NCE UPON Our TIME

These past four years have been our time to mature and grow from adolescence into adulthood. These have been our years to learn, to develop skills, and to take on new responsibilities. During these days at Bay Shore High School, we've had some time to reflect on our pasts and to plan for our futures. We leave the halls of this building and the familiar faces of our friends and teachers to pursue new goals. While some of us go on to college and others prepare to enter the work force, we can never forget these important formative years. For many of us these have been the best years of our lives. We leave the high school so different from the way we began. We realize that our fate or destiny is in our own hands. Our futures will be what we make of them. Our parents, teachers, and friends have all played an important role in our development. For their contributions we are all grateful.

As we close this chapter as high school students, we stand ready to begin another. The book is not finished, and we await the arrival of new people to fill in the pages of our lives.

This is a question many of us have asked ourselves, but for which very few of us have an answer. The dictionary defines a Marauder as "a rover in search of booty or plunder, especially one who is part of a wandering band of plunderers." It is derived from a French word which means rascal or vagabond. It is a person in a group of people who pillage, and it is usually associated with the Nordic Vikings, fierce warriors in battle.

Originally, the athletes in Bay Shore High School were called the Maroons or the Maroon and Whites. When looking for a mascot or school symbol to represent the student body, school officials selected the Marauder as their mascot. There are many reasons why this was an appropriate choice. Like their Nordic forefathers, Bay Shore students reside close to the water on which they rely for food and pleasure. But most importantly, the marauder was picked because it represented the strength and tenacity of the mighty viking. The athletic teams felt that this would be an ideal symbol as they prepared to meet any challenge on the ballfield or in the gymnasium.

Even though no one knows for sure the origin of the marauder as the symbol for Bay Shore, it has become part of the tradition. It has come to be a symbol of the excellence Bay Shore has shown throughout the years. Both academically and athletically, Bay Shore has exhibited the strength and perseverance of the Mighty Marauder.

SENIORS

nce upon our time, there was a FRESHMAN class, which entered the castle on Third Avenue in 1988 with high expectations and great hope for the future. Crossing the footbridge was a new experience for these ladies and lords as they treaded lightly over the mystifying waters of the murky moat. With many of their dreams realized, they encountered new experiences and faces with the sands of time passing all too quickly. Before they knew what had happened, they completed their rite of initiation, and they became SOPHOMORES. No longer the apprentices of the land, this wandering troop of marauders on the road of life became deeply involved in the activities of the manor, and they began to look onward as they envisioned a prosperous JUNIOR level of achievement. And this too came to pass along with the tradition of the rings, banquets, and tests of chivalry.

Then one beautiful September morn this group became SENIORS. The class of 1992 was suddenly the oldest in the castle. The former freshmen now took their turn as the leaders and role models of the castle, and they graciously accepted the scepter to guide the underclassmen. But always in front of them was that vision of what the future would have in store for them. They mournfully realized that come June they would have to part; this band of marauders that had spent four years together would be no more. But forever in their hearts they would store their memories, and they knew that even apart they'd always be together. And each time they turn back the cover of this book the memories are rekindled, and so the tale lives on.

— Kelly Falconer and Matt Maas

Life Time of FRIENDS

o matter what our futures may hold in store for us, the friends whom we have made during our high school years will remain a part of us for the rest of our lives. We always will cherish the fun and laughter that we shared, as well as the tears. Even the rough times that we endured will not be forgotten. It is from our mistakes that we have learned the importance of true friendship, for our friends have been by our sides over these past four years. They have given us support, advice, and assistance in times of need. Our friends have made us what we are today and what we will become in the future. They have left an indelible mark on our personalities.

I hope the weather clears up because I am going to be flying today. Not only am I a student at Bay Shore High School, but I am also a second year student in the BOCES aviation academy. Every Tuesday and Thursday of the week I go flying. Hopefully, by the time I graduate from high school, I will be receiving my private pilot's license. At the Suffolk Aviation Academy, we do a lot of things related to aviation. As a first year student I had my ground school in preparation for my FAA private pilot's test. I had to pass the test if I wanted to continue to my second year. I also had a chance to fly.

In my second year I had to prepare for my oral test and build up enough flight time. Bay Shore has given me a chance to pursue my lifelong ambition of becoming a pilot, and from here I will enter a branch of the military to further my training and increase my flight time.

The time came, and the time went- all in a blink of the eye. I guess time really does fly when I am having fun, so I'm glad I stayed in school and had fun. I guess I didn't realize how much fun high school is until I realized that I would be leaving for the real world.

I hope all of the students enjoyed their stay while they were here. Soon enough others will be in my spot, looking back too. Good Luck to the Class of '92.

Getting involved in activities in Bay Shore High School is one of the biggest advantages I had during my high school years. Being a part of many organizations, such as FBLA, Peer Support, Interact, baseball, soccer, and student government enabled me to meet new people and make many friends throughout the school population. Joining activities in the school brought me recognition from my teachers and fellow classmates.

As I leave the High School, I recommend that all students get involved by joining as many activities as possible to make these years the most memorable and enjoyable.

I remember when we were freshmen and how influential the seniors were to us. I can't believe that the time has come for us to be the seniors now and create an example for the younger minds in the school. Bay Shore has helped me to develop into an individual and learn how to stand tall in the face of peer pressure.

Back in eighth grade I used to say that I couldn't wait to graduate. Now I wish that I were back in eighth grade. I guess that is one of the ironies of life. Being a senior here at Bay Shore has been different from what I expected, but it certainly has been an interesting experience, one I'll never forget. I wish all my friends good luck.

To The Class of 1992

After years of being together,
The time has come for us to part.
We have been through so much,
And at times it seemed
We'd never make it.

As we stand now,
In our last moments together,
We must remember our triumphs,
But we cannot lose sight
Of all these years have taught us.

Experience has been a great teacher,
We have learned much.
Acceptance, toleration, and love-
These must be remembered
As we move on.

— Kelly Falconer

CONGRATULATIONS

After four years filled with memories, the time has come to leave. As high school graduation draws near, it is necessary to gaze into the future, but not lose sight of all the friendships and dreams that were born and nurtured within the corridors of Bay Shore High School. Sincerest thanks to all who touched our "once upon a time" and made our years here so memorable.

UNDERCLASSMEN

Although the senior year is the one that most people look upon as the most important and memorable, there is much to be said for the years that precede it. This year the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors have been just as involved with a variety of new and traditional activities. Combining a Crafts Fair with a Pancake Breakfast, instituting a Junior Dinner Dance, and conducting a Christmas Toy Drive were some of the new activities added to the growing list of programs. All of these activities were enormous successes thanks to the advisors and class officers who worked to make them possible. In the following pages, the Marauder has tried to capture some of those activities and the memories that accompany them. As we all work toward our final year in the High School we build on to the traditions that existed before we came to this building. The years fly by all too quickly, but when we look back on these pictures and stories we remember what we did once upon a time.

The class of 1993 had yet another outstanding year packed full of activities both traditional and innovative.

At the start of this busy year, "UNITY" was chosen as the word most descriptive of the class, and therefore the one to be put on the class ring. The week before Homecoming is traditionally Spirit Week and for the second time since entering the High School, this class proved to have the most spirit. As sponsors of Battle of the Classes in November, the juniors placed second. As always, the Pancake Breakfast, co-sponsored with the Seniors, was a huge success. Students had fun decorating the cafeteria and serving breakfast to residents of the community.

One of two new activities begun this year was a fund raiser. Selling hot pretzels during football games turned out to be a very profitable way of raising money as the pretzels quickly became popular. Looking for a new way to celebrate the winter holidays, the juniors created the Holiday Dinner Dance. They transformed the cafeteria into a winter wonderland. This night is not soon to be forgotten as juniors once again had a chance to demonstrate their unity and class spirit. The winter dance is sure to become a long-lasting tradition.

Class officers, Kelly Durant, Jeff Beringer, Anne Simons, and David Balsamo, were very pleased with the number of students who accepted the challenge of "getting involved" this year. More students attended class meetings this year than ever before. After such an exciting year, the class of '93 has one final message- "Watch out, senior year, here we come!"

Student life with all its daily. . .

Rituals

At 7:00 A.M., Monday morning, the halls of Bay Shore High School are still and silent. The first buses arrive, and suddenly the halls are filled with confusion. Students hurry to their lockers to drop off books before falling into morning rituals. The bathrooms are crowded with people putting the finishing touches on their hair or making last-minute outfit adjustments. Small groups gather along the walls in a desperate attempt to finish forgotten homework assignments. In scattered corners, a few drowsy kids catch up on missed sleep as crowds of students drift back and forth, chattering and laughing about their weekends. The warning bell rings and a massive traffic jam instantly forms as everybody pushes his way toward homeroom. Finally, the homeroom bell rings, and the hallways slowly regain their previous silence. The familiar loud greeting of "Good Morning, Bay Shore!" echoes over the P.A. as another week begins.

Get ready for weekend . . .

Madness!

At 1:44, Friday afternoon with only one minute until the start of the weekend, students have begun to fidget and pack up books. RING! The race is on! Doors burst open as everyone makes a rush for his locker to meet up with friends and discuss weekend plans. One entry to the girls' gym is crowded with hungry teenagers trying to buy a snack before practice or a meeting. A mad dash ensues as people try to catch the bus or get to their cars to go home. Lockers slam open and closed, while laughter and screams of excitement echo throughout the halls, where numerous groups have gathered to discuss the latest in everything from couples to music to parties. As two o'clock rolls around, there's a mass migration towards locker rooms and meeting rooms. For some students this marks the end of the week, but for many it's only the beginning.

The Science of...

Buy-ology

Where do Bay Shore students shop to achieve the diversified appearances that can be seen around the building? An informal lunchtime survey was conducted to investigate where people preferred to shop. The most popular answer, given by the majority of students surveyed, was the Gap, followed by Complete Athlete. Surprisingly enough Macy's finished third. The Gap was obviously selected because it offers a wide variety of "preppy style" clothing for both men and women. The majority of the boys polled stated that they shopped here for all of their clothing.

In an additional survey girls stated that they purchased most of their footwear at Macy's and Bakers. The popularity of Macy's is proven by the countless girls who are wearing Bass and Nine West shoes. Following these two stores were Wild Pair and J.C. Penny's.

This survey revealed that Bay Shore students shopped in stores primarily located in the South Shore Mall thus proving that it's really not necessary to travel far to find the look that high school students want.

JUNIOR HOLIDAY

Despite the chill outside, on the evening of December nineteenth, the cafeteria heated up very quickly. This was the night of the Junior Holiday Dinner Dance for which preparations had been begun two months earlier. Because this was the first time such a dance was held, there was much planning to be done; a D.J. had to be contracted, chaperones and security had to be arranged, and decorations had to be purchased. A semi-formal dance within the school was a new idea, so people had to be convinced to come. Although ticket sales started off slowly, the end result was that a large crowd attended. A group of students stayed after school that day to help transform the cafeteria into a winter wonderland, complete with snowflakes. Before the dance began, the soon-to-be-empty buffet tables were laid out with a dazzling array of food encompassing a range from salads, heroes, cakes, and cookies.

Students began arriving at 6:30 and immediately began to inspect each others outfits. The general phrase "semi-formal" allowed for diversified interpretations. The girls' outfits ranged from a simple skirt and blouse to full-fledged prom dresses. The guys, however, had less opportunity to be creative. Button-down shirts, ties, and jeans or dockers were the standard. One thing was clear, though: everyone looked great! Although the juniors were not all professional dancers, they all had a great time out on the dance floor. In addition to the normal dances, they had a conga line, a chicken dance, and, for a finale, they had a kick-line to the tune of "New York, New York." The evening proved to be a wonderful, exciting event which has set a standard for dances for years to come.

SOPHOMORES

The Class of 1994 had another great year under the leadership of President Jessica Loudon, Vice-president Heather Alleyne, Secretary Christie Driscoll, and Treasurer Jenny Rajkowski.

"Once upon our time" is certainly a fitting theme for this industrious group of officers who are continually working to make their high school years memorable and exciting. Together with their advisor, Mrs. D. Kaplar, the officers introduced new activities and planned for the future. At the beginning of the year the class donated money to a child who had needed a liver transplant. Next, the sophomore class was responsible for running the pep rally on Homecoming weekend, and the following day, the '94 float took first place in the Parade. The class also ran the annual candy cane sale in December and raised a considerable sum of money for the treasury.

Mrs. D. Kaplar is very optimistic about this sophomore class and has said, "If they keep up the hard work, they will make a great senior class."

— Jaime Forlano

Sophomore class officers, Jessica Loudon, Heather Alleyne, Christie Driscoll, and Jen Rajkowski helped to make the year a productive one.

A Hero for Our Time . . .

Magic Johnson

One of the names in the news that stood out this year was that of Magic Johnson. Known for his outstanding basketball skills and quiet demeanor, Magic also received top publicity by coming forward and admitting publicly that he is HIV positive. One of the tragedies to hit "our time" is the AIDS virus which to date still remains incurable. Bay Shore students were as shocked as the rest of the nation when Magic made his announcement on prime-time television. Sports fans' favorite basketball idol now took on a new role, and all shared in the tragic ending of his playing career. Now Magic has become the spokesman for the disease and has begun working to raise money for research. He also has begun his own personal crusade to inform the public of preventative measures to avoid contracting the virus. What was once regarded as a disease for "those" people has been brought to the attention of the whole world as capable of striking anyone.

Magic Johnson is now involved with press conferences and making the front page for something other than basketball stats. Most agree that it's a shame that this had to happen to someone with such a promising career. Senior, Mike Scherer feels, "It's a shame but maybe now the population will become aware that AIDS isn't a drug thing or a homo thing; it's a death thing." Junior Jeff Bunge agrees with Mike but adds, "Either Magic Johnson should be treated like all other AIDS victims, or all other AIDS victims should be treated like Magic Johnson." Freshman Laurie Jao has a positive outlook on Magic's diagnosis, "Because he still has the ability to inspire young minds."

Happy Birthday. . .

Sweet Sixteen!

Childhood has long gone, and the teenage years have passed one by one. Thirteen was followed by fourteen and fifteen, but nothing compared to Sweet 16. Where has the little girl gone?

Just yesterday she was daddy's little girl, and today, she stands in the midst of a gala affair with a fancy dress and manicured nails. She stands on the threshold of adulthood, ready to take the leap into becoming a woman.

Surrounded by handsome suits and beautiful gowns, an air of adventure, excitement, and romance fill the room. Compliments are exchanged, cameras click, presents given, and bodies dance to the beat. Balloons are pushed aside with each shuffling step. As the evening ends, party favors and good-bye kisses send the revelers out into the night. The excitement of the event has been captured for all on a camcorder. The compliments of the evening fade along with the last strains of music from the D.J.

No matter how a young lady celebrates her sweet sixteen, it still remains an important occasion and milestone in a girl's life. Being a Sweet 16 will only last one year, but the memories will last a lifetime.

Student Achievements at the Breakfast of . . .

Champions

A program that was instituted a few years ago by Mrs. M. Petralia and Mr. J. Okulski was the Breakfast for Champions. Bringing together outstanding students in a variety of academic, athletic, and cultural arts areas, this was an occasion to celebrate the achievements of the many outstanding students in Bay Shore High School. Parents, teachers, and guests met each month at the Forum Diner for a sumptuous breakfast, to receive a complimentary tee shirt, and to hear a guest speaker. One guest speaker, Mr. Dieumegard, spoke of the fantastic educational opportunities offered to Bay Shore students. Everyone who attended the breakfasts had nothing but praise for the program that sang of the accomplishments of these students who served as role models for the rest of the building. In addition, the names of the recipients were published in the OUR SCHOOLS newspaper, and their photographs were posted on display in the main lobby.

Parents and teachers were proud of their students and hoped that others would follow in their footsteps.

Shuffle, Ball, Change. . .

Keep the Beat

If you had a class under room 321 or if you were around the building after school, then you probably heard the sound of people practicing tap dancing routines. A major part of this year's musical, "Me and My Girl," was the important group tap dancing numbers that appeared throughout the story. Most of the forty-five member cast had limited, if any, tap experience, and learning the intricate choreography was a challenge and a chore. Tap dancing requires precision timing, and everyone doing the exact same step at the same time. That's why members of the cast put on their tap shoes whenever they had a free moment and there was someone to review the steps with them.

According to veteran thespian, Tony DiMatteo, "The steps aren't too difficult if everyone goes home and practices each night." Senior Rosemary Lombardo who originally felt that she would never be able to master the steps was pleased with how much she accomplished once she put her mind to it. She even volunteered her services to anyone who was having any problems. She, along with many other dancers, stayed many hours to practice after others had gone home. "It really was fun once you get the hang of it," admitted Rosemary.

The hard part was making the dance steps look easy for the audiences. Everyone had to remember to keep their heads up, not watch their feet, and SMILE.

Ya down wit. . .

MTV ?!!

"Music Television" is what people are talking about in "our time." Is it the videos, the music, the Saturday Night Live reruns, or Yo MTV Raps? Many people who watch the popular rap programs feel that the music and the videos are sending out a definite message. However, the great part of MTV is it's twenty-four hour a day programming. The network even has its own game show, "Remote Control," which is hosted by Ken Ober.

After polling twenty-four people, eighteen of them voted John Norris as their favorite host. Norris hosts "Awake on the Wild Side" and "MTV's Most Wanted," and fills in for Adam Curry on the "Top Twenty Video Countdown." The music ranges from rap to heavy metal, and the musicians range from Nirvana and Paula Abdul to Metallica and REM.

It is amazing to see how much controversy certain videos have generated just this year. The first such was Madonna's "Justify My Love" which was banned from the channel due to obscenity. Michael Jackson's video "Black or White" was also deemed obscene and had the last four minutes edited.

Is MTV just a fad or will it last until the twenty-first century and beyond? Any way that you look at it, MTV is a definite part of our generation.

— Kelly Gmelch

Paula Abdul, "Pop and Dance Queen," rocked the charts this year.

Turn on your. . .

Walkman

One of the most controversial items in the school today was the ever-popular walkman. Popularized a few years ago by joggers, the walkman has reached an addictive status among teenagers especially. Once only allowed in the cafeteria area, the favorite listening devices were now found on students in the hallway and in the classroom- much to the dismay of the teachers! When listening to their favorite CD's or cassettes, most teens were able to block out everything around them and become completely engrossed in their music. While this is a form of cultural development or improvement, it also has its negative side. It can be a distraction and a disturbance for some students and teachers. Other students such as senior Matt Maas feel that listening to his walkman enhances the mood of certain subjects. He commented, "I listened to my walkman during art because it inspired my drawing." Junior Sean Ratcliff felt, "Listening to a walkman got me mentally ready for the stress of the day."

While most students agreed that they enjoy their music and can function perfectly well while tuned in, their teachers held a different perspective on the subject.

— Anthony DiMatteo and Alison Roth

John Bodalai didn't hear the photographer asking him for permission to take his picture.

Keith Napodano waited patiently for Willie Ulloa to finish listening to his walkman, so that he could borrow it.

Senior, John Sepulveda, blocked out the noise in the halls by listening to his favorite tape.

Timidity to Triumph

Starting over in a new school means something different to everyone. Almost all freshmen have some kind of mixed thoughts before entering the High School. Whether it's the new staff or the larger size of the building, most freshmen experience some fear or anxiety on that first day of school. After all, no matter how many faces are familiar, the mere fact of being in a new set of surroundings, coupled with the realization of how important the high school years are, does tend to intimidate many people. This was a trend which was conclusively proven by interviews with several students of the freshmen class.

Debbie Perez, one of those freshmen, reported that the first time she entered this school she was scared of getting lost and being late for class. Melissa Mayer agreed, "I liked the feeling of being in such a nice big school, but I was afraid of getting lost, too."

No matter, though. After their class election, there was little for students of the High School's youngest class to fear. The highly-capable team of class president Tonya Mancini, vice-president Denise Adams, secretary Elissa Rezac, treasurer Gillian Mattimore, and class historians Laura DellaVedova and Patti Owen started their class year with a bang, raking leaves to raise more than two hundred dollars for their understocked class treasury. Following a disheartening fourth-place finish in the Battle of the Classes, the community-minded freshmen held a toy drive to help Bay Shore's needy children enjoy the holiday season. Later, their Valentine's Day dance brought romance to the air all throughout the High School.

When it comes down to it, this year's Freshman class did an even better job than their predecessors in turning fear and apprehension about their new school into feelings of togetherness and school spirit. Their unsurpassed drive for excellence left the other classes in the dust and set a new mark for future freshmen to strive for.

More and more students are asking themselves. . .

What's My Future?

What should I do? Should I be a lawyer, a teacher, or maybe a writer? Most teenagers spend plenty of time pondering the burning question of what they want to do after high school. Some are just thinking about college for the time being, obviously intending to delay the choice for as long as possible. Others plan to head right into a profession as soon as they graduate. Still others realize their goals and have already begun planning how to reach them.

Most people, however, don't fit that mold. Instead, they plan to leave themselves some options. Senior, Anthony Di Matteo says, "I want to be on the radio or television." On the other hand, Jeff Bunge, a junior, had something different to say: "I'd really like to be a lawyer or a pediatrician." Alison Roth, a sophomore, wants to be either a kindergarten teacher or a child psychologist.

A survey of students reveals that the most popular choice, among all possible careers, is law. Perhaps it is a wise choice for a country whose divorce and crime rates are constantly on the rise. However, one can hardly help but wonder if there are other professions that are just as important to an America preparing to face the twenty-first century.

Why live in Beverly Hills?
Life's the same in our own . . .

Bay Shore 11706

Forget Rodeo Drive; try Main Street instead. Shedding some of television's glitter, Bay Shore has its own active clones of Dylan McKay and Brenda Walsh. If you look closely, you might even see a few duplicates of Andrea Zuckermann, Brandon Walsh, or any of the other teenage stars of "Beverly Hills, 90210." Sometimes it appears that the only things missing are the fat trust funds and the mall shopping sprees.

The similarities, however, demonstrate the significance of the show's overwhelming popularity among Bay Shore students. While most other television programs fail to portray typical teens faced with believable crises, "90210" really hits home. For example, in a certain episode, one character's drinking problem forces him to come to terms with the fact that he can no longer avoid attending an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting. In another episode of the program, the search for his true parents leads another character through painful soul-searching. The television solutions to these problems provide help for Bay Shore's high schoolers, some of whom may be faced with similar problems of their own.

As you walk down the halls the students could be found in Beverly Hills just as easily as they are in Bay Shore. The town you're in might not be Beverly Hills, but the students and their problems and experiences are pretty much the same no matter what coast you're on. There aren't any television cameras, but everything else seems the same. Who needs Beverly Hills, 90210, when you've got Bay Shore, 11706?

Muscles And Feet!

Are you exhausted from walking up and down staircases all day? Most of those freshmen surveyed answered with a resounding "Yes!" The High School is, after all, a very big change from the Middle School. While the Middle School has six staircases, the High School has a total of thirteen. That makes about six hundred steps that freshmen have to get used to climbing up and down each day.

By the time the freshmen graduate, most members of the class will probably have bigger biceps than Arnold Schwarzenegger. The reason for this is their constant struggle to get their lockers open. Also, some students can't even make it to their lockers between classes and are forced to haul around tons of books!

Severe confusion is another one of the dubious joys of being a freshman. Talk about fatigue! The physical fatigue matches the mental exhaustion that emanates from trying to read daily schedules. Some freshmen thought that their schedules were written in foreign languages when they first received them in the mail. Some sought the help of an older brother or sister or an upperclassmen to translate the difference between day one and day six. Another mind-boggling concept that is difficult for some to get used to is: If a person enters through the front doors, he finds himself on the second floor, and if that person enters by the gym entrance, he is on the first floor.

All in all, the freshmen have managed to overcome their perplexing schedules. And the scurrying? Well, let's just say that a foot soak and a massage at the end of the day are welcome reliefs.

Helps out at Southside Hospital

In an era of medical crises, hospitals are finding themselves unable to afford sufficient staff to deal with increasing numbers of patients. Overworked health care professionals thus find themselves in need of people who can help them take care of their patients but lack the finances to pay additional staff.

Southside Hospital has found a solution, an army of male and female high school volunteers. These junior volunteers, from all grades in the High School, are trained to perform checks on the status of patients, spend time with patients, and assist with clerical duties. Included in this corps of volunteers are Tamika Brown, Marisol Carrillo, Jennifer Ciesluk, Erin Coughlin, Genesis Dawson, Kerri Dibble, Maria Estrada, Ann Marie French, Michelle Graham, Denise Green, Jennifer Imhoff, Stacey LaGoy, Christina Leahong, Vicky Lozada, Candice Meltzer, Jocelynn O'Brien, Stacy Orlando, Phaeryn Phillips, Gerrienne Puntervold, Lissette Ramirez, Liza Rosado, Jonathan Sholder, Michael Tashbook, Evelyn Villaneuva, and Karen Walker.

These compassionate workers don't mind donating some of their free time to community service. "Our main goal," says coordinator Mr. Henry Ruter, "was to give as many students as possible real-life experiences as they prepare for their future careers." This year was the first installment of the high school's junior volunteer recruitment campaign, but both Southside and Mr. Ruter are hopeful for an increasing program each year.

nce upon a time students enjoyed the lazy, hazy days of summer, but then reality returned and students once again filed back into the hallowed halls of the High School. Wearing new sneakers and the latest Gap fashions, students were eager to get the new year off to a good start. Carrying new notebooks and texts, each began the year with high hopes and good intentions.

At the beginning of the new school year, students and teachers settled right down to work and started down the long road preparing for Regents, AP exams, and finals. Juniors and Seniors had to worry about the PSAT and the SAT tests, and tension mounted as the deadlines for college applications neared.

With the help and support of the dedicated classroom teachers and staff, Bay Shore students had another successful year.

Keeping Up With the Beat

The music program at Bay Shore High School sets the standard for other high schools to follow. Students are proud to be a part of the award winning Marching Band, the outstanding Jazz Band, the superb Concert Band, the incomparable Orchestra and the harmonious Choir. Another area that has been receiving more and more attention is the Music Theory Lab. At one time only music majors were familiar with the equipment and staff found in the George Senecal Music Lab.

Upon entering the room, one is immediately impressed with the eight Macintosh Computers, eight synthesizers, and hundreds of feet of wiring and electrical cords. After the initial shock wears off, one is next amazed to find the high tech equipment and synthesizers, which are being properly used and programmed by the students with a little direction from the teachers. Students with little or no musical background can put together a simple and basic composition. Advanced students can create musical symphonies, or heavy metal songs. With the synthesizers, a student has the option to use a Grand Piano, or trumpet or even have both play at the same time.

Through today's advanced technology, and Bay Shore High School's Music Program, students can now become more involved than ever before with a rapidly changing music scene.

Home Sweet Home

This year, many graduating seniors will bid a fond farewell to a place that is very dear to their hearts. They will be leaving their childhood homes of Day Shore to Brightwaters to explore different parts of this country or even another country. For all of them, and for all of the other students at Bay Shore High school, this area contains many memories of the good times they've had.

Southside Hospital is the place where many of the students were born. Many might also remember it as the place where they got twenty-five stitches because they fell off their bike or out of a tree. The salty air of the Bay Shore Marina will surely conjure up images of lazy summer days spent fishing with friends. It was also the site of the annual fireworks display, lighting up the night sky during the traditional Fourth of July celebration. Mr. Wyatt will always be remembered as the man who conducted those hikes through the green peacefulness of Gardiner's Park. The glassy stillness of the Brightwaters Lakes will always hold the image of some fuzzy baby ducklings on a spring morning or of a couple sharing a kiss under a canopy of leaves.

For some, the empty stands at the High School football field will always echo with the cheering of hundreds of people as Bay Shore's football team won a close game in the last moments of play. Of course, anyone who attends this school will remember having lunch at Joe's or Leggio's, treating someone to a sundae at Cople's, and spending a rainy Saturday afternoon hanging out at the mall with a group of friends. As students leave Bay Shore for whatever reasons, they will carry with them the memories of this attractive seaside community where they spent their childhood.

Spanish Pen Pals

For some students, taking a language is one of the more difficult parts of school today. Comprehending a whole other world of words can sometimes be quite troublesome for high school students. Foreign language teachers continue to do their best to make classes easier and more enjoyable for their students.

Spanish classes were involved in an interesting exchange program started by Spanish teacher, Mrs. R. Nenninger, who left Bay Shore and is presently teaching at Glencoe High School in Portland, Oregon. Her present Spanish students wrote to some ninth grade Spanish classes here at the high school. Those letters were written in Spanish and were distributed. Each student in the Spanish classes had at least one pen pal from the state of Oregon.

Students found it very interesting to hear about the lives of other high school students. In the letters that were received, the students from Oregon described their likes, dislikes, and told about their hometown, Hillsboro.

When asked about the letters, Miss Sce explained, "The pen pal letters give the students an opportunity to demonstrate their Spanish skills in writing, while cultivating new friendships and learning how other students around the states enjoy their Spanish classes."

The entire experience was both fun and educational. All the students who participated enjoyed learning about students who are their age in another part of the country.

Halloween Fun

All Hallow's Eve, as it is traditionally called, found an assortment of costumed students roaming the halls. While most students and staff members were dressed in their usual school attire, some were dressed up for the occasion. All shared a laugh and a smile at those who chose to get into the spirit of the October holiday. Among the many painted faces and sprayed hairstyles were a bejeweled Elvis, two friendly witches, a ghoulish vampire, and several adorable babies. Halloween was a great, exciting day which everyone enjoyed. Whether dressed to spook or just for fun, everyone had a wonderful time admiring others' bizarre costumes. A few teachers even handed out candy. Altogether, Halloween this year, was an enjoyable and memorable day at Bay Shore High School.

Bay Shore on Broadway

On a warm evening in October, ninety-two people, including students and teachers, made the trip to the City to see the Broadway musical Miss Saigon. Thanks to Mrs. N. Wolff's planning, the group was able to enjoy a sumptuous repast at an Italian restaurant before heading to the theater.

The play, about an American G.I. in Vietnam who fell in love with a young Vietnamese woman, was an outstanding production enjoyed by all for its tenderness and lilting songs. All were especially impressed with the landing of a helicopter on the stage to return the GI's to the States. The elaborate sets and huge cast numbers added to the drama and suspense created by the production.

Bay Shore's students enjoyed the entire evening and hoped that additional trips would be planned in the near future. This is the second time the English Department has conducted such an outing and judging from its success another will be offered next year.

Students Show School Spirit

One week out of every year, students participate in Spirit Week. This week is designated as a way for students to show their spirit and support of school activities. This year Spirit Week preceded the Homecoming Weekend, and it was a week of fun for all who participated. Assistant-Principal, Mrs. Arlene Schwartz was seen each day taking pictures of crowds of students dressed in the day's regalia. The fun came when she displayed her photos in the lobby showcases.

Spirit Week was a huge success. Students from all four classes participated each day, and everyone had a great time in the process. Even the custodians joined in the act and dressed for the occasion. As always, there was a variety of colorful tie-dye shirts. Many students wore hats that had their favorite college teams on them, and some students wore large Mexican sombreros. Many faculty members and students wore ties, some store bought and others hand made, and on Maroon and White Day, the entire building proudly displayed the school colors.

Next year Spirit Week promises to be bigger and better. Students are looking forward to getting another chance to show off their school spirit.

Dedicated Class Advisor

There's no doubt about it. Junior class advisor Mr. Carl Campbell loves to teach. Thirty years may seem like a long time, and it is. Yet, Mr. Campbell has enjoyed each one of the thirty years he has been teaching at Bay Shore High School. He enjoys all of his students and wouldn't want to teach anywhere else. During these thirty years at Bay Shore, Mr. Campbell coached track for thirteen years and has been a class advisor for a number of years as well.

Mr. Campbell lived in Bay Shore for a number of years, and his children went through the Bay Shore Schools. He feels that all of his children received a quality education and is glad that they went through this district.

Mr. Campbell is a firm believer that everyone is entitled to an education. He also pushes his students to continue and get a college education so they will be better prepared for their future. Mr. Campbell believes that the children of today are the leaders of tomorrow.

This thirty-year veteran has earned the respect of students as well as his fellow teachers. Mr. Campbell is a dedicated teacher who finds a great deal of happiness in his job and is proud to be a teacher in the Bay Shore High School.

Just Ask for Help!

Whenever students are in need of help to do research for a report or find a book to read for an English class, they will find a staff of qualified and dedicated librarians ready and happy to assist them. Leaving their books at the table as they enter, students find a variety of tools at their disposal and a staff eager to make their jobs as painless as possible. Head librarian, Dr. H. Flowers, makes sure that the library is always fully prepared to serve the needs of the students in the building. If she does not have the material available, she can direct the students to another source. She works very closely with the staff in the building to coordinate the library's materials to projects and assignments given in the classrooms. She conducts tours of the library and explains the facilities to all freshmen and anyone needing assistance.

Along with her staff, Dr. Flowers maintains a quiet atmosphere in the library where students can go to browse through a magazine, participate in a student-faculty read-in, or just study for an upcoming test. Along with the staff members from the Media Center, Bay Shore has a resource and library department that it can be proud of.

Good Morning Bay Shore High School!

These are the words that have woken many faculty members and students at the start of a school day. The morning announcements are an important part of each day because they keep students and staff informed of daily activities and meetings. Be it the football team's latest victory or the Junior Class meeting after school, students can keep up with the never ending list of activities that happen every day. The announcers usually come into the main office at 7:15 to practice once or twice, and then they're ready to go. The format is usually the same: "Good Morning. Today is day three. Please stand for the pledge." Although still half asleep themselves, these volunteers must be awake enough to read a variety of different announcements, including the long lists of names of students requested by the guidance department. Of course, there is always that last minute announcement which is handed to them as they are "on the air". But they always stand ready and eager to give it their best shot.

Although many students and staff would rather sleep through homeroom or start the day off quietly, the morning announcers are always there ready to greet them with the news. A word of thanks should be given to these dedicated broadcasters for their time and effort.

uring our time here in the High School, many of us have proudly participated on the various athletic teams, offered by the school. We chose to vent our frustrations, prove our prowess, and enjoy ourselves in hand-to-hand combat with our opponents from neighboring school districts. Whether the sport was basketball, football, lacrosse, tennis, baseball, field hockey, volleyball, cheerleading, gymnastics, soccer, or track, our athletes always fought with determination and perseverance. While the outcome may not have always been what we hoped for, we enjoyed the challenges and always put forth our best effort to succeed. We have enjoyed the competition, the camaraderie, and the agony and ecstasy of defeat and victory. We have learned the meaning of hard work and teamwork. As members of the Marauder teams we have always worked hard to maintain the winning tradition of the school's athletic programs.

"This year was an exciting season. I feel that we accomplished many goals and made a lot of good things happen. I feel privileged to have gotten to play with so many great guys. I loved the times we shared in the locker room."

— Jim Schneidman

Once upon a time athletes fought their battles on jousting fields in competitions to win the hand of their fair maidens. In our time the '91 Marauder Football Team continued this heraldic tradition by conquering each of its opponents, fighting valiantly at every turn. The extended season ended with a glorious 44-24 triumph over Patchogue in the playoff games. Jim Schneidman, Tom Winant, Matt Pfeffer, Chris Alleyne, and Mo Morales were awarded All-League honors while Mike Williams and John Anitra were named to the All-County team. The players proved to be skillful and courageous in the face of their enemies by ending their triumphant season with a record 5-3. The JV squad upheld the Marauder traditions by fighting gallantly, although not as successfully as the Varsity team.

KICKS & SAVES

Bay Shore's young varsity marauder soccer team, composed mostly of juniors and sophomores, started out its season with high hopes, enthusiasm, and potential. The team members agreed that a major improvement from last year had occurred because the players were playing more like a unit with no one player dominating the field. Under the coaching of Mr. J. Cody, the team showed improvement with every practice and demonstrated these improvements in their games. Because the team is comprised of young players, many will be returning next year. Doug Meehan stated, "This is the final year of rebuilding at Bay Shore." The JV team was proud of its accomplishments this season and is prepared to make its mark next year.

MILES & MILES

Within the world of girls cross country, the name Bay Shore has become synonymous with excellence. The girls have proven this in mile after mile, victory after victory. The combination of younger runners and experienced veterans, resulted in a highly successful season. When the girls won the county championships, they had no doubt in their minds who was the best. At the state meet in Buffalo they proved this to most of New York State as they captured third place.

The boys' cross-country team, under the coaching of Mr. R. Hawkins, went through a transition year. With an abundance of new talent, the team nearly won its league, and performed well at invitational. After placing first at the Nassau Coaches' Invitational, several injuries forced the team to re-structure again. Despite this setback, the team redeemed itself at the county meet. Seven players competed for Bay Shore: Visna Harris, Deepak Chopra, Gregg Macey, Bill Mahler, Joe Azim, Matt Key, and Phil Vigliotta. Bay Shore defeated every team in its league and had a strong finish. Captains Matt Key and Deepak Chopra both agree that the team had an exceptional season. Both captains made All-League and Matt Key made All-Conference. Next year, the team will further dominate, with the re-enlistment of runners Chris D'Angelo and Sean Ratcliff.

Throughout history, tennis has been known as the sport of ladies and gentlemen, a sport that tests a person's strength, agility, stamina, and intelligence. The Bay Shore Girls' Tennis Team had a commendable season despite its injuries and illnesses. Coach Mr. J. Morrison remarked, "The sterling play of the doubles teams led the Varsity Tennis Team to a winning record in which the team did not lose a match with their starting lineup intact. When healthy, we were the best team in the league." The girls' dedication and skill, not only in their matches, but in their practices as well, brought victories to themselves as well as their team.

The Girls' Junior Varsity Tennis Team also had a successful season under the direction of Mr. C. Jones. Players on the JV Team are looking forward to becoming a key part of the Varsity Team.

GOALS & SHOTS

"Our friendships both on and off the field enabled us to play better as a unit. This quality guaranteed us a more successful and enjoyable season."

— Anne Simons

The fair maidens of the Bay Shore girls' varsity soccer team, led by captains Heather Kearon, Laura Sweeney, and Christine Williams, had an outstanding season. Despite extreme swings in weather conditions, the girls' spirits remained undaunted as they bravely battled and conquered their opponents. All would agree that the combination of their unity, determination, and skill was the key that enabled them to emerge with a winning record. With a large number of returning players, the team has set its sights on next year's championships.

Though very young, the junior varsity team also had a great year. The few returning players successfully provided the necessary experience and guidance to bring the team together. With great potential, they are looking forward to making next year's season even better.

Bay Shore's Boys' Volleyball cannot be called "the new sport around" anymore. This was the third year Bay Shore had a boys' team, and five out of the six starters were on the team when the program originated. It was a year in which great achievements were expected, and by no means did the team fall short of fulfilling these expectations.

The team finished second place in a most competitive league with an astounding 6-2 league record. Senior captains Marc Berger, Chris Hansen, and Doug Rosener provided a strong backbone for the team which helped its success. All three players, along with outside hitter Steve Carroll received All-league honors; in addition, setter Doug Rosener also received All-county honors. Rounding out the starting lineup was senior middle, Brian Kearney.

The JV team, coached by Miss Lauren Schultz, also had a winning season and consisted of many players who will eventually develop into top Varsity players. Next year the Varsity team will be led by three returning players: sophomore hitter Craig DeMott, and juniors, James Oosterum and Keith Filaski. When asked about the teams future, Coach Ms. E. Eckman said that Bay Shore will continue to maintain a dominating boys' volleyball program.

Working together, the Bay Shore girls' field hockey team made it a season to remember. They succeeded overall with twelve wins, one tie, and only one loss, not to mention eleven shut-outs. Cathy Longo was the high scorer with 13 goals, while Kelly Durant holds this year's record with ten assists. Through effort, perseverance, and teamwork, they achieved first place in the league. Outstanding players who made All-League were Kelly Durant, Cathy Longo, Jenn Hulse, Michelle Graham, April Carhart, and Stephanie Pickett. Kelly Durant also made All-County and Cathy Longo received honorable mention. With only one senior on the squad, the team finished first in its league with an impressive 12-1-1 record. The team even beat its most formidable opponent from Newfield.

The Boys' Gymnastics team had one of its most rewarding and outstanding seasons. While the gymnasts had to overcome many adversities, such as a team consisting only of a total of eight members, they strived for the best and excelled. The leadership of the four senior co-captains, Jesse D'Elia, Marty Golden, Steve Garcia, and Pat Niebling, combined with the power of junior Keith Kastner, enabled the team to capture third place at the New York State Championships. Distinction was also given to individuals ranging from All-League to All-American. The team attributed its success to the experience, knowledge, and devotion of its coaches, Mr. J. Pfeffer and Mr. E. Dunton, Jr., who helped make these achievements possible.

SWISHES & SLAM DUNKS

With only three returning players, this year's Varsity Basketball Team did not have high expectations for this season. But surprisingly, the young varsity team fought and conquered formidable foes. In games against Long Island's premier teams, Brentwood, Amityville, and Hempstead, Bay Shore came within a single digit deficit and had a lead in all three. When its league schedule began, the team went undefeated for six games. Leading the way for Bay Shore High

"We have a very young team, but we definitely have the potential to win another championship."

REBOUNDS & HOOPS

Girls' basketball continued to be one of the most exciting sports around. Players labored to be the best by playing with discipline and intensity making this a sport enjoyable for fans and players alike. This year, with a combination of many returning players and many talented new players, the Girls Basketball program continued to be a successful part of our school's athletic program.

"We had a really great season except for East Islip. Don't worry though, we'll get them next year."

-Pam Carter

The varsity team, led by the enthusiasm of coach Mr. J. Walsh, had an exciting season on the court. Captains Pam Carter, Kelly Durant, and Lisa Lowe provided the team with support and encouragement. Nicole Hines received the distinction of being one of the highest scorers in the league, and Sheila Callaway made her presence known on the court.

With Coach Mr. F. Pittelli and captains Kim Slater and Eileen Morales leading the team, the J.V. team worked hard and with each victory or defeat gained experience while reaching a new level of achievement.

In each of their games both teams displayed high levels of team spirit. Through their hard work and dedication they have proven that there are no limits to what may be achieved in the future.

The Bay Shore Varsity Cheerleaders are definitely a sight to see. This year the team made some major changes, such as the addition of a male cheerleader, Damien Rivera.

The season got off to a great start when the team attended the National Cheerleading Association Camp in Pennsylvania. They stole the show by receiving four awards; a spirit award, a spirit stick, award of excellence runner up, and the T.E.A.M. award. This award was the most honorable award at camp because it was voted on by other cheerleading squads. The award's name means Together Everyone Achieves Miracles.

At a local competition in Longwood, Bay Shore finished second out of seventeen teams. In addition, the team was awarded a five hundred dollar first prize for its perfect performance in the Macy's competition. Along with its busy schedule with sports such as football and basketball, and other competitions, the team also collaborated with the Marching Band to create an award winning show. Its appearance in the Columbus Day Parade in New York City brought in a prestigious third place award.

The often unnoticed Cheerleaders have been trying to gain support from their peers, and in the future they would like to be recognized as true athletes.

The girls' winter track team got off to a great start this season. Most of the team was new to the sport but five of the teams top runners; Kristen Kroger, Monique Johnson, Janet Wilson, Colette Taylor, and Danielle Morello, returned as seniors. The new team showed a lot of potential under the leadership of coach Mr. W. Estes, who held high expectations for the entire team. They attended one of the season's most important invitational at Yale University and they did exceptionally well. The season ended with the girls finishing as county champions.

For the boys, cross country was the building block for the majority of the team. As a result of placing first in their conference, the guys brought a lot of self esteem and dedication to their winter season. Throughout the fall, Coach Hawkins worked them hard both physically and mentally. The team was also taught how to appear intimidating while not being intimidated by their opponents. When the winter season arrived, they carried these traits onto the track, pushing their potential to the limits and savoring the results.

STRIKES & SPARES

The bowling team celebrated its twenty-fifth anniversary this year with a terrific season. The team had its highest one game series of 1,048 and its highest three game series of 2,918. These scores reflected an increase of ninety pins per game over last year.

The team looked great on the alleys with sophomore Joe Camacho placing first in the County. Coach Mr. J. Morrison was proud of the team's accomplishments this year and felt that Bay Shore has left its mark on the league competitions.

PUCKS & STICKS

Time was running out. Legs pumped furiously, and with the puck safely in his control, the center bolted towards the other team's goal. His teammates flanked him, ready to deflect any opposing defenseman who might come too close. He glanced briefly at his target and the goalie, shifting nervously in front of the net, returned his attention to guiding the puck along. Finally, as he drew near the goal, his stick's blade twisted to send the puck soaring through the air. The other goalie stretched in vain to intercept the orange sphere, but the shot was too well placed. It sank easily into the goal's soft net. As the referee's whistle sounded to signal that he had scored, the player trotted to the face-off circle, ready to repeat the trick if he had another chance.

Scenes like this delighted watchers of the High School's own floor hockey team. Despite the fact of its nonprofessional status, floor hockey turned out to be as violent as, or even more violent than, regular ice hockey. Known to some as "Death Hockey," the sport sent numerous players skidding into the gym's bleachers as they pushed and shoved in their struggle for the puck. Because of the risk of injury, league coordinator Mr. F. Pittelli declared and strictly enforced a rule that, at the least, each player had to wear some form of face protection.

No matter where their team finished at the end of the season, nearly all of the non-senior players were enthusiastic about next year's season. "Death Hockey" or not, these students love and live to play for keeps and keep on playing.

As the whistle is blown, the toughest six minutes of a wrestler's life begin. Hearts pound as each player fights desperately to achieve a win by pinning their opponent.

Coaches Mr. R. Rosener and Mr. J. Leggio pushed the team to do their best and encouraged them to continue Bay Shore's winning tradition. This year the Bay Shore wrestling team was forced to confront many obstacles. Illness and injury plagued many of the team members. With the help of captain Charlie Gleis and the many other talented wrestlers, Bay Shore was again able to overcome all obstacles to bring new meaning to the word "Pride."

Spotlight On

Marty Golden

Throughout his entire high school career, Marty has been an important member of the gymnastics team. In tenth grade he was selected as both All County and All League for the still rings and the parallel bars. He held this distinction through his senior year. After scoring an amazing 9.1 on the rings in competition, Marty holds the school record for the event. This season, he placed third on the rings out of all the gymnasts in New York State. In addition to his other awards, he is a two year All-American on still rings.

Danielle Morello

Being named for All-League, Conference, and County is nothing new to Danielle Morello. She's been receiving these awards since she began her track career. Danielle has been a member of the championship cross country and track teams throughout her four years at Bay Shore High School.

Colette Taylor

Colette Taylor has been running track since seventh grade, and running it well. In the six years she's been on the team she has earned many All League, All County and All Conference titles. The mile relay team she was a member of was county champions and they placed sixth in the national meet. In the 4x400 run, Colette was All American.

Janet Wilson

Janet Wilson has also been running for years. In tenth grade she was the county champion in the 400 meter. She was also a member of the championship mile relay team. This year she was given All League, All County, and All Conference awards.

Kristen Kroger

Cross country runners all over Long Island know the name Kristen Kroger. She has received various all League, County and Conference titles. She's a member of the championship cross country team and in her junior year was selected for the All-Star team. Kristen was also chosen to be on the All State cross country team.

Athletes

Kelly Durant

Kelly Durant has been totally involved in sports since entering the high school. In ninth grade she was on J.V. Volleyball, Varsity Basketball, and Varsity Field Hockey. Now on all varsity teams, she was co-captain on both the field hockey team for two years and the basketball team in eleventh grade. Kelly has received All-League, County, and Conference awards in field hockey for the past two years.

Keith Kastner

This was a busy gymnastics season for Keith Kastner. He received All-League all around and All-County for the floor exercise, still rings, vault, parallel bars, and high bar. At the New York State meet he placed sixth on the parallel bars and third on the pommel horse. Keith was All-American on the pommel horse, parallel bars, and all around.

Monique Johnson

Monique Johnson has acquired many awards during her high school track career. Besides the numerous All League, County and Conference awards, Monique has been on championship teams. She was a member of the mile relay county championship team both indoors and outdoors and the team finished sixth in the national meet. At the Long Island Championships she placed second in intermediate hurdles. In her junior year Monique was voted the M.V.P. of the county for indoor track.

Steve Garcia

Steve Garcia was a co-captain on the gymnastics team this year. He received All-League honors for the pommel horse, floor exercise, vault, still rings, high bar, and parallel bars. Steve is also All-American in the floor exercise.

WEIGHTS & MUSCLES

It seemed like more and more teachers and students were spending their free time in the weight room this year. The interest in bodybuilding was quite high with some of the students even participating in the bodybuilding shows held in the building. Whether they're just trying to stay in shape, be more impressive in a bathing suit, or trying to increase their body strength, these male and female athletes were dedicated to their workout schedules and routines. Under the supervision of Mr. J. McGowan, the members of the barbell club enjoyed their daily workouts and planned on continuing throughout the summer months.

DASHES & HURDLES

Each year the spring track team seems to grow larger and larger. Every day throughout the spring season, these athletes can be seen running through the streets of Bay Shore and practicing hurdles, shot put, or other events on the track. The track team is yet another that has a tradition of winning here at Bay Shore- from leagues to conferences to county's. Nothing less was expected from the squad by this year's coaches either. The many seniors on the team provided great leadership and examples for the younger runners to follow. With such a large team filled with so much talent the possibilities (now and in the future) are endless.

PADS & GLOVES

Every spring a mass of lacrosse players shows up ready for try outs. Each one hopes that he will win a spot on the varsity team. The lacrosse team figured that after tryouts were over, they'd still be running laps. During the first few days of practice they found themselves shoveling snow instead. At the start of the season Bay Shore got off to a great start with a 14-9 win over Islip. Despite recent uneventful seasons, according to seniors Dave Padden and Chris McCollum, "This year's unified team has the will, determination, and talent to reach their goals and strive for excellence." This is all due to their hard work throughout both practices and games. Even the coaches commented that this year the lacrosse team is definitely looking forward to a successful season.

Last year marked the first time that girls' lacrosse was played here in Bay Shore as a school sport. After years of tossing the ball around with the guys after school, the girls finally had a team for themselves. After placing third in the J.V. league last year, a varsity team was started this spring with a majority of last year's players returning. Though they were "under dogs" last year, much is expected of the girls for this season. When the team gets distracted, coaches Mr. and Mrs. J. Pfeffer and Ms. K. Schnellenbach make sure that they keep their heads in the game and they bring out the best in every member of the team. The team is always working on its skills because they are the most important and essential part of the game.

Last year there was much teasing between the guys and girls as to whose was the better sport. After an initial full and successful season the lacrosse players at Bay Shore have come to realize that they are two different games sharing only fast paced motion, goalie cages and sticks, and the name of course. One thing all players do agree on though is that lacrosse is a lot of fun!

MATCHES & SETS

The guys on the tennis team work hard in practice, play hard during the matches, and serve hard each time they start a new game. The teams' five returning players, among them captains Dave Reiss and Brendon Hand, provided the leadership necessary for a great season. From the start of the season, Coach Mr. J. Morrison held high expectations for both singles and doubles players. Eric Gonzalez and Tim Stringer, who are returning doubles team state finalists, struck fear into their opponents hearts and with every win, increased Bay Shore's chances of a high league placement at the close of the season.

ACES KILLS

Girls' volleyball has long been a strong point of Bay Shore athletics. With a core of talented returning players, the focus was on playing one game at a time. Coach Miss E. Eckman felt that with this team's level of skill and dedication came the greatest possibilities in recent years of realizing goals of league and county championships. Game after game the points added up to produce a very exciting and successful season. With every bump, set, and spike played, the girls became closer friends enabling them to play as a better unit. For the graduating players it's tough saying good-bye. It's like saying good-bye to your family.

HITS & HOMERS

More and more players tried out for the baseball team this year. Under Coach, Mr. P. Todaro, the team, consisting of twenty-five players, looked great with many new and returning players. The season started off well with Bay Shore winning two of its first three games. Mr. Todaro felt that this year's squad had a great deal of potential because of its strong defense. The team also had a lot of "stick" potential at home-plate. The pitching squad was dynamite with four of the six pitchers who are upperclassmen. According to sophomore Paul Ramos, "We have the potential to beat East Islip and Smithtown East, our biggest rivals, if we put our heads together."

The JV team under, Coach Mr. V. Agoglia, was also looking forward to another outstanding season.

BUNTS & SLIDES

"The Miracle of Fifth Avenue" continues on. The Bay Shore girls softball team has maintained a winning tradition for over a decade. Just check out the shirts they wear; or the jackets, hats, and other apparel. Better yet, ask the girls themselves. Each one will tell you that with a spot on the softball team comes a tremendous amount of pride in the school, in the team, and in themselves. With past seasons culminating in undefeated records and league championships, Coach Mr. J. McGowan once again had high expectations for his team. This season also marked Mr. McGowan's 200th win in his ten year coaching career. Captains Laura Sweeney and Mary Persson kept team spirit high through every practice and game. Softball is not an easy sport; the practices are long and hard with each player being expected to put forth total energy and dedication to the sport and team. Returning players and new members alike will say that the work is definitely worth it.

SCHOOL LIFE

For many students the things that made our lives at Bay Shore High School truly memorable were the extra-curricula activities. Students eagerly looked forward to the end of the day when they could spend some free time with their friends in the myriad of activities and clubs that are offered to all. In addition to the athletic program, these clubs and activities provided students a chance to develop their interests and skills and even to work on community projects. While many vacated the building at exactly 1:45 each day, others remained to participate and get involved. Many have enjoyed the camaraderie they have shared with their peers and teachers. These activities helped students get through the day and gave them something to look forward to after their classes were over. Together these students have shared their laughter, excitement, and school spirit. For many the best part of extra-curricular activities was definitely the memories that were formed and the friendships that were made. The work that went into these activities became fun for all. The people and faces in this section made things happen for themselves "Once Upon Our Time".

Everyone enjoys a plate of a steaming spaghetti and meatballs, and the annual Spaghetti Dinner sponsored by the senior class was an event well worth the waiting for. Normally held in December, the Annual Spaghetti Dinner was again held in March this year, and instead of cooking the spaghetti in the school cafeteria, the food was prepared by a local caterer. The repast, consisting of spaghetti, meatballs, salad, Italian bread, and dessert, was enjoyed by all who attended. Parents, teachers, and students had a chance to sit down and "break bread" together. As the last strains of the Italian music faded into the distance, all agreed that this would be a night to remember once upon our time.

Begun last year for the first time, the Senior Banquet has become a popular addition to the festivities celebrating the final year of high school. With its casual "party" atmosphere, the senior dinner brought the seniors together to enjoy each other's company. The pressures of having a date and getting dressed in formal attire were removed from this activity so that more students could attend just to have a good time. There was food, music, and dancing which provided a pleasant break from the normal school routines and pressures of applying for colleges. Students mingled around the room, stopping at tables for a quick chat and an occasional dance. It was a perfect night!

While other school districts were performing "South Pacific" and "A Chorus Line," the directors in Bay Shore were looking for an unusual musical for this year's production. After looking at many different scores and scripts, the directors unanimously chose the popular Broadway hit, "Me and My Girl." Although its music and choreography were very challenging, the directors felt that the talented musicians and performers could rise to meet their level of expectations. Thespians jumped at the opportunity to play the funny roles and sing the lively melodies. The story of the cockney lad who was transformed into an English gentleman was filled with funny scenes and sub-plots. Todd Casale, playing Bill Snibson, kept the audiences laughing with his zany antics and wide-eyed reactions. Johanna Brown as Lady Jacqueline played the seductive temptress to perfection. Senior, Rosemary Lombardo as the Duchess, brought a sense of dignity and royalty to the role that paralleled the character on Broadway. Other outstanding performances were turned in by Don Swenson, Anthony DiMatteo, Dave Balsamo, and freshman Jessica Parker. This was the first time in quite a while that a freshman played a leading role in a musical. Jessica looked great as Sally and danced her way right into the hearts of the audience. When the portraits came to life, the audience roared with laughter. The characters were hysterically funny and entertaining.

Each year audience members return to the High School to see what new heights the productions will reach. This year's was just another in a long list of successes. All who left the theater on Friday and Saturday evenings were singing the refrains to "The Lambeth Walk" and a few were even tap dancing their way up the aisle. The cast and crew had done it again! Everything from the costuming, scenery, singing, and dancing was a huge success, enjoyed by all.

Victory in our Time

With the sun brightly shining the Marauder Marching Band led the annual Homecoming Parade through downtown Bay Shore and up to the High School. Flags flew, and the air was filled with the pulsing music and cheers of the representatives from each class. The Grand Marshall, former senior class advisor Mr. D. Jones, was pulled through the streets in the handsome surrey from last year's musical production. Behind him came the floats and marchers from each class. It was once around the field for the marchers, and then on came the football team. The Marauders were victorious over the Huntington Blue Devils 30-0. It was a beautiful day and a homecoming to be remembered as the best of our time.

Once upon our time ladies and gentlemen dressed in a variety of wearing apparel. For each occasion and type of activity, there was a different set of clothing. AWARENESS WEEKEND

At 5:00 p.m. on Friday afternoon, students entered the gym lobby equipped with their pillows and sleeping bag in hand. A feeling of anxiety and anticipation filled the area as most didn't know too much about what lay ahead. It was the start of the bi-annual Awareness Weekend, and students scanned the crowd for familiar faces. By the end of the weekend most of these students will have made some new friends and acquaintances whom they had not known in the past. It was also time for them to become more knowledgeable about drugs and other problems facing teens in our society. From the check in-station the students reported to a classroom to meet their new "families." These family units consisted of an adult chaperone and other peers who were either Student Athletes, part of Peer Support Help, or just other interested students who were concerned about their classmates and their feelings. The rest of the weekend included small group discussions, presentations by guest speakers, and role playing activities. The weekend provided students with the opportunity to open up about personal problems and concerns that have been on their minds and also to examine their roles in society today. Many of the students shared their personal thoughts and experiences because they knew they felt comfortable in the atmosphere created by the leaders.

Each year more and more students sign up for the weekend, and no one ever leaves disappointed.

HOMECOMING ACTIVITIES

Coming back to Bay Shore High School is an annual tradition for those who have graduated. Colorful floats, cheering marchers, and a magnificent marching band revived the spirit of all who observed and participated in the 1991 Homecoming Festivities.

The pep rally's spectators were aroused by the marching band and cheerleaders who performed a routine from the song "Get on Your Feet." As the teams from the fall sports came up on stage, the applause from the audience rose to a crescendo.

Following the pep rally, the high-spirited fans attended a dance in the small cafeteria which was decorated with balloons, flags, and streamers. The dance floor was encircled with different flags from countries around the world. The color and spirit truly emphasized the homecoming theme of "It's a Small World." Around 9:30 everyone paused from dancing to hear the winner of King and Queen of Homecoming '91. This prestigious honor was bestowed upon Katie Moynihan and Chris Hansen. Each one was thrilled with the honor. Katie stated, "Homecoming '91 was the best. Thanks for all the special memories. You guys are great." Chris added, "I am honored to have been chosen Homecoming King, and I thank you all for the memories."

The following day, at 2:00 P.M. the Bay Shore football team, ran out onto the field, with a huge crowd of alumni and students cheering them on to victory. The Bay Shore Marauders played a superb game over the Huntington Blue Devils and won 30-0. John Anitra led Bay Shore to victory by scoring three touchdowns. In years to come, the members of the senior class will be telling their children that Homecoming is one of those special events that happened once upon our time.

INHERIT THE WIND

The members of the backstage club thought that they were being asked to do the impossible, to complete a task which no other high school could ever accomplish. Under the direction of Mrs. C. Jones, they built a set which could easily be mistaken for one seen on Broadway. The students in this particular club leave with a sense of dignity and pride in their work. When the sets are first previewed by the student body, the students do not realize or appreciate the hard work and dedication that go into making these beautiful sets. The set took hours of painstaking work on a ladder and a scaffold to achieve such realism and detail. For this particular production of "Inherit the Wind" it took this group of individuals approximately nine weeks to create the feeling of being a part of the town of Hillsboro where the story takes place. A simultaneous setting was selected in keeping with the original drawings from the Broadway show. The town and courtroom had to remain totally visible to the audience at all times. One of its most loyal members, Allison Stack, has been working in the backstage club for the past five shows and has learned the meaning of the word teamwork and that a club cannot survive without it.

Everyone had a chance to get into the act for "Inherited the Wind" which boasted a large cast and crew.

When discussing possibilities for this year's annual drama production, the members of the Thespian Troupe voted unanimously to do a serious courtroom drama which re-enacted the famous Scopes Monkey Trial. "It was fun doing the research on a role of a real figure in history. I enjoyed playing the role of Bertram Cates and especially finding out what happened to him after the trial," said Anthony DiMatteo. Getting the spectators to react to the defense attorney's remarks was no easy task for director, Mr. J. D'Antoni, but once the cast members took their places in the set designed by Mrs. C. Jones the task became easier for all concerned.

The roles of lawyers, Matthew Harrison Brady and Henry Drummond, were expertly played by David Balsamo and Marc Johnson who prepared for their roles by watching the movie version of the play and by speaking to social studies teacher and Mock Trial advisor, Mr. R. Richardson. Becky Bonanno added a great deal of emotion to the plot as Bert Cates's girlfriend, torn between her father and the man she loved. Todd Casale and Rosemary Lombardo rounded out the cast as the judge and Mrs. Brady. Kate Clark's portrayal of the cynical E.K. Hornbeck brought a new dimension to the character, and Don Swenson's interpretation of Reverend Brown reflected the character of a true Methodist preacher.

Kudos went to the entire cast and crew for another outstanding high school production.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS OF AMERICA

The chapter of FBLA at Bay Shore High School has been together for three years. Bay Shore's first year of existence was an exciting one, winning the best new chapter in New York with President Jamie Kowalski. The group had a struggling year, last year. But, plans are under way for rebuilding a new and exciting chapter.

This years chapter consists of eighteen members, including eight officers, this is the largest group Bay Shore has ever had. President Steven Clock and Co-President Dave Agoglia plan on having a big year this year, with many fundraising activities, community services and social activities. Advisor Mrs. Maloney is pleased with this years turnout. She has planned to rebuild the group after last years breakdown.

The Bay Shore chapter plans on competing in a winter competition at Suffolk Community College. The members compete in written and oral tests. During April the group will travel to Rochester where they will compete in a state wide competition.

Being a member of FBLA for three years and being President for two, I have grown tremendously as a person. I have strengthened my leadership ability, my business knowledge and I have grown to respect and appreciate the business environment.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

In the words of its President, Jesse D'Elia, the goal of the National Honor Society is "to do work to benefit the community in hopes of paying it back for all that it has given them." As its name implies the Honor Society is a national organization that recognizes excellence in character, leadership, service, and scholarship. This year the Bay Shore chapter had thirty-eight members, all of whom were willing to donate their time and energy in service to others.

Among the activities that the organization participated in were the traditional organization of the holiday food drives, chaperoning S.E.P.T.A. outings, and lending a hand in school activities. This year's National Honor Society, also led by Vice-President Doug Rosener, Secretary Kelly Falconer, and Treasurer Gregg Macey, added many new activities surely bound to become traditions. These activities included a "free" fund raising car wash, its involvement with the hospice of the South Shore, and its work with the Bay Shore food pantry.

The group also conducted a Saturday morning outing to do yard work for a woman suffering from cancer. Mrs. Orobona and Mrs. Ponzi were proud to advise an organization eager to help others, an organization which made great strides towards meeting its goals.

THE MARAUDER

Publishing a yearbook like '92 Marauder is not as easy as it may look. There are many hours of long hard work involved before the publication can be put to bed. The process starts in April when the official photographer is selected to take the senior portraits. The entire junior class must have its senior portraits scheduled before the end of that school year so that the staff will have the pictures available for the first color deadline in September. Taylor Publisher issues a set of deadlines which must be strictly adhered to if the book is going to be ready for distribution by the beginning of June. If so much as one of those deadlines is missed, then the book's delivery date is pushed into the summer vacation which means that seniors will not have their books before graduation. Scheduling sports photographs, sifting through mountains of pictures, writing articles for every activity in the building, and creating captions for every picture are among the many other tasks performed by the yearbook staff. Each section has a carefully chosen layout design which must follow the theme of the overall book.

This year's staff set out to change the appearance and format of the book. There are more creative stories in the book as well as a four-color cover for the first time in the book's history. After all of the work is done, seeing the finished product and the happy faces of the students and staff in the building make the hours of work all seem worthwhile. And for those who worked so diligently, they have the satisfaction of knowing this is what they did once upon a time. In addition to Riviera Studios and the staff photographers, we would also like to thank Mrs. A. Schwartz and Mr. C. Roye for helping us take pictures.

BATTLE OF THE CLASSES

When one thinks back upon his time in high school, one of the main highlights each year will always be the Battle of the Classes. Marauders from each grade level gathered in the large gymnasium to fight it out to determine the superior class. Through such tests of strength and endurance as Izzy Dizzy, Crab Ball, and the Tug-of War, warriors from their respective classes met their challengers. Bay Shore's answer to the hit TV program, "American Gladiators," was enjoyed by all of the participants and spectators who cheered on their representatives. The Seniors once again took first place in the games, but a noble fight was fought and a good time was had by all in attendance.

ENVIRONMENTAL CLUB

Once upon a time mother nature absorbed without consequence all the pollution and waste mankind was capable of producing. Today man's waste and pollution cannot be completely absorbed by the environment that sustains our lives. Although this statement is not debatable, the causes behind our environmental problems are. The blame for our problems falls on technology, ignorance, poverty, wealthy, greed, and overpopulation. The Bay Shore High School Environmental Club's goal is to help preserve the environment by educating those people who cared enough to listen. Alerting the public to the dangers and hazards of abusing the environment was the primary goal of the club. Once ignorance concerning the problem is erased, hopefully the public will be more willing to invest additional time and energy to finding cures for these problems.

SADD

By now most people know the meaning of the initials S.A.D.D. This organization serves the student population by keeping them aware of the dangers of driving while under the influence of alcohol. The members, along with advisor Mrs. A. Stabler, distribute leaflets to the students before the prom, helped the M.A.D.D. volunteers on red-ribbon day, and man the telephones on prom night. The fact that one person is killed approximately every 15 minutes is a statistic that keeps this group focused on its objective.

INTERACT

Throughout the year the students at the high school heard announcements about the activities of the Interact Club. One of Bay Shore's newest clubs, the Interact Club has grown in size and structure in the past few years. Under the direction of Mrs. M. Fagan and Mrs. M. Petrallia, the club held a Bingo night for senior citizens and a holiday crafts sale. The sale was a huge success as evidenced by the string of cars that lined Perkal Street and Third Avenue. Interact also was responsible for another successful "Paris Ball." Senior Citizens danced the night away and felt very privileged to be treated so specially by the high school students.

ACTING CLASS

No, these students were not practicing to be stand up comedians. They were part of an acting class activity demonstrating Greek theater and the use of masks by the early Greek performers. Understanding the roots of theater is a primary goal of the Introduction to Acting course, taught by Mr. J. D'Antoni. Theater officially started with the Greeks who wore high platform boots to be seen on the outdoor stages. In order to project their voices these early thespians used masks that amplified their voices. These masks had eye and mouth holes cut into them which restricted the use of facial expression.

These students decorated their bag masks and found this to be a good learning experience, for once the bag was on, the performer had to rely solely on his voice and body movements to communicate with the audience. This was just one of the many "hands-on" types of activities that are part of the acting class.

MUSICAL DRAMA GROUP

Music teacher, Mr. C. Morrow, introduced a new challenge to his choir students this year. He took several of his choir students and formed the Musical Drama Group. The goal of the group is to study and stage scenes from various Broadway musicals. The participants must not only learn difficult musical scores, but they must also perfect blocking and dialogue. Their first challenge was the popular play "Into the Woods," which they staged with a cast of ten students. Using the characters from several of Grimm's fairy tales such as "Cinderella," "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "Rapunzel," the play captures the charm of the original fairy tales but changes the traditional endings, for example Cinderella and the Prince's marriage ends in divorce. The students worked long and hard to capture the charm and humor of the original show and then traveled to Pilgrim State Hospital to perform for some of the patients.

The group has plans for doing another show for the spring concert. This gives music and voice students another opportunity to develop their stage skills.

CONCERT CHOIR

What better way to spend a free period than developing your vocal technique as part of the Concert Choir? After warm-up exercises are completed each day, the choir began its regime of songs in preparation for an upcoming concert or visit to another school or local hospital. With selections from "Miss Saigon," "Into the Woods," and "Camelot," they continued to impress their audiences. Many teachers on the third floor left their classroom doors open to enjoy to the Christmas songs that were being practiced around the holiday season. Under the direction of Mr. C. Morrow, the choir has grown in size and stature. The students are well-respected by their peers for the sounds that they are able to generate and the intricate music which they are able to master.

In the fall of 1991 fund raising was done in the form of product sales and a car wash. The money raised is going towards a trip to Hershey, Pennsylvania where the choir will perform in Hershey Park. Choir members were looking forward to this trip as the culmination of a year's activities.

MARCHING BAND

The Marauder Marching Band was on the move quite a bit this year. Traveling to Manhattan, the Band performed in the Columbus Day Parade for the march up Fifth Avenue. Another exciting trip was to Queens and Shea Stadium where the Band had the fans rocking with their upbeat rendition of "Get On Your Feet!" Later on in the school year, the Band visited Hempstead for the annual Hofstra University Marching Band Festival. It had been four years since the band last appeared at Hofstra. "This season has been the most productive and exciting season that I have ever done with the Marching Band," commented Mr. T. Scalzo. Conductor Danielle Weissert, one of the drum majors also had a few words to say, "I was disappointed that we did not compete but I feel we had an enjoyable season. The show was more entertaining because there was less competition." Under the direction of Danielle, Lori Kowalski, and Kelly Durant the High School Marching Band showed that Bay Shore students can really achieve something once they put their minds to it!

CONCERT BAND

Continuing its tradition of excellence, the Concert Band once again impressed audiences with the quality of its performances. Many people commented that Bay Shore's music program is one of the best on Long Island. Under the direction of Mr. T. Scalzo the band continues to reach new heights and to provide students with both an enjoyable and educational experience. The band gave a winter concert at Fifth Avenue School and totally astounded all of the children. Audiences cheered for more at the annual Pops Concert when selections from the Broadway play, "Miss Saigon" and the hit movie, "Robin Hood ; Prince of Thieves" were played.

Mr. Scalzo was especially proud of the band members who were selected for All-County. This year's list included: Kristine Swenson, Tim Hurt, Anne Cassara, Danielle Weissert, Jon Jemison, and Greg Giarratano. Greg also received the distinction of making All-County Percussion Ensemble.

(bottom) Trumpet players like Craig Scharf and Lou De Virgilio were the backbone of the Concert Band.

(top) Karen McGregor's flute added a softer, sweeter sound of the band.

ORCHESTRA

Walking through the third floor during fourth period, all can hear the melodious sounds of the orchestra practicing for one of its many concerts performed during the year. The various sections of the orchestra, including strings, horns, percussion, and woodwind, work together to create the dazzling sound that has continued to amaze and entertain their audiences. With their renditions of "The Hallelujah," "A Duke Ellington Medley," and music from the movie, "Back to the Future," the orchestra students once again proved their expertise and talent.

Under the direction of the talented Mr. R. Burns the Orchestra has continued to set new standards of excellence for performing groups on a high school level.

Mr. Burns said that Jessica Meyer, Tanika Davis, Anne Simons, Gregg Macey, and Danielle Weissert were named to the All-County Orchestra. Mike Vannoni, Jessica Meyer, Tanika Davis, and Julia Kim were selected for the Long Island String Festival. Jessica and Mike were further distinguished by being placed in the first seat for their divisions. All-State recipients included Tanika Davis and Jessica Meyer. All of the Orchestra members shared in the accomplishments earned by their peers.

MAROON ECHO

Keeping the student body informed and up-to-date is the main function of the school newspaper under the direction Mr. C. Litwin. The award-winning high school newspaper was published seven times throughout the year and distributed throughout the school and the district. Coverage varied from school topics, local issues, concerns, sports and entertainment articles. Most students eagerly awaited the distribution of the newspaper in homerooms to catch up on school activities. Senior editors Gregg Macey, Paul Vozzo, and Johanna Brown worked hard all year to maintain the standards of excellence that the paper has come to be known for.

One of the highlights of this year's format was the inclusion of a section entitled "Express Yourself" which contained student comments on current issues in the news. With features such as this, the newspaper has kept up with the latest trends in journalism and has served as a record of the events that happened once upon our time.

One organization that receives little attention in the building is STATUS. The members of this organization travel to Mary G. Clarkson or Gardiner Manor every Wednesday afternoon to serve as tutors to elementary students. Under the supervision of Mrs. C. Thomsett these high school students work to alleviate learning problems. This takes a great deal of dedication, perseverance and patience. Mrs. Thomsett is proud of her volunteers and the service they provide to the community.

MOCK TRIAL

Understanding the legal system of this country has always intrigued students and concerned citizens. The Mock Trial Team, under the guidance of Mr. Ray Richardson, gets a chance to study the law and develop a better understanding of how it works. Preparing and performing a case has earned the team a long-standing reputation for excellence. The competition allows interested students to put their knowledge of New York State law into practice in an actual courtroom setting. Trying a different case each year, students work extensively with the materials before appearing in front of an actual attorney or district court judge, who determines the outcome of the case. The current case involving child-snatching has been an interesting and challenging one. This year's team has high hopes for a successful season, with seven of the twelve members returning veterans. The Bay Shore mock trial team is one that truly does accomplish its goal of teaching students the intricacies of the law.

MOOT COURT

Moot Court is an underclassmen mock trial team that performs real cases already decided in court. The first week students receive a manual instructing them how to prepare and perform a case. Then groups of three or four people are formed, in which cases and matchups are decided. Students have about three weeks to prepare their case, writing questions and preparing witnesses. On the day their case is to be presented, students work to the best of their ability, acting as if they are lawyers defending or prosecuting a case. When the case is finished, the judge awards points to each team and the jury makes its decision. Moot Court advisor Mr. R. Richardson is proud of his team's work and hopes they will continue to perform well in the future. Most of the moot court members go on to becoming part of the Mock Trial Team.

CRAFTS CLUB

One of the most popular hobbies of young and old alike is making those attractive and creative crafts that one sees at Crafts fairs and local stores. Members of the Crafts Club enjoyed making gifts and decorations for themselves and others. They took pride in their work and satisfaction in knowing that their crafts will be on display in other people's homes. Everyone appreciated a gift that was made or bought especially for them. Whether it is something to eat, wear or hang, crafts are enjoyed by all.

(left) Erick Wilson tried on the latest in headgear which he had just finished.

The Art Club, under the direction of Mr. P. Palumbo, provided students with a perfect means of developing their creative ideas. Known for his interest in his students, Mr. Palumbo is able to encourage his students to express themselves through their sculpting, painting, and drawings. The students were encouraged to use their imaginations to their fullest to come up with new and better ideas. Many of the students used the time to continue working on required projects for their art classes. The students enjoyed the relaxed atmosphere and the extra help from Mr. Palumbo. Even alumni were always welcomed to stop in for a visit and chat. Art Club was fun and productive.

Once Upon Our Time. . .

nce upon our time we were all students at Bay Shore High School striving to learn, grow individually, and prepare for the future. Our school day was composed of various academic classes that we needed to improve our skills and prepare us for careers so that we could take our place in society. In addition, a large part of our school life relied on the many activities that we were involved in that helped us to release our tensions and develop our creative and athletic prowess. Our school years pass very quickly and the aim of the '92 MARAUDER staff has been to help preserve the memories of what we did once upon a time long ago. The photographs and articles found in this book have captured this important year in our maturation process. They will serve to remind us of our successes, our endeavors, and our good times. Years from now our own children will look back on these pages and say, "So that's how you looked and that's what you did when you were our ages."

The staff of the '92 MARAUDER through its dedication and perseverance has worked throughout the school year to preserve these memories of the significant events of this past school year. We hope that all will enjoy the fruits of our labor now and in years to come. We are confident that you will smile at the thought that this is what you did "Once Upon A Time."

Colophon

The 1992 MARAUDER was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas under the supervision of Mr. Neil Sanders, our Taylor representative. Photographers Doug Brehm and Dave Lamb, from Riviera Studios in Bay Shore took all of the official photographs and senior portraits while G & B Studios in Deer Park did the underclassmen pictures. The cover is printed on cream parchment lithocote in four colors with black lettering and tan parchment endsheets with maroon foil mascot. 525 copies of the 204-page book which includes two color signatures and one four-page full-color tipin on #80 matte stock were printed. A student supplement will be added to the book to cover the closing activities of the 1991-1992 school year. The standard type was Nouveau, which was submitted on diskette by utilizing Taylor's Type Vision and Directory Vision Software Programs. This is a student publication under the direction and supervision of Mr. Joseph B. D'Antoni and Mrs. Carol A. Jones.
