and the beat goes on...

Music has filled our lives for as long as we can remember. We grooved to the beat as soon as we were old enough to walk, and ever since we were never very far from a radio, CD player, or walkman. While doing our homework, hanging out with friends, or playing sports, there was always music in the background.

Music has been an integral part in many of our lives here at Bay Shore High School as well. Whether rehearsing songs for choir, playing in the school band or orchestra, or dancing and singing in the spring musical, we have always moved to the beat.

Bay Shore has also kept the beat going in the classrooms. It has kept pace with the changing curriculum by adding new courses, improving the technology labs, having more students tapping out rhythms on keyboards, and on the playing field marching out to defeat new challengers in athletic competitions.

The beat goes on, orchestrated by those in the administrative offices and classrooms. They share with the students experiences of their own compositions. They are there to help the students keep up with the tempo of the academic challenges along the way.

As the seniors graduate and the underclassmen move up, we are confident that those left behind will continue Bay Shore's quest for excellence and keep the beat going for years to come.

“These are the days you’ll remember.... You’ll know it’s true that you are blessed and lucky.

— 10,000 Maniacs

It's true that you are touched by something that will grow and bloom in you."

“That’s What Friends Are For”

“And for the times we’re apart, well, just close your eyes and know these words are coming from my heart...”

— Dionne Warwick

Keep smiling, keep shining, knowing you can always count on me, for sure, that's what friends are for."

“This Is the Time to Remember”

“This is the time to remember 'cause it will not last forever. These are the days to hold on to

— Billy Joel

‘cause we won’t- although we want to... This is the time- the time is going to change.’

Seniors

The members of the senior class tried to keep the beat going throughout the year. They attended numerous activities such as games and dances and worked intensely on college and scholarship applications. They were visible role models for the underclassmen. Seniors were the backbone of the athletic teams, the spring musical, and all of the extracurricular clubs and activities. They continued working harmoniously throughout the year, creating memories for themselves and others to share. They were the highlight of Homecoming and worked diligently to win the battle of the spirit points.

Keep the beat....

The members of the class of 2001 class were prepared to enter a new world outside of Bay Shore High School. Armed with the knowledge and skills that they had acquired as students, they awaited the new horizons which faced them and were dedicated to set new tempos for their lives. They were eager to march right through any adversity which stood in their paths, and their goal was to shine among the best. The seniors will always cherish the melodious memories of the past events and smile. On Graduation Day, they waltzed out the school doors, knowing the beat will always go on.

The Class

Sorry I never told you all I wanted to say and now it's too late to hold you 'cause
you've flown away
so far away.

Never had I imagined living without your smile, feeling and knowing you hear me
it keeps me alive, alive.

And I know
you're shining down on me
from heaven like so many friends we've lost along the way.

“One Sweet Day”

Shannon K. Leary
11/17/83 — 3/26/98

You will always listen as I pray

And I know you're shining down on me from heaven like so many friends we've lost along the way And I know eventually we'll be together one sweet day

Sorry I never told you

All I wanted to say

— Mariah Carey and Boys II Men

And I know
eventually, we'll be together
one sweet day.

Darling, I never showed you assumed-you'd always be there.
I took your presence for granted, but I always cared,
and I miss the love we shared.

Although the sun will never shine, the same, I'll always look to a brighter day. Lord, I Know when I lay me down to sleep

Activities

Long after the last bell had rung and the final bus had departed, the halls still echoed with the sounds of students practicing for a drama production, running track through the halls, or planning for the Junior Prom. For many it was music to their ears, knowing that students in the building were still active long after the sun had set. For many students these clubs and activities provided them with some of the most memorable experiences. Memories of the fun, excitement, and intrigue of awareness weekends will be carried by many as they graduate and enter the work force or the challenging world of college. The experiences they shared and the hugs they received encouraged many to set new goals in their lives and forge ahead. National Honor Society tutoring sessions lasted long into the night as students recorded books on tapes or worked on a one-to-one basis helping each other. Mock Trial rehearsals and meetings with local attorneys helped the team to improve its knowledge and expertise to win even more state and local titles. Even the Web Team worked long into the night to finish the CD for the annual Summit Conference.

Keeping the beat alive!

The Robotics team engaged in an intense training and building program, consisting of four-hour sessions, to prepare for the annual competition. Jazz band, string ensemble, and Showstoppers' rehearsals kept the halls filled with the sounds of music. Late night sessions to review for regents exams and S.A.T. exams kept up a continuous flow of traffic in the halls. Yearbook and newspaper staff members kept up their hectic pace to meet their deadlines on time as students raced to beat the clock. A.I.D.S. educators met in the evenings to plan teaching strategies and presentations for the Middle School students. Tenth grade humanities students returned for periodic movie nights and enjoyed watching "Frankenstein" and "Saving Private Ryan." In addition to the Summit Art display, humanities students held an exhibition which helped to raise funds for the WWII Memorial.

Many teachers, too, could be seen in the halls after hours, working with students, planning trips, coordinating activities, and attending workshops and teachers' academy courses. The saying that the building never sleeps is certainly true. Those who were a part of the school after hours were left with many nostalgic memories.

Thespians

The fall production of "The Diary of Anne Frank" never lost a beat as the cast and crew re-created the tragic story of the Frank and Van Daan families while in hiding in the Secret Annexe. Under the direction of Mr. J. D'Antoni, the cast mastered roles that required concentration and stamina, not to mention the ability to memorize large numbers of lines and intricate blocking. Katie Draycott, as Anne, captured the hearts of the audience and revealed the many facets of the adolescent personality. Melissa Narvaez and James Moreira, as Mrs. and Mr. Van Daan, held the audience riveted through their fights and discussions about selling her fur coat. Todd Traynor, as Mr. Frank, held the show together right through to the closing lines of the play.

What made the play even more realistic and visually appealing was the set designed and built by Mr. M. Bicknell and the backstage crew. The characters remained totally in view to the audience at all times due to the set without walls. Details like the working lights and refrigerator on stage made the struggle for survival even more comprehensible.

Following the arrival of the green police, the audience sat in awe at the intensity and emotion portrayed by everyone involved. Everyone leaving the theater was impressed with the detail and accuracy of the set and the level of "professional" acting displayed by the cast.

Peer Support

(top) Dave DeSario signs into the Time Out Room.

The Peer Support Help program was an organization founded by school social worker Mr. J. McGowan. The group of dedicated teens were trained each year to aid their fellow peers during times of crisis. Meeting once a week after school, these students spoke to trained professionals about difficult issues many people their age were experiencing. The information taken from these presentations were then used in the Time-Out room, where the Peer Support helpers spent at least one period a week available for mediation if needed. This club offered the student body an option whether to confront an adult about a problem or find the comfort in a student instead. These students were handling problems not by solving them, but by helping the person figure out how to solve it themselves. By going through the pros and the cons of a problem, the Peer Support helpers reviewed all different possibilities and consequences of a student's actions when facing their situation. Students were now able to vent about a problem instead of avoiding it.

Many students took advantage of the Peer Support program. They were able to solve problems, and conflicts with kids who could relate. Seniors Matthew Malakoff and Billy Knapp both agree. "Mr. McGowan did a great job training us as well as a great job helping the students this year."

String Ensemble

Under the direction of Mr. R. Burns, the string ensemble continued to delight the audience at their holiday concert. Performing classical pieces such as "Presto," and "Greensleeves," they changed the beat into pure serenity. Mr. Burns has dedicated himself to the string ensemble for sixteen years. Under his direction, the group attained a higher level in music. Throughout the year, the musicians stayed focused and committed, even if it meant non-stop finger cramping rehearsals. They did whatever it took for them to iron out any discrepancies within their music, Mr. Burns was right on top of it, helping each section become more familiar with the pieces they played.

The string ensemble rehearsed and performed fifteen pieces this year. They played many different styles of music, such as jazz and contemporary as well as classical. The ensemble had one goal in mind — to get high scores at the NYSSMA competition. They spent the beginning half of the year preparing recordings of their performances with hopes that they would be accepted to play at the annual Lincoln Center Chamber Society performance. This meant that they had an extremely challenging variety of music to prepare and perform. Last year, at the Music in the Parks festival at Dorney Park, the group took first place. Senior, Monica Simone stated "Its challenging, but I enjoy it." It was a challenge that the gifted string players accepted and played to perfection.

Math Club

As Mr. R. Lukaschek completed another successful year, his dedication as well as the team's took math to another level. Every week, the students were given the opportunity to compete against other schools, proving Bay Shore's skill, and intelligence to districts all over Long Island. In order to become a member of the math club, students had to go through a series of hard and strenuous tests, among them, to solve trigonometric functions, and many other college level math problems.

Even as the new members were being admitted, they were soon on the way to their first Suffolk County tournament. The kids put the time, hard and dedication into the Math Club as they practiced the mind boggling math problems faster than a punk rock song at its quickest beat. The club met sporadically once a month with Mr. Luckaschek to learn how to solve new problems and discuss new strategies in a detailed and in depth environment. These math prodigies really put their hearts into the problems, proving to themselves that any equation could be solved with a little bit of knowledge, skill, and teamwork.

"The trick is to find a way to have fun and still learn," said junior Kristen Scher. The other members agreed that although math was a challenge for some, it was an enjoyable after school activity for others.

Jazz Band

It was another successful year for the Tuesday Night Hip Katz. Under the direction of Mr. T. Scalzo, the jazz band continued to leave audiences with their fingers snapping and their heads bobbing to the cool sounds of "Slightly Out Of Tune," and "The Mooche," just to name a few of the many pieces they performed throughout the year. Mr. Scalzo, jazz band conductor for the past twenty-two years, was nominated for Educator Of The Week by Newsday and stated, "My main goal is to allow the musicians to reach their maximum potential."

On February 3, the members of the Jazz Band attended the SCMEA Jazz Festival in Mount Sinai. Although it was not a competition, the group received a standing ovation and was highly complimented for its outstanding performance. Chris Jonassen won special recognition for his trumpet solo.

The Thursday Night Jazz Band, led by Mr. M. Rotello, also had a great year. The group kept its audiences on their toes as they rocked to the funky rhythm of "Blue Train," and "How High The Moon." Mr. Rotello made a smooth transition during his first year in Bay Shore. "My goal for next year is to introduce standard jazz classics to the upcoming underclassmen," he stated. The Thursday Night Jazz Band consisted of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors. At the winter and spring concerts and the annual Pops concert, these jazz bands proved the excellent talents of the musicians and continued the tradition of fantastic performances. They kept the beat alive and brought recognition to their school and their directors.

Creative Writing

In its second year of existence, the Creative Writing Club picked up the tempo, moving with allegro pace to become one of the top clubs in the school. Created in 1999 by English teachers Mr. J. Nelson and Mr. M. Pasca, the club took off faster than the machine gun wrap of 32nd notes on a snare drum and almost doubled its student membership since last year.

Meeting every Friday afternoon in a relaxed, informal environment, the Creative Writing Club participants engaged in numerous activities, such as tandem writing, imagery writing, writing in the form of published poems, as well as an alphabetical writing activity, where the class wrote a poem opening with the letter "A" and went through the alphabet in order until they reached the final line "Z". The club also did workshops, where a volunteer student's private work would be published and distributed around the room. The other students would then point out their likes, ask curious questions and make useful suggestions. The club also did an auditory imagery task. The students would listen to various forms of music and describe the emotions drawn from it. "Often times, towards the end of the week, many students are stressed and tired, and the Creative Writing Club was a great way for the students to release that stress in the form of writing. It made for a good transition into the weekend" said co-founder Mr. Pasca. The club averaged eighteen students per session, but over 53 students stopped in to check out the club. "The main objective of this was to make the students walk away wanting to write more," added Pasca.

Chess Club

The stereotype of Chess Club is a group of people that gets together and plays chess everyday. With these students, that is not the case. The club advisor, Mr. R. Lukaschek, has been running the team for twelve years. In that time, he has accomplished a county championship at the Long Island Interscholastic Chess Association (L.I.I.C.A.). Every year, the club has competed in the County, Long Island and State Tournaments.

To the Chess Club members, chess was not about winning but about finding creative ways to outsmart their opponents and countering every move they made. It took a lot of hard work and critical thinking to be successful. Every Wednesday, Mr Lukaschek taught the members about strategies and useful skills. He also taught the players counters for all possible moves that the opponents might make in preparation for their tournaments. With all this information studied and practiced by the players, Mr. Lukaschek hoped it would prove useful in order for them to fare in the county competitions at the end of the year.

The requirement for players was constantly to visualize an opponent's next move. Using their knowledge counters and understanding the basics of the game, the members were able to build up their individual strategies. Though some players were beginners, it didn't take long for them to catch on to the rules of the game.

Computer Club

The Computer Club offered opportunities for students to explore various computer programs. Mr. D. Mc Gilvray, club advisor, stated that students used up to date programs such as Excel and Power Point to enhance their computer skills. Some of the club members developed other interesting programs like C + + and took it as a challenge to themselves. Junior, Adam Shave said, "I enjoy it a lot! Mr. Mc Gilvray takes time to explain the significance of the different programs we work on."

Whether they were playing a high tech game or working on some homework, they used the time to learn more and more each week. "I'm glad my students have fun while they learn," said Mr. Mc Gilvray. The club has been a benefit to students, especially for those students who intended on persuing a future career in computers or buisness. They used the information to their advantage and continued to make progress throughout the year. Sophomore Janelle Robinson said, "I'm glad Mr. Mc Gilvray allows us to come here and unwind after a long day of school."

Mr. Mc Gilvray encouraged his students to participate in this club activity. Through this program many learned to utilize their time wisely. It also stimulated their intelect. Using creativity, the members of the club have become more adept with the computer system. It was an extraordinary learning experience for everyone.

Academic Club

How many legs does a tripod have? Who was Rosa Parks? These were the types of questions the Academic Club were faced with at their monthly competitions. Under the conduction of Mrs. N. Kalter, the group met once a week after school to fill themselves with knowledge and practice for extended hours for the meets by testing each other with Trivial Pursuit cards and playing academic games. They attended the trivia meets at Copiague High School where several other district high schools met. The questions were about numerous topics such as science, math, history, movies, music and Broadway shows. Those who were familiar with certain subject matter informed other team members on how to answer the questions.

The team started the year off with a winning streak, defeating the Junior Varsity and Varsity teams from West Babylon, and winning against the JV team from Masepequa. The members of the club were also given the privilege to compete in the Long Island Challenge game show on News 12 and put up an exciting fight against Commack. The members teamed up with the National Honor Society and raised money in a trivia competition for United Cerebral Palsy. The teams did their best for a good cause, and all proceeds went towards finding a cure for the disorder.

Robotics Team

"It's an intense design process that takes stamina, concentration and commitment" said Mr. B. Brachio. The Robotics team was committed to staying after school every day and come in on weekends to be able to complete a robot in the six-week time limit they were given. They competed at the FIRST Robotics Competition at Suffolk Community College, Columbia University and Epcot Center in Florida. The team took an impressive ninth place out of the thirty-five teams that attended the S.C.C. competition. The FIRST competition are held every year and over 500 schools compete nationally.

The club's goal was to build a robot able to complete a certain task required at competition. The students built, designed and programmed the robot themselves. They combined their knowledge of engineering and computers. "It's the most intense, worthwhile six weeks you'll ever be involved with, the greatest reward you could imagine" said sophomore Tim Johnson. Many students hoped that the colleges of their choice would look upon their involvement in Robotics highly. Students often expressed their enthusiasm of being involved and their ability to stay committed to their work when it came to pressure to various universities. The team offered great opportunities for students who were interested in engineering.

Student Council

For seven years, Mrs. C. DiPane has encouraged students to become involved in the school and community through Student Council. Starting early in the school year, the students planned the Homecoming celebration and organized Spirit Week. Adding a new twist, they used their imaginations to come up with new themed days such as Dress-Up Day, Sports Day, Sweatshirt Day and then ended with the traditional color-wars on Friday. "Participation has increased over the years," said Mrs. DiPane. The parade, bonfire and dance were all wonderful products from the Student Council.

After Homecoming, their schedule was filled. "Somehow we always keep busy" laughed Mrs. DiPane. Beginning with the Thanksgiving food drive, the Student Council representatives continued to reach out to the community with Adopt-a-Family, the Valentine's Day Compatibility Quiz, running the voting booths in the gym lobby and much more.

Co-Presidents Claudia Sandoval and Aisha Muharrar, Vice-President Vanessa Miranda, Secretary Gerard Boucher, Treasurer Billy Knapp, Historian Jeanette Bon, and Parliamentarian Umair Iqbal, worked with the other members to take on such projects as decorating the the lobby with wreaths and lights for each season and dedicating their time to making the school a better place. "Bay Shore has such a beautiful lobby. It just wasn't being highlighted," said Mrs. DiPane.

With continuous support from the student body the Student Council's message of community and school togetherness continued to ring loud and clear.

Maroon Echo

Under the supervision of Mr. W. Fishon, the Maroon Echo kept the student body informed and amazed with its highlights of school life and features. The paper offered information and breaking news on topics such as clubs, sports and special events. The main goal of the staff was to put out a publication that would involve their readers as well as cover stories that kept them interested. They conducted surveys on issues like the Presidential Election and printed their classmates opinions on news that related to them, such as the Napster decision. The Maroon Echo staff combined students from the Journalism class and members of the club. The group worked together to write, edit and design the entire publication.

With several awards and recognitions under their belt, the student-run newspaper hoped to earn another gold award from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. "With an average of about 35 student reporters, the paper continued to improve by working to construct eight newspaper articles a year with its new redesigned publications" said Mr. Fishon. Co-Editors Emma Katz and Aisha Muharrar stated, "We provide students with a great opportunity to express themselves." The staff put as much work as possible into constructing a dynamic publication by devoting long hours after school and some Saturdays. "The students involved in creating such a superb paper do it as an act of love." stated Mr. Fishon. Keeping a newspaper at an award winning standard, the reporters and editor kept their fingers on the pulsing beat of the activities and news in the school.

B.S.O.S.S.

With Mr. P. McLean and Mrs. C. Francis as co-advisors, the members of the Brothers and Sisters Organization for Student Scholarships, better known as B.S.O.S.S. worked toward a main goal: finding ways to assist graduating students financially for college. By sponsoring a number of fund raising events and activities, they were able to award scholarships to several members of the club.

The students got to work right away. They sold hot dogs, popcorn, and iced tea at home football games and ran a bake sale to raise funds. B.S.O.S.S was visible at a variety of school events. They participated in the annual homecoming parade, coordinated the annual fashion show and sponsored a step dancing team. They started homework study groups to assist students who were having trouble in certain courses, as well as participated in adopt-a-family program and the Thanksgiving food drive. "B.S.O.S.S has a team approach to individual success as they help to develop future leaders," stated Mr. McLean who dedicated himself to making the club as successful as possible. With the help and dedication of the whole group, many graduating seniors received generous awards to help defray their college expenses.

Mr. G. Broadhurst, in his seventh year as S.A.D.D. advisor, led his club to raise awareness once again. "I couldn't imagine being associated with a more positive group of people," said Mr. Broadhurst of his students. The S.A.D.D. club, or Students Against Drunk Driving, served as the conductors for drawing attention to the dissonant melody caused by drunk driving.

The club participated in various activities to keep students informed of the benefits of making positive decisions and becoming aware of the danger of drunk driving. They hung "Drive Safely" posters before the holidays, started an awareness campaign regarding the "Zero Tolerance" law, and put tombstones on students' lockers to symbolize drunk driving-related deaths on Long Island. They also planned another "Grim Reaper Day," when once every thirty minutes, a gong noise rang out over the public address system and a student was taken away by a S.A.D.D. member in a grim reaper costume. This served as a reminder that one person died every thirty minutes in a drunk driving-related incident. The commitment shown by the S.A.D.D. members was impressive, and because they took their jobs so seriously, when Fridays came around, room 18 averaged twenty or more students per session.

Bible Club

The Equal Access Act was passed in 1984 forbidding discrimination against student religious groups in public schools. A few years later, the Bible club was formed and kept up the beat year after year. Advised by Mrs. A. Pfeffer, the Bible club met every Thursday to discuss a wide range of topics like issues affecting students, measuring the impact of biblical verses in today's society and doing what they could to help the less fortunate.

This year, the club saw new faces and open minded students who had discovered that there's more to the Bible club than just praying. "It's a great opportunity for people who love the Lord to get together for a Bible study, encouragement, or just to chat," said Lisa San Pascual. "We also hope it can serve as an outreach and that other kids can find support and friends who are also devoted to their spirituality." The club was composed of people from different backgrounds and faiths all devoted to their cause. Early in the morning on September 20th, they participated in the national event See You At The Pole, which gathered an assortment of students and faculty members. The objective of the event was to have students and staff gather around the school's flag pole to pray for whatever was on their mind, whether for health, peace, or a successful school year. In addition, they spent a large portion of the year planning ways to help out in the community. They organized small donations, presents for the needy, or holiday gift baskets. Despite all the pressures a student may face in their daily life, the Bible club prides itself on being more than just a club. They have become a sympathetic ear and a helping hand to anyone in need solely to help their fellow man and follow their faith.

Weather Club

Last year, several students had an interest in keeping track of weather patterns around the area and the nation. Thus, the Weather Forecasting club was formed. The club's goal was to learn about weather forecasting and how to use the equipment used to measure different components of weather such as temperature, barometric pressure and wind velocity. They received most of their information on how to measure certain things and how to read the maps from Brookhaven National Laboratory. Under the direction of Mr. G. Domoff, they use radar and satellites to observe and record current weather patterns. Their biggest resource was the Internet. By searching the world wide web, they gained access to many different weather forecasting sites to download maps of the country and record the high and low temperatures across the United States. "I want to be a meteorologist," stated Alex Pacchiano. "This club is a great way to boost my interest in the field of my choice".

The club's long range goal was to get more students interested in forecasting and expand the club. They also planned to have a sign put in the front of the school stating daily weather patterns and changes to make the student body more aware of how weather is predicted and measured. If the weather club does well in the years to come, there is a possibility that interested Juniors and Seniors could choose Forecasting as a half year elective. "Weather forecasting is a good thing to know; you never know when you can use it," said Mr. Domoff.

Members of the weather club accurately predicted the many snowfalls that hit the Bay Shore area this year.

French Club

“Parlez-vous francais?” Inspired last year by graduate Alex Dunkel, Miss V. Sanchez, along with co-presidents Lisa DelVecchio and Erica Corlito, organized the new French Club. It took almost a full year for the Board of Education to approve this club, but with determination these students persevered and convinced the Board to give it a try. “We wanted to extend our world language boundaries beyond the typical textbook grammar,” stated Erica and Lisa. The Board of Education couldn’t resist when the members heard the purpose of this club was “to gain more knowledge of the language and the culture of the French people.”

These eager students went beyond the limits of their textbooks and learned how to incorporate the language into their communication skills. Many students were deceived by the French club because they thought it was only for French speaking students. However, this organization traveled through the culture of the French people rather than just studying it through a textbook. It was open to all students who sought to broaden their understanding of France.

Many activities were planned for the year, including trips to French restaurants, cooking authentic French food and participating in the annual language week. Mike Fojas, a junior, commented “It’s a way for us to have fun and learn all at once.”

Film Club

In a room filled with Hollywood movie posters, the members of the film club met each Thursday to discuss the latest films they had seen and the latest advancements in cinematography. With the arrival of such popular favorites as “The Grinch Who Stole Christmas,” the club members discussed the latest in technological advancements and make-up designs. Jim Carrey looked and acted the role of the Grinch, and the setting was believable to children of all ages. The special effects that made “The Perfect Storm” a favorite at the box office was another movie discussed at length by the club’s members under the direction of advisor, Ms. N. Kalter.

As part of its activities, a movie night was scheduled which was open to the public and showed some of the greatest movie classics from the 1970’s to the present day. The movie night took months of planning and scheduling to fine tune the final selections.

Throughout the year the staff of the film club learned about using the Canon XL-1 mini- DV camera which is a piece of semi-professional equipment, owned by very few districts on Long Island. With this camera the members of the film club taped “The Diary of Anne Frank” for the Thespian Troupe. The members helped preserve the memory of the Summit 2001, and they were also responsible for videotaping the annual Ethnic Pen conference.

Ms. Kalter hoped that the club would continue to grow in size, and there is even some talk about some of the members pursuing careers in filmmaking.

Marauder Staff

From the first day of school the members of the creative writing and graphic design courses started planning the look and layout of the Marauder 2001 yearbook. The enthusiastic writers and artists sought to create a new look for the book and a theme that reflected Bay Shore's continuing march toward excellence. While many changes have occurred over the years, most of this year's thrust seemed to keep up the beat begun the past few years. The staff studied yearbooks from past years and other school districts. When the 2000 book received its accolades for theme continuity and its overall outstanding rating from the American Scholastic Press Association, the staffs knew they had to work hard to maintain the same levels of accomplishment.

To keep the beat going the staffs had to maintain rigorous deadline schedules. It was a team effort that would not be rewarded until the student body saw the book in June. Remaining focused right to the end, the staffs kept up the beat and had fun while doing so.

Web Design

Working on the Web Design Team required perseverance and dedication. The members used their knowledge of computers and web page layout to provide the school district and community with a service that would cost the district exorbitant sums of money if an outside organization were commissioned to do the job. The team worked diligently to bring the district and High School's web pages into one consistent format. The web pages constantly had to be updated with the most current information and were constantly being expanded to include as many of the departments and faculty members as possible. The team's main goal was to make the web pages user friendly so that residents and parents could easily access the information regarding teachers, course offerings, guidance programs, and even nightly homework assignments.

Working every afternoon after school under the close supervision of advisor, Mr. T. Scalzo, the team had to master intense programming skills. The members of the team could also continue their work at home as they had a special folder on their servers and a special password.

These students have come a long way with their knowledge of computers. Brian Rogan, president of the team, has acquired such a high level of programming skills that he has already been hired by the Intelligent Computers Solution Corporation of Bohemia.

Another service organization that aimed at serving a dual role for the school and community was the Future Business Leaders of America club under the supervision of Mrs. J. Fevang. As a club, its aim was to explore careers in business and prepare students for them. It prepared students for "real world" professional experiences. It provided the members with innovative leadership and career development programs that bring business and education together in a positive working relationship.

As part of the club's activities, the members sponsored a fund raising candy gram campaign at Christmas. With the profits from the sale, students raised enough money to adopt a family and then used the balance to purchase supplies to assist patients at the Schneider's Children's Hospital to make Valenine's Day greeting cards. Additional funds managed to help support the Habitat for Humanity program which launched another building project in the Bay Shore area.

The members of the club explored various career and business opportunities by visiting the United Nations in the fall and taking a trip to Channel 12 TV. A trip to the L.I Ducks' Stadium was also planned to explore the various aspects of business entrepreneurship. F.B.L.A. aimed to enlighten and educate its members and better prepare them for the business world.

History Club

The history club took a different route this year with a new advisor Ms. A. Argall. The club meetings consisted of discussions of present day political issues that will shape the country's future in years to come. The members of the club were involved in heated debates about the 2000 Presidential Elections. They researched the issues and topics and the candidates' positions and platforms. They displayed attractive posters in the school to inform the student body about the candidates' platforms. Following the controversial election, members of the club discussed the problems with the votes in Florida and made suggestions as to how to avoid a recurrence in the future.

The club also was proud to have established a chapter of Amnesty International at the High School. This organization works to promote human rights. The members of the history club were eager to become involved in major issues such as programs to stop torture, work for global justice, abolish the death penalty, and protect the environment. Danielle MacManus enthusiastically headed the projects for Amnesty International. As part of its objective of keeping students informed about historical news, the club sponsored an essay contest entitled, "The Most Significant Person in History."

The club goal was to become better informed about historical issues that should concern all students and citizens. They aimed to make a difference by making history rather than reading about it.

Honor Society

Led by guidance counselor Mr. L. Balsamo and a full ensemble of officers, members of the National Honor Society were whistling while they worked this year as the club went through a facelift. The main goal of the organization was to give something back to the community by volunteering for numerous amounts of projects and programs. Mr. Balsamo sought to get the members more involved in the school and community. From the day they were inducted, these vivacious students spent most of the year completing their projects. Members were dedicated to improving the elementary school libraries by recording books on tape for the kids to listen to. They also spent a Saturday decorating Main Street with Christmas bows, lights and wreaths, as well as countless other services. Honor Society members tutored struggling kids in the high school as well as in the numerous other schools in the district. These goal-oriented students performed hours of service on their own as well. Being inducted into the Honor Society in May and December of 2000 was a major achievement that all of these kids were proud to have accomplished.

The standards Honor Society members had to meet were based on a 3.5 unweighted grade point average, leadership roles, being an active person in the community and their overall character. By striving for the best throughout their high school careers, these select students were finally given the highly prestigious recognition they deserved.

Moot Court

Caught up in the intrigue of courtroom drama, freshmen and sophomore members of the Moot Court team honed their skills at presenting and arguing a case before a judge and jury. These aspiring attorneys rehearsed materials and auditioned to become members of the team. Following their acceptance, they had to prepare for weeks to present their arguments and opening and closing statements. They took their jobs seriously and hoped to become members of the prestigious Mock Trial team when they became upperclassmen.

They met each Wednesday in the courtroom and followed the directions and advice of advisor, Mr. R. Richardson who successfully led the team to many county championships. Flanked by walls of bookshelves stocked with law books, the members of the team learned courtroom jargon and practiced courtroom rhetoric in the hope of winning their cases. The students found that they had time to have fun while learning about the legal system and penal code. In addition to the knowledge they acquired, the students also benefited by improving their public speaking skills, for behind every successful lawyer is an accomplished actor.

As the public continues to be mesmerized by more and more court cases in the news, the law course offerings gain more popularity both during the school day and in the extra-curricular activities.

Mock Trial

With the bang of the gavel, the courtroom came to order. The sides were drawn with both the prosecution and defense ready to present their cases, each side hoping to have the edge over their opponent. The mock trial team, consisting of the best legal minds in the school, prepared for the end of the year competition, hoping to regain the title of the best.

Advised by professional lawyers on the rules and procedures of the legal world, the teams worked diligently on their cases each time they met. With many controversial and challenging cases, there were many heated discussions on how to present their evidence and also in keeping up with the specific legal standards. The teams deliberated for many hours to ensure that their knowledge of the cases was up to the standard that was expected.

Keeping the tempo for the proceedings was long time adviser Mr. Richardson. With his own background and interest in law, he oversaw all of the cases that the teams presented and critiqued them on how to make their arguments stronger. Mr. Richardson also made the meetings more enjoyable with his quick wit and ever present art of story telling.

With so many strong individual thinkers mixed with great team players, this year's mock trial team was a great competitor and with so many younger members, success is virtually assured in the years to come.

Sports Teams

Bay Shore athletes worked all year to keep the beat going and to come back champions. Working hours each day through rain, snow, and sleet, these dedicated athletes ran through downtown Bay Shore, exercised in the weight room, and improved skills on the playing fields and in the gyms. They showed up for practice early in the morning and worked late into the night. Many athletes sought to improve personal skills and records while others worked as a team to bring acclaim to themselves and their school. Cheerleaders took first place in competitions and tournaments, and runners left their competition in the dust. Wherever the athletes went for matches and games, they brought recognition to their school for their teamwork and sense of fair play. These well-trained players rocked and rolled, no matter how fierce the competition.

Rock and Roll

The softball team sought to beat its opposition and make it to the State playoffs again. The girls' tennis team was back on top in its division. The wrestlers took first place in Florida, and the track teams were ranked number one. Football and soccer teams never gave up the fight right through their difficult seasons. The basketball teams were bolstered by their dedicated and enthusiastic fans through their tough seasons. The roller hockey team was formed for the first time and played its games late at night at rinks in Smithtown.

From lacrosse to baseball, the male and female athletes strived continuously to win. They may not have always succeeded, but they always had fun. They met the challenges presented to them, traveled far outside the limits of Bay Shore, and built strong bonds of camaraderie.

Boys' Golf The Swing Set

The boys' golf teams were definitely in the swing of things this fall. Both the junior varsity and varsity teams strived for excellence and achieved their goals of working hard and being successful.

The varsity team could be found parading around Bergen Point Golf Course everyday after school until 5 P.M. Their long hours of practice and hard work paid off in the end. With help from captains, Billy Warner and John Edwards, coach Mr. B. Mahler led his team to an outstanding final record of 9-5.

The JV team, instructed by Mr. D. McGilvray, contained fourteen members, two of which were still in the Middle School. With six returning members, Mr. McGilvray was pleased with the results of this year's team compared to others from the past. "Our new players have made us just as strong," said Coach McGilvray, "but we have an even better record." By mid-season, the boys already had a record of seven wins and only one loss. When the season ended their record was 14-2. After coaching for four years, coach McGilvray took pride in "realizing the growth of the players and improving their golf swing and knowledge of the game."

This year, the teams were filled with "a lot of progress," "consistency," "talent and dedication." Because there were no seniors on either team both coaches look forward to another rewarding year.

Girls' Tennis Serving Moto

Dominique Walker returns the serves back to her opponent.

The Girls' Varsity Tennis team underwent several changes over the past year. The upperclassmen had moved on creating void that was not going to be easy to fill. Although this was a setback, the team proved it was not major one as the new generation of freshmen and sophomores quickly joined in the ranks. They produced three All county players: Seniors Ellie "The General" Boragine and Elizabeth Suda as well as Sophomore Caitlin Fogarty. The team was led by Mr. J. Carney, who proved he can face any challenge with an upbeat tempo. The girls had nothing but praise regarding their coach. "We are definitely enjoying our first year with Mr. Carney as coach" stated co-captain Ellie Boragine. Fellow co-captain Elizabeth Suda remarked "Were a close knit team, we enjoy playing together as well as socializing."

On the flipside of the coin the junior varsity squad was ready to pick up where the varsity team left off. Led by Ms. B. Costello, they were ready to ascend to the next level. Although some players lacked the experience of the varsity, they were true students of the game. They were only a half step behind the varsity girls and caught up fast. With such a great amount of talent, Bay Shore can be assured of a winning team for years to come

Cheerleading High Pitched Cheers

The year bounced off to a powerful start for the cheerleading team. Eighteen talented girls had one goal in mind this year: to be the LICCA champions. This goal was not out of their reach. The girls returned from camp with three first time All-Americans-Erin Barnett, Nicole Allison and Verla Roberts, along with two time All-American Jessica Carlo and three time All-Americans Annie Torres and Heather Hagg. The team was led by co-captains Christine Russo and Nicole Lefferts. The cheerleaders were focused and determined. They trained hard and endured many injuries for the love of the sport. The team had to deal with one intricate player being benched for the season. Christine Russo suffered a dislocated shoulder at Homecoming while attempting a very difficult tumbling pass. "It was hard to see them get better without me, but I pushed them real hard to help them reach their goal," said Russo. The team also had a number of outstanding underclassmen who helped to make their goal come true.

Coach Mrs. D. Kaplar always stressed positive mental imaging. "Think like a champion, act like a champion, and you'll be a champion." The girls did their best this year to claim back their title when they faced North Babylon in the LICCA finals.

Dancing in the Zone!

The varsity and junior varsity teams started off their season with a fabulous win. They defeated Half Hollow Hills East at their first game of the season. Varsity team captains, Quarterback Rich Yanatos, and K.C. Armstrong, along with Coach Mr. T. Cox, and Coach Mr. J. Giattino, continued to work hard to keep their team together. "This year's seniors have been leading the team. They were responsible, hardworking, and dedicated," the coaches agreed. This season, Varsity and JV went up against West Islip, North Babylon, Bellport, and East Islip, which had proved in the past to be tough competition, but they refused to let that discourage them. Despite their losses against East Islip, North Babylon, West Islip, and Centereach, they found a way to come back ready to play ten times harder. On Homecoming weekend, they beat Newfield High School with an unbelievable score of 46-7. It was the first homecoming game they'd won in a long time, something both teams desired. They came out ready to play with a burning fire in their hearts. After that, the team was unstoppable. They defeated Copaque at the game following their win against Newfield. Special plays by C.J. Southerland, who scored three touchdowns and Pat Kunnmann, who also scored a touchdown early in the third quarter, led the team to an astounding victory making the final score 42-9. A team that at first seemed to be getting kicked down the field resounded back in full effect for the end of their season.

Boys' Soccer

The Tempo of Play

The beat changed this year for the boys' varsity soccer team. With the retirement of former coach and teacher, Mr. J. Cody came the first year as head coach for Mr. J. Nelson. No newcomer to the sport, Coach Nelson looked forward to his first year as varsity coach. With the return of only nine players from last year, the new coach was not the only change. Five freshmen were able to make the varsity team, so hopes were high for the years to come. "We were determined to win," said co-captain Billy Germano. This was the overall feeling of the team and could be seen in the way it played. It was always willing to play hard, always pushing forward for that goal and upping the tempo of play.

Loaded with talent, the J. V. team stormed out of the gate with a starting record of 8 and 3. Its winning record could be contributed to the scoring ability of many on the team. Coach Mr. K. Pertler had a lot of talent on his team and with the way it played the future looks bright for the program.

If there were one thing that the coaches wanted to accomplish this year, it was to bring back the pride that the program had from years past. Coaches Nelson and Pertler wanted their teams to have a sense of the history of the soccer program of Bay Shore. With the right dynamics and attitude, the teams are sure to succeed in the years to come.

Girls' Soccer Fighting AI Fine

The 2000/2001 school year was a time of change for the varsity girls' soccer team. It was a very young team, mainly composed of eighth and ninth graders, with only two seniors on the team. Despite the lack of upperclassmen leadership, the young team worked very hard and gave its all. "The players' hard work and ability were not reflected in their win/loss record," said Ms. D. Corrado, the team coach, citing the shortage of players in accordance with the team's losing record. "Without subs, the players tired in the second half. They worked hard but got nothing out of it." It was a time of rebuilding for the team, and Coach Corrado looked forward to watching the fledgling team transform into a dynamic force.

The focus of the junior varsity team changed as well this year, as coach Ms. M. Cortes decided to focus more on the fitness component of the team. "Since I started coaching J.V. three years ago, soccer has been a relatively small program, and I feel that it is important that the girls be fit," said Cortes. While the girls got off to a slow start this year, they fought hard to the end. "The record is not that important," said Cortes, adding that she felt it was more important that the girls worked together and functioned as a soccer team should.

Field Hockey Score that Goal

Whistles blowing, sweat pouring, girls roaring- these were the sounds of the field hockey team during another grueling practice in the late summer days. From early August through late November, the girls pumped up the volume and kept the beat of a champion pounding in their hearts. With thirteen returning varsity players, as well as captains Caitlin Moreira and Jeanette Dunnigan, the team moved to a new tempo. They marched down the field to beat one of its archrivals, West Islip 3-0. This game set the tone for another championship season. The team's coach, Mrs. K. Kauer, insured victory and stated that if her team played its hardest, it would be division champs once again. With that prediction the team set out to be the best and was determined not to let anything get in its way. The girls ended up beating East Islip, the first place team in its division, by a score of 2-1 and set out to achieve its goal of being the Division Champions.

The junior varsity team, coached by Ms. S. Gilardi, made some vast improvements throughout the season. Practicing long hard hours with the varsity team left a small margin for error. With each game, the J.V. team got better and better. Although they tied a lot of teams toward the end season, these girls continued to work their hardest and keep the beat very much alive. By the end of the season, the J.V. team proved it could fill the shoes of the graduating varsity players and march into stardom.

Boys' Volleyball

Symphony of Success

Echoes of voices rang through the Ralph Elliot Gymnasium from August, straight through the fall season. It was the Boys' Volleyball team hard at work. Its season started off as double sessions in the heat of the summer. They used this time to focus on brushing up their game and improving their skills. "The summer practices got the boys back into the right frame of mind for the upcoming season and prepared them for their competitive match schedule," said coach T. Preston. "It benefited the team greatly."

When out on the court, the boys waltzed through their plays, not as individuals, but as a team. "Though we were a young team, our optimism brought us through any challenge we came across," said senior Jay Hansen after the boys' first victory of the season against Central Islip.

Captains Daniel Staiger and Bradley Gibbs were dedicated to working hard with this great group of guys which aided them in their symphony of success. With two fearless, skillful leaders, the varsity and J.V. teams were inspired everyday during practice to strive for their goals and to push themselves beyond their limits.

Due to a lack of players, the boys' junior varsity team, coached by Mr. J. Sack, was unable to play on a competitive level. Instead, they practiced along side the varsity team to improve their skills. In doing this, the boys were able to work with experienced players and better themselves.

Cross-Country

A Runner's Beat

With fast paced movements and an immense amount of confidence, the girls' and boys' Cross-Country coaches, Mr. S. Borbet and Mr. J. McGlynn, anticipated that the season would be outstanding. "There was a great amount of enthusiasm and team spirit coming from the girls' and boys' teams," said Coach Borbet. The teams worked intensely to the best of their ability and dedicated time to tactical skills. They continually struggled to meet their goals and have fun at the same time. The girls' endurance and perseverance led them to be ranked seventh in the State and the top team in the League III county championships. They ended up being ranked number one in Suffolk County with six girls as All-County runners. With this devotion, the girls accomplished their goals and always worked hard to keep the rhythm.

The boys went the extra mile with their training too. Runners, like Keldon Walker and Billy Bettinelli, were determined to become division champions. The competition was difficult with teams like Walt Whitman, West Islip, and Northport, but the positive attitudes reflected by each team member made the end rewarding. The team's strength developed through hard work by running an average of eight miles per day. When both teams met the opposition from Walt Whitman at Sunken Meadow, they had an extraordinary win. The girls proved to be undefeatable with a score of 15-30, and the boys' team did its personal best, finishing out with a score of 36-20. Both the girls' and boys' teams exhibited the skills of superb athletes by running their personal best times and working to make this a memorable season for all. They continued making progress while keeping the beat alive with inspiration and encouragement.

Girls' Swimming Splashing into action

The swim team was on the go this past season. Shannon Daly, a junior, Brittany Daly, a freshman, and Ann Dolinar, an eighth grader, comprised the team, along with their supervisor Coach Mr. M. Porcelli. Coach Porcelli, a veteran in this sport back after six years hiatus, was happy and anxious to work with the girls and attend their meets. Shannon and Brittany practiced daily in Half Hollow Hills, while Ann worked out at the Y.M.C.A.. They worked hard training in the pool and lifting weights six days a week.

Coach Porcelli had high hopes for the girls, and he was never disappointed by their performances. Shannon Daly competed in the 100- yard breaststroke and the 50-yard freestyle. She won fifth place in the 50- yard freestyle in the State championship tournament last year, and first place in the 100-yard breaststroke. She hoped to duplicate her record this year and place even higher in the competitions. The whole team made it to the qualifying round and from there to the State championships. Shannon stated, "Swimming is great fun. I like that there are fewer practices than if we had a larger team and our own pool." The girls all enjoyed meeting athletes from other schools at the various competitions throughout the county and state. Brittany shared her sister's passion for the sport, as did Ann who was originally from the West Islip Swim Club.

All in all, they did rather well this season and, hopefully, will continue to do well in the future. With all of their hard work and perseverance, the girls were confident that they would surpass their expectations and have fun while doing it.

Girls' Golf Swinging Evermore

With the return of many of last year's players as well as the addition of bright new talent, the girls' golf team, led by Coach Mr. B. Mahler, was ready and able to compete for the top. Many of last season's top performers returned this season with high hopes and ambitions to repeat their previous success as County Champions. To fulfill such a goal would require hard work and perseverance from each of the athletes. "We are looking forward to the season, hoping we can repeat our success as County Champions," said Coach Mahler. The golfers practiced five days a week, switching between Gullhaven in Central Islip and a short three-hole course in Babylon, working to improve their swings and minimize their strokes. Players such as Amanda Arciero, Alison Serigano, Caitlyn Fogarty, and Katie Draycott showed great potential, and with their help, the possibility of another undefeated year was within the team's grasp.

With the wind in their face and hundreds of yards of space filled with bunkers and water hazards, the girls bravely faced their opponents. With teams like La Salle, East Islip, Bayport, North Babylon, Deer Park and Sayville running for the title of County Champions, the girls would have their work cut out for them, but with the potential ability of each girl on the team, the odds were stacked in their favor.

Crew Changing Tides

Many students tried out for the crew team, headed by Mr. B. Blackman, and only the strongest survived. The team had to endure vigorous try-outs. The activities included: swimming ten laps in a pool, fully clothed and also treading water for ten minutes. The second phase of testing required even more effort. The players had to run up to the third floor of the school and back down to the first level for seven minutes. The test was used to measure the student's physical and mental stamina.

Everyday after school they would practice at Dowling College in Oakdale to prepare for the future regattas, holding practices six days a week. Captains of both crew teams, Matt Lerstad and Billy Knapp, led the thirty-three athletes into their first regatta placing first in five of the six races. After winning their first race they stated, "We're gonna take all the competitions with everything we have and take number one." Matt and Billy finished their third year of dedication with Coach Blackman helping the team complete another great season. This year the crew team gave their all and proved that all their hard work paid off.

Girls' Volleyball Beating the Odds

Concluding another exciting season, the girls' volleyball teams bumped, set, and spiked their way through the competition. They were driven to succeed by the goals they had set. With the help of Coach Ms. S. DeBonis, the team wanted to make the playoffs and beat their record from last season. "It's nice to see what I've taught them happening in the matches," said Coach DeBonis. "I always tell them that on any given day they can beat a top team if they want to."

Both the junior varsity and varsity teams started toward that goal with a victory against Central Islip. But working hard and winning was only a part of what made the varsity team strive for greatness. "We work well as a team," stated senior Amanda Amodio. "We get along great, which is an important characteristic of making the season a successful one."

The junior varsity team was looking at their season as a stepping stone towards making an impact in the years to come. Coach Mr. J. Bayer helped the young team to improve their individual skills and how to work together as a team. Both teams had a talented group and learned the importance of individual and team effort.

Boys' Lacrosse Fast and Furious

"We're young but we should do good this year, we should be in the playoffs," stated senior Pat Kunnmann. This year's team was composed primarily of sophomores and fresh young recruits who were ready to set new standards for the season and in the years to come. From the day practice started, head coach Mr. T. Cox drilled them on what it took to make a winning team. "Speed, it's all about running and they have to be physically tough because its a demanding game." Mr. Cox has been involved in this sport since 1985 and the team certainly has benefited from his experience and coaching abilities. This was evident in a game against Middle Country that garnered them a 12-5 victory. Not content to rest on their laurels, the players could be seen every day on the field, preparing for the rigors of the game and future opponents.

The JV-9 team was just as skilled, practicing relentlessly and working on the skills to prepare them for varsity status. They had picked up all the fundamentals as well as playing with a style that was exciting to watch. It will be interesting to see what accolades the lacrosse teams can bring to Bay Shore in the years to come.

Girls' Lacrosse Chicks With Sticks

Starting their season with a mandatory seven minute and thirty second mile the girls' lacrosse teams were set to defend their Long Island Champion title from 2000. Led by Varsity and J.V. coaches Mr. J. and Mrs. A. Pfeffer along with Ms. K. Greene, these girls took the bull by the horns and dedicated themselves to greatness. By being focused during a hard two hour practice everyday, the goals the players set out to accomplish were obtained.

The success of these girls was attributed to their hard work and continuous effort to better themselves both on and off the field. After school extra help was a must everyday. From two to two thirty, any member of the team could be found brushing up on classroom lessons or finishing up her homework. "Not only does extra help keep our grades up, it also allows us to complete our homework before practice- making it easier to relax at night," stated senior Jeanette Dunnigan.

With seven returning seniors, these players were able to achieve anything they put their minds to. Any hopes and aspirations they had were made possible. Throughout their season, these girls proved that hard work does, in fact, pay off.

Sliding Home

The Marauder Baseball team started its season with one goal in mind- to win the League and County titles. Coming off a great season last year, the teams' coaches, Mr. A. DiOrio and Mr. M. Pasca, as well as seven seniors including captains Rich Yanatos and Dave DeSario, led the team into a new and hopeful season. With eight returning starters, the eleven prospective players fought for the eight remaining varsity spots. After the tryouts concluded, the sixteen player team set the tone for the season that lay ahead. Although the start of the season was plagued with bad weather, the team continued to give it its all. Despite practicing and playing the first few games in the frigid weather, the team fought on. The season started off with a three game series against the tough Commack Cougars. In the season opener many predicted that the Marauders would be slaughtered, but ready to take on the challenge, they surprised many critics and proved what Bay Shore baseball was all about. They fought hard and never gave up in a disappointing 2-1 defeat.

The J.V. team coached by Mr D. McMannaway stated that there were a lot of young prospects coming up from the Middle School. He was very surprised how the young players were responding to his coaching strategies. He predicted a winning season for the young and upcoming varsity players. This season proved to be very successful for both Varsity and J.V. teams.

Spring Track Keep the Pace

The girls' and boys' track teams kept up the pace as they continuously broke records while setting new ones and making history at the same time. Both teams have competed in All-County and All-State competitions for over thirty years.

Under the coaching of Mr. S. Borbet and Assistant Coach Ms. N. Vickers, the girls have accomplished a great deal. Despite the chilly weather, their first meet was still a success. Lashing through the cold winds that swirled on the outside of the track and pushing all the way to finish line, the 4x1 team, consisting of Nikki Jackson, Latrice Ewing, Lateisha Ellerbe, and Pecious Moore, ran with grace and power to finish first in their heat. Ebony Jones also ran a great race and placed second in the 200 meter race. She placed fifth in the 400 intermediate hurdles. The 4x8 team, consisting of Shayna Staton, Kellie Castro, Christine Williams, and Katie Malpigli, also won first place.

The boys also had a fantastic year. They qualified for Winter County Championships and took second place in League Championships. Senior Keldon Walker and junior Edmund Palermo qualified for Nationals. Keldon stated, "It feels pretty good to qualify for such a grand event!" Ed said, "I'm proud to be apart of such a great team!" Coaches Mr. J. Degnan and Mr. R. McGlynn stated, "This has been an awesome year! The guys worked hard all year round; they deserved nothing but the best!" Softball Batter Up!

What a great season it was for the softball teams! Coached by Mr. J. McGowan and Mrs. J. Hulse, the girls did a terrific job this season. The girls gave it their all. They worked a great deal towards keeping their reputation of being the best. Practicing in the early morning and after school at Fifth Avenue School helped them to build up their strength and the confidence they needed in order to stay on top. The girls worked to the best of their ability during the practices and benefitted greatly. Coach McGowan was able to see where each girl belonged out on the field based to their abilities shown in try-outs. Everyone contributed to the team in their own way.

The girls were anxious to start a new season so that they could show off their skills. Many girls tried out but, wanting to keep the team's award winning record, only few made it. The team worked hard out on the field and academically. As in most after school activities, each player was required to maintain a high grade point average in order to stay on the team. Teams in later years will have a lot to work for to keep up with the winning record of multiple State Championships.

Boys' Tennis Swinging To Success

After school each day, the boys' tennis teams were seen pushing themselves harder than ever before. The boys were required to stretch, run the perimeter of the school and concentrate on their individual performance with drills. Coaches J. Carney and Mr. Kouate concentrated on developing better teams for this year's season. With the graduation of many seniors last year, the tennis teams lost many valuable players. However, the boys that moved up have made up for the loss. Last year, All-League winners, Peter Titus, a junior who also received All County, and senior Rob Romanzi shared their knowledge and helped the team to prosper. "Our goal was to develop and groom the younger players for the next year or so," said Coach Carney. "We have a young team."

The team was joined by middle school students Trevor Romanzi, Brian Leddy, Nabeel Ashfaq, Mike Killen and Will Arbeiter, who along with the other players proved themselves to make up a great team. Sophomore Evan Hess, proudly exclaimed, "Bay Shore is the best!"

Winter Track

Racing With Gusto

Battling raging winds, dropping temperatures, and opponents that would not give up, the boys' and girls' winter track teams ran with a fire under their feet and the song of winning in their hearts. "It is hard to train outside, but it helps us with the way we run," said Keldon Walker, co-captain of the boys' team. For practices, they ran outdoors, but their meets were indoors giving them the advantage. Practicing in such harsh weather made them tough enough to race in any type of environment.

In the beginning of the season the teams were predicted to win the county championship. With the return of many runners from last year, the stage was set for another season of wins for Bay Shore. Living up to the expectations of the year, the teams had their first meet on the ninth of December where, not only did they do well in the standings, but the judges of the meet also said that Bay Shore had the best performance out of all of the leagues that competed. Excelling in the mid-distance races, consisting of the 400, 600, 800, and mile, the teams placed in the top five in most of the events.

For most of the athletes running was in their blood. It is what they loved to do. With their talents and goals they ran to win, and win they did.

“My Fair Lady”

“I could have danced all night,” proclaimed Eliza Doolittle played by Senior Katie Draycott in the spring musical production of “My Fair Lady”. The story of a common woman who eventually found love in the conservative and pompous Henry Higgins played by Ian Swank, class and the art of speech was the highlight of the theatrical year. With the memorable and crowd pleasing songs “A Little Bit of Luck” and “Get Me to the Church On Time” sung by James Moreira, the crowds were put into a frenzy of cheers and whistles. The play, directed by Mr. J. D’Antoni, was a huge success. “We put a lot of hard work into the show. All of us felt that it was a great accomplishment,” said senior violinist Michelle Capobianco, who performed in her fourteenth pit orchestra. Chorus member Jessica Frisina added, “All the hard work and dedication definitely paid off.”

The show would not have been complete without sets that could have matched the splendor of the story. That was the job of the crew. Advised by Mr. M. Bicknell a crew of eight were given the challenge. With the artistic ability of many hours of hard work put in by all, the sets took on a life all their own.

With the combination of great acting, wonderful sets, beautiful dancing choreographed by Mrs. S. Brenner, a pit orchestra directed by Mr. D. Persia, and the magnificent vocal teachings of Dr. C. Morrow, the 2001 production of “My Fair Lady” went down as one of the best shows to grace the stage at Bay Shore.

Sports Candid

Boys' Basketball Shoot For the Beat

For those who had the chance to watch the basketball teams dance on the courts, they were privy to some of the best games seen anywhere on the Island. Whether shooting on the three point line, making a drive to the net, or blocking an opponent's shot, they played their hardest everytime. They played tirelessly and always aimed to win. The fans played a part in their success as well, as they set a standard of unparalleled support. Often times they threatened to bring down the gym solely on clapping, stomping and cheering, ensuring that the opposition would think twice if it ever took the Marauders lightly.

Inspired by coach Mr. K. Parham, the Varsity team put a great deal of effort into every game. It was a close game against Brentwood right up to the end when the final score of 63-73 echoed the Marauder defeat. The loss, however, actually motivated and stoked the uncontrollable competitive fire burning in every player and the team came back more enthusiastic for the next game; turning in a good season for the year.

The JV team, coached by Mr. M. Carter, also chipped in, training and practicing hoping for success. "We have a good team," said freshman Chris Turner, a JV player. "Looks like we'll be going undefeated this year." All the schools who dared to challenge them were given a lesson on how to play the game. The Marauders lived up to all expectations as they played hard and left no man untested.

Girls' Basketball

Bouncing In Sync

The gymnasium was roaring with words of encouragement, hope, and success every afternoon when the girls' basketball players ran onto the courts for their practices. Each one of them was motivated to win and had songs of victory in their hearts.

Varsity coach Mrs. F. Schmidt looked forward to another exciting season in her second year of coaching the team. The team also looked forward to the 2001 season, especially with the assistance of All League player Makeeda Anderson and co-captains Tanya Fuchs and Sharee Dowdell. This year, the team had a new tempo from previous years. "There's a lot more team chemistry; we're more together than ever," said Tanya Fuchs. After losing their first game to Walt Whitman, the girls had an outstanding comeback against Lindenhurst.

The JV girls could be found in the small gym daily practicing late into the evening. All of the hard work and dedication from the teammates and Coach Ms. W. Smith paid off. In the beginning of the season the girls' had a record of two loses and four wins. "We've grown more as a family since the beginning of the season," said Jessica Matherson. Molly McNulty also added, "We work well together, and Coach Smith knows what she's doing." With assistance from captains, Tiyonna Hammond, Evelyn Trinidad and Nakeshia Hinnant, the team's goal was to work well as a team and improve for next season.

The girls all proved that practice, dedication and team work can lead to success.

Wrestling Pinning Beat

The wrestling season started off with a bang! The team wasted no time in preparing for the league season and quickly jumped into tournaments all around the east coast. With eight place finishers which include Sean Knapp and John Cummings, the varsity team placed fifth among the top-ranked teams in the State. Their impressive record set the tone for another great season. When the team went to Disney World to wrestle in the K.S.A. Duels, it placed first among the seven teams, annihilating the competition. The team began its league season with already having eight duel meets under their belts.

With ten returning varsity starters, this young team set out to accomplish something that hadn't been done in fifteen years- to win the League II championship two years in a row.

The JV and JV2 teams, coached by Mr. J. Leggio and Mr. P. Fusco had a great season, wrestling hard and keeping the beat alive while the varsity team was attending competitions around the country. The two teams continued practicing and strived to better themselves individually as well as a team. The varsity coach, Mr. M. Porcelli described the teams as "A great group of guys who can do it all."

Bowling

A Striking Ensemble

With the commencement of the season, the bowling team jumped off to a good start, tying last season's record for wins merely midway through the season. While they lost two seniors last year to graduation, the remaining seniors stepped up and proved their leadership to the rest of the team. "Co-Captains Peter and Kimberly Russell have done an amazing job leading this team on the right track," said team member Adam Shave.

With their team motto, "Fill the Frames," the team went out this year and defeated teams that crushed them last year. The team's younger members from the middle school proved that age does not matter by quickly becoming the driving force that set the team's momentum into high gear. Nathaniel Clench, a seventh grader, proved very worthy to the team maintaining a 200 average throughout the season. However, the bowling team's success will not end this year, for they were a young team, primarily composed of sophomores with only a few eleventh and twelfth graders, and potential lies within their youth. This was a year of reconstruction for the bowling team, but spirits are high in anticipation of the years to come and the success that lie ahead for them.

Roller Hockey Slapshots

For several years, the members of the Roller Hockey team tried their hardest to form into a competitive sport. Finally, two years ago, the kids who now make up the team were successful. They recreated hockey at Bay Shore. Coached by Mr. W. Eggert and led by seniors Tanya Fuchs, Adam Valazquez, and Bo Panchal, this young team of ten had aspirations not only to achieve their goals, but also to score hat tricks. Their optimism during the season allowed them their most desired goal- to have a great time playing. With the wind in their faces and the slapping sticks on the floor creating a rhythmic beat, they learned to waltz over their opponents and rise to victory. "Our success comes from the hard work me and my team put into our practicing. That allowed us to unify and reach to our maximum potential," said Adam Valazquez.

The J.V. team, coached by Mr. Bassett, also played on a competitive level. The team was composed of ninth and tenth grade students who were looking to one day join the varsity team. The two teams practiced at Sacramento State Park, as well as the Sports Arena in Smithtown. Their game schedule was gruelling for the players with some games running as late as midnight and sometimes on school nights. But the dedication from the players proved that the game times weren't important. Throughout the season, the team dazzled Bay Shore with its grace and success.

Academics

The responsibility for keeping the students singing on key and reaching new crescendos fell to the teachers, administrators, coaches, secretaries, paraprofessionals, aides, and monitors. All of these staff members worked in unison to support, guide, educate, and nurture the students as they spent four of the most important years of their lives in high school. Maintaining standards and helping reluctant learners, these professionals sought new and innovative ways of reaching higher levels of excellence. Students wrote more journal entries, participated in poetry slams, constructed a robot, entered science competitions, solved murder mysteries, and even built wooden trucks.

One of the satisfactions of being an educator and involved in the educational process is watching as students achieve more and move ever forward. Working in unison, the staff served the student community by motivating, caring, and nurturing. Many befriended the students with whom they worked and tried to counsel them as they struggled through adolescence and making decisions that would affect the future lives. Special teacher-student bonds were formed and will remain as indelible imprints on the minds of the students.

Maestros of the beat

Teachers offered extra-help sessions after school and on Saturdays to assist students to meet the new requirements of Regents exams. Teachers and students worked together to plan and conduct another successful Ethnic Pen Conference and the seventh annual Summit. They planned college fairs, attended sporting events together, and took trips to see Broadway shows. Some even traveled to France and Italy with their teachers to broaden their understanding of foreign languages and cultures.

The teachers and staff worked side-by-side with the students as they achieved higher S.A.T. scores and became National Merit Scholarship finalists. All shared in the pride of their students' successes.

For many students, they have come to enjoy their classes and their special relationships with their teachers. Many will come back to visit often, and many will stay in touch through the e-mail. As the seniors said goodbye to many of the teaching legends at Bay Shore High School, they knew that a part of them would remain with them for years to come. Their songs will play forever in their hearts.

Art Club

The Art Club was never more popular than this year as student turnout was high to flock to a place where they could work on personal projects, beautified the school, or just spent time with friends while enhancing artistic prowess. Although first impressions labeled it a local hangout, it managed to teach those looking to major in Art in the future or students working to keep their grades up.

All this took place under the watchful eye of Mr. J. Scinto who enjoyed getting to know the students and helping them with any problems or questions that they might have had. "Art Club is a place where we try to complete projects, both personal and professional, for the sake of the school," he said. His second in command was Art Club president, senior Jessica DiPietro. She proved throughout the year that she was dedicated to making sure artists in the school got the credit and respect they deserved. "It's time people took Art Club more seriously," she said. "Now we're more organized and people can expect to see our work throughout the year, we're going to leave a lasting impression in this school." She did just that as the club gathered club members and students from other art classes together to contribute to such events as the Junior Prom and the annual Summit. Indeed, the Art Club was destined to leave a lasting impression for years to come.

Ms. Kauer Retires

For thirty years, Ms. K. Kauer served Bay Shore High School as a gym teacher as well as the Girls' Varsity Field Hockey coach. Ms. Kauer had the opportunity to reach out to teen athletes year after year. She gave her students the skills of playing sports, being competitive, and learning how to apply lessons involving teamwork, dedication and cooperation to their everyday lives.

After achieving countless accomplishments, Ms. Kauer walked out of Bay Shore knowing that the lives she had touched over the years benefitted greatly from her dedication to her students. Her intense thirty year career reflected a plethora of memories of championship games and great players that will remain with her for the rest of her life. She will never forget memories, such as the Class A Championship of 1992 where an overtime game took two days and 136 corner shots for Bay Shore to rise above its opponent and become victorious. Her contributions to our district were numerous and will be remembered in her motto: "Both on and off the field, give one hundred percent and play to the whistle."

Some of her time after retiring will be spent trying to help others do community service and volunteer work. Ms. Kauer will also be brushing up on her tennis and learning how to improve her golf stroke.

Mrs. Sause Retires

With over three decades of teaching under her belt, Mrs. J. Sause could fill an impressive resume of classes and experience. Her career started in 1967 when she began teaching English at Bay Shore Middle School. In doing so, she began an amazing and memorable career in the educational field. Her career was interrupted for a few years when she took time to start her family. When she returned, she taught a variety of classes over the years ranging from Creative Writing to ninth grade honors English. One year, she even taught math. Mrs. Sause never once regretted her choice of career. "I had always wanted to be a teacher, and I was never prouder than I was the day I became one," she said.

Mrs. Sause is going to miss the High School that she came to know and love. "I will miss sharing funny, frustrating, and friendly moments with my friends and colleagues, as well as the excitement of introducing new ideas to my students and watching their growth," she stated. After retiring, Mrs. Sause plans to engulf herself in several different activities, such as pursuing a career in vocal music, traveling, and gardening. Her students will remember her as a person of honesty and integrity who tried to foster excellence in each person who entered her classroom.

Guidance

Along with the new school year came many changes in the Guidance Department. With a new chairperson, Mrs A. Stabler, and four new counselors, Mr. E. Fallon, Mr. A. Utrecht, Mrs. M. Cardone and Mrs. N. Milkowski, they all worked hard together to achieve the department's three goals.

This year, the Guidance Department wanted to make students aware of the link between success in the high school and college. They also wanted to increase the number of seniors who applied for college and helped them to receive numerous scholarships and student loans. They kept seniors informed of any type of financial aid that became available to them and college programs that met their interests and future careers. Their concentration wasn't primarily on the graduating class. The counselors also held meetings with all grades to help them better prepare for college. They held assemblies to help the upperclassmen become more aware of certain programs, like the Student Registry. In addition, the four new counselors wanted to get to know their students and form a better student-counselor relationship.

In her new position, Mrs. Stabler's goal for the year was simple; she wanted to create a connection of services with the Middle School and make the Guidance Department a part of the academic community. With this in mind she and the other three veteran guidance counselors, Mr L. Balsamo, Mrs K. Bonnici, and Mrs C. Francis, worked hard to achieve their goals and helped guide the new counselors to great careers at the high school.

Writing Their Song

The Poetry Slam and Senior Moments play was a great success. Students worked hard to prepare for each thrilling event. The Senior Moments role players, Arendse Paige, Nikki Jackson, Justine LaMantia, Jeffrey Hudson, Matt Phillips, Jessica DiPietro and Elizabeth Suda, were carefully selected after submitting their "Senior Moments" essay. The essay topic asked what their most memorable moment was in their school career. The essays discussed such topics as fear, realization, overcoming obstacles and growing up. The group rehearsed several hours with director Jason Jacobs. He helped each individual student by giving them ideas on how to make their writing come to life. The seniors involved in the role playing composed their own scripts and performed the real life situations that were most memorable to them. The younger members of the audience found that they were able to relate the performance to their own life experiences and stressful situations throughout their teenage years.

The Poetry Slam was another huge success. Students were compelled to share their written works with other student poetry lovers in the Little Theater. The poems were diverse and covered topics such as love, romanticism, and comedy. As the poems were being read, student musicians Jay Hansen and Vasilis Xikis shared their own expressions through their guitar playing. Teachers also contributed, and read enlightening as well as funny poems. They also read some of their students' creative poetry. The audience listened attentively to each person who read. Both of these events enabled students to express their thoughts and experiences through writing.

Advanced Research

As the Advanced Research program continued for the second year, it took off with a blast. The program offers opportunity to engage in scientific research. Conducted by Dr. R. Occhiogrosso, this 300 level honor class was made an option to all that wanted to further their studies in the subject of science. The team of sixteen was composed of students from all different grades. For those who couldn't fit it into their regular schedule, there was an extra period of the class offered after school. Many of the members prepared science projects to be entered in several fairs that took place throughout the year. They attended competitions like the Science Olympiads and Long Island Science Congress. Their special events for the year included a guest speaker who discussed the advancement in technology of the new MRI lab at Stonybrook.

Even as the school year ended, the participating students chose to continue their studies in the Advanced Research program. During the summer, the students performed various experiments to earn credits from State University of New York at Stonybrook and Albany. SUNY Stonybrook also gave the Bay Shore students access to their library for information.

The work in the summer was a lot more challenging. "This class was harder than expected but in the end you learn to have fun and learn about things you never think you learned," stated Nickolas Sciacca. Dr. O knew his students' potential and anticipated that they would try to achieve higher goals. One of the projects that they took on was the S.T.S. Search. The competition awarded students with top projects a $100,000 scholarship to their future college. The top two students, seniors Kelly Gloor and C.J. Gineros, are the most competitive students involved with the program and aimed to win the top prize. These young composers of science put their time and knowledge into the fair, placing very high against competing schools.

Now And Then

Underclassmen

The underclassmen were prepared to upbeat their tempo this past year. Their transition into the school was a challenging one. They had to get ready for harder regents requirements in order to graduate. There were new standards set for them and more of an emphasis on possible careers and becoming involved. They faced accented pressures that weren't considered before, like looking at colleges and taking the PSAT's. They were given more responsibility, but more freedom as well. They faced their challenge ready to compose a symphony for the future.

College became a stronger issue than it had been in the past for the underclassmen. There was more of an accent on career planning and standardized testing. They began to take classes that pertained to their interests rather than the basic subject classes .

Make Their Own Music

Classes that were required became double periods and went allegretto to prepare them for the obstacles they faced. Despite the allegro pace they applied to their academic lives, they were able to participate in the many extra-curricular activities that were offered. Several specialized events were also offered to the underclassmen. The Junior Prom was a great opportunity to enjoy a fun night of dancing and dining with the help of the Sophomore class. Freshmen movie night allowed the newest class in the building feel in tune and welcome at the high school. They became involved in Student Council, Homecoming, Drama and other activities.

This spirited group set the tone for the upcoming classes. They proved they could take on even the most difficult task. By working together and enjoying their time spent here, they will keep the beat going for the remainder of their high school years and moto into the future.

Fine Tempo

From the first day they returned from summer vacation, the juniors felt a sense that they would be moving at a faster and more animated tempo. As upperclassmen, they would be expected to set the tone for the underclassmen while working on their own graduation and college requirements. This was their most important year of their high school career. The juniors had to take the PSAT or ACT exams in preparation for college. The grades they earned would be the most important grades universities take into consideration on transcripts. The extra-curricular activities and sports they participated in would be looked at very closely on their applications. Colleges pick students who can make a difference and become involved in their campus, and members of the Junior Class rose to that challenge.

This was the time to set a new tempo with an allegro pace and quickening vivance, but the members of the class of 2002 showed that they could handle it. They enjoyed their Junior Prom, showed their spirit at Homecoming, and displayed their class rings with pride. The Juniors kept their spirit and involvement high and were able to keep up with rhythm of the beat and set the tone for their future.

Mastering the Beat

Bands of all different musical types found success in the Bay Shore community. Seniors Jay Hansen, Craig Dauernheim, Derick Martin, and Thomas Dintrone, all of their respective groups won the hearts of their peers by performing at sweet sixteens, coffee shops, Bar Mitzvahs and competitions. Without the support of the town's businesses housing these gigs and the fans who attended them, these bands would have had no chance to get into the public eye and make names for themselves. As a matter of fact, the bands gained so much popularity that two of the four bands have already completed their first CD's, and one of the four already climbed its way to the radio stations of Long Island! Bands such as Vicious Intentions, Walking Home, Project Seven and Half Past Tomorrow not only expressed themselves through their music but allowed their fans to as well. "Everyone loves to play and loves music," said lead vocalist, Derick Martin of Vicious Intentions. "It was just a matter of combining the two and having fun doing it." These bands made their own beat and hopefully their music will reach out beyond the borders of Bay Shore.

Dancing To

Greeted by palm trees along the long red carpet leading to the gym, the class of 2002 entered with the feeling of being "superstars." Featured by two spotlights the "Hollywood" sign created by the Art Club was the artistic highlight of the night. The walls were lined with life-sized Oscar awards. White icicle lights made the gym glow. Pictures were taken in front of backdrops of movie scenes.

The dance floor was never empty. Games and contests were led by the DJ which added a different twist to the normal prom. Dance music was played throughout the night providing an upbeat atmosphere for the students. The juniors danced the night away.

With help from advisor, Mr. A. Sullivan, the Juniors decided to take a different approach this year. Instead of having parents donate food, the Milk and Sugar Cafe and Sandellas restaurants were hired to cater the event. The wraps, sandwiches, and snacks were a classy touch to the evening. Many thanks went out to the sophomores who served the food. Awards were presented to students for best dressed, cutest couple, best dancer and best hair. The juniors stood in anticipation hoping that the student judges nominated them for these awards. The night, full of fun and stardom was definitely one to remember!

Embarrassing Moments

Every student has had to live through an embarrassing moment at least once in his lifetime. Whether it was getting up in front of a class and having his voice crack in the middle of a word or realizing that he had forgotten to zip his pants when getting dressed, males, as well as females, have been mortified at one time or another. While some of the responses to our survey were very humorous, they couldn't be printed in the yearbook because that only would add to the person's embarrassment.

According to James Moreira, his most embarrassing moment came while taking some books from his locker. He bent down to get something from the bottom of the locker and ripped his pants along the seam of the seat. He had to wear a jacket tied around his waist for the rest of the day. Ebony Jones said that while she was at cheerleading practice, she was moving to her spot in the routine and stepped on Heather Haag's sneaker lace. The two of them tripped and ended up falling while hysterically laughing. Diana Angel said that her most embarrassing moment happened as she was jumping into the family swimming pool on a hot summer day. As she was leaping into the pool with her family watching her, her bathing suit top fell off.

These embarrassing moments are funny now, but they didn't seem that way at the time they occurred.

Popular Beats

Music was a major part of students' lives throughout the day at school. It accompanied them on school trips, as they jogged around the track, or even as make-up was being applied for a show. Tastes in music varied from student to student with many favorite groups making the scene. Among some of the more popular performers enjoyed by students were: Eminem, Limp Bizkit, N'sync and Mary J. Blige. Styles varied from one extreme to another. Some underclassmen liked rap and alternative music while others preferred punk and pop. New on the scene and rising in popularity were the unique styles of "emo," "ska," and "hardcore." CD sales continued to skyrocket as music filled everyone's lives and there was a soloist for every personality. Ricky Martin, Enrique Inglesia, and Christina Aguilera were among some of the popular soloists with hit songs like "Come on Over Baby," "Oops...", and "She Bangs." With the creation of Napster on the internet, music became readily accessible to students, allowing them to download their favorite songs and burn them onto CD's making their own mixes. Music will continue to play an important role in the lives of students.

A NEW BEAT

The freshmen who entered the building in September had to learn to march to a new beat. After leaving behind Middle School rules and regulations, they had to learn to follow the tempo and keep in step with the High School. They were faced with new challenges and obstacles, and their success or failure became their own responsibility. They had to set new goals for themselves and focus on achieving them. They had to develop the necessary interpersonal and work skills essential for success. They learned to exercise self-control and show respect to their teachers and classmates to be accepted as young adults. The new requirements for graduation, consisting of having to pass five regents examinations, were carefully explained to every student. The freshmen took an active role in the sports and clubs and tried to keep up the beat. They quickly learned the value of dedication and hard work.

The energy and excitement created in Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture," especially in the climb towards the final Allegra, are indicative of the emotions created by my four years of high school, building to the finale of my senior year and graduation.

"If I could make days last forever. If words could make wishes come true. I'd save everyday like a treasure and then again I would spend them with you." - "Time in a bottle" by Jim Croce

"You don't need a weatherman to know which way the wind blows." - Bob Dylan
"Man is the artificer of his own happiness." - Henry David Thoreau

"Great spirits have always found violent opposition from mediocrities. The latter cannot understand it when a man does not thoughtlessly submit to hereditary prejudices but honestly and courageously uses his intelligence" - Albert Einstein

"This is the time to remember cause it will not last forever. These are the days to hold on to, cause we won't although we want to. This is the time, the time is gonna change." - Billy Joel

To Our Dear Son Kenny,

You are a great and wonderful miracle God has given us. And we love you with all our heart and soul and more than life itself. You have always been a joy and we are very proud of the young man you have become. We wish you all the happiness and love and we know you will meet with success. God has given you many gifts!

Life's Mirror

There are loyal hearts, there are spirits brave,
There are souls that are pure and true;
Then give to the world the best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

Give love, and love to your life will flow,
A strength in your utmpst need;
Have faith and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your word and deed.

Give truth, and your gift will be paid in kind,
And honor will honor meet;
And a smile that is sweet will sucely find
A smile that is just as sweet.

Give sorrow and pity to those who mourn;
You will gather in flowers a gain
The scattered seeds of your thought outborne,
Though the sowing seemed in vain.

For life is the mirror of king and slave
'Tis just what we are and do;
Then give to the world then best you have,
And the best will come back to you.

— by Mary Ainge de Vere

Follow your dreams our dear Kenny!

Jade,

Wow! I can't believe you're not going to be in school next year. I'm going to miss you. I love all our memories, like when you taught me to stand on the table when we were young, our own "sister talk" and who could forget the "Twins from New York"? I know I won't. I'll make sure I don't turn off the hall light.

Theresa

For Our Jade,

Your life has already had so many challenges and you have risen above them with grace and a bit of attitude. We are confident that you will continue to shine throughout your life. You make us proud every day, our bright, shining jewel.

Mom, Dad, Theresa and Kristen

Dear Nellie,

Our Angel then and now. From a shy, pigtailed little girl, to a self assured woman skimming across the bay behind the wheel of your center console- the transformation has been a true delight!!

The world is a better place because your here-and such an active participant! We love you sweetheart, congratulations and now on to bigger and even better things for sure.

To our Beautiful daughter with her contagious laughter, twinkling eyes and warm loving heart. Congratulations Allison

What can we say? Other than cleaning your room, you have surpassed all expectations and you've only begun!! One thing that is certain, you are your own person and stand by your beliefs. Your stubbornness, strong will, and dedication, are great qualities that you have used wisely in pursuing your dreams.

As you go off to college I will miss our trips top the rock shows, the theatre, Pennsylvania, shopping excursions, and especially hugs. However, this is your time to reach for the stars as only you can. We will be there always with support and love. Our wishes for you are to have the happiness and love given to others become ten fold in your life!!!

Love always,
Mom, Dad, Michael, Matthew, Michelle, Kevin, Ryan, Alyssa, and Lauren

Dear Allison, Mary, Christine, Melissa, Allison C., And Keri:

It is difficult to summarize in a few lines all the joys and sorrows you have experienced together over the years. Highlights that come to mind are fun filled sleep overs, camping, Lake George, Charlie's "Driving" Angels, Sunday brunches, bead bracelets, rainy concerts, movies, endless trips to the mall, Great Adventure, Scouts, Stitches, numerous surgeries, and the sad loss of loved ones. I can't leave out "chat sessions" during math study groups, dances, school clubs, on-line chats, or more telephone conversations. All these events and more have tested your loyalty, love, and camaraderie toward one another.

May you always remain close in heart and know each of you holds a special place in one another's hearts. My wish for you all, are to find peace and contentment in whatever path you prosue. Follow your dreams and remember that each one of you are very special, unique, and loved. I will miss you.

Love,
Mrs. Z.

To our girls Danielle and Corine:

If we could, we would walk with you along all the paths of life. We were given the gift of raising you and now let you go into the world as strong young women. Stay the course. Be happy and prosper! God Bless.

We Love You Very Much,
Your Families

Jeanette,

Why does this seem to be one of the most difficult things you've ever asked me to do? I'm a mother that has to be harder! Or is it the fact that I'm trying to put closure to eighteen years of the most formative part of your life. Or the fact that thirty years from now, every once in a blue moon you'll pull out this year book and read it! Because this is your memories and experiences.

I thought I knew what I was doing by the time you surprised me, I already had your sister, Corinne. However, two different children are two different people. Corinne would amuse herself and play quietly while I did thing around the house. I didn't even have to put her in the playpen. Then I had Jeanette, I couldn't even take a shower without having a babysitter! Houdini, had nothing over you. Inquisitive with a mind of her own, there was no stopping her at any age once she put her mind to something. Your leadership qualities were born in you.

I wonder how your dad and I were so blessed to raise two beautiful, caring, loving and productive individuals. Our home was definitely anything but conventional. I certainly wasn't Donna Reed. I knew that when I caught you playing house one day when your sister was at school. You feed and dressed your baby, then told her to be good for grandma and you would give her a surprise. You kissed her goodbye and picked up your pocketbook and keys, and said you were going to work. Children learn what they live! You came with no instruction booklet, and even if you had, you would have changed it.

I could probably write a book, but I have to keep this short. I can't imagine home without you. Besides being best friends with your sister, and a loving daughter to both your parents, you're my baby. I thought I was looking forward to this moment and now I'm crying. Jeanette's hot line will not be ringing, I'll have no shoes or cleats to trip over when I come in the door, I'll have no hours notice (if I'm lucky) before I have to be somewhere. I wouldn't come home and have to overhear conversations of someone pleading with a friend to help them put their life in order, To drop her off, to shovel an old womens' sidewalk because she has no one to help her, to let a child sleep over because there are problems at home, To drive me crazy with ski trips, postal money orders, catalogs and such, Who just loves life and living it to the fullest.

Your entire family applauds you. You will be successful whichever roads you choose. Any one who has the pleasure of befriending you will never forget you. You are a leader, go out and conquer the world. Your sister will be losing her best friend, your dad and I will be missing a daughter, I will be losing my baby!! But worst than that I'm also losing one of my best friends. And I still have your cat!

Love,
Mommy, Daddy, Corinne,
Patches, and Rebecca

Tanya,
May you reach your goals that you have set out for in

MR: I love making you crack up all the time, especially when you aren't expecting it. JC: Tunia-fish, Did I take a pic w/ the Doublemint twins? Was I just talking about my grandpa? Dreaming of being on the raft. Definitely can't put us 2 in the same room. AC, KS: Tanya wants a woo woo. AS: GAS! BSFH: The bird means that we can go home! KK: I wish I played earlier and I can't believe that you were able to put up w/ me for 2 seasons. JG, PS: You 2 just crack me up, go to the beach! PW: I want to go to another race maybe you can finish this time. JD: We will always be sister in-laws. BSLax: NO MERCY! 4 years of consistent memories, there is just so much to say, beating Smithtown, winning the counties/regionals. THE CHANT! I'm so proud of what we all have accomplished TOGETHER for these 4 years! Pfefs: Thanks for all that you have done for me, I know I wouldn't have been able to do it without you 2. FNG, BR: Where the Skoal Party at? PP: If it wasn't for you my life would be totally different. You hooked it up with you know who. Thanks for everything that you have taught me! BE: It must have been some experience having the lone girl on your team. You have made a great impact in my life and I will always remember when I had some board trouble! BS-Bball: We will do it this year! FS: having you as a coach for 2 years was a lot of fun, you definitely have brought the team up to a new standard. RW, E-Rock: 'lets go to Tanya's she has good food' I love you guys, who peed their pants anyways? To All Not Mentioned: I love each and every one of you. You are all a great part of my life and I will never forget any of you. I know you all will definitely miss me! GOOD LUCK CLASS OF 2001!

Colophon and Closing

The staff of the seventy-eighth volume of the Bay Shore MARAUDER worked to prove that the school community kept the beat going despite new challenges and changes. As you turn the pages of this book, you can almost hear the music that was constantly being made as the educational process continues and strives toward new levels of excellence. This book was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Texas under the supervision of Mr. Neil Sanders. Quaser Life-Touch Studios was responsible for the formal photographs. The yearbook was produced by the Creative Writing for Publication and the Graphic Design and Layout classes taught by Mr. D'Antoni and Ms. Pesco.

The cover was made from silver linen leatherette with maroon silk-screened and silver lettering. Four hundred copies of the 200-page book which included two four-color signatures on #80 glossy stock were printed. A student supplement will be added to complete the book and include the closing activities of the 2000-2001 school year. The standard type face used throughout the book was Memento and all text and layouts were submitted on computer disks utilizing Taylor's Ultravision software.
