URING a time when this great country of ours is engaged in a struggle for survival, we, the students of today, hopefully prepare for a better, more peaceful future. We feel that our learning is our ammunition with which we may guard and preserve ourselves, our inherent rights, our institutions of learning, and our country. The value of our services lies in the use we make of our many opportunities. May the contents of this book, therefore, reveal to you how well equipped we are to pass the ammunition.

Mrs. Ruth Kellum

Our senior English teacher has taken an active part in the numerous activities of school life since entering Bay Shore High School after her graduation from St. Lawrence University. Mrs. Kellum was the third, following Mr. Chester and Mr. La Platney, to come to Bay Shore from the "north country." In school she was on the staff of the school paper and was associate editor of her yearbook. Mrs. Kellum has the honor of being a member of the well-known Scholarship Society, Phi Beta Kappa. Debate was started in Bay Shore High by this popular member of the faculty. The school paper, "Maroon Echo" has been under her charge for four years. For the past two years she has been Faculty Advisor to the Junior Class and to the Phi Delta Sigmas. This year for the first time she aided six of our promising young orators in preparing for the annual Oratorical Contest. By those students who best know this "petite" member of the faculty, she is appreciated for her efforts in many school and extra-curricular activities, her anecdotes, and her sense of humor.

Miss Myrtle Simpson

Much credit is due our quiet art teacher for the constructive work which she has done in Bay Shore. Miss Simpson has studied art at Potsdam Normal, New York University, Syracuse University, New York State Teachers' College, and Berkshire School of Art. She has also studied painting under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Fremont Herring, a well-known Art Critic. Miss Simpson will receive her Bachelor of Science Degree from New York University this June. While studying at Potsdam, she was Art Editor of her school book, a member of the Micora Art Club and of the Sigma Pi Sigma, an honorary scholastic fraternity. The Poster Club was started in the Art Department at the old high school building by Miss Simpson. She also organized the backstage workers into a club which was started when this new building was opened and has been doing a great deal of invaluable work ever since. The school has been richer because of her unfailing efforts and faithful guidance.

Mrs. Ruth Kellum

Miss Myrtle Simpson

To

Mrs. Kellum and Miss Simpson, we, the graduates dedicate the 1943 Maroon and White, in sincere appreciation of their untiring efforts to help us make better use of our invaluable ammunition of learning.

"Hank"

Teacher of Mathematics

1925-1943

Basketball Coach

1925-1930

Baseball Coach

1925-1943

Raymond V. Chester

Sunday, March 21, will always be remembered with deep sorrow not only by the teachers and present students of Bay Shore High School but by the many alumni scattered far and wide. So much has been written about the passing of "Hank" that it is difficult to add to his praises. All that can be said is that he was the ideal example of the ideal teacher. Known by many, beloved by all, "Hank" was a haven for those in trouble, for he was not only an eager listener, but also a sympathetic one. He was idolized by small boys who dreamed of playing ball for him; he was idolized by the big boys who did play ball for him. As teacher, coach and friend we shall miss him profoundly. But a spirit such as his can never die. The memory of our "Hank" will always live on undimmed in our hearts.

Football

More boys learn how to "Swing into position" by football than by any other varsity sport played at Bay Shore High School. More boys can participate and these are trained to play and fight together as a team which is essential to victory both on the gridiron and in the Solomons.

As far as wins and losses are concerned Bay Shore did not have a successful season. The team won two and lost five. But after all the win and lost columns do not always tell the full story of the team or of the season.

This year's squad had to be formed almost entirely of new men. Coach La Platney lost (through graduation, athletic scholarships, and indirectly, the war) all of the first team's backs and most of the first string line. Fellows like Walter Erickson, who won the Mile's football trophy last season for the most valuable player in the Southern League; his brother, Joe; Young and Spivak could not be called on this year to plow through the opponents' line. Instead a new group, some never out before, stepped into their shoes.

The Maroons opened their season with Lindenhurst away and were set back 13-2. We would have been scoreless if Eddie Long had not gotten a safety against the Bulldogs.

On October 10 a stubborn Maroon eleven fell again, this time to Amityville's Scarlet and Gray. It was a tighter game than at Lindenhurst and it could be seen that the boys were not making the same mistakes they made previously although they were playing a stronger opponent. The final score on the new south field was 12-6 in favor of Amityville. The lone tally for Bay Shore was made by Biangardi, who plunged through the middle late in the fourth quarter. It was in this contest, midway in the second quarter, that Don Russell dislocated his elbow while trying to recover for the Maroons and was forced out for the rest of the season.

In the third contest, alas, Bay Shore had to bury its head in the sand. Yes, we did it. We lost to Babylon 13-0. For the first time in 16 seasons the Maroon bowed before the Orange and Black. This contest will long be remembered by George Greenhalgh for this was the day, October 17, that he, practing between the halves, dove into icy Argyle Lake to retrieve the pigskin booted there by an over-ambitious member of the second team.

At the Amityville game on October 24 Roger Young exhibited some of the passing that helped keep the scores close in all the games Bay Shore lost. We dropped this one 12-7. The Maroon tally was made on a pass from Young to DeStefani. Eddie Long converted for the extra point. The Maroon lost this contest by the clock and everyone saw they were playing a better brand of ball than they had been playing before.

The LaPlatney men pulled many surprises out of their helmets in 1942. For instance on October 31 they literally ran over Sayville in swamping their guest 32-0. Roger Young's passing; Biangardi's, Fisher's, Charles'. Milligan's and "Stewie" Erickson's running and Eddie Long's swell conversions, netted the victory and made up for the only defeat suffered by Bay Shore last season which was administered by the Purple and Gold.

Oh Joy! Oh Joy! The Maroons had begun to roll. The LaPlatney men inspired by their defeat over Sayville (and the nice victory parade that followed) made up for their first defeat of the season by trampling Lindenhurst's Bulldogs 25-7 on November 7. Bay Shore, featuring a rapid attack sparked by Young and Biangardi, kept the ball deep in Green and White territory. This was Freddy Biangardi's day. He accounted for three tallies and Charles received Roger Young's pass for the final goal. Eddie Long made one conversion.

On November 14 Bay Shore met its Waterloo in the form of the Red Raiders, who routed us on that cold, windy Saturday 22-0. The wind proved too strong an opponent to our passing and booting, so Patchogue walked the road to victory.

Much credit is due also to Hawrys, the first string left tackle; Spiess, the center; DeNardi, who switched from quarter-back to right guard in mid-season to strengthen the Maroon line; Card the right tackle and all the second team, who were always ready to jump into the scrap, because without their support Bay Shore would not have been able to finish its season.

Soccer

BOYS' Soccer, being an active sport, is a good conditioner. It helps make boys physically firm and in this way, aids in supplying the war effort with a steady flow of conditioned men.

This year the Maroon squad was light and the opponents were heavy. Most schools that play soccer as a varsity sport have no football teams and as a result, the heavy fellows are out for soccer. Although our team was not the best in the world, their spirit was always the highest. This accounts for the fact that all the games we played were close.

Bay Shore uses the English system in its offense, that is, the so-called inverted "W." This differs from the conventional kick and run offense used by many of the competing teams, inasmuch as the ball is passed around more by the forwards. The backs are used as a safety measure in this system. The center-half is the key position around which all the players revolve.

Only twenty fellows came out for soccer last fall. Since eleven men are needed on a team, no practice scrimmage could be properly held. This way the team had one strike against it before it got started.

In all the contests Bay Shore played, the worst defeat suffered, was before Bellport, losing by three points. Bellport had a very good team; it was heavy and fast. Losing this type game by such a small margin shows that the Maroons overcame their handicaps like champions.

We played Central Islip away and tied them one all in a good defensive contest. Captain Charles Lamano kept the team "plugging" towards victory throughout the contest.

Seventeen men and the manager received awards for good sportsmanship and hard playing. Edward Hughes received a triple chevron for four years of champion service. Charlie Abrams was awarded a double chevron, the equivalent of a three year letter. William Blair, Eddie Cavagnaro, George Day, Captain Charles Lamano, Ray Wilson and Robert Sonken received single chevrons for being out two years for the sport. The following boys won their letters: Archie Blair, George Gleason, John Healy, Vincent McCaffrey, Ted McLam, Jerry Margolin, Henry Silva, Willis Secor, Tommy Costello and Tommy Carolan, the manager.

WRESTLING

Bay Shore won four and dropped three meets this season. The team as a whole wrestled well. Tommy Carolan (103 pound), McCraffrey (120 pound) and Cavagnaro (138 pound class) did a neat job this season; they were never badly beaten. Two seniors, Eddie Dowling and Aldo De Nardi, (145 and 154 pounds) showed good ability and technique although this was their first season out for the sport. Willie Secor (112 pound) and Bob Speiss (145 pound class) were among those unlucky wrestlers who were in between the weight classes and were forced to wrestle overweight. They were very successful in overcoming these disadvantages, lost few matches and showed the qualities of good wrestlers throughout. Geney Costello (128 pound), who lost only one match to Mepham, and John Doddy (133), who was a very strong and aggressive wrestler, left school to join the Navy shortly after the season ended to put their full strength behind the bigger match to pin, the Axis.

The Maroon Quintet, which so resemble a quick-witted compact fighting unit of our armed forces, chalked up a fairly good season considering only two veterans, Ernie Card and Don Russell, returned when the boys started sharpening their sights. Late getting started in the 1942-43 season, which constituted seven victories and eleven defeats, the Maroons opened their schedule by bowing, on November 30, to Babylon 38-27 and again to the Bulldogs of Lindenhurst on December 4.

After overpowering the Scarlet and Grey by the score of 25-19, the Elliott-men conquered East Islip in a non-league contest in which Russell and DeStefani together tallied 20 points. On December 18, the fast moving Maroon squad swamped the Islip quintet 42-22 with DeStefani and co-captain Ernie Card setting the pace.

On December 22 and January 6, the Elliott-men fell on the short end of a 25-20 score before Babylon and a 29-27 score before the spirited Bulldogs from Lindenhurst. Bay Shore played host to Sayville on January 8 and was nosed out 31-27 in a thriller, which found Sayville pulling the game out of the fire in the final moments. Determined to reap victory from Babylon, on January 22, Bay Shore invaded Babylon, but again succumbed by a score of 34-27. Dropping the "jinx" which had followed them for four games, DeStefani and Lawrence led Bay Shore to victory over Amityville 31-22.

It was February 9, following a defeat to Lindenhurst of 31-23 on February 5, that the Maroons played championship ball, when spurred by DeStefani and Russell in the card-switching department, they overwhelmed Patchogue 40-35. Following this victory, Bay Shore dropped one to East Islip on February 11 to the tune of 32-21 and on February 19, led by Long and Biangardi, edged out Islip 24-23.

At Sayville on February 23, the Maroon dropped a contest 34-32 and bounced back into Babylon's clutches for another defeat in a slow moving game which ended 20-16. In Amityville, a speedy Maroon quintet battered Amityville to the tune of 49-15 after which they were battered in the last varsity game by the Red Raiders to the tune of 40-25.

The "Jayvees" had a great season, from which they emerged with fifteen triumphs against two setbacks. The following bucketeers of the squad received their letter: Card, Russell, Biangardi, Lawrence, DeStefani, Long, McLaughlin, Abrams, Fisher, Smatlak, and Silva. The boys were in there fighting in every battle and deserved their awards for good sportsmanship and a lot of spirit.

MODERN DANCING

Modern Dancing commences its second year at Bay Shore with a goodly number of participants...For the information of those who have but a scant knowledge of this intramural, it is actually a form of "Interpretive Dancing"...It is interpretive inasmuch as the girls work their exercises into self-incorporated dances...Any girls seen limping around the halls of B. S. H. S. are probably members of the Modern Dancing Group and merely recuperating from the first lessons in limbering exercises...Among the girls whose work warranted extra-credit are: Pauline Berka, Marion Chew, Lillian Greenberg, Janet Kirkup, Jacqueline Lane, Isabel McEwen, Joan Rogers, and Emma Silva.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Basketball once again holds the spotlight in winter intramurals...Winner of first place in the advanced group is the WAACS, captained by Regina Erickson...The Avengers are tops in the Intermediate Group...Regina Erickson is high scorer for the third consecutive year, with 73 points...Lena Steen, voted most outstanding referee, receives an award for gaining this distinction...Prudy Shlimbaum and Doris Paine receive honorable mention...April 9...Bay Shore plays host to Central Islip, East Islip, Islip, and Amityville in annual basketball playday...The Maroon and White was represented by Forwards: Lois Eckenrode, Regina Erickson, and Georgina Kavakos; Guards: Betty Ahearn, Betty Loudon, Anne Hicks, and Prudy Shlimbaum...Central Islip takes first place in the tournament by winning all four games...Bay Shore is a close second with three wins and one defeat...Incidentally, the only Bay Shore loss is to Central Islip, a one point margin deciding the affair...The playday ends one of the most successful seasons in recent years.

TRACK

The Maroons had a well balanced team this year. We had four milers of rank in the relays: Bob Tuomey, Kenny Springgs, William Erickson, and Charlie Abrams. Jay Fisher, Wilbur McLaurin, Aldo DeNardi, Eddie Cornelius, and Eddie Dowling made up a good 880 yard squad. In the quarter milers Joe Greenhalgh, William Altreuter, and Gene Krummel brought home many victories for Bay Shore in this event. Don Russell, Robert Sonken, Earl McLaughlin, Lorenzo Jackson, and Ralph DeStefani took the honors for the Maroons in the 220 and 100 yard dashes. Mesloh, Catalanotto, and Thouin handled the hurdles like veterans throughout the season. The strong men of the team, Hawrys, DeNardi, and Rose threw the shot to victory for Bay Shore High in several meets. Hawrys, Wells, and Thouin made up a whale of a discus squad for the Maroon and White this year. The high jump saw several good men from Bay Shore's halls. They were: Abrams, DeStefani, Frueh, Saxe, and Rose. In the broad jump, Abrams, McLaurin, Saxe, and DeNardi set the pace for the Maroons, and John Thomas, William Douglas, and Walter Bunge were Bay Shore's challenge in the pole vault.

So far Bay Shore has won all of its meets. We won the Suffolk Relays at Patchogue and the Amityville Meet 75-29.

BOYS' TENNIS

Mr. Sprague was the commander of the Maroon Tennis squad this year. The team was slightly weak, only four veterans returning from last year's championship team. They were Julius Augunas, Bruce Levenson, Larsh Mewhinney, and Edward Wicks, part of last year's doubles squad. Three new boys out for the first time, Bill Teator, Shaughnessy, and Garvick look as if they will make the grade and play in some matches next season.

The tennis schedule was very indefinite this year, since many schools dropped the sport from their varsity athletic schedules. Matches with Sayville, La Salle, Farmingdale, and Stony Brook were assured by May.

Transportation difficulties hit tennis very hard since a lot of our big events were with schools on the north shore and it was next to impossible to get transportation to and from there.

BOYS' This season the Maroon squad was a strong hitting team. The infield was made up of veterans: Ernie Card at first, Casey Reid at second, Roger Young at short, and "Stewie" Erickson in the hot corner. The veteran battery of Freddy Biangardi and Eddie Long were back to give Bay Shore an advantage over other schools in the League. Our outfielders had to be made from scratch. The Maroons looked for three good fielders and from the halls of "Ye Old Alma Mater" we found four first string fly-catchers. They were "Biscuit" Smatlak, "Chicken" Lawrence, Jack Rosel, and John Brown. Holiday and Souhrada were Bay Shore's insurance policy this year. These boys, up and coming infielders, were soon playing first string ball. Richard Tuttle was the Maroon substitute fielder. Ernie Card, besides being a good first baseman, was an excellent pitcher. In the East Islip game, Card came in in the fourth frame and allowed only one hit in four innings. Joe McDonough, the manager of the team this year, worked hard to keep everything in order and did a good job.

In memory of "Hank," their departed coach, the boys wore a black armband on their sleeves this season. Mr. Bittner is carrying on the traditions and records of the past teams in commemoration of Mr. Chester's efforts.

General Organization

GENERAL STAFF A Commando raid into one of our General Staff meetings would find the Staff, led by Larsh Mewhinney, Denyse Rogers, Lois Eckenrode, Jim Page, and competently counceled by Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. Moreland, hard at work. They don't usually look like convicts although in the picture they proudly wear their numbers. Those are not their years of service to Dear Old Bay Shore High—they're the numbers of the home rooms they represent.

Among the casualties of the war can be counted the G.O. show and the Three One Act Plays, both of which had to be skipped this year. The school, in other years, has considered these among its chief enjoyments and attractions which easily swell the bank account of our Staff. The absence of both the G.O. show and the One Act Plays was regretted by all because they can be considered the dramatic proving grounds of the school and the training center for many of our students who appear in later dramatics both for the school and for outside groups.

Other sources of income for the student treasury were conspicuous by their absence. At the basketball and football games which usually can be depended upon for a good attendance, receipts were smaller than ever before. Has the morale of our school fallen off? (The Staff had no means of policing the football field this year and so the assistant treasurer and his aides could be found during games passing the hat in hopes that the student body, which certainly would not try to duck the admission payment, would generously respond.) Nevertheless the General Staff carried on and despite its handicaps, proved itself victorious.

The General Organization sponsored the memorial plaque which reveres the memory of "Hank" Chester. This plaque will be a reminder to the student body of the irreparable loss of both a great teacher and a dear friend.

Though the work of the General Staff was curtailed this year by the war conditions it displayed the leadership ability of many of its members and gave them invaluable experience. The school leader of today shall be the statesman of tomorrow.

REGIONAL COMMANDERS

Our Regional Commanders deserve several distinguished service medals—but if they got them these zealously patriotic school leaders would probably turn them in during another big scrap drive. Nothing daunts our unsung heroes, no task is too hard. The U.S.O. Book Drive, a Herculean job in itself, was just another little task—and really a lot of fun—to the Junior Council and its members. Other jobs done by these Regional Commanders were done completely and well. But first we shall introduce the Generals at the head of this invincible group. During the first semester Warren Delemarre, Carol Spiess, Carolyn Cochrane, John Cochrane and Jerry Benstock met and vanquished all obstacles. Their positions were taken and continued by Archie Blair, Joe Anderson, Carmen Sanborn, Carolyn Keimel, and Eileen Tuthill in the second semester.

Miss Bennett, who each year councils the Regional Commanders, should be commended for the manner in which they worked for victory. The China Relief Campaign, which collected money for our needy allies, was very successful. The Red Cross Campaign went "over the top" with the efforts of the Junior High. The selling of War Stamps to buy a jeep was also a major victory for the Regional Commanders whose enthusiasm in selling stamps almost matched that of riding in the jeep that they had bought. Did we see Miss Wentzel and Mrs. Beck in the front seat?

We hope that the Regional Commanders of the Junior High School continue their good work and inject into the Senior High School a little of their high pressure tactics.

Publications

BUREAU OF INFORMATION With Virginia Day as commander-in-chief of the MAROON AND WHITE, the staff started work according to schedule, and the situation became well in hand.

Two-thirds of the subscription quota was sighted in the first campaign, no doubt given added impetus by the theme, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition." Well, the ammunition was passed in the form of literary and art assignments, and those in authority (Miss Franchi and the department editors) assumed eternal vigilance to see that they were executed properly.

Since so many alumni were in the armed forces, it was decided to devote a section of the book to them, and, after much trouble and extensive inquiries, a list of the boys was compiled, and the many plans finally were maneuvered into a definite pattern.

This difficulty was also encountered by Esta Soloway, editor, Mrs. Ruth Kellum, advisor, and the staff of the MAROON ECHO in publishing the eight-page Christmas issue, in which the inside pages featured a V of picture of Bay Shore Alumni and also a list of names. This issue, which required much work, received favorable comment from the National Scholastic Press Association, of which the MAROON ECHO is a member, and from which it received a first-class honor rating.

The exigencies of war brought about the first mimeographed paper to appear in the school, for the cry of "too little, too late," was the battle cry of the MAROON ECHO business department, in the matter of finance, except that there was no "too late," but only "too little." It was the desire to obtain sufficient money to publish a June issue, and therefore the papers were sold at the rate of five cents each, also contrary to tradition and custom.

The principal theatre of activity, the annual benefit basketball game, this year realized a very small sum for the paper, and was a contributing factor in the financial fall.

RECONNAISSANCE AGENTS Reconnaissance work, in the form of reporting, is the backbone and basis of each publication. It is these reporters, though each may play only a minor role, who, by their contributions, enable the book or newspaper to be published.

Unforgettable events are those such as the taking of the faculty pictures and the very undignified (for Seniors) disorder accompanying them. Ingenuity displayed itself in the erecting of satisfactory lights and shades in a corner of Miss Franchi's room which served as a studio. The expressions of our long-suffering but patient superior officers as they squinted and blinked into the lights remain indelible impressions on the minds of those who were witnesses.

And who will forget the last minute rush on the morning of the day on which the mimeographed Maroon Echoes were to come out? The typists turned out to be good stencil-savers—the front page stencil was rescued from the wastebasket and used to print more front pages!

As it can be seen, all sorts of things happened in the course of compiling this book and publishing the paper, but they were all taken in the right spirit; the students adjusted themselves to the war and trying conditions with the flexibility and willingness that will eventually win the war and attain the goal for which we are fighting.

At times Miss Franchi and Mrs. Kellum probably would have willingly joined forces in court-martialing their respective staffs, but these projects which record the school history offered great pleasure to all concerned, and in the future, when the parade of events that formed the Senior year pass in review in each one's memory, it will be a pleasant inspection, indeed.

The Lights Go On Again

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy." How true this old saying is, for not only do Jack Tar and G. I. Joe have shows to keep up their morale but so do the students and faculty of the good ship B.S. High School. How is it done? Well, take a look at the Senior Play. A brigade of footlightfanciers got together under the direction of Louise Minnis and did a bang-up job with "Out of the Frying Pan." This hilarious comedy kept the audience rolling in the aisles throughout the three acts, but how many more laughs the public would have gotten if they could have looked in at a few of those zany rehearsals. There was Chubby, the cat, who walked on and off the stage so much, he was finally added to the cast; Suzy, whose giggles kept everyone else in hysterics; Morgan, whose antics were the bane of Director Minnis' existence; and finally the director herself, who aged ten years in the ten days before opening night trying to get people to settle down and learn their parts (they finally did). Ah, but too soon it was all over but the shouting, and to keep the students amused, plays were given in assembly by various home rooms.

December rolled around with snow, holly and the ever lovely Choral Christmas festival. Fifty voices, under the baton of Dorothy Stiles, rose with ancient carols and chants. Audible sighs were heard at the sight of the tableau depicting the manger scene.

Speeches on patriotic themes were the order of the day at the American Legion Oratorical Contest in April. Eight "would-be Webster's" delivered their orations after weeks of voice straining practice. By the time this day rolled around, the contestants were eating, sleeping and dreaming these masterpieces. When the speeches were wrapped up and delivered and the faculty had voted,

What that Carmen Miranda impersonation did for morale in the Junior High Variety show should be recorded for posterity, wow! It was really something one sees at rare occasions. But no less can be said for the other lads and lassies who also gave their talent in the show to keep their buddies in high spirits.

And so there you have it, the parts played by the various groups in our good ship to add enjoyment to the work details of their shipmates. Some of these shipmates are leaving now, but they will always remember the good times at B. S. High School.

Camouflage and Propaganda

The activities of both the Poster Club and the Backstage Club have been seriously affected by the war in various ways and especially because of the shortages of materials and projects with which to work. The Poster Club, with its president, Regina Kabatnik, still cooperates with the various organizations whenever it is needed, making the original and attractive posters which help so much to make all school undertakings a success. Besides its regular activities, the club also makes posters for outside organizations.

The Backstage Club, under the able leadership of Charles Leach has also come up against difficulties, although the spirit within the club is untouched. Gone for the duration are the days and nights of building scenery, tacking, sizing, painting, planning—all those seemingly unimportant things without which school plays appear commonplace. However, the club managed to provide the excellent settings for the Senior play and the Christmas program, and also for the many assembly programs. Well-remembered is the day that, after a hard afternoon's work putting up an elaborate set for one of the class plays, someone decided that the scenery should be just a little bit more to the left, pushed a support, and toppled the whole works into the orchestra.

Lessons in stage makeup for the girls were conducted by Mr. Burns and put to good use. Because of the limitations on their usual activities, the idea of making miniature stages was considered, with the thought that experiments in this field would be of great help when we are back to normal again.

ROMANI HODIERNI

One can see Hannibal turning over in his grave right now as the American and British doughboys march where Carthage once stood—the present city of Tunis. But Hannibal should know that some of these boys are his greatest “fans.” They have reviewed in meetings of the Romani Hodierni the history of the ancient world and enjoyed their knowledge of Latin. With Miss Hall and Harry Mueller in command, the Romani Hodierni has had a very successful year, the climax of which was a Christmas meeting held at Mrs. Clarkson’s. There the Saturnalia of ancient Rome was depicted, followed by a social meeting during which several alumnae told of their college or business experiences. As time marches on others will come back to club meetings and recount their experiences in the service of our country.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

While listening to the radio during the winter one heard President Roosevelt give a stirring and history making speech to the French people in their native tongue. One then thought of how very helpful the knowledge of French would be to all the troops in the service of our country; for they shall have use of it not only in Africa, but also in France when they will free “la douce France.”

Le Cercle Francais has, at its meetings, learned a great deal about the culture of France. But the meetings of “Le Cercle” have not all been erudite. The Christmas meeting was one of laughter and French Carols. “Felicitations” go to the new members who presented so ably at their initiation the amusing “La Faim est un Grand Inventeur” illustrating the floundering of some bewildered American soldiers in a tavern in France. This reminds one of the French sailors from the Richelieu, now in New York. Their English has progressed as far as “Where is Times Square?”

PSI LAMBDA PHI

"You're in the Army now." Yes, this phrase may ring all too true for many of the boys in June. And maybe the whole frat will be drafted. If things work out as they are now, Robert Coen will be putting the boys on K. P. duty and Ralph DeStefani will see that things run smoothly.

The frat this year has changed its name. Feeling that they were not deriving any benefits from the national chapter of the Omega Gamma Delta, they became a local organization of the Psi Lambda Phi. But this didn't keep them from attending the national meeting on May first and those who attended are glad that they did. Maybe the change of name was for the better because they have quite a bit in their treasury and their basketball game with the faculty on March fourteenth netted quite a profit. Although the fraternity won the game, the faculty played pretty good ball and that one-handed shot of Mr. Gosier's is one of the high lights of the year. And still not being satisfied and being a social-minded bunch they planned another dance for May—and sure enough it was a success.

One indication of their willingness to cooperate was the joint meeting with the two sororities. The boys all wore coats and waved aside their right to the floor when a sorority sister wanted to voice her opinion. It was one of the nicest meetings held and the one that accomplished the most.

Although the gas rationing made it impossible for the boys to go sporting with their favorite girl in the jalopy, they could still walk. But when the draft came along and took their pal and faculty advisor, the boys thought they had better do something about that "crazy man."

So, all we can say is that when boys like those in the frat get in the fight—these boys so typical of the young men of America—Hitler had better watch out.

DELTA DELTA

Although the war has curtailed sorority activities, it has not blacked out the Delta Delta spirit. To prove this, something novel was given—a "Sadie Hawkins" dance—at which surprises and fun ran riot! This affair will long be remembered as one of the year's social highlights.

The girls did not forget the spirit of Christmas. The brimful holiday basket, given to a needy family, made the girls feel happy in the realization that they could spread a little cheer. All the members joined enthusiastically in the other activities, including Red Cross work and preparation for a delightful "get-together" for the Seniors on Class Day. Who knows what next year holds? Maybe, by then, each graduating member will be a WAVE or a SPAR! But true to Delta Delta tradition, the girls will still do all right!

PHI DELTA SIGMA

"Jeepers, I wish I could join the WAAC's." "You don't have to join to be a wack." Yes, these are the voices of the Phi Delta Sigma before the start of a meeting. Vitally interested in the war, the girls did some wishful thinking when they voiced their desire to be eighteen and eligible to wear those stunning over-seas caps.

Just to be different the Phi Delta's gave a good old-fashioned barn dance. With the hill-billy orchestra, everyone jigged to their hearts content. In May, they gave another dance and the gym was beautifully decorated with spring flowers.

Because of gas rationing the girls went "a pied" to meetings and were especially tired when they treked long ways. But even the war hasn't dimmed the enthusiasm and confidence of the Phi Deltas. They are still going to meetings, voicing their opinions, and being truly American girls.

THE SOPHOMORES

You can always tell a Sophomore just by looking at him. He's a shy little thing that does all the work assigned to him, as does the seaman of the navy—you know—mops the deck—takes orders—salutes all the officers above him but never gets anyone to do anything for him. Sophomores are the youngest of our crew in the senior wing, that is why. You will seldom find a sophomore in the brig—he wants to get off on a good start so that he can be an Admiral someday! He does all his homework and doesn't skip any classes—just think—suppose he got caught and received a demerit? It's a hard struggle that first year on his own. He has to work diligently so that he won't always have to take orders. Believe him—it's better to give orders than to take them.

Us

*We are the Sophomores—proud and bold,
We can lick any warriors—new or old.
We may be green, and we may be dumb,
But we'd make Hitler's men look silly,
by gum!
We'd strike from the east, and we'd strike
from the west,
Just give us the muskets, and we'll do the rest.
Yes, we could end this war in a minute
If only they'd let us Sophomores in it!*

"Poetic Tom."

Music for Victory

"Squads right!" There they go marching to the front—uniforms resplendent, weapons gleaming in the sun. "Halt!" Now, up come the weapons, higher, higher, and BOOM, CRASH! A roll of drums, a crash of cymbals, and the swelling tones of the "Star Spangled Banner" rumble out into the air!

Ah yes, the High School Band in all its glory! It's toe-tapping, spirited marches and twisting letter formations add so much to the color of the football season—or to patriotic town ceremonies for that matter. Way back in November, there was the Dedication of the Honor Roll ceremony in which the band took an active part. At the China Relief rally, there was the band again—but where was Mr. Goessling??? Then, on December 7, our band made another command performance, this time at a War Bond Rally held at the Bay Shore Theatre. (They also saw the picture free. It was "Once Upon a Honeymoon".)

Winter found these energetic music-makers sometimes on the bench at basketball games; sometimes at the station on cold Monday mornings, seeing, with their stirring music, our boys off to service.

While the band colorfully took care of affairs of state, the home guard—or orchestra and choruses—were busy with domestic problems. Way back in the fall, the orchestra enriched the Senior play performance with its music. Then, in the annual Christmas program, it raised its many voices, along with those of the choruses, in Christmas carols. Spring found the orchestra members rehearsing diligently for commencement exercises.

As for the choruses, this year there were three—a senior girls' chorus, a junior girls' chorus, and a junior boys' chorus. For them, the main event of the year was the Christmas program. It was then that the boys' chorus made its debut.

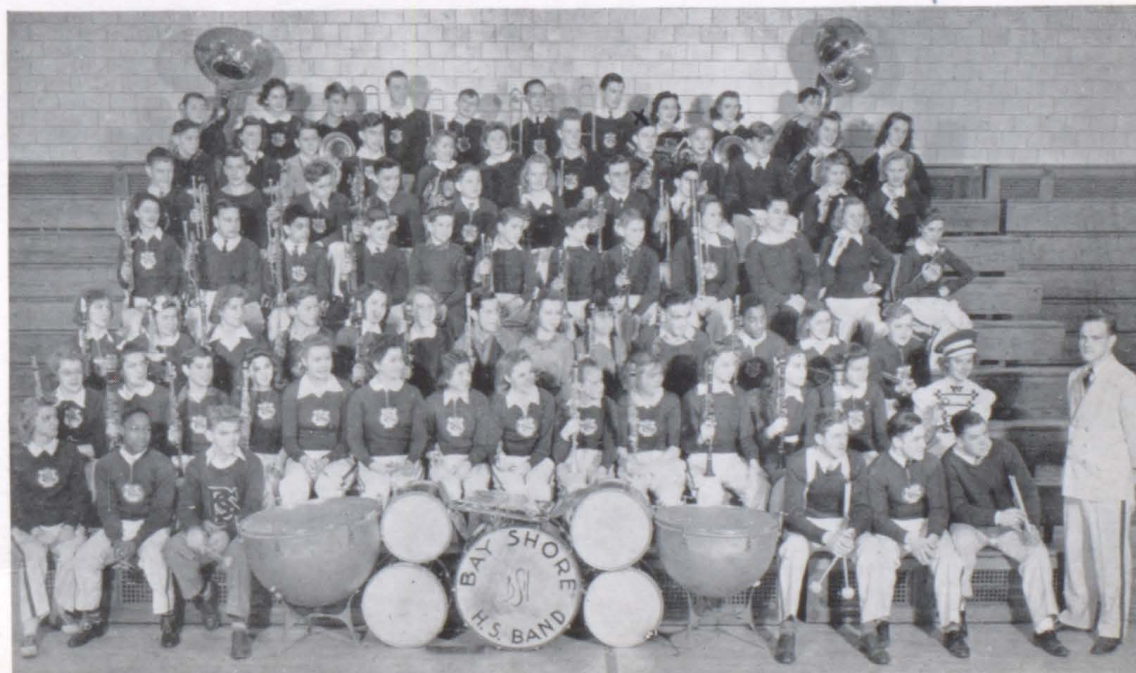

Hm—Mr. Goessling was a problem this year. His music department and his draft board engaged in a bitter struggle over possession of him. Even after Thanksgiving Eve, when Mrs. Goessling got him, neither his pupils nor his draft board gave up. Finally, in March, the draft board won the fight and Mr. Goessling left on military leave. The entire student body was sorry to see him go; but what could be done—war is war! Mr. Koch and Mr. Hoffman stepped in and finished out the season for him.

PARNASSUS CLUB

You can't tell a book by its cover—so the old saying goes. And in the same token, don't judge a club by its name. The PARNASSUS CLUB deals with books. Yes, certainly they do because they care for many of the books and help Miss McDuff at the desk. But they also function as library artists.

Do you know what General Giraud and Marshal Timoshenko look like? Right this way to the library where all the pictures of the leaders of the world today are displayed. Are you girls interested in the WAAC's and the WAVES? There's material at the desk. Do you boys want some material on flying? There's a display at the end of the room. Oh, there have been countless other displays in the library, thus making it more than a store room for books. And through these ingenious ideas and the hard work of Miss McDuff and the PARNASSUS CLUB, our library has become alive with news and interest.

ARTS GUILD

Log—September 1942-June 1943. A fair wind and the prospect of smooth sailing lay ahead of the good ship Arts Guild when it started its fall and winter cruise with Commander Jacqueline Ryan at the helm, Lieutenant Commander Betty Ahearn to take over in case of emergency, Midshipman Jeanne Massonneau handling the ship's log and Purser Ralph DeStefani keeping the ship's finances in order. The ship, manned by her gallant crew set sail with a spanking breeze filling the topsails.

Winter nights were long and dark aboard the Arts Guild so to while away the time, the crew members received books from the Book-of-the-Month Club.

Now it is June and it is making port. Changes will be made in the ship's officers and men, then S.S. Arts Guild will set sail again over the bounding main. Heave-Ho!

Task Forces

VICTORY CORPS The recently established Victory Corps is now the functioning center from which all aspects of the student's war effort are controlled. In March there was an enrollment and two hundred and fifty-two students became members. As their official insignia they wear an armband or cap with the "V" on it.

This corps encourages all pupils to choose some phase of the nation's war effort which he can best do. All the teachers of Social Studies are acting as heads of the Victory Corps with Miss Bennett as chairman of the Junior High and Mr. Clark of the Senior High. There are few students who do not in some way qualify for this corps. The qualifications are that a student must be participating in a school physical fitness program, must be studying courses of immediate and future usefulness to the war effort, and be participating in one war time activity.

The whole Victory Corps program fosters objectives pertaining to: guidance, war time citizenship, physical fitness, military drill, competence in Science and Mathematics, preinduction training for critical occupations and preflight training in aeronautics.

PRE-FLIGHT AVIATION This is a course designed to train all students in all phases of aviation. High school students between the ages of 16 and 19 attend classes for two periods, ninety minutes, of the regular school day. This course is especially helpful to boys who are expecting to join the Air Corps but several girls have also been enrolled. This group now has three planes with which to work.

Sponsored by the State Education Department, these courses have been designated to certain schools only. Bay Shore received one of these grants of $1,700 to carry out this course. The class is divided into five sections: radio technique, two airplane motor groups, airplane structural work and wing fabrication. These courses not only prepare the student for Air Corps training but also for work in defense plants. Alfred T. Ploeser teaches theory and the shop work, which includes tearing down and rebuilding motors and radios and assembling planes is done under the supervision of shop instructors employed at the aviation school. Students in the radio class make sending sets and transmit messages in the classroom. They are taught Army Code on a victrola and learn to take sixteen words a minute. The Civil Aeronautics Administration gives the students tests at the end of the course and if they pass they receive C. A. A. ground school certificates.

CANTEEN Also under the scope of the Victory Corps comes the work done by the girls in the kitchen. A more glorified name for this activity is, the canteen. These girls are trained by Miss Frances Balding to be of service when assistance is needed in canteen cooking. The students of this course have a schedule of cooking and are taught basic recipes and their preparation.

CASUALTY STATION

This very necessary factor in the maintenance of our war effort is located in the Bay Shore High School. The casualty station has been equipped with cots and First Aid supplies to take care of all emergencies which occur during an air raid. This station also contains operating room instruments, sterile dressings, antiseptics as well as sedatives, and beds enough to accommodate twenty-five patients. The women and girls in the Staff Assistants group, man, or one should say wo-man this station. They are competent and are ready to assist the nurses and doctors at any time.

The casualty station is now operating smoothly and is prepared twenty-four hours of the day for any emergency.

BOOK CAMPAIGN

The 1943 Victory Book campaign was held locally March 1-6. The American Library Association sponsored the drive to obtain "more and better books." The books could be of any nature so long as they were of interest. Many of the books sent in contained technical information which would help any member of the armed forces get ahead in his field. The test for these books was that any book that you really wanted to keep was a good one to give. At school the publicity was made by posters done by the Library Club and the Junior Council; it was announced in an assembly and a collection center was established in the library. A variety show was planned and the admission was a book. It was very successful and the books and magazines were packed and shipped to headquarters.

WAR SAVINGS With the stamps and bonds that the students of the Junior High bought and sold they were able to buy two jeeps. These young salespeople have shown their elders (Senior High, take note) a thing or two about buying and contributing stamps and bonds.

RED CROSS Responding to a plea by the Red Cross to the students for a "doubled quota," the schools have almost quadrupled their efforts. To stimulate the will to contribute many of the pupils made posters most of which were displayed at the theatre. Joyce Mason and Charles Catalanotto won first and second prizes respectively.

CHINA RELIEF Another drive which was willingly contributed to was the China Relief. A speaker was brought to explain just what our money would do to aid our allies, the Chinese. Their indomitable will to win inspired all.

This has been a review of the efforts of Bay Shore High School to do and give its best to the war effort. By keeping in good health, good spirit and retaining the desire for education our student body is doing its part to further the speed of an Allied victory.

Junior Petty Officers

Ah Juniors! Life is somewhat different for a Junior—he doesn't get sea sick anymore. He has advanced in training—he is now a chief petty officer—not so much afraid as when he first joined the crew. He has learned the tricks of the waves. He has, too—he has now harder assignments which he has to face with a straight face. He does a good bit of fighting on that rocky sea. He gets caught in a storm every now and then and I'm telling you the sea is pretty rough at times, isn't Juniors? He goes across the sea to fight, he fights against his homework. Just think, he takes chances and skips a class now and then. Of course he gets caught and has to scrub decks, but he tries skipping again! The Juniors, like all other sailors, don't mind visiting the Hawaiian Islands. They did this on April 16 and invited all others interested, to have a good time dancing in the Senior cafeteria under an Hawaiian Moon. Juniors still have to take orders. They feel better, however, because there are still those little apprentice seamen below them, the Sophomores.

Communiqués!

ALONG GREAT SOUTH BAY . . . Came September, and summer weather still prevailed in that peaceful region somewhere along the Great South Bay—Bay Shore by name.

Despite summer weather, Bay Shore High School opened as usual and the long-suffering students entered its portals of learning—the seniors for the last time. This year's senior class lost some of its more prominent members when Ed "Spook" Hughes joined the Navy and Morgan Hafele the Merchant Marine. Seniors, left on the Home Front, became active immediately. Senior Class Officers were elected with Robert Bartley at the helm. Assisting him: Vice-President, Sue Morris; Treasurer, George Raven; and Secretary, Regina Erickson. Although some school activities were curtailed, due to the gas rationing and other inconveniences that accompany war, the students lent themselves to the task of carrying on despite obstacles. There are many instances, some amusing and some serious which highlighted our senior year and which we shall cherish in fond memory for years to come.

We shall never forget: The senior card party, which was a success—the Senior Play with the excitement, especially for Charlie Leach. At one of the rehearsals Charlie beheld his cherished coat, suspended from a teaser backstage.—The beginning of every senior's task to read "Macbeth." Pearl brought records of "Macbeth" to class, which proved a successful experiment.—The rush that accompanied the taking of the senior individuals. Don Russell and "Spook" Hughes acquired new hair styles in order to look perfectly handsome in their pictures. We almost saw the hair.—The day our Editor-in-Chief, attired in the photographer's overcoat (it was cold out) fell over the camera while trying to show the photographer what she wanted.—Anne Hick's running around saying, "The picture will be taken at two o'clock sharp" or "Mr. Holtje, have you something high for the photographer to stand on?"—Charlie Leach's stirring recitation of the French opera "Carmen" in the Shakespearian manner. Miss Franchi's room enjoyed it greatly—well anyway, we heard it.—The mad scramble for candy in room 221, Sally's headache—the senior meetings where everyone chatters at once.—Bob Bartley's leaving for college in January.—The election of Charlie Leach as our new president and his efforts to bring a little order at meetings.—Harry Mueller's tireless efforts to collect money from "Saturday Evening Post" sales.—The day in history class when Mr. Clark was so engrossed in the task of imparting knowledge of American History into the seniors' brainy heads, that he threw a crumpled piece of paper out of the window. What a wing!—That rainy day in September when George Raven graced the halls, wearing a few relics he had salvaged from the attic—boots, old raincoat, brown derby. He was quite a sheik!—The time the seniors decided to sell pop at the football and basketball games. Miss Franchi acquired gray hairs, worrying about the return of bottles. George obligingly offered to take charge during the baseball season.—The beautiful mystery Christmas tree, placed to advantage in Miss Franchi's room and decorated by all able hands.—The senior meeting, at which everyone enjoyed singing Christmas carols and participated generally in spreading Christmas cheer.—The "At Home" Christmas party, held in Room 221, where all seniors were invited to sing carols, eat, and be merry.—The resounding patter of Ed's little feet chasing Sue or Virginia. Also remember: The time Morgan was heard sleeping in History Class. Wonder if he had pleasant dreams about the Battle of Gettysburg.—Dick Helbig's new industry, making numbers for the seniors to wear. Those fantastic numbers were supposed to be our bowling scores.—Fred Given's daily intake of milk—three bottles at lunch time.—Sue Morris's laughter ringing through the cafeteria.—the oft-heard statement, "Did you do your Trig?"—Who will ever forget the day in Trig Class when Ed Long congratulated Mr. Geddes on the birth of a son and accepted a cigar. Probably Ed won't forget in a hurry.—Esta Soloway's frantic appeal for enough nickels to finance the publishing of one more issue of the "Maroon Echo" before the Class of '43 honors the world with its presence. I'm sure Mr. Clark will long remember Charlie Brodegard's endless questions.—Ted McLam's, "Oh there he goes again!"—The day Mr. Clark walked into the room and was confronted by "Notice—Charlie Abrams is here," written in large letters on the blackboard. Charlie had just returned from a month's sojourn in study hall. Can we forget—that beautiful spring day when all the memoers of Miss Hall's Latin Class enjoyed band music. Of course everyone watched the pride of Bay Shore High practice playing and marching, but after a while we rejoined our companion, Cicero.—Alice Karlson's portrayal of an old maid in Mr. Bittner's assembly program.—What senior won't remember: The clattering of many typewriters by the business students in Miss Stewart's room—the quietness in Mr. LaPlatney's Home Room from 8:55 to 9:05 in the morning.—The rattle of Morgan Burn's car as he and John Melton ventured forth during eighth period on the sunny spring afternoons—the crashes and bangs that occurred when the closet door in 221 was opened—Fibber McGee's closet—where the inhabitants of Room 221 search for their hidden treasures—Jim Page's flashy blue coat, Larsh's camera equipment, Christmas lights, etc.—The rush to complete Senior Essays and the relief that was universally enjoyed when our literary masterpieces were safely in Mrs. Kellum's hands.—The anticipation felt as class day and graduation drew near.

As the time when we seniors will have to find our places in this war-torn world draws near, we realize with concern and determination that upon our shoulders will rest the responsibility of carrying on in the post-war world. The year 1944 will undoubtedly see the members of the Class of 1943 doing their bit in many parts of the world. Many of our boys will be in the various branches of their country's service. The girls, too, will be diligently aiding the war effort by becoming nurses, by working in war industries, by joining the many military services, now offered to them. Our sincere hope is that what we set out to do will favorably reflect the invaluable experience we have received in this school.
