Raquel Acevedo, Lucy Montalvo, and Joy Ganes, discussed plans to help make a difference in the lives of people in the community.

BIBLE CLUB

meets at the pole

In a world of political correctness, where society separates religion from public schools, there is a club that studies the Bible in school. The Bible club, advised by Mrs. A. Pfeffer, spent their Thursdays reading from the Bible as well as campus journals which told stories about topics that are related to young adults today. Topics included teen pregnancy and drug abuse, and the members discussed possible solutions and preventions.

The members of the Bible Club made their one big appearance on a rainy September morning when everyone came to school at 7 A.M. to gather at the flagpole in front of the building. Along with students from around the country the members offered silent prayer for the success of their school, friends, family, government, and nation at the beginning of a new school year. "The togetherness was amazing. Students were standing in puddles, wearing rain jackets, and holding umbrellas to pray for a great school year," said senior Brian Kunz.

For these students the school year was spiritually as well as academically fulfilling.

-Tonia Graziano

With the flag at half mast due to the passing of secretary and alumna, Mrs. Dotty Metzger, Mrs. A. Pfeffer awaited the arrival of the rest of the club.

ART CLUB

For many students the fun began when they stepped into the art room after school. To add a little extra color to their lives, the participants of this club attended the Friday afternoon workshops conducted by art teacher Mrs. N. Sherman with hopes of exploring art outside of the class room atmosphere.

The results were overwhelming. "It's a lot of fun," said Beth Gerena. "The group has doubled in size, and there are many opportunities for the members to explore our individuality."

The students enjoyed the flexible schedules which allowed them work until three-thirty. They didn't have to pack up in the middle of a project. Mrs. Sherman added her expertise and allowed students to explore as many different aspects of the art field as they liked. Some students worked on silk screening techniques while others improved skills in calligraphy, sculpture, water colors, and oil painting.

This club has grown a great deal and hopefully other aspiring artists will take advantage of this opportunity to add a little color to their lives.

learning F.B.L.A. matters

Learning and working together, the members of Future Business Leaders of America, advised by Mrs. E. Ringer, learned money management skills and acquired a better understanding of American business enterprise. They accomplished these goals through annual fund raising, such as the Hershey's chocolate sale and Burger King night. They also participated in a Walk-a-thon at Jones beach to support breast cancer research.

The members felt that having control over the decisions of the club made an impact on their lives. Kelly Schroder said, "As a future businesswoman, it felt good to know that I could make a difference not only for business leaders but also for women's health."

At the end of the year, they took part in the district competition where they challenged the math and computer skills of students from other counties, in the hope to make it into the state competition.

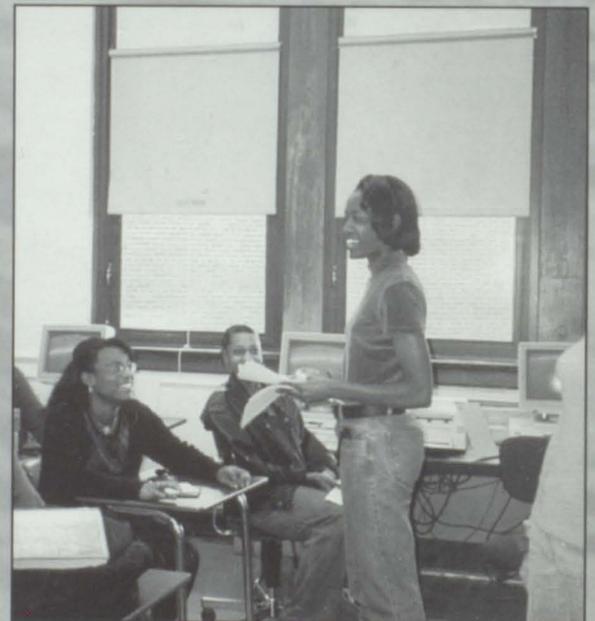

The Future Business Leaders of America worked hard to meet their goals while learning to open doors to new opportunities.

catching a new wave

Some students hated to see the end of summer and were in constant search of the perfect wave. They held onto the summer for as long as possible and rode into school on a new wave known as the Surf Club. Every Tuesday they met with advisor and fellow surfer, Mr. S. Fandale, to exchange surfing stories. They talked about things such as who had the worst wipe-out or who had the longest ride. Some stories dealt with the spiritual side of surfing and how it's all about soul. "To be a great surfer, one needs a love and respect for the ocean," said Justin Martinich.

To predict when the waves would be the best, the surfers studied different weather patterns and maps to track the paths of storms.

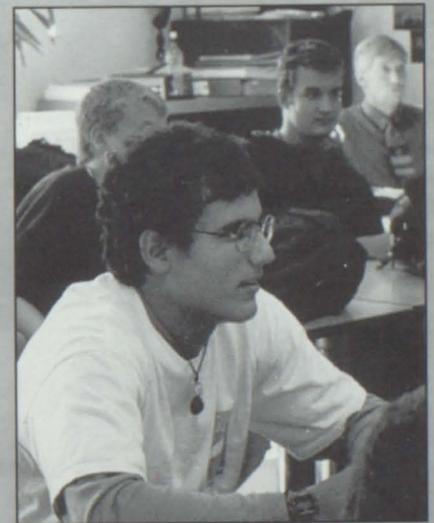

Together they learned about the ocean, the weather, and their surfboards in hopes of becoming better surfers. To some, surfing was a way of relaxing. Conquering a wave was like conquering life's troubles.

'07 MARAUDER

remembering the ripple in time

After selecting the theme of "A Ripple in Time," the MARAUDER staff set out to preserve those special memories of a fast-paced school year.

With new graphic-arts advisor, Miss M. Pesco, and journalism advisor, Mr. J. D'Antoni, the classes set out to reach their objectives and create two award winning publications- the annual yearbook and the literary-arts magazine.

During the first two weeks of school, the staff learned as much as possible about the printing business and the technology used to publish a yearbook.

Yearbook writers were assigned articles which would encompass every aspect of school life. Artists planned new and attractive layout designs that would reflect their own creativity and give the book a totally different look.

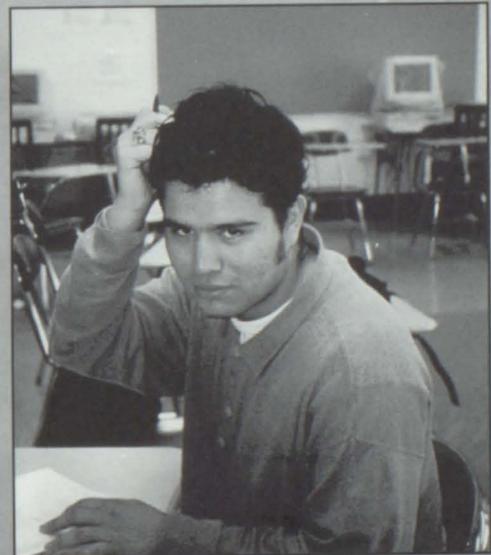

The staff sorted through hundreds of photographs as to raced to meet its grueling deadline schedule. The students in the classes realized how important it was to capture this ripple in time.

-Gustavo Rivas

Tonia Graziano asked for help from her classmates as she re-wrote her article. Dwight Kelly, Natalia Astudillo and Danielle Strandvold volunteered their assistance.

In an effort to make sure that the yearbook was error free, Kerry Nelson, Kellie Masterson, and Lauren Hefke looked over Casey Schmidt's shoulder to proof and edited her article and captions.

Trying to lower yearbook prices, editor Gustavo Rivas wrote letters to solicit local merchants to place ads.

making impressions on the community

A ripple is defined as a very small wave usually created by some catalyst. Year after year, the Honor Society sought to find new ways of continuing to make ripple after ripple.

To do this, members had to learn the positive effects of teamwork and service to their community. Whether it was a holiday party for younger kids or working toward scholarships for their classmates, these forty students worked to achieve each of their obligations.

Honor Society aimed at bringing recognition to the students who started the ripples and kept them going. Marisa Lynch, Secretary of Honor Society, said with pride, "We've been busy fulfilling all our commitments, such as tutoring the children in elementary schools."

As the ripples grew for the Honor Society, so did each individual student. By leaving an indelible mark on someone in the community, the members developed as young adults.

B.S.O.S.S. making a difference.

The Brothers and Sisters Organization for Student Scholarship, an extra-curricula club, gave its Latino and African-American members a sense of identity by making them more culturally aware. The importance of receiving a good education was one of the major issues talked about at the club's meetings on Thursdays. In addition, B.S.O.S.S. addressed some of the racial issues of the nineties. Teaching self-respect and respect for people of all colors and races was a primary objective of the club which helped students improve their communication skills.

Throughout the year, B.S.O.S.S. raised money by selling candy at football games and by sponsoring an annual winter dance. The money supported the scholarship programs for graduating members of the organization.

Advisor and founder, Mr. N. Certain, sometimes invited business executives to meetings to advise club members about career choices. Mr. Certain said, "The club has been making a difference in many students' lives and will continue doing so for as long as possible."

creating ripples through the air waves

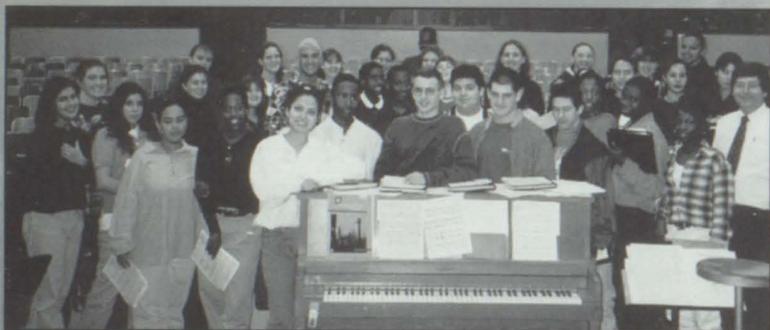

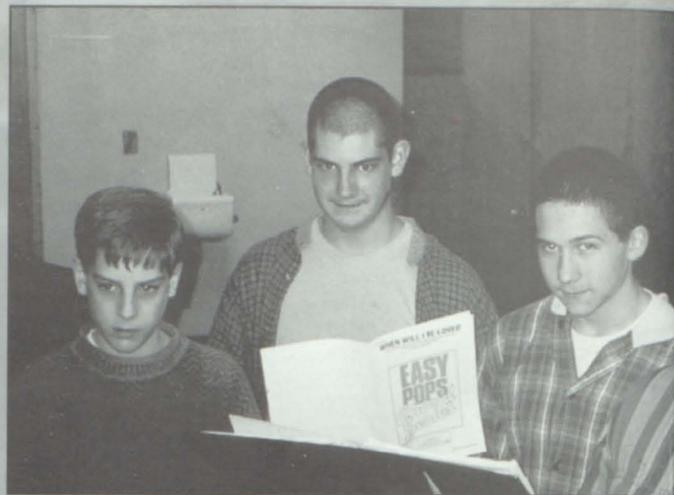

The choral program has certainly grown this year. With a large number of incoming freshmen added to the upperclassmen, the choir had to be split into two different periods during the day to accommodate all of the students. In addition, Choral Director, Dr. Craig Morrow, had several other groups rehearsing on different afternoons after school.

The repertoire of music also changed this year as the choir sang selections from the Broadway musical, "Les Mis," and Christmas medleys which were performed at Pilgrim State Hospital and the town Christmas tree and menorah lighting ceremonies. The female group, known as the Madrigals, appeared at the Mr. and Mrs. Club at the Yacht Club, performing such favorites as "Sisters" and "Why Haven't I heard from You." The Men's Chorus, created to feature the large number of males in the choir, performed several selections alone and in conjunction with the other specialty groups.

The music, created by the choirs, sent ripples of sound flowing throughout the building.

a visual record of the moment

The Sights and Sound crew, under the direction of Mr. R. O'Neill, was prepared to make a visual record of the major events that happened in and around the campus. They recorded guest speakers at the Ethnic Pen Conference, "Steel Magnolias," and the AIDS presentation. Wherever there were large gatherings of students and teachers, the video cameras were running and operated by the dedicated staff. After the event or activity, the crew returned to Mr. O'Neill's workroom in 325 to edit the tapes and make copies to be shown and shared around the community.

Mr. O'Neill instructed the crew and kept it informed of the latest technology used in the constantly changing world of television. Four year member, Robert Luckert said, "Sights and Sounds gave me the experience and kept me on the cutting edge of television technology so that I may use it in the future."

The Sights and Sounds Club performed an invaluable service to everyone in the building and recorded all of the ripples that were made this year.

COMPUTER CLUB

learning to use technology

The computer club was the choice cut to fill the appetite of the growing number of computer enthusiasts. Instructor Mr. D. McGilvray shared his knowledge of computers and software and kept many students up-to-date on ground breaking computer news.

The members agreed that they could always count on Mr. McGilvray to have something to keep them challenged. Since the computer lab was used by the same students during the day, many returned after school to hone those skills that they had been taught in class.

Everyone at the club's sessions gained something from the extended use of the software and private instruction. Some of the students came for extra help and enhanced their programming abilities by working with computer languages such as Basic and Pascal. Meanwhile, on the other side of the room, Programming Wizards turned into Warrior game players from a series of intense action and strategy games. No matter what the members where interested in, the Computer Club had the adventures to interest anyone's appetite.

-Brian Kelley

Durin Platnick, John Plotke, and Albert Rapp gathered around the computer to marvel at the accomplishments of their colleague, Thomas Mottl.

Mr. D. McGilvray worked along side of Diana Lopez as she completed a complicated program.

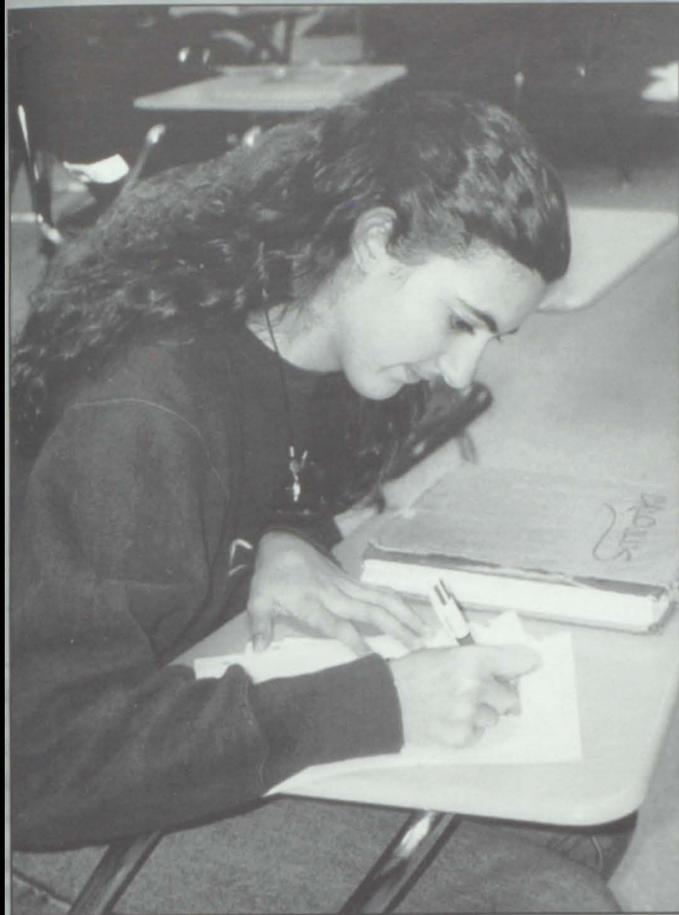

Some of the regulars who attended each week included: Chih-pin Hsiung, Albert Rapp, Thomas Mottl, Durin Platnick, John Plotke, along with Mr. D. McGilvray.

MATH CLUB

a logical thought process

Lucy Montalvo worked fast and furiously before the clock ran out and always came out a winner.

While some high school students were baffled by numbers and the intricate processes it took to solve math problems, others were intrigued by the challenge and complexity of math. These students became the brains of the Math Club, advised by Mr. R. Lukaschek.

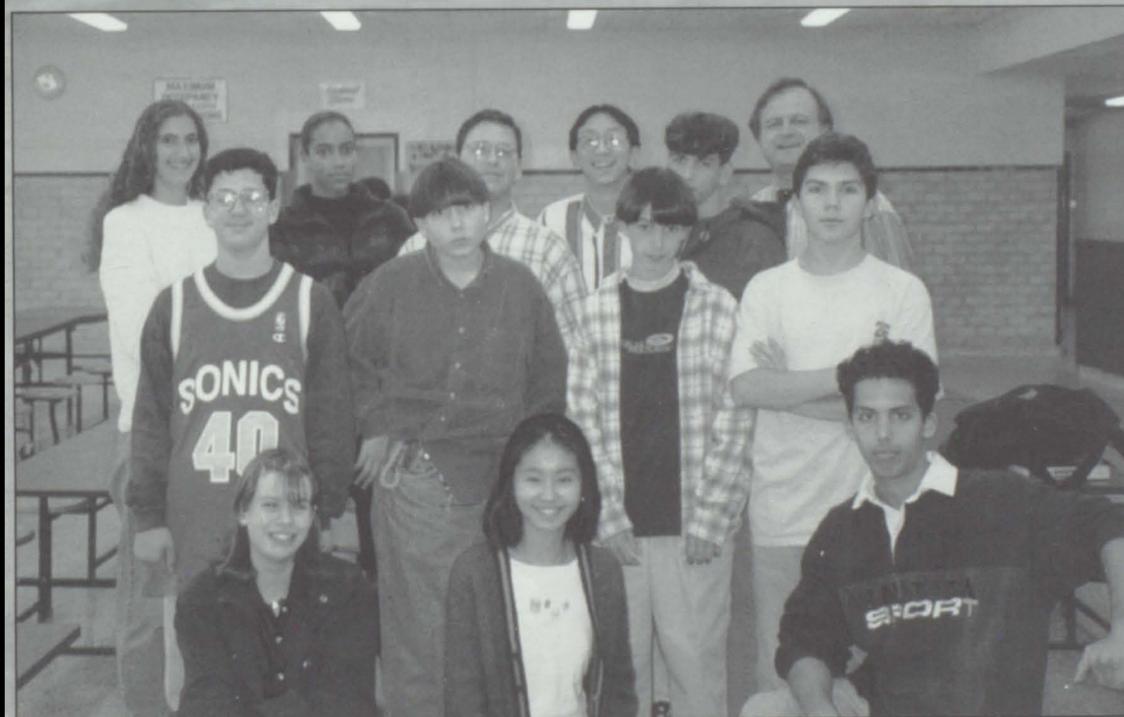

The members of the Math Club, who were among some of the best students in the building, attended competitions with other Islip Town schools twice a month. During the timed matches contestants had to twelve minutes to solve two grueling math problems on topics such as statistics, logic, and geometry. There was no time for trial and error as each contestant had to come up with an instant plan and strategy. Points were offered for each correct answer, and the teams with the most points entered the county championships.

"The problems we do far exceed what we do in traditional math classes," said club member John Greene.

The members of the math club spoke the language of math just as easily as some students spoke English.

The auditorium rocked and rolled this year with the revival of the musical, "Bye Bye Birdie." With an all-star cast of high school students, staff members and thirteen elementary school students, the stage gyrated with the music made popular by Elvis Presely. Under the direction of Mr. J. D'Antoni, assisted by choreographer Mrs. S. Brenner, vocal director Dr. C. Morrow, scenic director, Mr. M. Bicknell, house manager Mr. J. Guzas, and orchestral conductor, Mr. D. Persia, the annual musical left audiences standing on their feet and cheering for more.

The cast had a ball performing because of all the upbeat music and crazy dancing. The students were able to let loose with energetic songs that left them breathless and waiting for the thunderous applause of to die down.

"I always love to do shows like this. I can be myself and have fun." said junior, Crista Johnson.

As the audience left humming the tunes, all agreed that "Bye Bye Birdie" definitely had made a ripple on the stage of Bay Shore.

Crew members, Irfan Hogue, Patty Murphy, Jason Sclafani, Nicole Locker, Keith LeClaire, Heidi Acevedo, and Jessica Valadez, along with lighting technician, Gustavo Rivas, were responsible for making the set move and keeping the performers in the spotlight.

seniors share a night out

BANQUET

On February thirteenth, the elegant chandeliers of the beautiful Argyle Manor in Babylon cast a dreamy twinkle in the eyes of all the seniors who attended the Annual Banquet. The students were greeted with the sweet aroma of gourmet foods and the uplifting sounds of pop music. Friends danced the night away and talked about their future plans. "It was great to see the senior class finally united and just letting loose," said

Casey Schmidt.

The students weren't the only ones on the dance floor; the chaperones and teachers also joined in the celebration.

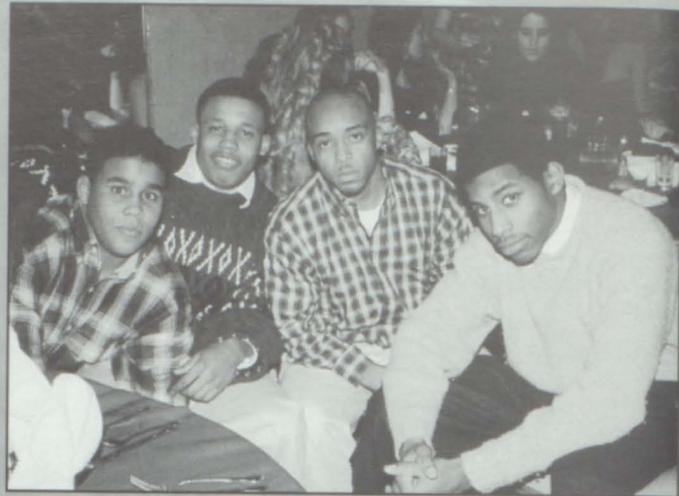

As the evening ended tears of joy and sadness filled everyone's eyes because they knew that such moments with their friends were coming to an end. Looking back, everyone agreed that they would hold onto the memory of this fantastic ripple in time.

MOCK TRIAL

objection your honor

Chip Parker and Melissa McClellan discussed their case and what strategy would win it for them.

For weeks, the members of the Mock Trial Team labored over law books and debated strategies about the case that they would have to present for competition.

Working with four coaches, three attorneys and advisor Mr. R. Richardson, the team was prepared to take on all challengers. The students worked with their counselors to prepare their witnesses, direct exams, openings, closings, and cross exams. The team walked into the courtroom with confidence, ready to face the opposition.

Moot Court, another law activity advised by Mr. Richardson, gave students the opportunity to study and re-enact real cases in the school's courtroom. This gave the members of the team excellent experience for when they would join the Mock Trial Team.

The law department was visible in other ways. In addition to the Law and Literature course, taught by Mrs. M. Skirbe and Mr. Richardson, the department conducted a special Law Day to introduce social studies students to the law profession in general.

SCORED AGAIN

Milton, Coach Mr. S. Sonkin, Gerard Renner, and Ron Cardello.

One word can sum up this year's baseball team: dedication. The players began preparing for this season immediately after last year's 16-6 season, which saw the team capture its first league title in fifteen years.

Players stayed focused by attending a number of exhausting workouts and weight training sessions during the winter. Their no-nonsense approach to training continued into the start of the season as every morning before school the team met for a ninety minute practice. At the close of the school day, they resumed their intense training in the gym and out on the field when the weather permitted. The players and coach Mr. D. Maloney were certain this kind of dedication would take them a long way.

"This year's team had higher expectations and more team morale than any I remember in the past," said varsity infielder Nick Newman.

Team captain, Phil McCollum, once again led the team to a successful season. His exceptional defensive skills have led him to be selected as an All-County Player, as well as capturing the gold glove over all other first basemen in the league.

With all of the intense effort that was put into building the baseball program, it wasn't surprising that they played as well as they did.

FOR ANOTHER WIN

Girls' Varsity Softball has long been a strong point of Bay Shore's athletics. With the return of ten experienced players and the addition of five new members, the miracles on Fifth Avenue continued. With every hit of the ball came an increase in school pride. Despite the injuries to their two captains, Jamie O'Kane and Jaclyn Pasquerella, this team was prepared to persevere and prosper. With last year's undefeated record and league championship, Coach Mr. J. McGowan once again had high expectations for his team. "Always exceed expectations . . . that is what makes champions," said Mr. McGowan. The goals remained the same: win one at a time, make the playoffs, and then compete for league and the county championship.

The members of the Junior Varsity team were just as aggressive in learning new techniques and skills to prepare them to conquer their opponents. With Coach Mr. A. Cantore helping them every step of the way, the Lady Marauders were committed to excellence, pride, and a winning tradition. The girls were eager to play and proudly accepted the challenge with each team they competed with.

The girls' softball teams continued to make sports history once again.

Boys' Lacrosse fought to REACH THEIR GOALS

Defending and scoring goals was the name of the game as the team ran down the field relentlessly fighting for control of the ball.

Determined to defeat their opponents the varsity players began the season with dedication and ambition coupled with extensive and vigorous practice sessions.

This year's team was headed by new coach Mr. T. Cox and assistant coach Mr. J. Mehler. Together, the coaching staff and players looked forward to an exciting year.

Team member Dan Meehan said, "This year's varsity team has a lot of potential and speed. We are going to take on our opponents fearlessly. We hope to improve upon last year's record and show our adversaries that Bay Shore is number one on the field".

Right along with the varsity squad was the Junior Varsity team which possessed the same spirit and enthusiasm. Preparing for the chance to play on next year's varsity team was no easy task, but they proved that they had what it takes.

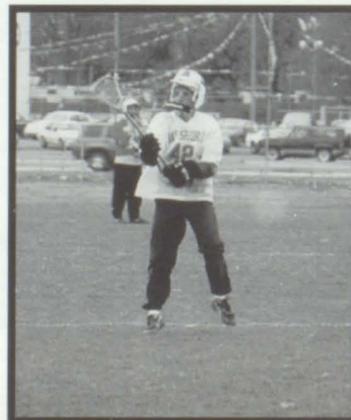

Troughout the season both teams displayed a great deal of skill and sportsmanship.

Lynn Ahmes helped Katie Rettaliata discussed their game strategy.

Spring brought very optimistic girls to the lacrosse field. "This year's group is capable of anything," said Coach Mrs. A. Pfeffer. A broad spectrum of grade levels has made girls lacrosse better than ever. They mixed the old wisdom of captains Lynn Ahmes and Kathleen Roskot with the new talent of eighth graders like Kristie Leggio. The group was composed of very caring and understanding players.

Early in the season the team started off with a big win against fourth place, Class B champions, Harborfields. Goalie, Kristen Becker, held the team tight and worked in conjunction with the strong defense of Lynn Ahmes and Allison O'Brien. They worked hard to make their sixth place rank in the county even better.

"We are planning on victories for varsity as well as JV. All the girls are talented and dedicated athletes. We definitely have the heart to win and the skills to work the field as a team," said captain Jamine Aponte. The J.V. team coached by Miss. M. O'Grady was also very enthusiastic about the season. They came to the field with high hopes and open minds to learn.

The Boys' Tennis team served up A MONSTER ACE.

As the weather changed and winter turned into spring, the boys' tennis team began its season. With the sun's rays lighting up the court, they practiced long and hard striving for perfection.

Many seniors returned with the skills and experience to pass on to the bright bunch of new players. Varsity captain, Tracie Forsythe, who was recruited by Coach Mr. J. Morrison to play on the boys' team, led the team through another successful season. Her addition to the group gave the team an edge when facing the toughest opponents. The doubles teams were unstoppable, and the singles players, four all-leaguers from last year, were unbeatable on the courts.

The Junior Varsity team led by captain, David Bunge, was a force that struck fear into the hearts of its opponents. They worked hard with determination knowing they would be the leaders the following year. Coach Mr. C. Jones said, "I enjoyed working with this group of athletes, and in many ways we learned from each other."

When the game was over and victory was gained, the boys looked forward to the next time they would leave their mark.

Above the endless noise of cheering friends and family could be heard the shouts of all twelve teammates yelling "Team . . . together!" With their movements constantly in sync and their eyes glued to the ball, the team worked together as a single unit.

Having a reputation for dominating the courts, the six returning seniors felt that the team was prepared for any match. "We went into the season feeling very sure of ourselves, and we played as a team. This proved to be the key ingredient for a successful season," said returning varsity player, Jasmine Gaillard.

Junior varsity coach Mr. J. Bayer taught his players the skills they needed to increase their potential as players. Although the newcomers were unsure of themselves as players, both coaches and the varsity players helped provide them with the confidence that they needed to be a success.

After Josie Rosado set up the ball, Heather Meirs went up for the kill to win the game.

Fans watched as the Spring Track Team FLEW BY THE FINISH!

The athletes flew through the wind, snow, rain, and the heat on winged feet. The spring track team used their powerful legs and feet to fly past all challenges that crossed their paths.

The girls' team with its unblemished record knew that this year was to be no different. The captains believed that hard work and long hours of training were the ways to uphold their reputations and expectations for the season. Coached by Mr. L. Pena, there was no way for the impending Olympians to fall out of step.

The boys' team also knew what it took to be the fastest. They proved their abilities by winning their first meet of the season. Inspired by their Coach Mr. N. Certain and captains, Joe LaManna, James Roberts, Kevin Meehan, and Erick Buksa, the strong bodies dashed past every adversary. The champions held proud expressions of true winners as they completed each event.

Team member Dwight Kelly felt that he had learned many things from being on this team, "If you strive for perfection, you will achieve excellence!"

The agile teammates learned that hard work and persistence helped them to become winners once again!

As the final match of the season was upon the team, many players felt it seemed like only yesterday when the season had begun and West Islip had fallen victim to the cunning play that fans have come to expect from the Marauder golfers.

On that cool fall afternoon when the season reached a conclusion, the players left the links with a variety of mixed feelings. For some, there was a feeling of success for the wins the team had earned and a feeling of anticipation for the following year. For the seniors, it was a feeling of sadness as they realized they had just completed their final match as high school students.

The main reasons for the success of the golf team could be attributed to the players' unity and their love for the game. "The best part of being on the team is getting to do something you like to do and be with your friends at the same time," stated Brad Keckler.

Many of the players have such a great time playing golf that they wish their season could last the whole year. "I love golf so much," said senior player Mike Nuttall, "that I almost want to get left back to be able to play next year".

Although the departing players knew it was all over, most felt that they had gotten a lot out of the season. Whether at practice or in a match, the team never gave up and truly learned that all good things must come to an end.

Cheerleaders prove that

DEDICATION PAYS OFF

Their hearts pounded with anticipation as the judges announced, "Bay Shore, you may begin!" A surge of energy rushed through each team member as they again worked to become one of the best squads on Long Island.

To achieve this feat, they practiced hard to make their dreams come true. Captains, Krysti Corbett and Kerry Williams, made sure the varsity members were always present at a 5:45 A.M. practice or a night game. When they went back to Dallas, their dedication paid off. Andrea Badolato, Amy "Cocoa" Marshal, Julia "the great" Dawson, and Jamine "Bug" Aponte were ecstatic when they were chosen to be part of the All-American team this year.

Their role model, Coach Mrs. D. Kaplar, always showed the same dedication she expected from the girls. She helped the girls work to achieve their fullest potential. Theresa Mancini said, "Since I've been a cheerleader for so long, Mrs. Kaplar has become a large part of my life."

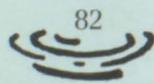

Bruce Reeves became the first male cheerleader to be accepted on the freshman team. The girls accepted their new team member and went on to win awards as well. Coach Ms. M. O'Grady led her team with the captains, Maggi Meehan and Ricktoria Brothers.

Although cheerleading is different from most other sports, Bay Shore's cheerleaders were true athletes. They carried the memory of their pride and dedication into everything that they did.

OVERTIME BATTLES

"Lets go Bay Shore!" was the phrase that was always shouted across the field at every home game by friends and fans.

The team played every game with a drive and energy that easily daunted all of its competition. In the West Islip game this was particularly obvious as the team battled every minute to make every play count. In the second half of overtime, with only twelve seconds remaining, Joe Baglio made a dangerous advance to the goal and was brought down in the penalty area. This gave the Marauders a sure win if the goal was scored. Coach Mr. J.Cody called on midfielder, Joe Flick, whose perfect shot put the ball in the lower right corner of the goal.

Mr. Cody said that the team was new, but it played brilliantly, finishing with a four and nine record. The coach also said that his boys without a doubt were some of the most talented in the league.

Showing a great deal of camaraderie, the junior varsity team played hard with determination and skill. Coach Mr. J.Nelson was pleased with his team's progress and skill. The boys worked hard each day and ended their season with a four and twelve record. The physical and mental growth that they displayed on the field would definitely contribute to their becoming excellent players next year.

With the force of a wave crashing on the shore, the girls' soccer team took the field to demolish the opposing teams. The fans cheered as the girls used all of their skills to keep their opponents from scoring. In a tough match against North Babylon, the best team on the Island, the girls had their work cut out for them and managed to keep their rivals to scoring only two goals. The Lady Marauders left the field proud of their accomplishments, and that their hard work had paid off.

Varsity coach Miss E. Ewald said, "My girls have a great deal of potential as a team and individually." The players felt more like a family and were held together through the persistent efforts of the captains. They kicked, passed, saved, and scored, putting all their effort into being victorious.

JV coach Mr. B. Brachio said, "When my girls walked out onto the field to play a game or practice, they always worked together, pushing to be their best." He was confident that their season was going to be one of the best ever, and he was right.

Varsity players, Kimberly Shaw, Kathy Owen, and Alison O'Brien, won all-league awards for their playing. Winning or losing they never gave up. At the season's end, the girls on both teams left the field with great memories.

Fledgling track team

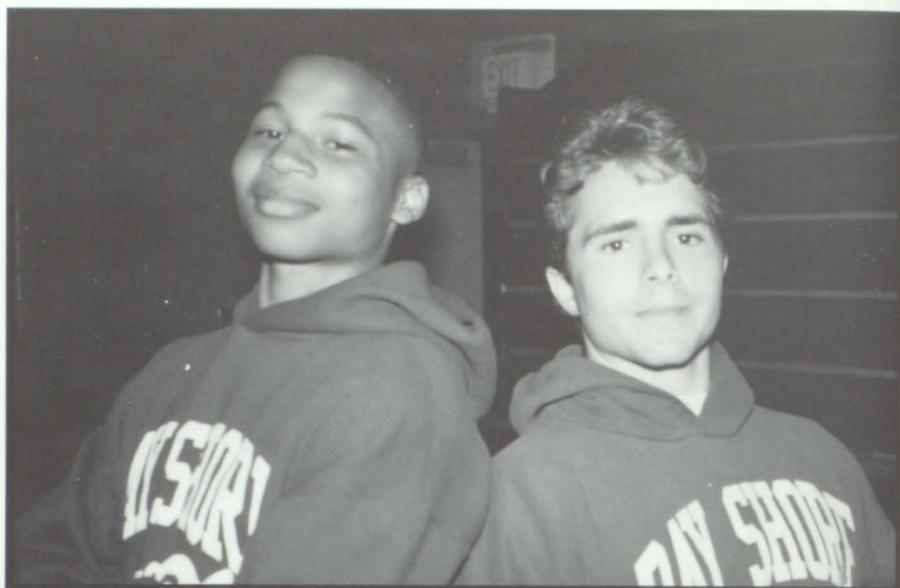

OVERCAME ODDS

Track has long been a sport where athletes of all places gather to put their physical abilities to the test. In this sport, endurance, stamina, and desire come together as one to decide success among athletes. It is this success that team athletes have come to achieve over the years, but at no easy task. Every year goals are set to keep this tradition of victory alive. Every year our athletes give it their all and more so that they too can follow in the footsteps of past achievements.

The boys' track team headed by coach Mr. S. Borbet did indeed strive to keep this winning tradition going. Through the many miles they ran and the many tears they shed, the runners stayed focused on their goals. And win they did as they beat Walt Whitman in an outstanding victory. "It was great; I didn't expect us to win as well as we did, but I guess we're capable of a lot more," stated Jamal Vigilance. Adding to this feeling of pride was the girls' track team headed by coach Mr. L. Pena whose accomplishments were just as astounding. They triumphed elegantly and gracefully as they defeated Copaigne and Huntington. "I'm very optimistic about this team and hope to qualify within the top three," said Mr. Pena.

The track is now empty, but the memories remain. The runners came out winners and passed the legacy on to their successors.

Another point was scored as Robert Torres pounded down the ball.

(top)Leaping into the air, Andres Borromeo blocked the ball as it came over the net.
(bottom)"Ready, set, kill" is what the team chanted as John Gerdes approached the ball.

With all the work accomplished during pre-season, the team was prepared for anything or anyone to come its way. As a pre-game ritual the players took a few moments before each game to offer a silent prayer before facing their opposition. Heads spun, and crowds roared as the boys' volleyball team scored points in every game.

One of the team's toughest opponents, Hauppauge, was defeated in a match that lasted five games and three intense, treacherous hours. The final score was 5 to 4, guaranteeing Bay Shore a seat in the playoffs.

Captain, Phil McCollum, took on the responsibility of leading the varsity players to victory. He not only inspired the players as individuals, but he also helped to unify them into an indestructible force. Encouraged by Coach Miss E. Eckman, the boys took the game to the next level.

Coach, Miss L. Schultz, worked the junior varsity team to the bone. All season the team played with incredible determination and dedication.

Balls were spiked, fans went wild, and victory was accomplished by the boys' volleyball team.

Girls' tennis coin toss

LANDED HEADS UP

Through icy cold winds, the ball hovered over the court on each lob and twirled sideways on soft groundstrokes. However, the girls' varsity tennis team remained focused and continued to concentrate on each shot made. The weather never destroyed the rush they felt from playing well.

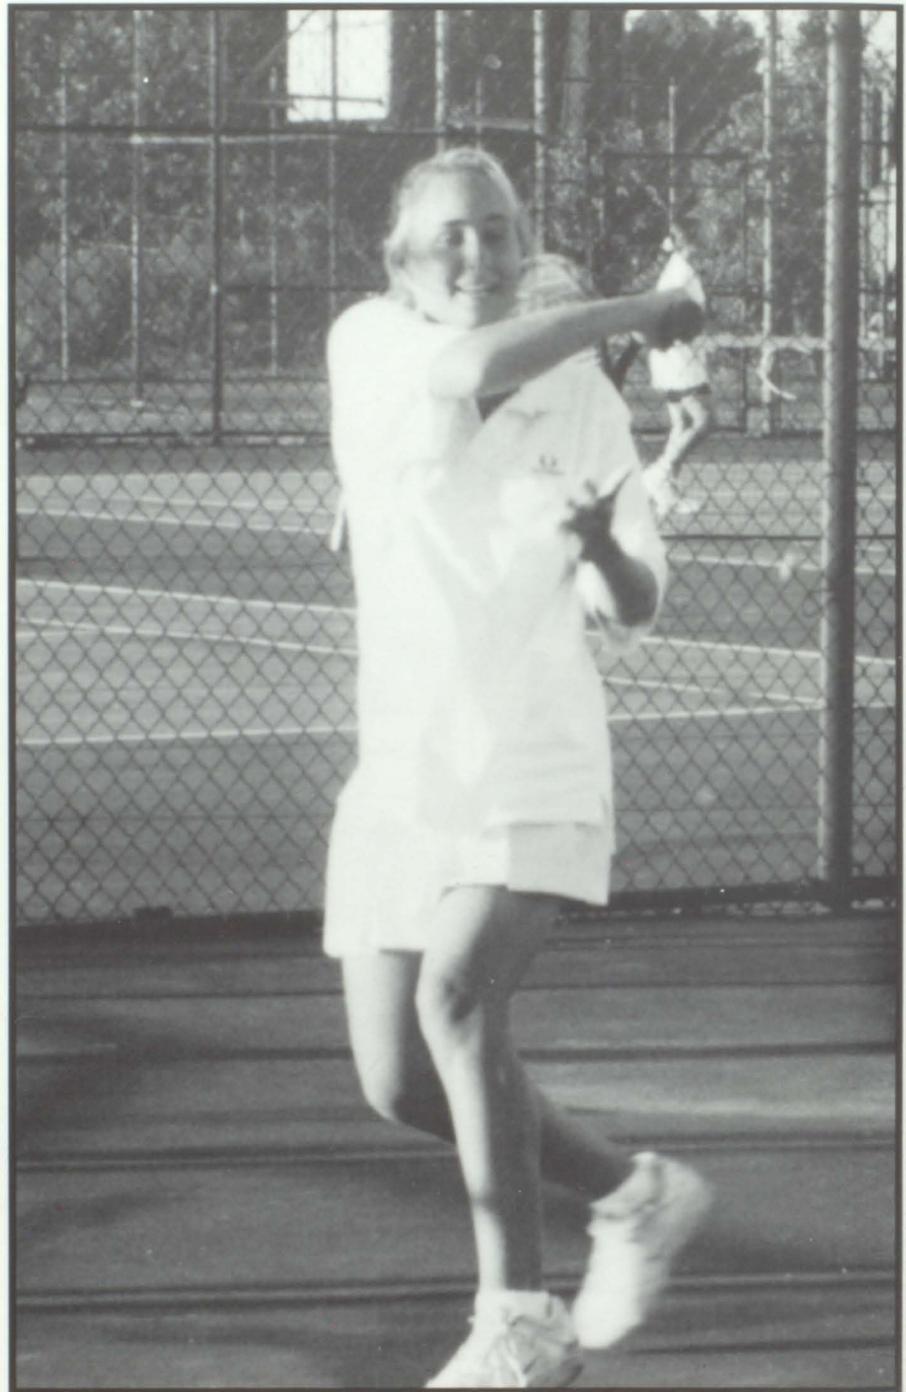

The team had high hopes for their season and looked forward to each challenge. The major obstacle for the girls to overcome was East Islip which was number one in the league the year before. The Lady Marauders, however, were determined and for the first time in two years, they came close to beating East Islip in their last league match. According to Coach Mr. J. Morrison, "The girls made a strong effort this season and proved their worth."

With eight returning varsity players, the team ended its season with a 9-5 record. Teammates, Christy Costella, Casey Schmidt, Corey MacDougal, and Jessica Veith, succeeded in making it to the quarterfinals of the conference tournament.

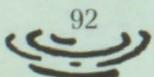

According to Coach Mr. C. Jones, JV had a great season. "The entire team improved greatly by the end of the season. It was a lot of fun, and I really enjoyed the girls this year. They were a pleasure to coach." JV's overall record was 6-6.

Though this may have been just another season for the school, no matter which way the coin landed, this would surely last in the memories of everyone involved- coaches, players, and spectators.

Field hockey set a

NEW RECORD

The sun shined down on the exhausted Field Hockey team as it fought hard to obtain a goal to secure the win. It was a season of wins, one after the other as the Lady Marauders captured the Division Championship. By dedicating themselves to becoming an unbeatable team the girls were able to surpass all of their previous records. Christine Dibble had a record breaking season, as the all-time leading scorer in Bay Shore history. Other players who had an outstanding season were: Dawn Manzari, Cristin Becker, Kim Ryan, and Bridget Minare. Proud of their accomplishments and phenomenal effort, coach Miss Karen Kauer said, "They were a great bunch of girls who were enthusiastic and dedicated to their game."

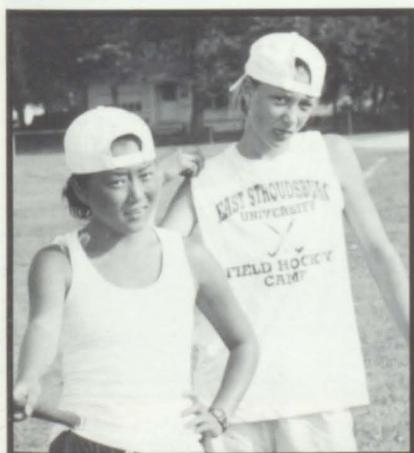

The team will never forget this ripple in time, and the memories it created. These girls will long be remembered by the staff, and alumni due to the victory and pride they brought to Bay Shore High School.

Gymnasts shed blood to earn

A PERFECT TEN!

CAPTAINS: Mike Ludwigsen, Bill Werner, and Will Ludwigsen.

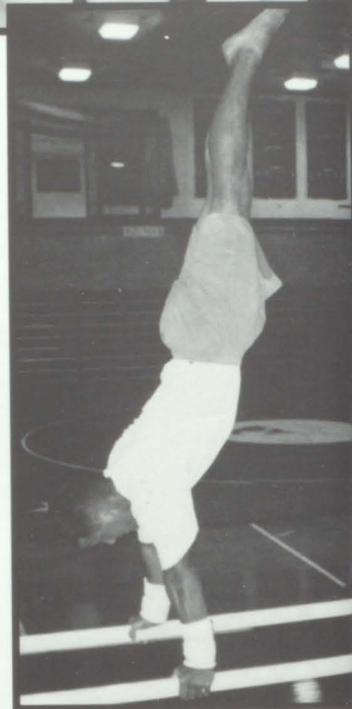

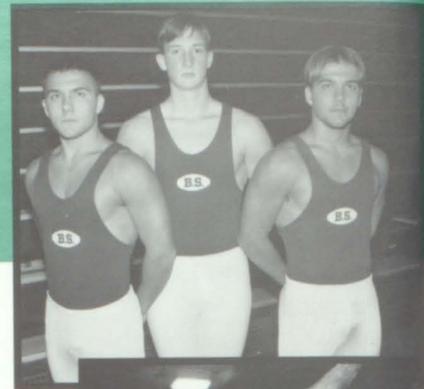

Accompanied by deafening silence, Will Ludwigsen took his place on the mat. Confident and focused, he began his routine that he had practiced for so many hours. He flew through the air with ease and dexterity. Every move was smooth and precise, every landing sharp and flawless. For what seemed like an eternity, no one in the gymnasium moved or made a sound.

His routine over, Will stood and awaited the judges scores as the crowd cheered his outstanding performance. Out of breath but satisfied, he held his head up high and smiled when the judges gave him two perfect ten's. It was at that moment that everyone knew that the meet had been won by Bay Shore.

The Varsity Gymnastics team carried that winning spirit throughout the entire season. Led by senior captains Will Ludwigsen, Bill Werner, and Mike Ludwigsen, the team went into every meet ready to win. A former Bay Shore gymnast, Coach Mr. C. Knapp said, "Gymnastics has changed a lot from when I was competing. The tricks may be different, but the effort put into them remains the same." By the end of the season, the Marauders went on to earn many league, county, and state awards. With a great outlook for the future, the gymnastics team definitely made a splash in history.

(right) Keith LeClaire twisted his body and followed the ball as it curved toward the head pin.

The excitement of the spectators, the extreme intensity on the faces of the players, and the thrill of watching sixteen pounds of Urethane crash against its destination were what the players on the bowling team experienced at every match this season.

In order to make the team, the players had to go through a competitive tryout which had one of the biggest turnouts in recent history. Over thirty players in all had to butt heads for the fifteen spots on the team.

After the shootout was completed and the team was formed, the players met several times a week with Coach Mr. J. Morrison at Bay Shore Bowl. By sharpening their skills at practices the members of the team were able to compete against some of the most successful teams in the division.

Each bowler has his own perceptive of the game. "Bowling is like driving a car," said Rob Meisenholder. "You try to stay in the center of your lane."

With all of the talent this team had, ranging from Middle School students all the way to Seniors, the team was a strong competitor in its division and hopes to remain so in years to come.

Girls' Basketball wins at

THE FINAL BELL

The girls' basketball team had one of its most outstanding seasons. These determined young women labored to be the best by playing with discipline and intensity, making this sport enjoyable for themselves and their fans. The team proved to be one of the best in New York State. With a combination of many returning players and many talented new players, the team continued to be a successful part of our school's athletic program.

With the fresh ideas of first-time, coach Ms. S. Nardone, the varsity team had an exciting season on the court. The team agreed that the combination of their unity and determination was the key that enabled them to emerge with a number of wins. Holly Hannah said, "The most important thing I've learned was no matter who coached the team we were able to pull together and produce a winning season".

Returning for his second year Coach Mr. D. Weinstein. The JV team worked hard and with each victory or defeat they gained experience while reaching new levels of achievement. The girls ended the season with pride and confidence with hopes of returning next year.

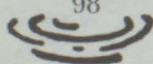

In each game both teams displayed high levels of team spirit. Through their hard work and dedication they have proven that there are no limits to what can be achieved in the future.

When the game first began, the ball looked almost as if it were in slow motion, but once it had been released from Otis Mathis's hands and had finally gone into the net, the game went into high gear. Otis smiled quickly and all his teammates joined him on the court. The once quiet gym became filled with the roaring chatter of the ecstatic crowd, as they watched an exciting game against East Islip.

With two new coaches the players had their work cut out for them as they developed their skills and learned new strategies for the game. The boys were determined to play as well as last year's astounding team, and that would take a great deal of effort on everyone's part. After the first game, they proved they had the talent needed to win as the scoreboard showed a score of 78-52. "Under the leadership of Mr. Parham, our team proved the pre-season skeptics wrong. We gained the skills we needed to help us in the future as we grew into a team and learned to work as one," Otis Mathis said looking back on the season.

JV also had a challenging season, with newcomer and Bay Shore alumnus, Coach Mr. P. Susskind. "My goals for the team were just to improve a little each game, and I think that by the end of the season these boys had done something they could be proud of." Coach Susskind worked hard and was excited with the accomplishments he and his players had achieved during his first year as coach.

Matmen flexed and executed . . .

As the two Titans stepped to the center circle, the stare-down began. With a look of determination and eyes clearly focused, they shook hands. For six minutes, the warriors clashed, each trying to pin the other to the mat. From their arsenals, both pulled moves requiring speed, agility, stamina, and strength. Three periods of shooting takedowns and grueling pinning combinations went by quickly. In the end only one was triumphant, but both stood proud of the battle they had fought.

This year proved to be a phenomenal one for the wrestling team. The team had a great deal of experience in returning seniors, Chris Knapp, Edmund Durant, Mike Ludwigsen, Mike Mills, Will Ludwigsen, Edgar Crespi, and Chris Posillico. Along with them a bright group of underclassmen fought long and hard, knowing that they would lead the team in years to come. For the fourth consecutive year, the JV team, led by Coach Mr. A. DelDuca, had an amazing undefeated record.

The Marauders opened their season with Adrian Ulloa, Will Ludwigsen, and Edgar Crespi winning first place in their respective weight classes at the Sayville Hoiday Tournament. "This is the best group of wrestlers I've worked with in a long time," said Coach Mr. M. Porcelli. Some seniors had this to say about their opponents, "Your whole style is chump!"

As they kept up the tradition of excellence set by generations before them, the matmen left their own mark in time.

Pride and dedication for the sport were the two attributes that described the football teams this year. In the final analysis those traits led to Bay Shore's first winning season in years. It also led to Steve Musso, Dan Collazo, Sal Ippolito, and Chris Posillico's becoming members of the Suffolk County Exceptional Seniors' Team.

During Homecoming, the Varsity team did a great job at keeping the fans on their feet. From cheering, to painting their bodies, and doing the Macarena, the fans interacted with the players as much as they could. As the game came to a close, the crowd was on its feet in a countdown to a Marauder victory of 20 to 19.

The JV Team was an all tenth grade team which grew together as a fighting unit. Although its win-loss record does not reflect the progress made by the players, the season gave the players a great deal of valuable playing experience.

The ninth grade team had a slow start but then came together as a team. The coaches were responsible for the growth and development experienced by the team.

Whether practicing on the rain soaked ground of August, or on the cold frozen fields of November, these Marauders worked hard day after day to put Bay Shore back on the football map.

The crowd was on its feet cheering when Joy Ganes tied the Suffolk County record in the high jump with a 5'9" jump, the best jump of the season in the State.

She was joined by her teammates, Jessica Damaso, Nicole Braxton, and Maria Palermo all of whom turned in exceptional performances on the track and won first and second places in their respective events.

Joy knew how they were able to accomplish such outstanding feats. "We follow every sport's rule; we practice, practice, and practice!" And practice they did. It seemed that neither snow nor the twenty degree weather could keep these reigning County Champions from circling the track and the streets of downtown Bay Shore.

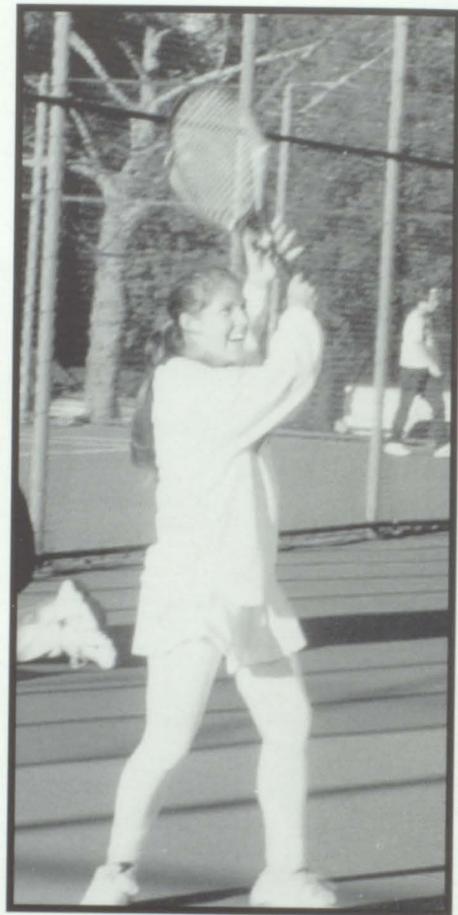

The members of the boys' team worked just as hard as their female counterparts. They practiced daily with the girls' team and learned from their dedication. Coach Mr. N. Certain was pleased how the team of novices quickly began to work as a team. Freshmen James Roberts, Kevin Meehan and Senior Erik Buksa walked away with awards for their efforts and hard work..

The stamina and endurance of both track teams has kept Bay Shore at the top of of the standings year after year.

RETIRING TO TEXAS

Miss S. Aday started teaching in 1964 when she moved from Texas to New York. She spent twenty-nine of her thirty-three year career in Bay Shore. One of her favorite classes to have taught was the humanities program. She enjoyed the team teaching approach and found working with Miss Doyle and Mr. Palumbo an experience that she will never forget. In her own words, "The students actually grew intellectually."

One memory that stands out in her mind occurred when she was assigned to an elective class in place of another teacher. When the students realized that they had a different teacher, they were disappointed and wanted to drop the class. Within a few weeks, Miss Aday won the students over with her southern charm and convinced them to stay. By the end of the year, they turned out to be one of her best classes.

Miss Aday has seen Bay Shore go through many changes, but she has enjoyed the changes and adjusted to each one. In speaking of the High School today, Miss Aday said that she feels that the structure of the school is tightening up which was definitely needed because too much freedom in the past caused a breakdown of the educational process. Also she has been impressed with the way technology has grown. "Computers are useful, but they will never replace teachers." They certainly will never replace Miss Aday who has made many great contributions to our school and has left an indelible imprint on all of our lives.

After she retires, she plans to read, travel, enjoy life, and visit her home in Texas.

-Tonia Graziano

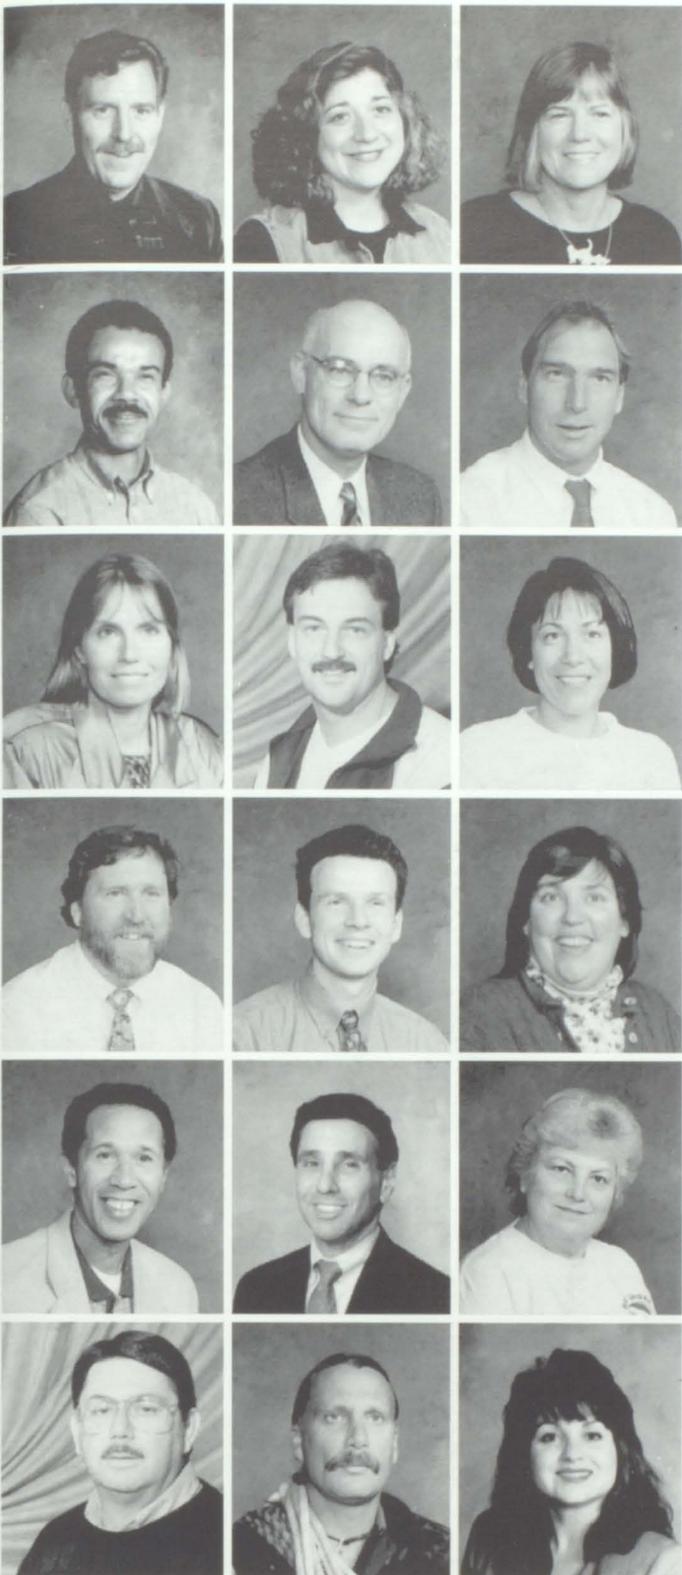

Miss Aday enjoyed a close working relationship with her students, Patricia Murphy and Jacqueline Espinosa.

AIDS EDUCATORS

After conferring, Molly Lambert, Michelle Harrison, and Jeff Cangelosi came up with a new idea to use for their students' next lesson.

Advisors, Mr. Quinlan and Mrs. Bonnano, presented a poem written by an AIDS victim, in order to give the prospective teachers the feel of what it's like to suffer with AIDS.

HOPE IS IN EDUCATION

Amazed by the response from the audience at the World AIDS Day assembly, Mr. Luis Weiss hoped that his message had been accurately conveyed to the students.

Every five minutes one person becomes the victim of HIV. It has become the deadly reality of such high statistics. The only cures available are education and hope.

Dedicating many hours to weekly training sessions, different conferences and guest speakers, a group of high school students became educated about this deadly virus. They prepared lessons and role-playing skits, with the help of Mr. E. Hishiver Sufflok County Health Department representative, Mr. J. Quinlan, SNAP representative, and Mrs. R. Bonanno, Director of Physical Education, to present to all the eighth graders in the Middle School. The eighth graders' one contribution to the cure was education. With education came hope.

The learning did not stop at the Middle School. The group organized an AIDS memorial garden at the High School. They also took advantage of the opportunity to hold an assembly for the whole school with the hope that at least one person would be affected by the powerful speech given by, Mr. Luis Weiss an AIDS victim.

"Instead of spreading HIV, we should spread the information of how to protect ourselves from it. It is sad to know that the spread of HIV could end now, yet we allow it steal our future," said Luci Ann Windle, AIDS educator.

After watching a practice lesson Tamika Lee, Jessenia Cevallos, and Thomas Alfano began to discuss the techniques that they would use in their own presentations.

HIGHEST PEAK

While everyone was at the beach sunbathing or at the mall shopping, some students and teachers did something a little bit different this past summer. Seniors, Phinley Phillips and Alex Wilson, joined science teacher, Mr. J. Romansky, and flew to Nevada to climb Mt. Whitney, the highest mountain in the contiguous United States at 14,449 feet. It was a strenuous climb that tested their strength and endurance. It was also one of those special moments when students could spend some down-time with a teacher and share a common interest. One of the hardest obstacles was trying to breathe at the high altitude. The thin air made it difficult to hike the rugged trails. "We had to get used to the air at first, but once we did everything was fine," said Phinley Phillips.

Without places to stop, the members of the group had to carry everything they needed to survive in a backpack weighing about sixty pounds. After hiking fifty-seven miles at altitudes exceeding 10,000 feet, the pack felt like a ton. They had to eat dehydrated meals and drink purified water. The best part was swimming in the glacier fed streams and lakes. At night they had to hang their food from trees to prevent bear raids. They slept under the stars only to awaken covered with frost.

The trip turned out to be a truly memorable and totally rewarding experience as the climbers overcame obstacles and conquered a bit of nature. The group agreed that the months of planning were well worthwhile. When Phinley, Alex, and Mr. Romansky reached the summit, they signed their names in a book as proof of their outstanding accomplishment.

MARINE BIOLOGY

Students looking for a different approach to science and biology were again given the opportunity to study the ocean depths by taking marine biology. For the first time, the course was offered on the local, regents, and honors levels with over ninety students enrolled. Mr. R. McAlpine, the only instructor of this course, was excited about the enthusiasm of his students and their success throughout the year.

Regular biology is hard, but not nearly as difficult as marine biology. There are more notes and terms that have to be learned which can sometimes be overwhelming. The course covered the basics of regular biology, but instead of focusing on the human body, it emphasized the functions of marine life. There also were more hands-on activities. Some interesting experiments that took place in the classroom were dissections of lobsters, starfish, clams, and other creatures. As part of the course, students set up and maintained several fish tanks in the classroom. These tanks contained a variety of marine life which students studied and kept close record of. The students also attended several field trips to the Aquarium and Museum of Natural History where they saw exhibits about the marine world and heard presentations from guest lecturers. Most would agree that this course provided a great learning experience in a relaxed and enjoyable environment.

A SECOND CHANCE

While some students spent the summer months of July and August soaking up the sun's rays on the beach, many students became involved in the first annual summer school. Math I and II, biology, earth science, English 9 and 10, and global studies were the courses offered to approximately one hundred and seventy-five students. Classes were ninety minutes long, and instruction involved many different methodologies in order to ensure the students' success. Regents exams, RCT'S and finals were administered at the end of the program. When the statistics were tabulated, the results were outstanding.

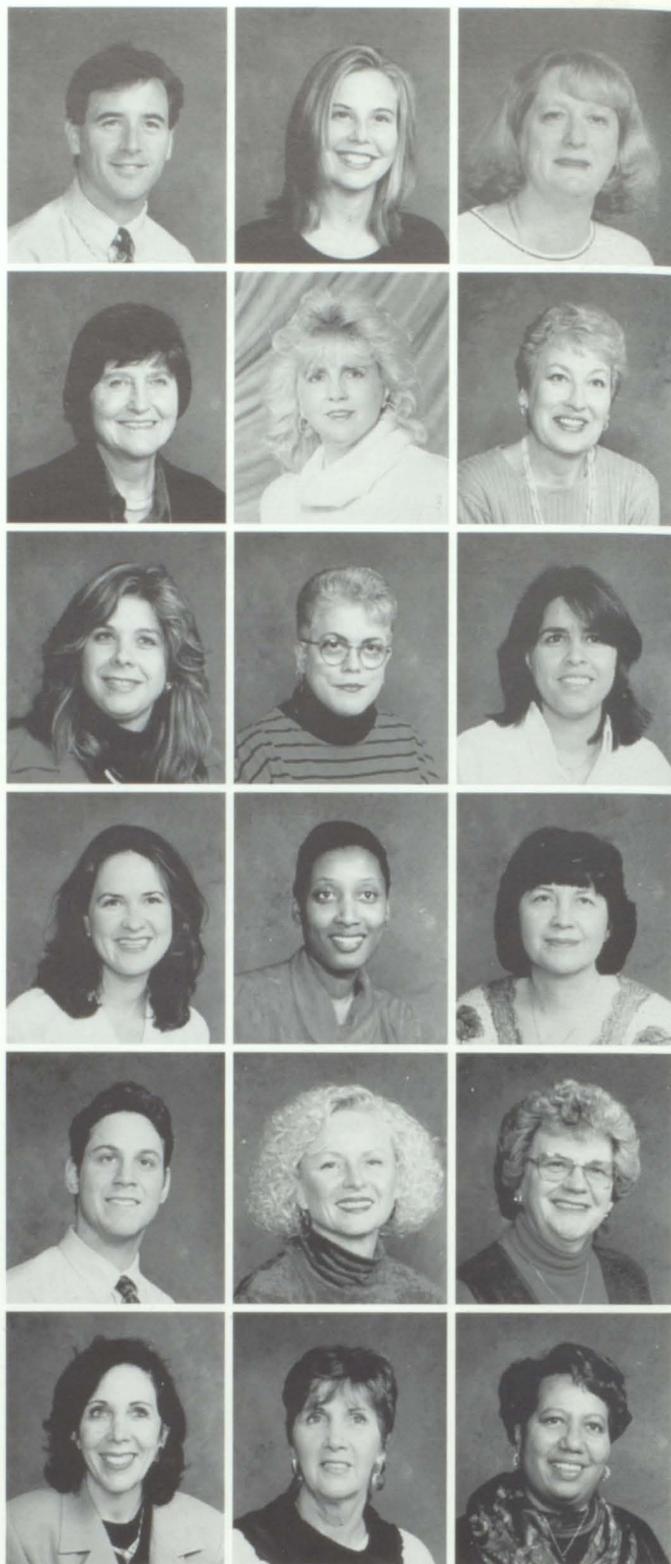

Despite the heat and the long schedule, the students found the summer school very rewarding. "It wasn't like regular school where you seem to be impatiently waiting for the teacher's attention. Although there was the same average number of students in each class, the extended time periods gave the teachers more time to get to know everyone. I had a great time, and I was able to re-join my grade level in the fall," Jen Santos stated enthusiastically.

According to Mr. J. D'Antoni, who acted as the coordinator of the program, "Summer school was designed to give students a second chance to make up for failed classes or lost time. I was pleased at the attendance and the attitude of the students. They did an excellent job and were very successful." Summer school will hopefully be expanded in the future to include more courses and for upperclassmen as well.

THE FUTURE BEGINS HERE!!!

On January twenty-seventh the third annual Summit Conference and Workshop was hosted at Bay Shore High School. Close to a thousand people were in attendance, including residents of Bay Shore and Brightwaters, teachers, students, elected officials, and community leaders. Suffolk Police Commissioner John Gallagher, Representative Rick Lazio, and Suffolk legislator Tom Finlay were among the many dignitaries.

The meeting began with musical selections by the JazzBand and the Concert Choir. Then, Harry Brown, president of the Board of Education, greeted the guests and set the tone for the evening. He spoke of how the annual Summits have been so successful in uniting the community around certain key issues. Dr. Holman addressed the audience and explained how the motto, "The Future Begins Here," adequately describes the transformations taking place within the school district and the community. Rick Lazio spoke about how Bay Shore has received a federal grant to subsidize renovations to the downtown area.

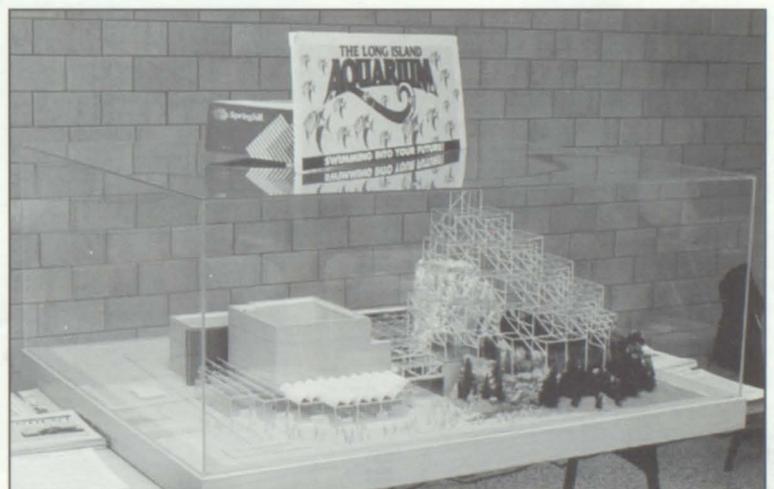

Following the presentations in the auditorium, the audience dispersed throughout the building to attend a number of different workshops which discussed community issues. As the citizens exited the building at the end of the evening, most were happy that they had attended and looked forward to future meetings.

WAVE OF THE FUTURE

After a summer of renovations and construction, the new MST room was at last ready for its new occupants. With the addition of technology, the course once known as math-science was expanded to include technology and became known as MST.

Usually the MST students were involved in a variety of interesting and unique projects or experiments. One of the favorites was the "Egg Car" project. Students were given the task of designing a model car that could safely transport its egg driver down a steep ramp and into a cement block without any damage to the egg. The students had to consider every angle the car could possibly hit in order to design a bumper that could withstand the punishment of the powerful collision.

"It doesn't get any better than this," regarded Mr. C. Kavanagh, who along with Mr. T. Kumpf and Mr. B. Brachio are the teachers leading the initial trail for MST.

The program has been such an enormous success that the three teachers were invited to Rochester in February to present at a conference about New York learning programs. The three teachers were selected as the lead teachers to present a curriculum guide. The MST course joined the ranks of the Humanities courses and Law and Literature classes in giving students the skills necessary to face the next decade.

Rashon Gillard helped balance the seesaw for Laquana Rambert as Mr. T. Kumpf pointed out the scientific principle involved.

SWEEPING INTO OUR HEARTS

With the front lobby empty at night, Ivette Torres buffed the terrazzo floor.

Ken Congelosi made sure that everything from the floors to the boards was cleaned for the next day of classes in Mr. Long's room.

Upon entering the building one is impressed with the unique architecture and the cleanliness of the facilities. The custodians worked hard to ensure that the building was always properly maintained and looked its best. The staff could be seen sweeping the halls during classes, cleaning cafeterias, and setting up for special programs, such as concerts, conferences, and dances.

Arriving early in the morning and not leaving until midnight each night, the custodians, supervised by Mr. P. Kennedy and Mr. G. Mowbray, made their rounds each day. Head custodian Mr. P. Kennedy said, "My crew and I take pride in our work and the appearance of the school." The custodians checked to make sure that every detail was carefully inspected. They enjoyed the compliments they received from staff and visitors. Over the past years, the students have assisted with maintaining the cleanliness of the building by cleaning up debris and being less destructive. The students appreciate and respect the efforts of the custodial staff which worked behind the scenes all year and into the summer months as well.

In addition, these dedicated men and women who had swept their way into our hearts and lives were considered by many to be an integral and necessary part of the building's operation.

Juniors, Brad Keckler, Sal Puccio, and Heather Crosthwaite, were happy to be back after the summer vacation.

JUNIOR CLASS

The Student Council and its advisor Mr. A. Sullivan, worked hard to create activities to relieve juniors of the stress of S.A.T.'s and the pressures of maintaining academic achievements and high GPA's. The highlight of the year was the Winter Prom held in the large gymnasium. Due to the hard work of officers, Sandra Rosabella, Jenny George, Tammy Mazza, Brooke Coughlin, and Melissa McClellan, the Prom was an enormous success and instantly became a new tradition.

At weekly meetings, Mr. Sullivan encouraged the officers and class representatives to make the year truly special. Plans were discussed for a ring breakfast for those juniors who purchased a ring and also for a junior class trip, perhaps to a Broadway show.

The members of the Student Council worked hard to produce a ripple in time not soon to be forgotten.

CLASS RINGS

Besides getting a driver's license, the next biggest event that was a highlight of Junior year was the ordering and delivery of class rings. Finally, juniors would have tangible proof of their status in the school and an indication that their high school days were coming to an end. Mesmerized by the variety of ring styles and the choice of stones, juniors studied the brochure and discussed the choices with their parents and friends. Once the rings were ordered, the juniors anxiously awaited their delivery in February. Junior Heidi Acevedo said, "It seems that I have waited all my life to get my senior ring. I look forward to my last year."

Of course, delivery day was particularly enjoyable as juniors dashed around the building having classmates, teachers, and friends turn their ring for good luck.

Class rings are a tradition that is as old as Bay Shore High School itself.

WINTER PROM

Lights sparkled in the gym and cast shadows of white and blue, as students entered the winter scene the first Junior Prom. Between 1:45 and 7:30 that night, the gym had been magically transformed into a wonderland of lighted trees, snow, balloons, and decorated bridges.

An impressed Kerry Nelson was amazed with the decor of the gym and the attire of her classmates. "It was amazing how beautiful all my friends looked and how the gym had been changed into a winter wonderland," she said with a smile.

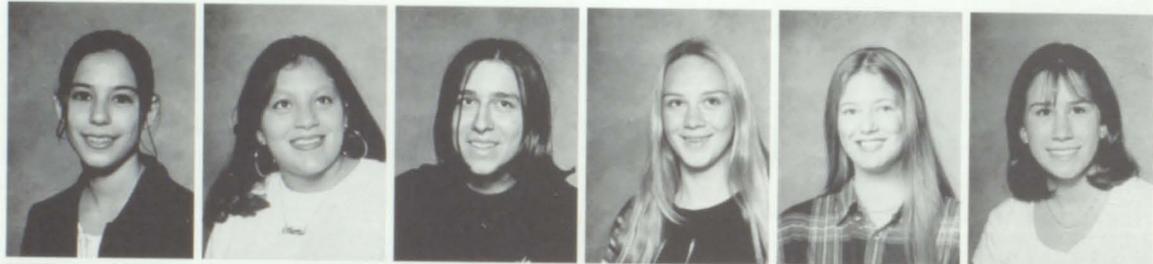

Overall, the success of the the first Junior Prom was obvious, with about one hundred and fifty students in attendance and underclassmen serving as waiters and waitresses. The entire class raved about the outstanding evening which had been assembled through the efforts of parents, class advisors, underclassmen, and faculty volunteers.

AWARENESS

There has been a light at the end of the tunnel twice a year for students to ease out of the stress of everyday life, known as Awareness Weekend. Students were given the chance to sit back, relax a little, talk with their peers, get things off their chests, and of course, have loads of fun.

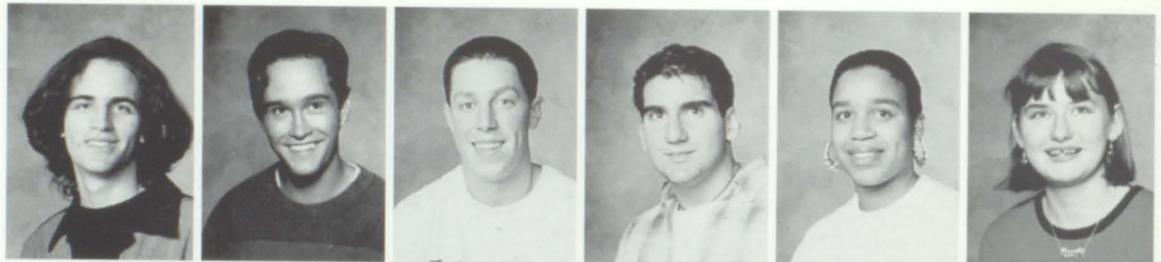

Mr. J. McGowan, the school social worker, was the advisor of this event, who led the participants through the weekend. Many important topics, such as drug abuse, rape, anorexia and bulimia, were discussed during the weekends.

Kellie Masterson, a senior who has attended Awareness Weekend five times, stated, "It changes the way you look at yourself and others. You find you have more in common with people you never expected to share common interests with. It is definitely an experience not to be missed."

DRIVE TO BE FREE

When most students' thoughts drift to their junior year, the first thing that comes to their mind is getting their drivers' licenses. They have reached that magic age of seventeen and are roaring to go. That one piece of paper gives teens a sense of independence and joy. Some parents are also happy about the whole thing, for now they have someone to pick up younger siblings and run errands for them. At times, drivers found themselves surrounded by a number of different new friends who wanted and needed a ride. More and more people needed rides to go out for lunch or run home for a forgotten assignment. Jobs became a necessity to pay exorbitant insurance rates and keep the car supplied with gas. Many realized that the joy and freedom of being on the road didn't give them as much freedom as they had originally anticipated.

SOPHOMORES

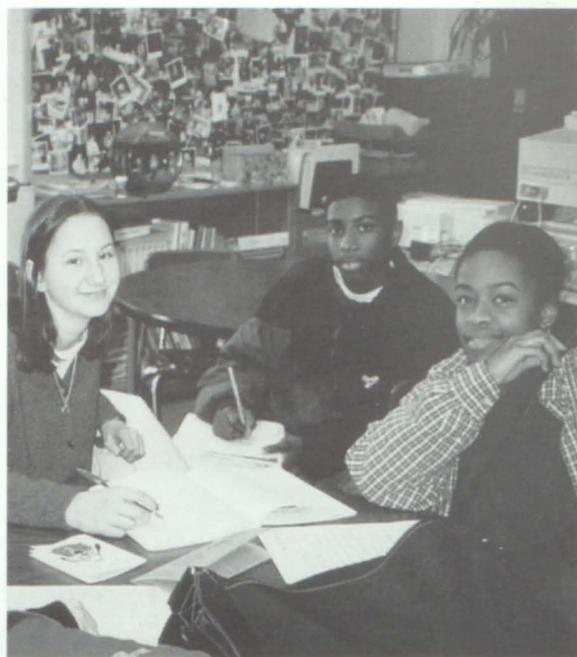

The sophomores have contributed much to this school year. This was made possible by their student council officers: Nabila Lester, Lissette Polyak, Vernon Mickle, and Erin Behrer who along with their advisor Mrs. K. Henry worked to make the year memorable.

Remembering what it felt like to be new students, the sophomores made sure the freshmen felt at home by volunteering at Freshman Orientation and by being placed in freshmen homerooms to answer any questions that might come up throughout the year. They also helped the upperclassmen by volunteering their time to decorate and serve at the Junior Prom.

"We have accomplished so much because we have really united as a class," said Nabila Lester, the sophomore class president.

There was no doubt that with their hard work this year the sophomore class had their voices heard.

RENAISSANCE

Begun several years ago, the Renaissance Program grew in size and stature this year as two new advisors took over the leadership positions. With Mrs. H. Saravis and Mrs. J. Fandale conducting meetings, new rewards programs were being devised to recognize student achievement.

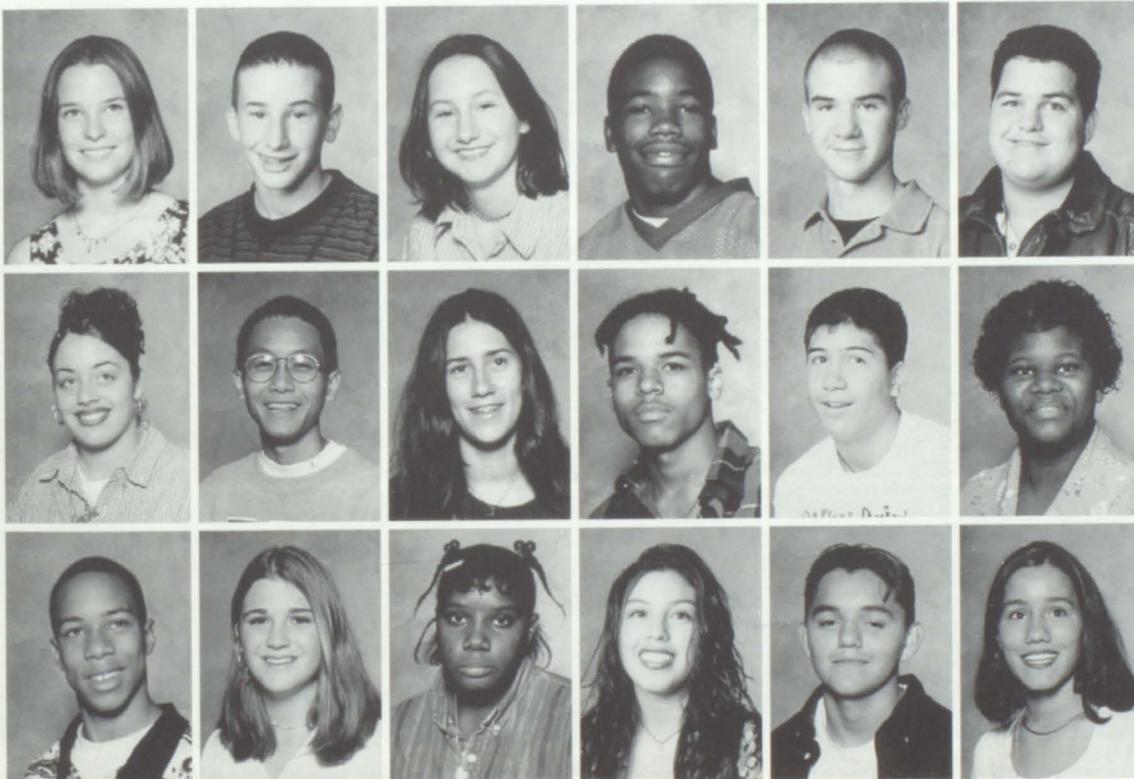

Along with the other teachers and student representatives, the Renaissance committee, arranged a variety of celebrations which included teacher's singing, cheerleaders routine's, and prizes being awarded. Ice cream parties, donut breakfasts and special field trips were also part of the rewards system enjoyed by the white, maroon, and gold card holders.

"The Renaissance program is designed to create a rebirth of the academic and behavioral standards to raise the levels of student achievement," stated Mrs. J. Fandale.

DRESS CODE

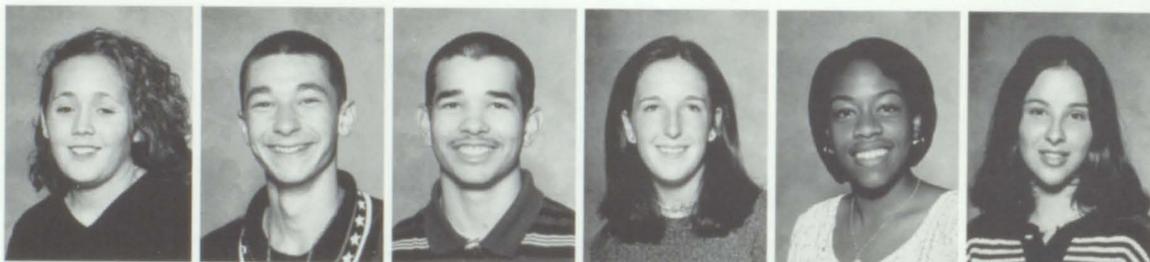

The biggest rumors that circulated around the school were those concerned with a new dress code for the student body. In the minds of students a school dress code was a scary thought. They pictured uniforms with long skirts and ties, and everyone looking like clones of the other. Many panicked and feared their individuality would be robbed from them. Students, who had seen the hat policy strictly enforced this past year, believed restrictions would carry strict penalties for offenders. In some cases students agreed that there was a need for improvement, but they didn't want to lose the flavor of a public school. Parent, student, and teacher committees studied dress codes in other districts. The pictures at right show some of the attire that was questioned by the committee. Students will have to wait for the final decisions of the committee and the administration of the schools.

Ripped jeans were popular again this year, but at times the tears came in rather revealing places besides just the knees.

Short skirts were in style, but they became a distraction in the classroom when they were no longer than shirts or blouses.

As pants were worn lower on the hips, more and more layers of clothing were required to keep a level of decency.

HUMANITIES

Take an ordinary English class, combine it with a Social Studies class, and toss in an Art course, and you have the foundation to the Humanities program. This program was based on a college level course that intertwined people with the subjects. The students were taught why certain events happened and were shown ways that they could have been prevented from occurring. The students were introduced to historic paintings and literature and given the tools to interpret the legacies they contain. The Humanities class went further in education than other classes to show a humanistic approach to learning. Although the students found it difficult to stay in a single class- room for two periods, they believed it was well worth it for the knowledge they obtained. The experience that the students had with the teachers will long be remembered and taken with them as they continue the journey of life.

In the words of the president, Mochia Thomas, "The goal of the freshman student council was to work together for the benefit of the freshman class." In front of them they had the objective of winning the day off at the end of the year.

The officers and representatives were kept extremely busy to reach these goals. These students donated their free time to discuss new ideas and activities to make the school year more exciting. Among the activities the council participated were food drives, costume contests, spirit week, battle of the classes, and adopt a family.

Freshman class advisor, Miss K. Waite, was proud to advise a group of students so eager to be a part of the student council. They looked forward to their upcoming years and planned to remain just as active.

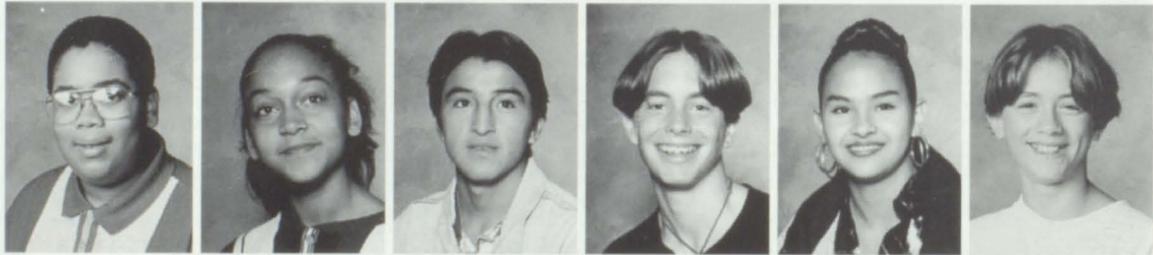

Treasurer Cassie Guarino, Secretary Kim Mullen and Vice-President Ellen Shave. Missing President Mochia Thomas.

Orientation

When bus load after bus load of students was dropped off in front of the school for the Freshman Orientation, students couldn't help but smile as they knew the moment that they had been waiting for all their lives had finally arrived. As the students flowed into the auditorium in small groups, a feeling of anticipation filled the air as the students were ready to begin their high school years. The excitement reached a crescendo when Mr. D'Antoni addressed his welcome to the class of 2000.

Suddenly, reality set in as the new students realized the pressures and responsibilities that would be imposed on the graduating class of the new century. Higher standards of success and the rigors of learning new technology brought greater demands and new goals.

THEATER TRIP

On November 19, the ninth grade class visited Lincoln Center and took part in an "Inside Shakespeare" workshop. Created by Steve Anderson and Cecilia Rubio, this ninety-minute workshop was designed to help students understand the language and characters found in "Romeo and Juliet."

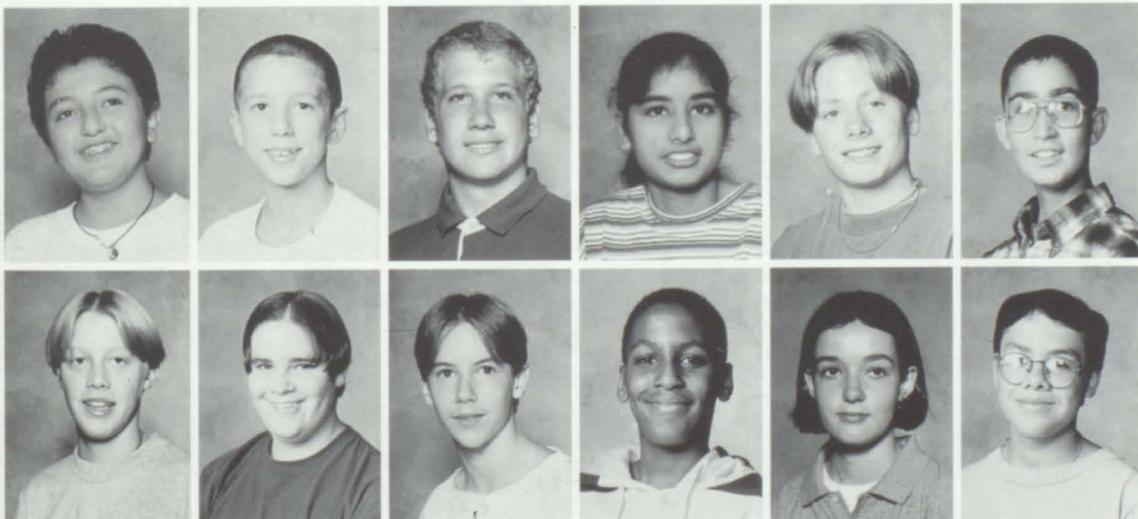

By hearing the lines spoken in Elizabethan and modern English, the students acquired a better sense of the emotion and skills of the characters and actors. Members of the audience joined in the fun and even played some of the characters. This experience really helped to make Shakespeare's words and characters come alive for the students who were studying a unit on the famous playwright.

"Seeing the show live helped me to open up a whole new world of literature and arts that I had never discovered before," stated Crystal Crisafi.

-Gustavo Rivas

(top) Jarrett Carlen, Launcelot Brown, and Mrs. J. Sause anxiously waited in the lobby before being admitted to the theater. (above) One of the male performers, in keeping with the Elizabethan tradition, kept the audience amused as Juliet's nurse.

HALLOWEEN

For many of the students, Halloween is one of the best holidays of the year. The Freshman class joined the rest of the student body to participate in this yearly ritual by dressing like some of their horrific heroes and making this year's celebration as memorable as any before. Whether they chose to dress up or just watch the others, it was a day that had no boundaries.

Many students demonstrated their imaginative skills by dressing in unusual yet interesting costumes. It was impossible to turn a corner without seeing some monstrous beast staring people down.

One of the exciting happenings of the day was the awarding of prizes to the individuals with the best costumes. An obvious winner was MaryBeth Romeo who dressed to impersonate Principal Mr. R. Consigli.

Dear Jay,

No one could be as proud of their son as we are of you.

As you begin the next leg of your journey through life, we know that you will always take the high road; the most difficult, but always the most rewarding.

If you can dream — and not make dreams your master —
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And — which is more — you'll be a man, my son!

Dear Katie,

It's been said, "Time flies when you're having fun." The past 17 years have flown by for us. You've always been such a delight and no one laughs like you do, honey!

You've grown from a curly headed, mischievous little girl into an intelligent, accomplished and beautiful young woman with the world at your fingertips. Reach for your dreams and make them happen. Your determination, stamina and sense of humor will see you through.

We're so proud of you and love you very much, Congratulations "Kates"!

Love, Mom, Dad, Kevin and Uncle Doug

GOOD LUCK CLASS OF 1997

Congratulations Nicole (Licky)

Time went by so fast. It seems like only yesterday you were watching "Fraggle Rock," "Sesame Street," and "The Magic Garden." Our memories and joy will last a lifetime. Always remember — spread your wings and follow your dreams. Never stop being your sweet self.

We love you, Mom, Dad, Jenni and Loretta

Congratulations Courtney Erin,

Keep ascending the mountain of cheerfulness by daily scattering seeds of kindness along the way as best you can, and, should mists hide the mountain top, continue undaunted and you will reach the sun-tipped heights in your own life experience.

*We love you,

Danny,

Through the years you have given us many precious memories to cherish forever. All the way you have carried yourself well, being the role model your younger brother could look up to. We are so proud. You have set goals and have reached them. Chosen a career and are well on your way pursuing it. You've earned respect and admiration because you've shown responsibility. Your decision making and actions show maturity. We are so proud of you, we love you and will continue to always be here for you. Congratulations on your Graduation. I know it means a lot to you — Your out of here! Never waste your time, your mind or your talents. Reach for your dreams, We know you will make it. Congratulations, Best Wishes, and Much Success.

*Once our pride and joy
Our little boy*

Now

*Proud of the fine young man
You grew into Dan.*

Love

Mom, Dad, and TJ

To all your good friends for many years LH, RP, EC, CK, WK and your other acquaintances taking this step with you, Congratulations and good luck. May all your dreams come true

Teets (our favorite cheerleader)

We are very thankful to the lord for your life. Watching you work hard and make the right choices, has brought us great joy. We know God has some very special and wonderful plans for you.

RIVIERA PHOTOGRAPHERS

Birth.

It all began in a few seconds, maybe minutes, eighteen years ago,
When we were generously given the chance to begin to attempt anything.

We started to discover the world around us

As well as the world inside of us.

We were challenged by an inferno of grades, rigid teachers and endless homework

And just like the Phoenix, we continued to rise from the ashes

While we battled our imperfections and insecurities,

We began to realize who we could, or might be.

All the friendships we've lost and gained, all the joy and all the pain,
All the memories that we shared, have left an indelible mark on our soul

It was all a part of one long voyage, but the voyage itself was an illusion.

As we leave our years at Bay Shore behind us

It appears the long trek is finally over.

But it has only just begun.

Our job now is to fulfill each of our destinies . . .

Bay Shore has given us wings and roots

Roots to come back to, roots to cherish,

And wings to fly, to soar, and reach wherever our fate should take us.

Always remember the past,

But look ahead for the future.

It will be a boundless adventure,

And the lessons we've learned here will lead us in the right direction.

Life.

Dear Lauren,

Reach for the moon, the worst thing that could happen is you'll fall amongst the stars! Break a leg (I'll always be there to fix it). Remember the car rides to the games and listening to your favorite music. (ha! ha!) Seriously Lauren, I can't wait to hear you sing on Broadway so you can give me the chills and I can brag to everyone that "That's my sister!"

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE CLASS OF '97

Robert Consigli, Maureen Leddy, Edmund Frazier

As the sand drains to the bottom of the hourglass . . .

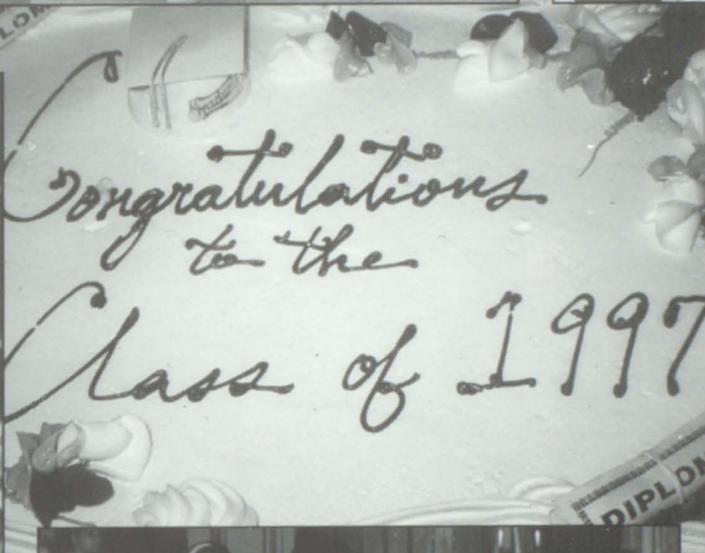

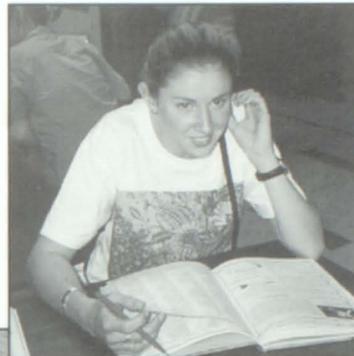

Another school year comes to an end, and for now the ripples have slowly receded. This brief moment has come to a conclusion as the class of '97 has graduated and left the building. Those, who remain behind to complete their high school educations, know that their task is to create new ripples on the calm waters of their lives. It is the ripples that we all will remember in the years to come. This yearbook has attempted to preserve those golden memories of our year at Bay Shore High School. This school year, like so many others, has gone by so quickly. When considered as a part of the whole of our lifetime experiences, this year will seem to be nothing more than a Ripple in Time.

COLOPHON

This seventy-fourth volume of the Bay Shore MARAUDER was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Texas under the supervision of Mr. Neil Sanders, the Taylor representative. Mr. Doug Brehm from Riviera Studios was the official photographer for the portraits and candid. The cover was made from blue lithocote in four colors, silkscreened with white lettering and design. The blue parchment endsheets are thermo-screened with the school mascot. 450 copies of the 200-page book which included two color signatures on #80 matte stock were printed. A student supplement will be added to complete the book and will include the closing activities of the '96-'97 school year. The standard typeface that was used throughout the book was Fenice, and all text was submitted on diskette by utilizing Taylor's Typevision software programs. This yearbook was produced by the Creative Writing for Publication and the Design and Layout courses taught by Mr. Joseph B. D'Antoni and Miss Margaret Pesco. The students and teachers were assisted by Mrs. Carol A. Jones who acted as a consultant for this publication.

One Final Splash!

(center)The dream of graduation became a reality as seniors cut into the cake at the luncheon.

(middle) Frank McCourt, author of Angela's Ashes, conducted a press conference in the library with Jessica Vansteen and Byron Norelius.

Ed Lowe from NEWSDAY shared some of his personal experiences and presented writing awards to students from the Middle and High Schools.

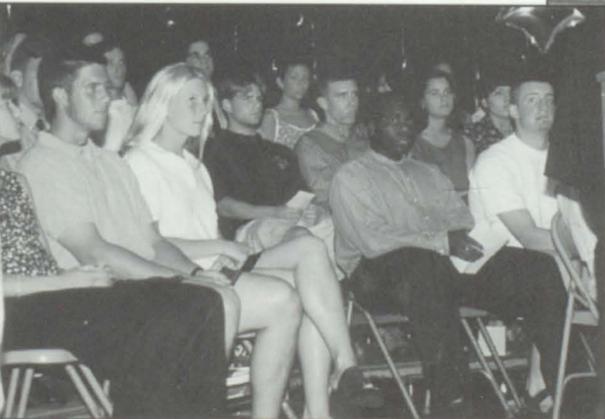

Members of the audience were enthralled with the colorful performance of Keystone, an up-and-coming professional group of singers with a new CD.

Awards Night

MaryAnne Feeney was congratulated by Dr. Frazier and Mrs. Leddy as she proudly returned to her seat.

(below) It was a sparkling night for parents and recipients who gathered in the Auditorium for the traditional Awards Ceremony.

Silvana Mejia arrived with Moses Cepeda ready to dance the night away.

Looking lovely, Yvette Morning and her date started the evening off by checking in at the reception table to find out what their table number was.

Surrounded by a bevy of beauties, Christian Haag danced with all of his friends including Casey Schmidt, Vanessa Gonzalez, Kendra Hucke, Jill Tomney, and Mary Palulis.

Enjoying the delicious foods were Douglas Turpel and Danielle Cinque.

Guests at the Prom were greeted with a friendly smile from Mrs. K. Henry, Mrs. C. Thompsett, Mrs. B. Brown, and Mrs. C. Martin.

King Nathaniel Green and Queen Deirdre Darmiento were joined by members of their court, Nicole Anderson, Linda Driscoll, Edmund Durant, Chris Forget, Lindell Mickens, Brianne Leary, and Joaquin Flores.

The dance floor remained full throughout the evening as couples celebrated their years as Bay Shore students.

Senior Prom

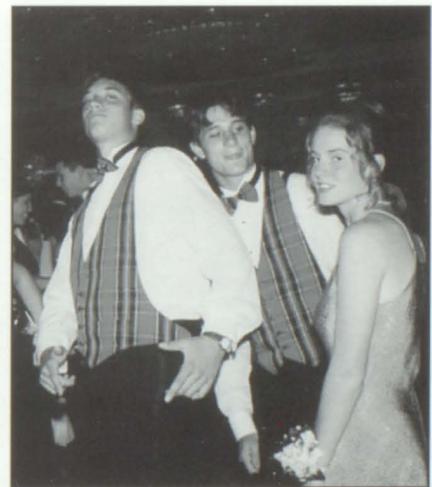

Jose Ramos and his date registered to have their pictures taken as the evening's events began.

Waiting for the rest of their table to arrive, Dave Jones and his date had a chance to survey the entire room at the Huntington Towne House.

The lady in red, Nabila Lester, greeted Mrs. P. Parker and then proceeded to enjoy the prom before leaving for California.

Brian Finnerty and Lawrence Opisso not only dressed alike but also danced in a similar fashion.

Graduation

(below left)As the sun began its descent, Debra Dennis and Kimberly Long savored the last moments of graduation.
(below right)Melissa Cepeda and Ebony Grant looked toward the future as they prepared to receive their diplomas.

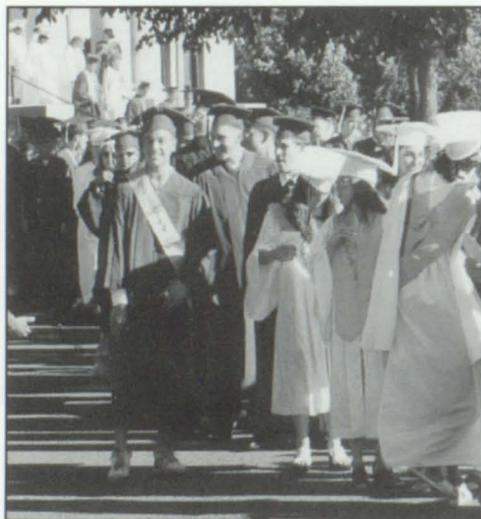

Mr. J. Nelson gave his new daughter, Olivia, a preview of high school graduation.

Jaqueline Torres and Debbie Ruiz congratulated each other after receiving their diplomas.

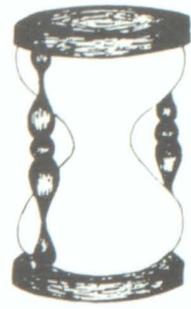

Daniel Collazo jumped from the line to greet his parents at the start of the ceremonies.

(below) Before walking onto the field, Mr. M. Mahoney and Miss D. Doyle received directions from Mr. R. Damore.

Lasting Impressions

Friends for many years, Robert Luckert and Rich Barcia, couldn't wait to sign each other's yearbook at the annual Signing Party.

(below) Katiana Pierre, Tiffany Reed, Holly Hannah, Yvette Morning, and Lakesha Banks enjoyed the slide presentation which highlighted their senior year.

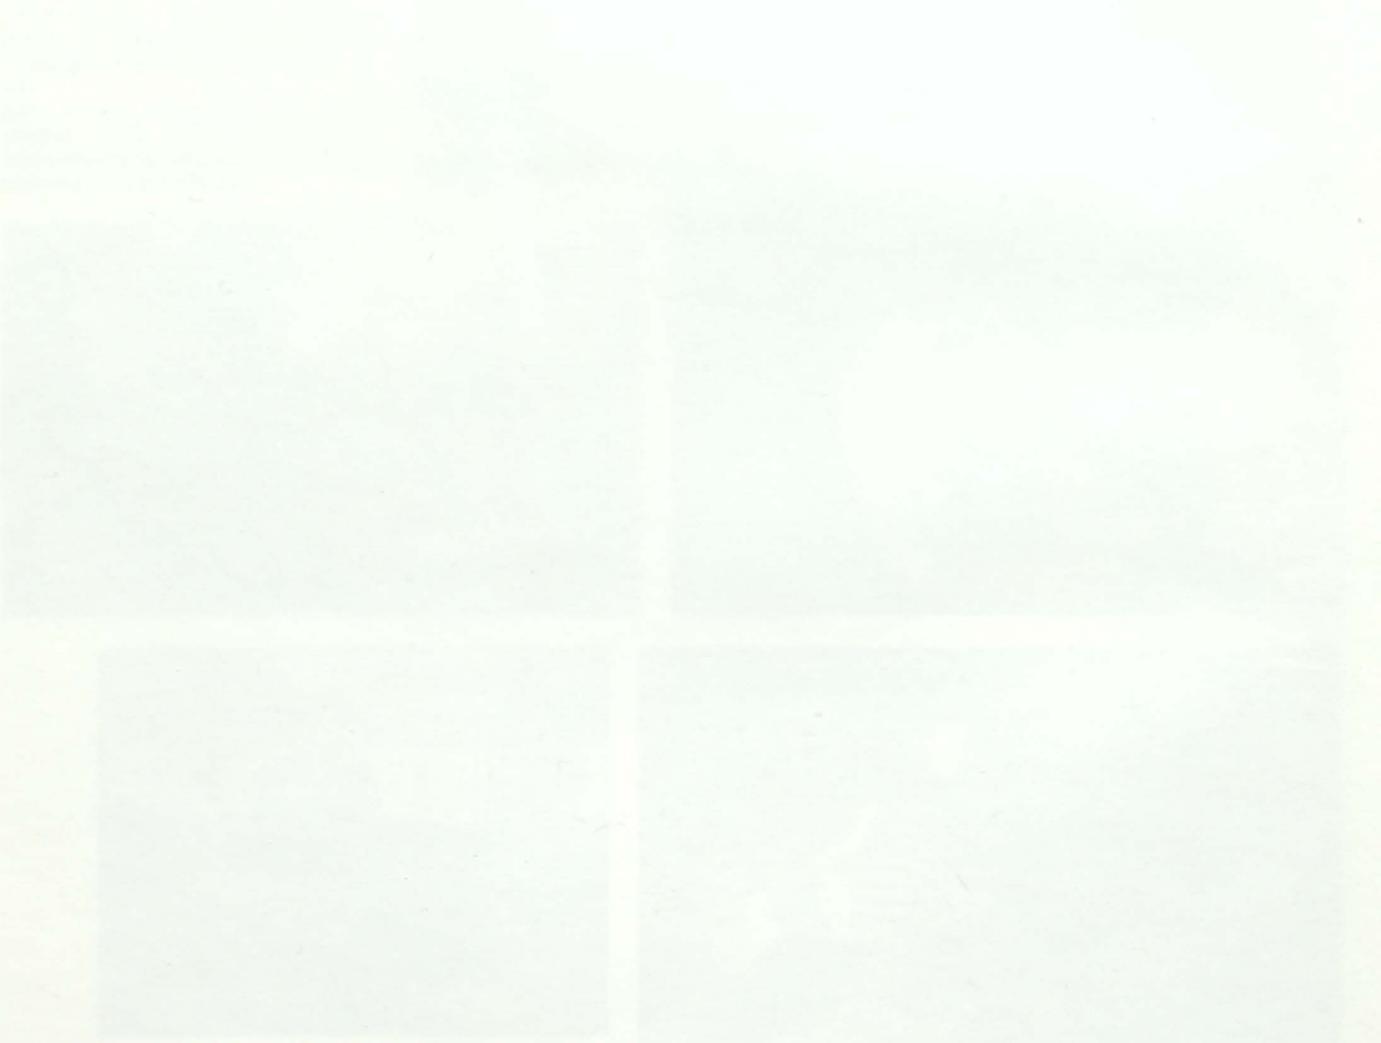

Dorene Mauro skimmed through the yearbook and enjoyed the unique layout and photos of her friends. All of the seniors enjoyed the relaxed atmosphere in the cafeteria as they ate, laughed, and talked about the prom.

Autographs

Autographs

Autographs are a valuable record of the past and are often the only way to know what a person was like. They are also a great way to collect a record of the people you know and love. If you are interested in collecting autographs, there are many ways to do so. You can buy autographs from dealers, or you can collect them yourself. There are many different types of autographs, and you can collect them in many different ways. You can collect autographs from famous people, or you can collect them from people you know and love. You can collect autographs from people who are still alive, or you can collect them from people who have died. There are many different ways to collect autographs, and you can choose the way that is best for you.
