BAY SHORE HIGH SCHOOL

155 Third Avenue

Bay Shore, New York

Volume 75

The high school years are filled with an assortment of moments that each student cherishes and tries to hold onto for as long as possible. Whether happy or sad these moments are an important part of these students' lives. Long after the last bell has been rung in June, students will still be talking about the events and people of the past year.

For students from freshmen to seniors, nothing will ever remain the same as the future unfolds, so they hold onto these moments and make the memory of them last for as long as possible. During their high school years they were alive and eager to seize the moment and make every moment count. They dreamed of the future, and they knew that time would never be able to erase the memory of this moment.

Spirit Week

Moments come and go, but the fun of Spirit Week is one moment that stands out in students' minds. Seeing their peers and teachers dressed in bizarre outfits, with unkempt hairstyles, or wearing their class colors was fun for everyone and got everyone into the Homecoming spirit. It all began with the annual Renaissance kick-off celebration and ended a full week later with the Homecoming dance and crowning of the king and queen. This year it was even extended a day longer as the king and queen retained their titles and crowns on Monday and were dropped off by limousine, treated to breakfast, and then gave candy kisses to all of their subjects in the building.

The senior class won most of the spirit week competitions. Senior Chasity Torres said, "It is great when everyone gets involved. School becomes a great place and the week is one of the most unforgettable moments of the year."

Homecoming

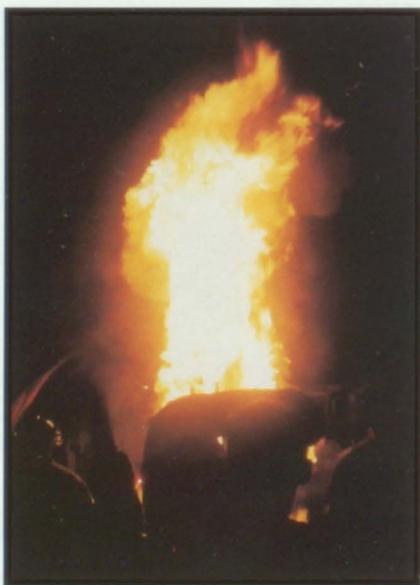

Amid a flurry of excitement and cheers, the long-awaited Homecoming Weekend started with the traditional bonfire. The band played and the cheerleaders jumped as the crowd nibbled on barbecued food, cooked by the principals and class advisors. The crowd then moved into the auditorium for a raucous pep rally.

The spirit continued through to Saturday when the parade marched up Third Avenue with a spectacular senior float, the band, the banners, and the hundreds of marchers.

Screaming fans greeted the football team for the start of the game against Commack. Senior Joe La Manna said, "When I looked in the stands and saw the crowd, my spirits were really lifted despite the rough time we had."

The weekend ended with dance competitions and games and the crowning of the king and queen. Homecoming weekend was truly a special moment for all.

Freshmen Orientation

For Freshmen it was a challenging and exciting moment when they entered the building for the first time as students. The orientation program, begun last year by Freshmen Leadership advisor, Ms. C. Sce, helped freshmen make an easier transition. After being dropped off by the bus, freshmen were introduced to Dr. Frazier and their upperclassmen group leaders who had volunteered and planned for this event. Following breakfast, the students toured the building.

Included in their orientation program was a presentation in the auditorium where scenes were presented by the Thespian Troupe to encourage freshmen to use the R.I.C.E. philosophy in decision making. The final stage of the orientation included warm-up games and ice-breakers.

Most freshmen would agree with Cheryl Kalman who said that the day was fun and helped relieve some of the anxiety about entering a new school.

Happy Birthday

One hundred years ago who would have thought that the tiny wood frame structure on Fourth Avenue would grow to become one of the larger districts on Long Island? With a graduating class of only one male and one female in 1909, the school district now boasts a graduating class of nearly three hundred students. There were only twelve faculty members in the first Bay Shore High School as compared to the 150 full time teachers, administrators, and supporting staff. The average starting salary for teachers was between four and six hundred dollars. Graduation was held in the Carleton Opera House and later on in the Regent Theater. Regents exams existed even back then.

Bay Shore was then and is still recognized as a progressive school. Classes were well-conducted, and teachers were carefully supervised by the ever-vigilant townsfolk.

Bay Shore was the first district to have a school orchestra. The local "hangout" for students was the South Side Drug Store.

Bay Shore continues to grow as a community, proud of its early heritage.

Making New Memories

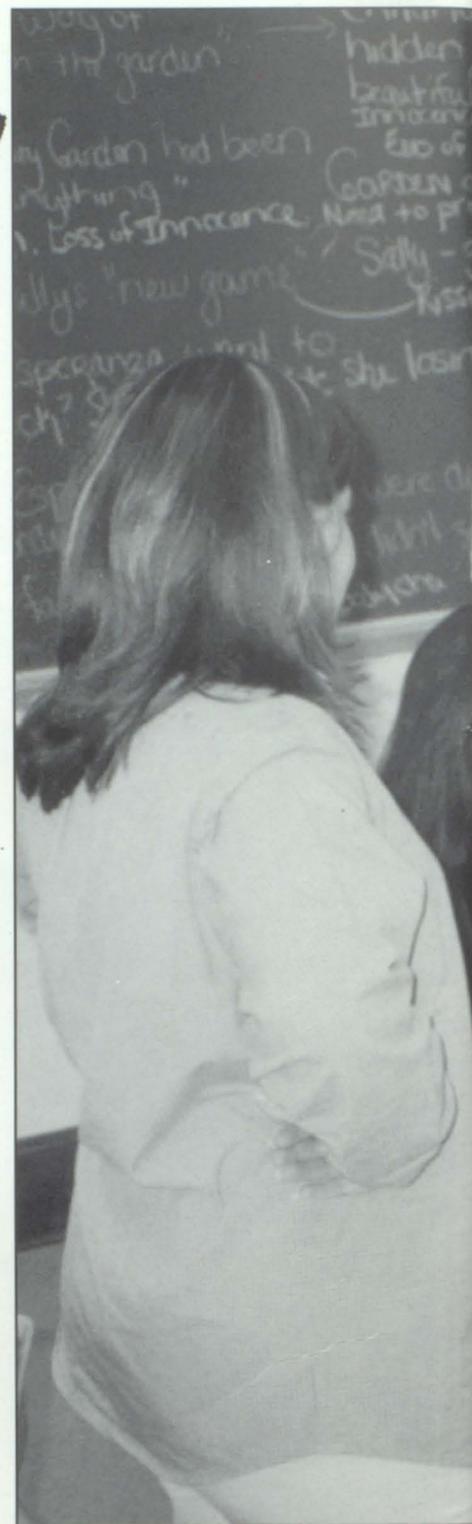

Freshman year was busy with fun and exciting new activities to enjoy. It was a year filled with new hopes and dreams, as well as occasional frustrations which accompany getting used to a new school environment. They enjoyed activities such as Homecoming, the pep rally, the Freshman Ice Cream Social, and Freshman Teacher Appreciation Day.

With the help of their advisor, Ms. K. Waite, and their class officers, Billy Knapp, Evelyn Britt, Emma Katz, and Kevin Miller, the year was a successful one. "The officers this year were a group of students who took their positions seriously," stated their advisor Ms. K. Waite. They helped to make the freshman year unforgettable.

To help the freshmen make a smooth transition to the High School, there were upper-class volunteers who served as leaders for the students. They guided the students around, not only on the first day but also throughout the entire year. They worked in freshmen homerooms and supported the students whenever they were frustrated by the expectations of high school courses.

Freshman year was the beginning of many endeavors that will come into play in the future.

First Impressions

Remembering freshmen moments

From the moment the freshmen entered the high school, they were overwhelmed with a variety of emotions. Emma Katz expressed her anxiety by saying, "The Bay Shore High School was an unfamiliar building, and I was sure I would get lost." For many freshmen their worst nightmare was getting lost in the much larger high school building.

Most of the students didn't know what to expect from the teachers and what they would be like. They were happy to find that the teachers respected the students and treated them much differently from other teachers in lower grades. Kristin Gianfalla stated, "The teachers didn't baby us as the middle school teachers did. They treated us like young adults, and I respected them for that."

Although the freshmen had many fears about coming into the high school, they were relieved to know that it wasn't all that bad. Jacqueline Rivera said, "I consider the High School a second home." Todd Traynor happily discovered the actor and singer within himself. By the end of the year the freshmen felt as if they were part of a big family. They all will remember these special moments.

Student Council

Helping the Community in Moments of Need

With activities like the Homecoming Dance, the Thanksgiving Food Drive, Adopt-A-Family, and Student Government Elections, there wasn't a moment to spare in the lives of the student council members. They were kept busy all year long trying to improve the community and organize school activities. Mrs. C. DiPane, the advisor to Student Council not only had to maintain High School traditions but also organize and initiate new activities such as the Halloween costume contest and spirit points.

"We tried to make this school year the best, and at the same time we helped a lot of families in the community. There were moments when we felt like giving up, but we knew there were a lot of people depending on us for holiday meals and gifts. Knowing that we helped someone, gave us a feeling of great satisfaction," said Melinda Clemens.

It took a lot of hard work and dedication to live up to the legacy that Student Council officials left behind from previous years. Student Council members can say with a sense of pride that they not only lived up to the legacy left behind but also created a legacy all their own.

Music Theory Lab

On the cutting edge of multi-media

For some people composing their own songs and lyrics or setting them to a video is merely an unattainable dream. For the students in Mr. T. Scalzo's multi-media lab, that dream has come true.

Students in the Music Theory class learned basic music fundamentals and composition techniques through the use of computers. Each student was expected to submit one self-composed piece of music. Multi-Media Lab students produced videos, audio CDs, interactive CD ROMs, college portfolios, and altered images, known as advanced imaging.

In this two-in-one class, the students were given a project by Superintendent Dr. E. Holman. The class compiled a twelve and a half minute video, based on the past four years of community summits. There were 1500 copies made so that complimentary tapes could be given to this year's summit attendants. The name of this production was "Reaching New Heights."

Dennis Florida, who has produced his own CD, right in the classroom commented, "This class gave students the opportunity to take advantage of the cutting edge technology, which is the way of the future."

Karen Good

Professional Writer Shares Ideas

Karen Good, professional writer for Seventeen and Vibe magazines, presented a series of workshops for English and journalism classes. Students enjoyed the opportunity to ask questions of an actual writer and her publisher, Danielle Smith. Karen gave lively, witty presentations and kept the classes enthralled. She explained the writing process and how nothing is ever accepted on the first draft. Students crowded around Karen and bombarded her with questions and requests for pictures and autographs. Karen carefully prepared her talks with the students and gave them an accurate glimpse of a writer's life. During lunch Stacey Montello and Kerry Nelson reassured her that she was definitely making an impact on their writing. Karen shared samples of her own writing and explained the frustrations of having her drafts revised by her editors.

Karen talked about her interviews with such famous artists as Method Man from the Wu-Tang Clan and Lil Kim from the Junior Mafia.

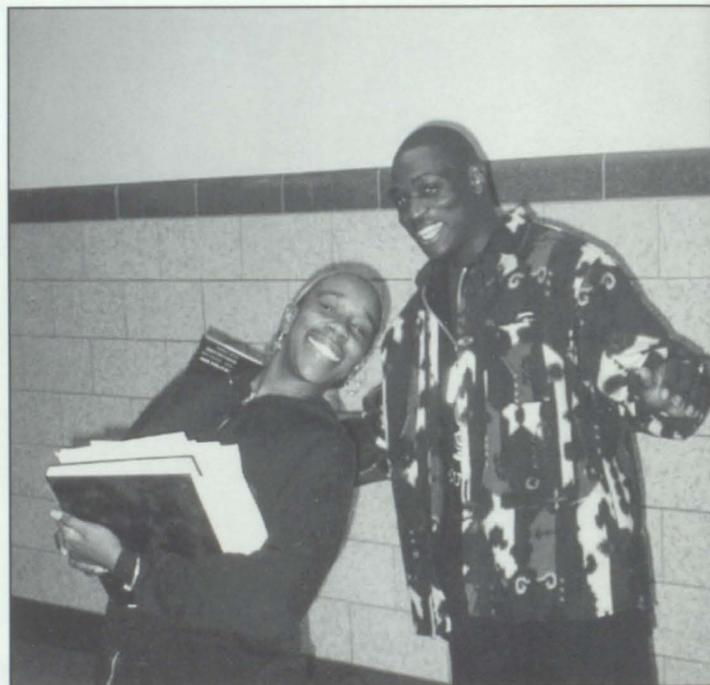

Karen offered to return to Bay Shore to judge a writing contest. For now she has returned home to Prairie View, Texas where she is working on her first book.

Sophomores

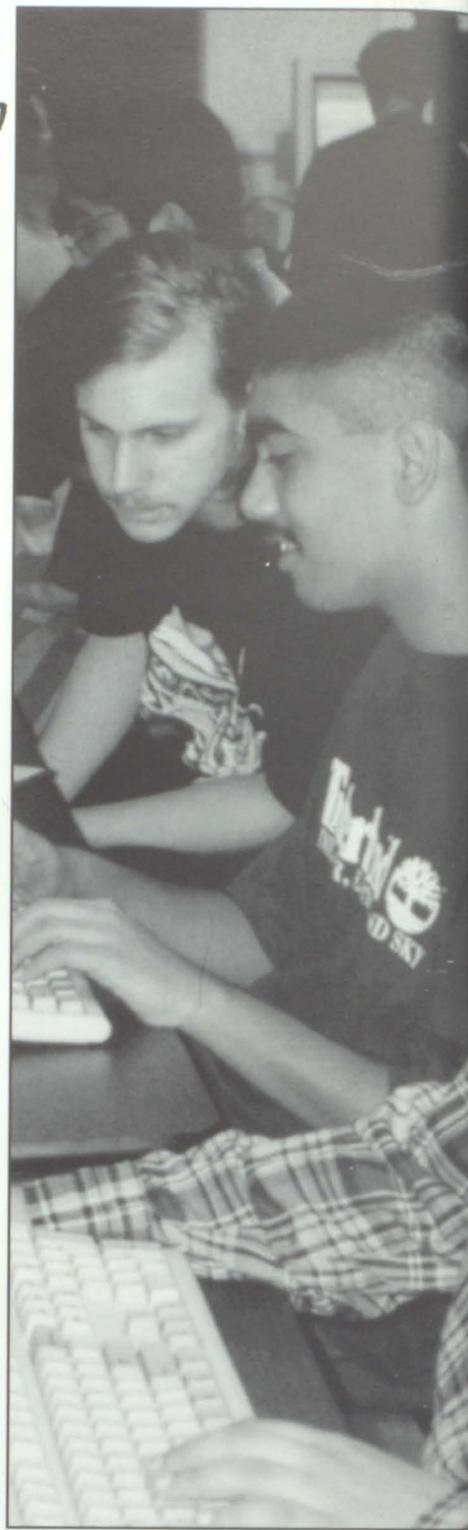

The Class of 2000

As the decade raced to a conclusion, all eyes were focused on the famous class of 2000. Their opinions, hopes, and dreams, as well as their concerns and anxieties, were the focus of news reporters and year-book journalists. When these students graduate in two years, how will their lives be different from today's seniors? Will they be prepared for the changes and innovations that will occur in the new century? Will there be new pressures and stresses for them to cope with?

Sophomores have learned how to handle this exciting situation. They looked forward to the future with enthusiasm and intrepidation. As Vinnie Tortoici said, "We've been under a great deal of scrutiny since people realized that we'll be the first class of the new millenium. It brings a lot of new responsibilities and challenges."

Sophomores were comfortable this year as they made their way around the High School building. They were involved in sports and a variety of activities. They knew that the eyes of the future will be on them, but they worked to make the most of the present. They worked hard to be successful and to be prepared.

Latino Dance

Latin beats rock the night

Sounds of Salsa and Merengue emanated throughout the school as students crowded into the cafeteria to enjoy a night of revelry and dancing.

Students of Latino heritage and other ethnic backgrounds came together to enjoy the festivities of the evening. "After being postponed earlier this year, we were happy that the dance was such a huge success," stated advisor Mrs. H. Saravis.

Games and contests were held for the participants. In the dance competition Jesus Vasquez won first place for night long. "It was a fun night for the students, staff, and everyone who helped to make the dance possible," said chaperone for the night Mr G. Giatino.

B.A.R.T

Technology in action!

As the Math-Science-Technology program continued to grow, it developed a curriculum to do robotics in the classroom. With a seventeen thousand dollar grant from the Bell Atlantic Corporation, the robotics team set out to construct its first 140 pound robot known as FIRST, which means For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology. The team of students and teachers attended a competition in March so that they will be able to compete next year. This year was spent getting organized and forming the ETS, Engineering Technology Society to later be included in B.A.R.T., the Bell Atlantic Robotics team.

The primary goal of the activity was to build its own robot and then compete. For this year, "We attended the competition to gain experience and learn how to compete in the spirit of gracious professionalism," stated Mr. B. Brachio, one of the organizers of the program.

With the B.A.R.T. program firmly in place, Bay Shore will be ready to enter the next century, prepared for the intriguing field of robotic technology.

Twins . . .

It's a Two for One Deal!

From identical to fraternal, there was at least one pair of twins in each grade this year. Although they did not have a choice, most twins enjoy the companionship that they share.

With a little bit of fun competition, the Baglio twins have had some good times throughout their high school years. "We're always competing to see who's the better twin when it comes to sports and school, but we know we're both equal," commented Joe Baglio. Junior, Mike Shiffman said, "It's cool with my sister to, and that's always good to have," replied Steven Penza a freshman. Most twins seem to enjoy the companionship that they share with this friend for life who came along with the package!

Rob Torres stated, "My sister is my best friend. Whenever I have a problem, she's there to listen to me."

and me because there aren't too many girl/guy twins around."

The bond twins share is very special as sophomores Blaire and Shani Silverman know. They do everything together from homework to Hawaiian dancing! "There's always someone to talk

Medieval Museum

Humanities classes visit Cloisters

On a sunny fall day the tenth grade Humanities students made the trip to the Cloisters museum on the outskirts of the Bronx. As the buses drove up the winding, tree-covered path, the students realized that they were taking a giant step back in time. The medieval cloister, overlooking the Hudson, was a magnificent sight to behold, and students were amazed to find it located in the heart of the bustling streets of the City.

Once inside, a tour guide explained the history of the ancient tapestries donated by the Rockefeller family. Their stories about knights, unicorns, and damsels in distress were mesmerizing for the students. Further along on the tour, the students saw stained glass windows, ancient sculptures of the Madonna and Child, and actual twelfth century illuminated manuscripts. This information was carried back to the classroom where students researched and designed their own illuminated manuscripts, complete with medieval symbols and gilded edges.

"This was a wonderful experience for all involved and really made this period in time come alive for the students," said art teacher Ms. M. Pesco.

SPORTS

In The Zone

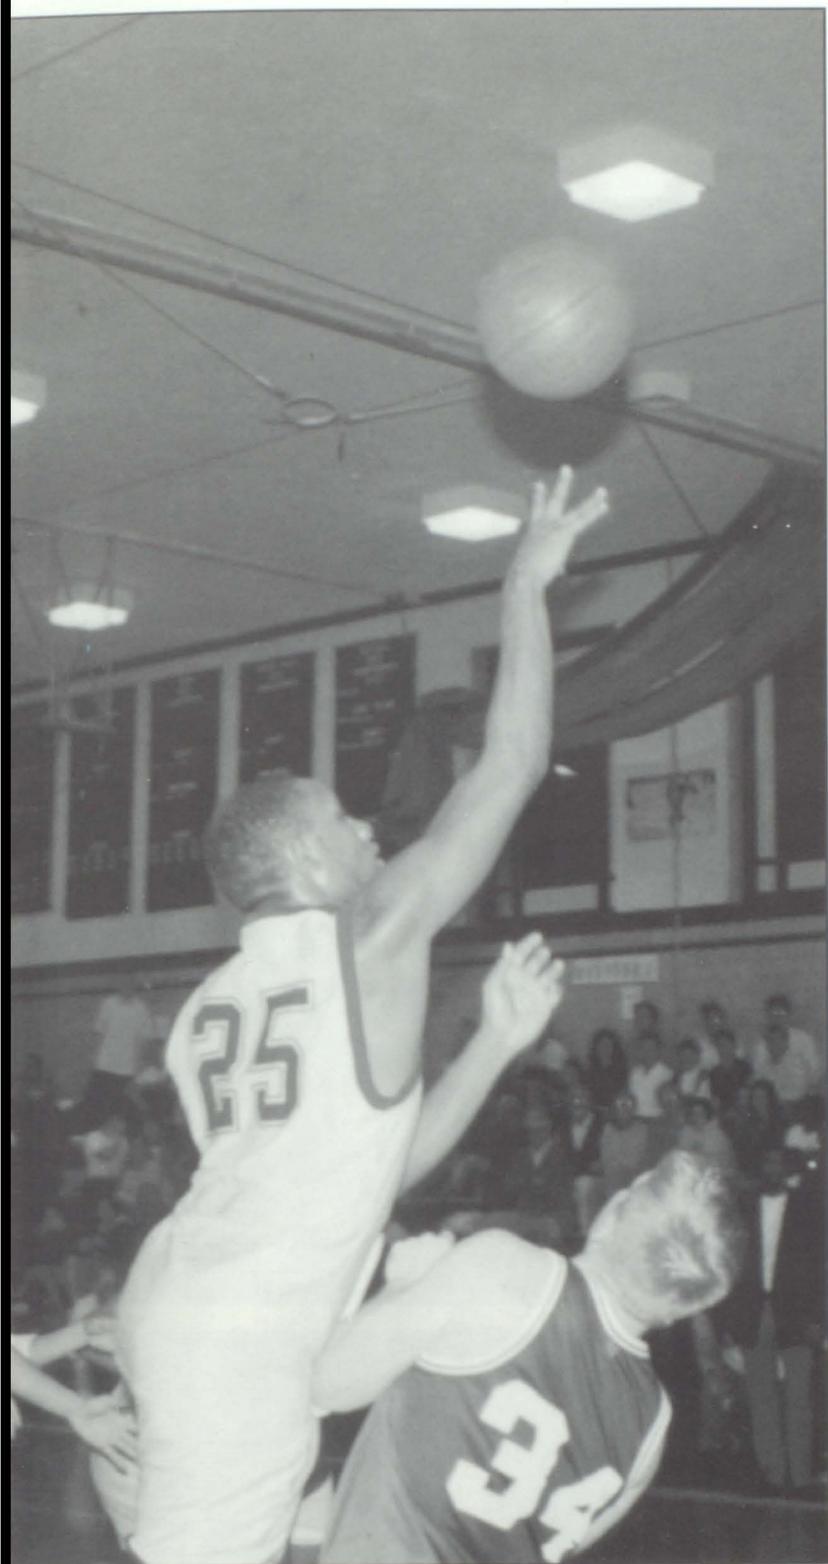

Moments of triumph and agony, accompanied tears of joy and sadness, as athletes took their place to compete with opponents from all over the Island. Emotions ran high as athletes waited in nervous anticipation before each game or match. Adrenaline flowed for that brief moment before the whistle blew.

Emptiness filled the stomachs of players in the waiting seconds before the beginning of the game. Then, as they left the locker room charging out onto the field, cheers from the crowd helped to heighten the level of intensity as teams prepared for another rigorous match. Hard work and long, sweaty, hours of practice trying to keep ahead of the competition all came down to how each team preformed on the field. It was time to either step up to the challenge or back down. Destiny was in their hands and no one could stop the heart of a champion.

As time trickled down in each game, so did the close of another season. The memories on the field and the production that occurred under the pressure of the clock will live on forever in the hearts of the fans and the athletes.

BASKETBALL

Taking control

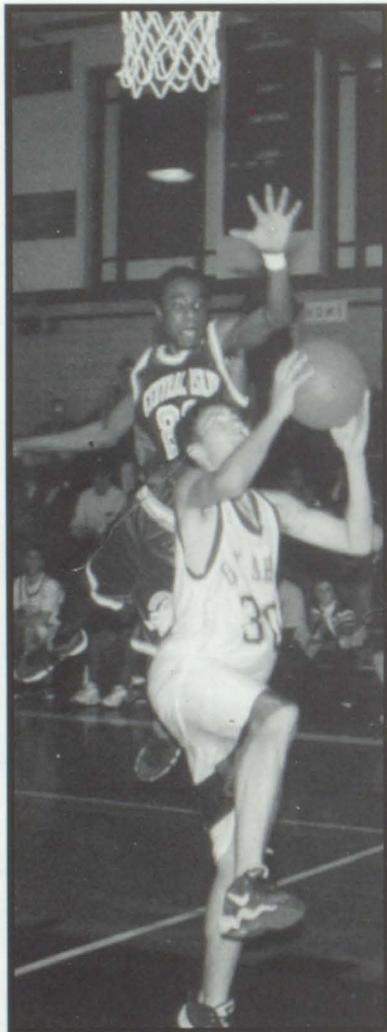

When the first game of the season began, the players looked confused, but once they got control over the ball the team dominated its opposition as the crowd watched an exciting game against Northport.

The team members were determined to beat last year's record and worked hard to improve playing skills and strategies. "Under the leadership of Mr. K. Parham, the coach, our team was confident that they were going to win the league this year. With his help we gained the skills we needed to win in the future," stated Tyrone Stanton as he looked back over the season.

The JV team got off to another great start this season, with coach Mr. P. Susskind. "My goals for the team this year were just to improve each game and never give up." Coach Susskind worked hard and was excited that the players were becoming more skilled during his second year as coach.

With only four returning seniors, the wrestling team took the mat with a great deal of confidence and enthusiasm. They worked out twice a week from 5:45 a.m. to 7:00 in the weight room. Practice was held six days a week for two to three hours a session. The intense practices were aimed at building up strength and endurance while working on strategies to pin their opponents. Before each match the team had a brief moment of prayer, led by the wrestlers themselves. Coach Mr. M. Porcelli and Assistant Coach Mr. A. DeDucca showed a great deal of dedication and support for the wrestlers. They were there along the bench encouraging the wrestlers to do their best at all times.

According to sophomore Adrian Ulloa, "Wrestling is an exciting, tough sport, and only the strong survive." No matter who the opposition was, the wrestling team showed no mercy.

BASKETBALL

Making it happen

Captain: Maryah Nardone.

The question that faced the athletes was whether the new varsity coach Mr. D. Weinstein would be able to take the girls into the playoffs. His confidence, pride, and passion for the game was evident at every practice as the girls learned the discipline that was necessary to become champions. From day one, the team worked together long and hard to reach their goal.

By mid-season the girls had a winning record, but knew they would have to remain focused to the end. Leading the team in scoring was Schawniekwa Burton, had an average of twenty-five points a game and ranked as one of the top ten scorers in the county, which earned her All League status.

The JV team, coached by Mr. M. Pasca, had a great season as well. His positive, supportive attitude rubbed off on the girls and kept them playing hard right through to the end of the season.

WINTER TRACK

Racing for Fame

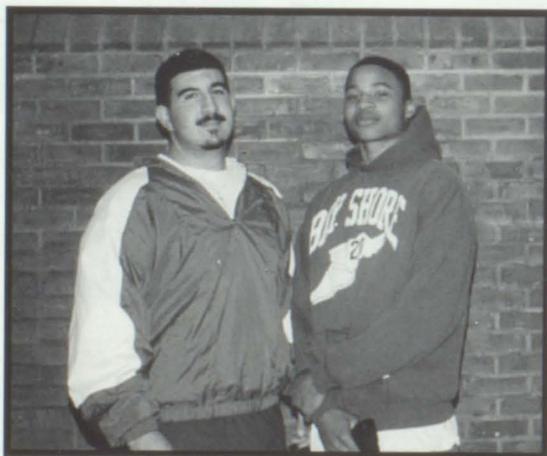

With five people placed in the top three at the Stony Brook competition, Tarck Coach Mr. N. Certain knew it was going to be a successful season for the boys' winter track team. "We had a strong team this year with some of the fastest 400 meter runners in Suffolk County," said Coach Certain.

Coach Mr. L. Pena too had another great season with his girls. In February, four girls competed in the Millrose Competition at Madison Square Garden. "We had a lot of young runners, but I knew they could step up and compete as well as everyone else when the time came," said senior Nicole Braxton.

In almost any type of weather, the runners were out running, giving it their all for two hours a day, six days a week. Building their stamina and endurance, eagerly awaiting their next competition, these talented runners always strived to become the very best they could be.

Nagengast, Coach Mr. S. Sonkin Jr., and Coach Mr. T. Cox.

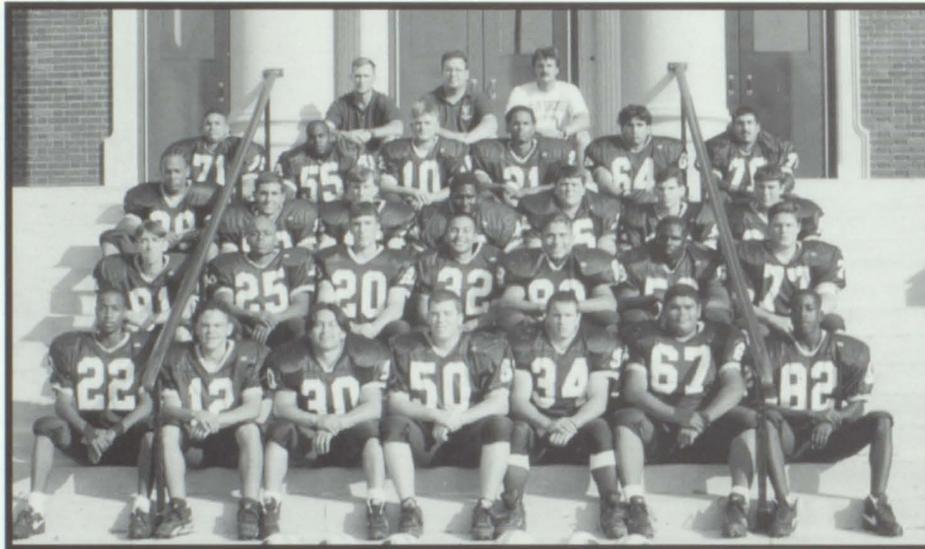

With cleats and footballs flying high, the football team jumped into Division I ready to bang. To challenge the most difficult division in Suffolk County the tenth graders were brought up to Varsity. This also brought about the absence of a Junior Varsity team. Head Coach Mr. S. Sonkin gathered a Freshman team together to teach the beginnings of football.

Co-captains of the Varsity team, Phil McLean and Joe LaManna, with the help of other senior players, provided leadership to the young team. Each player gave it his all whether hitting the sled on Tuesday or weightlifting every Monday and Wednesday. Senior tailback Phil McLean put the season into perspective by saying, "In life or on the field, taking that one play off could lose you the game."

Though these teams may have had disappointing seasons going 0-8, no player ever gave up.

Known for its sportsmanship

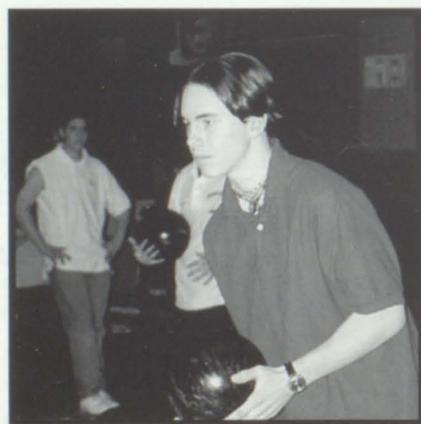

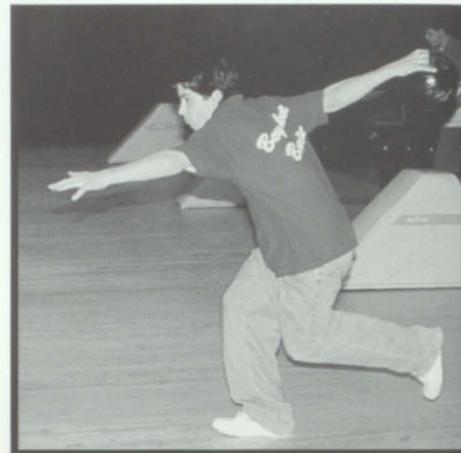

Like many teams and clubs, the Bowling team had to overcome obstacles when several upperclassmen were declared ineligible to play. The policy was firmly enforced this year and helped students to realize that their education was their first priority.

The Bowling team may be young, but it offered strong competition against its opponents. Playing in a division which included the State Champions, the team of mostly sophomores had its work cut out for it. The enthusiastic group, however, worked hard all season and even managed to beat some of the top teams in the division. Bayport, East Islip, and Smithtown all were defeated by the Marauders. The Bayport team recognized Bay Shore's outstanding sportsmanship in its game report. According to Coach Mr. J. Morrison, "This was a great group of athletes who enjoyed the game and were always good sports."

BOWLING

The crowd exploded in an uproar, blown away at Mark McClary who had thrust himself with complete strength for the closing touch on the pommel horse. Mark McClary scored a 6.1, giving Bay Shore the lead. "I got the highest score against Commack on the pommel horse. That was the greatest moment for me so far. I still can't believe it," stated a jubilant Mark.

Head coach, alumnus, Mr. J. Jackowski said to his boys, "Have to go fully forward or you'll fail." And fully forward is what they surely did. "We love this sport!", said Elgin Aponte. "We enjoy all the hard work we put into our practice because we know it pays off."

The boys were very determined and would never settle for anything less than victory. No one should ever underestimate the power of determination for a team. They made it a Marauder moment they would never forget.

GYMNASTICS

Determination pays off

Always aiming for a win

SOCCER

The moment that the team reached the field it was prepared to conquer its opponents. The team always aimed for a victory and all of the players worked to the best of their ability. Varsity coach, Mr. J. Cody, stated, "This was one of the best teams that I have coached in the last three years." The athletes played well and came close to making the play-offs in their division. They beat a tough Central Islip team eight to four and worked hard to keep up this winning streak. Mike and Joe Baglio agreed, "The team came a long way to get this far. We all work very hard."

Coach, Mr. J. Nelson ran the J.V. practices to concentrate conditioning, ball work, and ball skills. Mr. Nelson stated, "This team has been one of the best I have coached." Captain Adrian Ulloa said, "Our team got better and better every time we played. We always went out to become number one."

GIRLS' SOCCER

Kicking Towards Success

The adrenaline and excitement "kicked" in yet one more season for the girls' soccer team as the players pulled together and worked diligently to beat their opposing teams.

Varsity coach Mrs. E. Naslonski said, "They were enthusiastic, energetic, spirited, and had a good attitude." Under the leadership of co-captains Barbara-Jo Murray and Allison O'Brien, the girls displayed discipline, never giving up. "We're not just teammates; we're friends," commented captain Barbara-Jo Murray.

Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. B. Brachio, had a great season as he expected. This athletic group of girls worked in unison to help each other to overcome obstacles.

With many special moments captured, the girls' soccer team left behind their motto: "Coming together is a beginning, keeping together is progress, working together is success."

CROSS COUNTRY

Running For Success

Melissa Malakoff keeps her eyes on her pace and her time.

Hard work and persistent effort brought success to the girls' cross country team again! Under the leadership of Mr. L. Pena, the girls' track team set three goals for the season: winning the State Championship, receiving an invitation to the State Federation Championship, and placing in the top five. Achieving these goals took concerted effort from each team member. By the end of the season these girls had a final record of 6-0. Mr. L.

Pena stated, "Cross Country Track has a tradition of excellence which we kept alive."

Mr. N. Certain, the boys' coach, trained the runners to reach their highest potential. He commented, "Our team of young runners is very dedicated and improving every day." The boys ended the season with a record of 2-3.

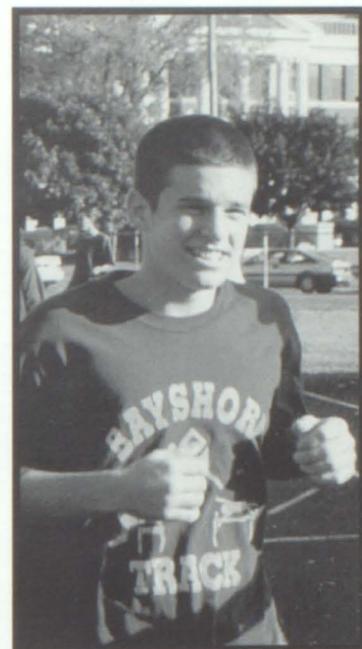

These two teams shared many memorable moments and dedicated themselves to being successful.

CHEERLEADING

Leaving a legacy!

Christine Russo practices a new stunt at Camp Lohikan in the Poconos.

Moments and memories are what made the Varsity Cheerleaders the champions that they were. "After cheering for five years I realize that the friendships I have made enabled me to trust that each stunt will be successful," Captain Theresa Noon stated. Jamie Brienza added, "Our success has a lot to do with each moment we spend as a team." Before each competition, the cheerleaders held a team breakfast to discuss their problem areas and just relaxed together.

Five girls won the distinction of becoming All-American cheerleaders including: Nicole Russo, Heather Stange, Julia Dawson, Andrea Badolato, and Amy Marshall.

The young team won numerous awards such as the "National Bid," "Superior," and "Top Team" awards and aimed at becoming Long Island champions again. Setting specific goals helped the team maintain its champion status.

GIRLS' TENNIS

Enthusiastic moments

People who attended the Girls' Tennis team matches saw rackets swinging, powerful serves, incredible volleys, and incredible determination. Both varsity and junior varsity players worked hard balancing a schedule of classes and practices after school and on Saturdays.

Varsity battled its way to become League Champions with a record of 12-4. "I think the strong friendships that were made helped lead the team to success throughout the season." said Corey MacDougal. The teams consisted of dynamic, energetic girls who made an endeavor to have fun and to defeat their opponents at the same time.

Mr. C. Jones, coach of the J.V. team said, "The girls are very enthusiastic; they're just a very happy group that worked well together and stayed focused."

Both teams shared the moments of hard work, frustration, victory, and school spirit.

BOYS' VOLLEYBALL

Keeping it over the net

Jason Pike leaps into the air to slam the ball over the net.

The boys' Volleyball Team, coached by Ms. E. Eckman, kept its opposition on its toes game after game. The players leaped high, spiked hard, and did anything they could to intimidate their opponents.

One of the team's goals was to continue to work together and always perform with excellence. Senior co-captains, Billy Parker and Rob Torres, worked hard to encourage and support his team. At season's end, Billy Parker had won himself a spot on the All County Select team.

One shining moment came in the Comsewogue tournament when the team had lost the first two games and with the support of the fans came back with determination to win the next three.

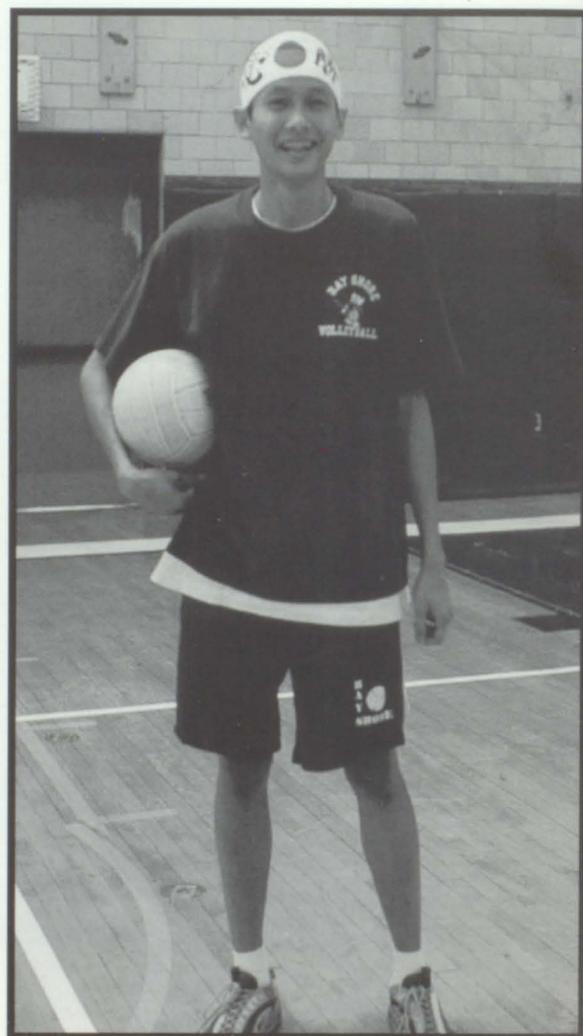

The J.V. team coached by Ms. L. Schultz had a successful season and played well in every game. They worked hard and showed talent as the season came to an end.

Fun Moments in the Sun

Maryah Nardone carefully lines up her next shot.

Despite the warmth and humidity at summer's end, twenty-three girls headed out to the field twice a day with one thing in mind, Field Hockey.

With the leadership of captains Laurie Germano, Jacqui Hawkins, and Bridget Moreira, the team worked hard to improve its skills and "step up" its plays.

Through the drills and stick work exercises the team had many fun moments together including their favorite game of "Capture the Chicken." Captain Jacqui Hawkins stated, "Regardless of how far the team got this year, we worked hard, never gave up, and most importantly, had fun."

With an overall record of five wins and ten losses the team waged fierce battle against its competition. Coach Ms. K. Kauer stated, "Many players improved this season and will be returning next year. A bright future is anticipated."

The golf team started the season with great expectations and an influx of new players. The team of twelve players, including four seniors, had been playing the sport since they were in middle school and now their work had finally begun to pay off.

"We've had a very good team that was always trying its best. One thing I've always told them was to relax, have fun, and enjoy the moment," stated coach Mr. B. Mahler.

Victoriously, by the end of the season, the team had compiled a record of ten wins and only four losses. The best score they achieved as a team was fifteen to two when playing a great match against Connecticut. Individually, captain Brad Keckler achieved a score of thirty-seven against Commack.

"The greatest reward the team always got was the pure enjoyment and fascination of an unpredictable game," commented captain Brad Keckler.

SPRING TRACK

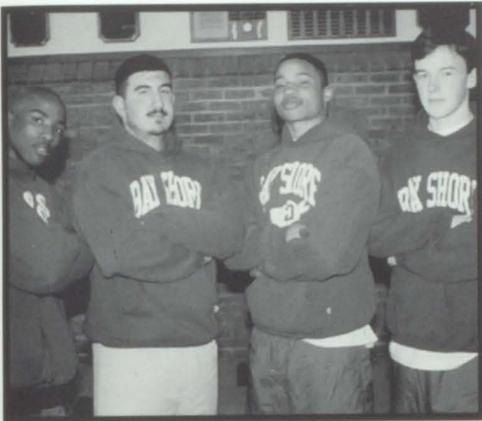

It wasn't the desire to win that carried the runners over the finish line in the final moment. It was the the desire to be the best that pushed the spring track teams over the hurdles they faced. One track member, Katherine Farrell, said that the track teams lived, ran and practiced by a motto. "Courage is not defined by those who never fell, but by those who fought, fell, and rose again." Heather Stange agreed with her and said "Dedication was always a big part of it too. Boys' and girls' spring track had the strength, dedication, and courage to fight for what they wanted and that was to win."

The coaches of boys and girls track set high standards for their teams. They didn't just want their teams to win; they wanted them to be the best. Both teams ran their best, and in the end that is what took them over the high goal hurdles that their coaches set for them.

It took a lot of strength and determination to have a great team. That was what the softball teams possessed. Coach Mr. J. McGowan, believed in family and that was just what the team was. "Our relationship with one another was what made our team so spectacular," said captain Tina Scharff. Tina Scharff, Mary Beth Romeo, and Kim Ryan, were this year's captains. When the girls were not practicing, they always got together to get close.

"The goal of the team was to put 100% into their work and succeed at doing well." said assistant coach Mr. J. McGowan, Jr.

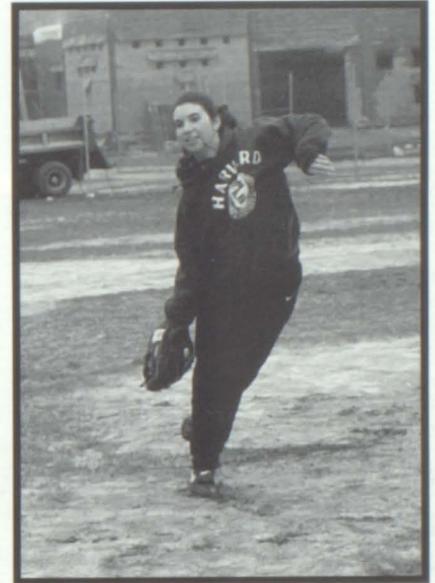

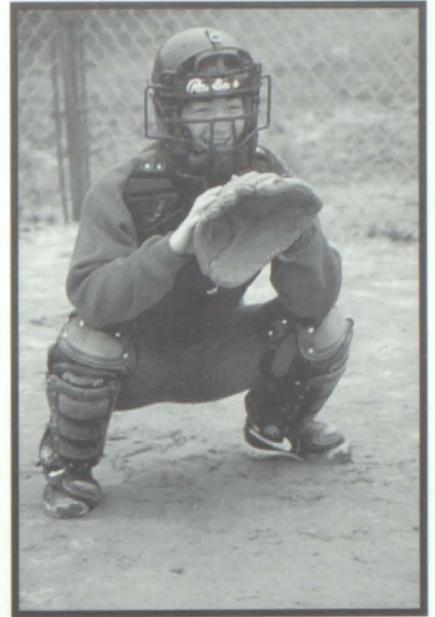

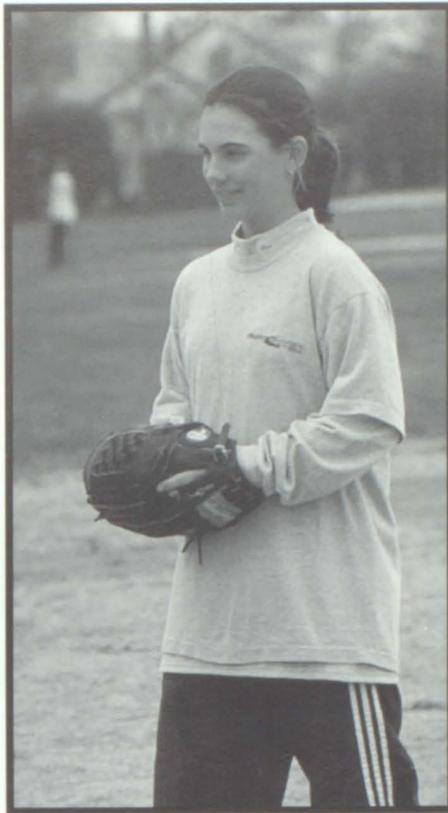

The varsity was not the only team showing pride in its sport. The J.V. team also showed promise at every practice and game it encountered. This was made possible through the assistance of coach Mr. A. Cantore. Strength and determination gave these athletes their winning moments.

Batter up!

The baseball team came into the season with high expectations with the athletes working hard as a team to bring victory home to Bay Shore. Win or lose, however, they did it as a team.

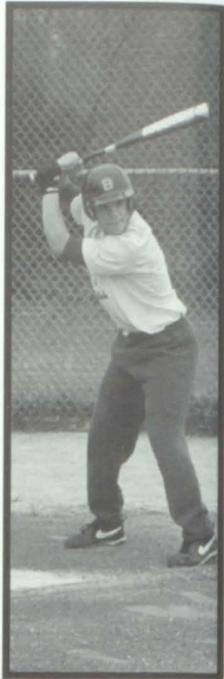

The varsity team looked again to make the playoffs. Lifting weights at the YMCA and practicing at the Junior High, all helped to make the team stronger and better prepared to take on any adversary. Three-year varsity player and starting catcher, Chet Striplin, stated, "This year's team had it all from batting to fielding to catching." The team opened its season with a 2-0 win over Deer Park.

The junior varsity team, under the coaching of Mr. S. Sonkin, worked equally hard to maintain its winning tradition. Pat Kunnmann of the junior varsity team said, "This team had a lot of potential. We endured long hours of practice so that we could be the best."

BASEBALL

"Stroke, Stroke, Stroke!" the team members shouted. If the oars were not in total sync, the team would lose speed. As each member became used to the sport, talent and skill prevailed! Laura Mina said, "Many of the crew members were new to boating techniques. If you have ever been boating, you know how it feels." The vessel which held the team was as large as the entire length of the gym lobby. This made balancing extremely difficult.

Swimming skills were also a large part of learning to be sea worthy. The local Y.M.C.A. opened its pool for each team member to pass a swim test. Mr. B. Blackman said that he was happy to see that so many students wanted to join the team. He said, "Bay Shore has such a large boating community. I was surprised to know there has never been a crew team before. Crew will be a popular sport for years to come."

BOYS' LACROSSE

Lax to the Max

With lacrosse balls flying across the field and the crisp sounds of pads cracking, the lacrosse players entered into another season all fired up.

Returning All-County and Suffolk County Rookie of the Year, Joseph Baglio, along with a talented group of athletes, worked hard and long in the off season. The varsity team looked to improve on last year's record of 6-10 and hoped to make the playoffs. Its exciting win over Brentwood 10-3 was a great start to the season. Varsity head coach, Mr. T. Cox said, "This is a great group of guys, and I know that they will work hard to be successful this season." The junior varsity and freshman teams also played each game with enthusiasm and pride.

The players went into each game with a winning attitude and a fearlessness that made them unstoppable by any opponents.

GIRLS' LACROSSE

Reaching their Goals

As the spring approached, the girls' varsity lacrosse team sprang into action. Despite the physical hardships, the girls coached by Mr. and Mrs. J. Pfeffer, worked long hours to move toward excellence and reach their goal of achieving a winning record. Mrs. Pfeffer was determined and stated that if the team put its total effort into the season it could be very successful.

The team captains were senior Kathleen Roskot and juniors Jamie Crean and Alison O'Brien. The varsity team was very diverse. It not only consisted of juniors and seniors but freshmen and sophomores which gave the team a special charm. Captain Alison O'Brien said, "Even though we had such a young team, I feel that with all the talent we had, this season was very successful."

The JV team coached by Mrs. M. Zellman, also worked hard to have a good season, one which will never be forgotten.

BOYS' TENNIS

Striking the Opponents

The members of the tennis team struck the ball back and forth with endless energy. Working hard and spending hours of practice improving their skills, the players got ready to strike upon their opponent. Under the leadership of an experienced coach the skilled players were ready to match their volleys against the other teams in their division. Coach Mr. J. Morrison stated, "We are a very talented but very young team. How well we do will depend as much on our mental approach as on the physical."

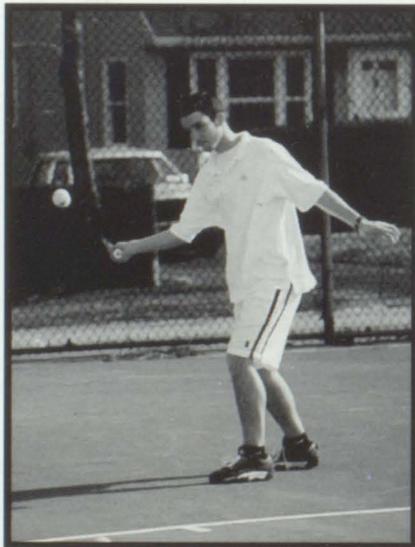

The JV team expected to have a good season with several returning players and some new players with good skills. With seventeen players on the team they were ready to strike fear into the hearts of their opponents. Tim Manko said "I enjoy competing and I loved watching my teammates compete against other players." Most of the players have prior experience.

"Got it!" were the screams that were heard as each girl positioned herself to return the ball to the opposite side. Serving, bumping, spiking, and sprawling were tasks the girls learned and performed well.

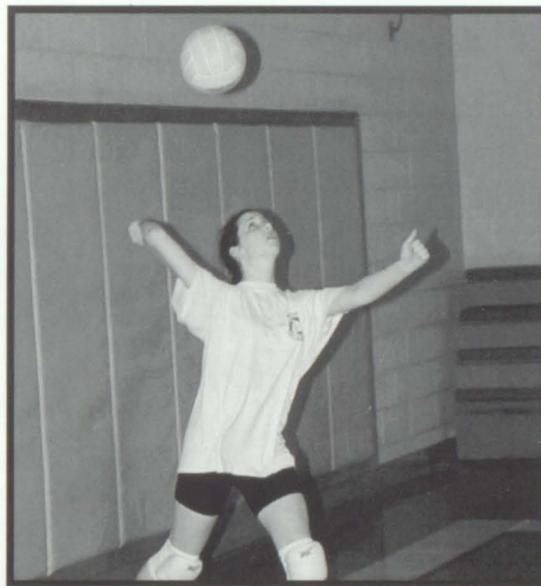

This year's girls' varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams worked very diligently to achieve every set goal. Coach Miss E. Eckman and the varsity team met everyday after school for two or more hours not only as schoolmates and teammates, working together for a common goal. Under the leadership of captains Melissa Leonhardt and Kathleen Owen, this group of talented athletes was determined and performed in a unified manner. Miss E. Eckman said, "What we don't have in numbers we have in hearts."

Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. J. Bayer, had a strong and dedicated team as well. They practiced long and hard and showed a great deal of pride.

ACTIVITIES- Special Moments

For the past hundred years, students in the Bay Shore School District have spent their free time after classes enjoying the camaraderie of their classmates who shared a particular interest or hobby. Over the years some of the activities have changed or are no longer being offered. There used to be a Fam Club, Parnassus Club, Poster Club, and even a sorority offered to the students. These activities may have changed, but others such as the Drama Club, the Maroon Echo, and the Art Club are still in existence. The faces and kinds of activities may have changed, but their goal of providing educational recreation still remains.

New clubs were started this year such as the History and Academic Clubs which joined the ranks of such recent additions as Interact, Environmental Club, and the Latino Club. Whatever the program was, it created moments of joy, excitement, and spirit that will be cherished for years to come. With the involvement of both students and faculty, these clubs have made the community and the school district a lot stronger. Participation in school activities has been one reason for 100 years of excellence.

"There's No Business Like Show Business" was one of the featured songs in the annual spring musical which was performed before packed audiences and received standing ovations every night. Despite obstacles such as the tragic loss of cast member, Shannon Leary, the cast and crew performed beautifully and left audiences awed by their showmanship and talent.

Crista Johnson, as Annie Oakley, dominated the stage and lit up the auditorium. She belted out one hit song after another in true Ethel Merman style. Her romantic duets with Frank Butler, played by Vinnie Tortorici, were totally credible and enjoyable. The leading cast, including Matt Patterson, Amanda Conlon, Andy Smith, Liz Suda, John Gaibrois, Rob Adams, Ellen Shave, Katie Draycott, Matt Espina, and Lisa Dintrone, provided the audiences with a fun and entertaining evening.

As they exited the auditorium, many people hummed strains of "You Can't Get A Man With a Gun" and "Doin' What Comes Naturally."

As they rehearsed each day, their one goal was to improve their skills as musicians. Many aspired to become professional performers while others enjoyed the rehearsal time as a pleasant break from academic classes.

Working in small groups and taking individual lessons, members of the Orchestra and String Ensemble continually strived to improve the quality of their sound and raise the level of their performance skills. Jazz, classical, pop, rock, and country were among the viable types of music they practiced and performed.

"The members of the orchestra this year have learned their music and have come together as a group." Said Christina Sprague president of the orchestra. "We worked together as a family to perform successful concerts."

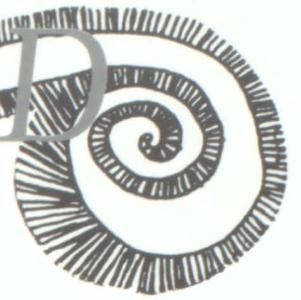

Orchestra created beautiful musical moments that their audiences and classmates would remember for years to come.

COLOR GUARD

As summer drew to a close, members of the Color Guard and Danceline reported back to school for the annual summer band camp. Their vacations over, they created new routines for the new band show which included the songs, "Fantasy," "In The Stone," and "Africano". These talented girls joined together daily to rehearse for all the home football games, the pep rally, and the Renaissance celebration. With their costumes sparkling in the sunlight, they led the way for the Homecoming and Memorial Day Parades and performed in the Newsday Marching Band Festival. The highlight of their season was the Columbus Day Parade in Manhattan for which they received an Honorable Mention award. Color Guard Captain, Lydia Cruz said, "I felt we did really well; it looks easier than it really is." Heidi Acevedo stated, "I had a lot of fun making up my own routine to "Africano" and getting to know my fellow teammates; I only regret not joining earlier."

CHESS CLUB

CHESS CLUB: Advisor, Mr. Lukaschek, Phil Veith, Michael Sclafani, Mark Costantino, Anthony Torres, John Plotke

Phil Veith and Mark Costantino practice different moves before a tournament.

Chess is not just some game; it's a way of thinking. Instead of focusing on the present; chess players have to focus on the future. They must realize that every move has its consequences. Every Wednesday after school, the chess club met under the tutelage of Advisor Mr. R. Lukaschek to learn to think in this manner.

The chess club members didn't just sit around and play chess. They went over opening moves, discussed strategies, and went to other schools for tournaments. The members of the club enjoyed outwitting their opponents and the feeling of success when they could say, "Checkmate." Mr. Lukaschek said, "We have some really good talent this year." The players were dedicated to the game and to bringing home a victory to the High School. Their matches were mentally stimulating and challenging as they came up against some of the best players in the county. One moment of concentration before making a move frequently brought success.

ACADEMIC

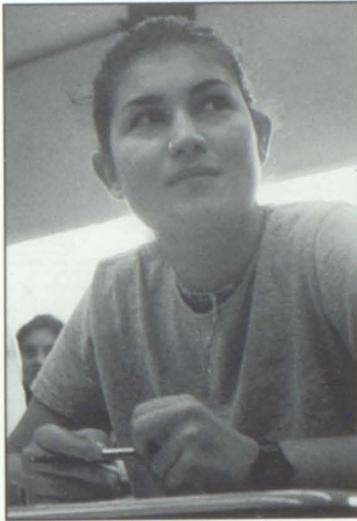

Bzzz! The signal went off, and a student shouted out the answer to a question. This was the familiar scene to those who participated in the Academic Club, trying to continue the tradition of academic excellence that Bay Shore High School is known for. The members practiced once a week at their Friday meetings and also on their own at home. These diligent students worked hard to make their peers, teachers, and advisor Ms. L. Torinese proud.

"Ms. Torinese put in a lot of hard work, and it was important for us to make her proud by showing off all she and our other teachers have taught us by doing well at our competitions. It was kind of our way of saying thanks for all the effort and for making academics fun for us," stated senior Jenny George.

With the help of Ms. Torinese, the Academic Club went to their monthly competitions and proved to non-believers that they have the brains, time, and strength to outsmart any competitor in the final moment.

Guilty or not guilty? That is what this year's Mock Trial Team, advised by Mr. R. Richardson, had to prove to the jury.

Auditions were very competitive, with only fourteen out of thirty people allowed on the team. Trying to accumulate enough points for the Round of Sixteen, the team worked very diligently to keep the jury on its side. "It's very intense; everything is quiet, and everyone is watching you," commented Liz Carpenter, who has been on the team for two years.

Moot Court, also advised by Mr. R. Richardson, gave our underclassmen great experience in the courtroom. This talented group of law-oriented minds were well prepared for next year to audition for the Mock Trial Team, by doing more informal cases.

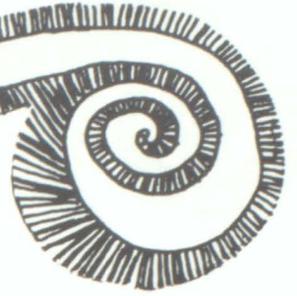

With eight seniors moving on, this gives the underclassmen a phenomenal opportunity to shine in the spotlight, next trial. Case adjourned.

INTERACT

Everyone needs someone to count on. With the Interact Club not only students but also the community had someone to count on. Members of the Interact Club reached out to the community and did a great job at improving community-school relationships. They spent a great deal of time planning senior citizen activities, such as the annual April in Paris Ball which attracted more people this year than the past ones. Between caring for senior citizens and providing activities for the members, the Interact Club created many special moments in time for people. It sponsored its annual fashion show and brought the community into the school.

Along with the Evironmenatal Club and Habitat for Humanity, Interact helped build two homes in Bay Shore. By the end of the summer of '97 the two homes were completed, proving what hard work and togetherness can accomplish.

Community action clubs like Interact created shining moments in time for all involved.

For the twenty-five students and their advisor, Mrs. A. Pfeffer, the Bible Club's weekly meeting was a religious moment for them to step out of their regular routines and reflect upon themselves and other issues facing the world.

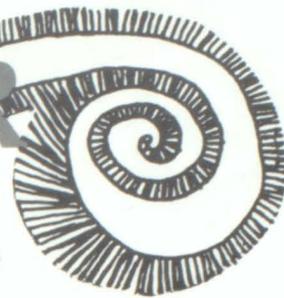

As the sessions began the group sat in a circle, bowed their head and joined in a prayer. That was followed by a reading from the Bible which raised questions and discussions about moral issues that students encountered on a daily basis. Their goal was to be more loving, understanding, and tolerant of other people. Mrs Pfeffer said, "The Bible club was open to everyone, and we encouraged everybody to join us." Tamika Lee said, "It's a very beneficial club and it helps you look deep within yourself".

The Bible club showed that there are students who cared and tried to make life better for themselves and the rest of the school population, it also shows how teachers care and want to get involved and get to now more about the students and help as much as they can.

NATIONAL HONOR

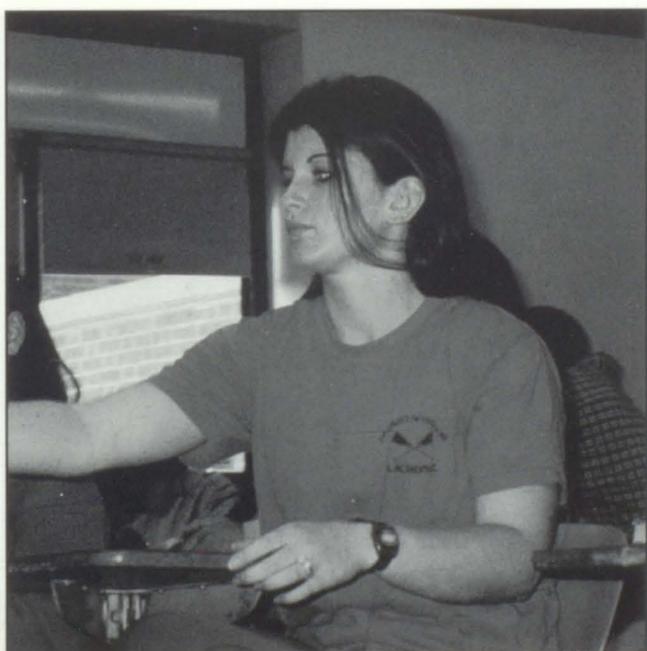

Sparkling and shining at the top of their class the students of the National Honors Society show their appreciation for the community by giving back all they can. At their Tuesday meeting these students set aside a moment of their time to help others. These students must have a grade point average of at least 3.5. At their weekly meetings, advised by Mr. G Schecter, the club thinks of ways of giving back to their community and their fellow students. With many activities planned such as tutoring, visits to hospitals, and a Thanksgiving food drive the Honors society stayed very busy all year.

"I feel the National Honors Society is a great organization rewarding some of the schools best students. I myself have been made eligible for thousands of dollars in scholarships thanks to the Honors Society." This quote by senior, Sal Puccio, expresses how the National Honors Society strives everyday to help the hard working students of Bay Shore High School.

"If you drink, stop, and think before you drive." This was the statement the members of Students Against Driving Drunk(S.A.D.D.) tried to instill on every student in the high school. At every Friday meeting, advised by Mr. G. Broadhurst, they discussed the consequences of driving while intoxicated.

Students of S.A.D.D. participated in many activities throughout the year, such as Grim Reaper Day and Homecoming Parade

S.A.D.D. member Willie Collins said, "I've learned through S.A.D.D. how many lives drunk drivers have effected. If this organization can save even one person from the effects of drunk driving, it will be a very successful year."

The students in the S.A.D.D. organization realized that getting behind the wheel of a car while under the influence of alcohol for even one brief moment may effect their lives forever.

F.B.L.A.

Capitalism, the profit motive, and corporations are just some of the terms and ideas that the students in the Future Business Leaders of America learned about from their advisor, Mrs. E. Ringer, who brought the business world into the classroom. When students were not learning business techniques after school, they were participating in competitions. Members took tests and often gave presentations.

F.B.L.A. participated in many fund raising events. At the annual Burger King night they earned twenty percent of the profits which they used to help subsidize their trips to State competitions. They also took an active roll in the community by distributing food baskets to the needy during the holiday season.

The Future Business Leaders of America learned what it took to be involved in U.S. enterprise and how to enter the business world one step ahead of the rest of the competition.

COMPUTERS

The learning began in the computer club with fifteen students eagerly waiting to begin. They gathered around the computer room and listened to instructions from the club's advisor, Mr. D. McGilvray as they prepared to learn more about today's ever-changing and intriguing world of computer technology. All of the members agreed that they would benefit greatly from the experience and the instruction.

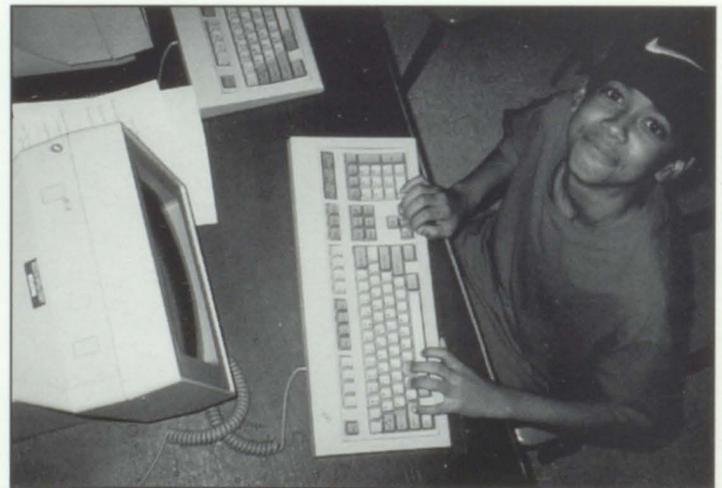

While the students sat around they shared computer strategies and stories and talked about the latest games that they had mastered. They enjoyed the camaraderie and looked forward to the weekly gatherings.

John Plotke stated, "I joined the computer club because I enjoy working on computers even the old ones." Most of the students in the club hoped to pursue a career in computer technology in the future.

DRAMA CLUB

For one brief moment, members of the audience suspended their belief and thought they actually were in the Victorian home of Martin Vanderhof. The entire cast of this year's presentation of "You Can't Take it With You," directed by Mr. J. D'Antoni, vividly captured the bizarre personalities of the family living in New York City. Matt Patterson, playing Grandpa, was a pleasant combination of philosopher and storyteller. His daughter Penny, played by Crista Johnson, busied herself typing out romance stories while her household was in total chaos. The entire production was enhanced by the magnificent set designed and constructed by Mr. M. Bicknell and the backstage crew. Audience members gasped when they saw the set and realized that each and every flower on the wall was hand painted.

The cast looked as if it had as much fun as the audience did. The humor and crazy antics kept the audience amused for the entire length of the performance.

“When I look at people, I don’t see a race or an ethnic background; I see people for who they are, not what they are,” said Rashidah Jenkins.

Brothers and Sisters for Student Scholarship was formed for people of minority groups to come together to learn about each other’s backgrounds, forgetting about who’s better than who and to learn from each other. One important issue discussed by the group was self-respect among peers, as well as everyone else, regardless of sex, color, or ethnic background.

Among its many activities, this organization raised money to support scholarship programs for the graduating members. Mr. N. Certain, the advisor of the group, helped the group to raise money by organizing activities such as the Fashion/Talent show and several dances.

“We learned a lesson that had an impact on everyone’s life regardless what a person’s race,” said Chimeka Arrindell.

SURF'S UP

"Let's talk about waves, baby. Let's talk about surfing just you and the waves. Let's talk about waves, and let's talk about the surf." This is how the Surf Club began its meetings every Thursday afternoon. Mr. S. Fandale, a long time surfer and advisor of this unofficial organization, said that the members spent their afternoons discussing surfing experiences and sharing stories about the big wave and the longest ride.

In addition to stories about surfing and skiing, the members in the club also talked about the environment and issues that affect the future of the ecosystem. They united with members of the Environmental Club to plant trees at Robert Moses Beach.

Just because the summer was over didn't mean the fun ended. Many of the surf club members as well as Mr. S. Fandale liked to surf in the winter as well. These wave riding dudes and dudettes reached out to others who enjoyed the cold sport of skiing by hosting an annual ski trip.

ENVIRONMENTAL

Whether it was planting a tree, cleaning the streets, recycling, or assisting in building homes for the less fortunate, the Environmental Club was always busy helping the community.

The Environmental Club helped our community in many ways. The members helped clean Main Street, coordinated plant sales, and for the second year, contributed many hours to Habitat for Humanity by helping to build homes in the area.

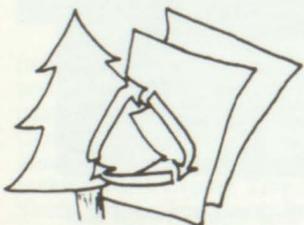

During his second year as advisor of the club, Mr. S. Cummiskey said, "I'm very grateful that we accomplished much more than we did last year." Ellen Shave stated, "I'm very glad to be part of this group because no matter what it is that we're doing, I know it's helping our community."

The Environmental Club worked hard all year to make the environment cleaner and more attractive.

MAROON ECHO

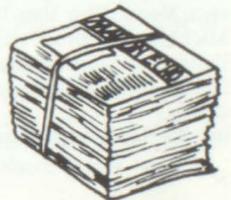

For 71 years the Maroon Echo has been providing a voice for student journalists, along with clear reporting of scholastic and athletic events. The 1998 Maroon Echo, with Marie Fojas and Byron Norelius as Editors-in-Chief, has surpassed the coverage of past years by expanding the number of pages, covering more controversial issues, and including stories on more diverse topics. The staff worked as a team with the Editors coordinating all of the activities to make sure that the staff stayed focused and maintained all of its deadlines. Their goal was to maintain and raise the standard of excellence of the paper.

Mr. D. Weinstein Journalism classes writes for the Maroon Echo. Mr. Litwin is in charge of the laying out of the school newspaper. "The Maroon Echo is one of the best newspapers around," said Byron Norelius. "This year has been fun, but there have been a lot of changes to the paper, and we're happy to leave it as a legacy to the next staff." Marie went on to say, "The staff, editors, Byron, and I have really tried to succeed in making this the best Maroon Echo."

"This is the moment, this is the day". The lyrics from the Broadway musical, "Jekyll and Hyde", made an impression on anyone who heard them which is why the title of the song was selected as the theme for the '98 Marauder. "Write with a twist. Write with power. Write with creativity and capture the power of the moment." were just a few of the hints from advisor, Mr. J. D'Antoni who assigned articles to the staff to make the book tell a story in words as well as photographs. Co-advisor, Ms. M. Pesco guided her students through the arduous task of designing new and interesting layouts and graphics for the book.

The main ingredient in everything that the staff did was creativity. "Think and see things that nobody else has," was the order of the day. And of course, looming in the distance was the ever-present and ever-dreaded deadlines. It was a learning experience for all who cherished the moment during the hundredth anniversary of the school district.

Hearts pounded in anticipation. An abundance of emotions overcame each person in the gym lobby as the weekend began. The weekend junkies assisted first timers as confusion mounted. "What are family groups?" Amy Marshall questioned. When she realized two friends were in her group, she dashed across the lobby and flung her arms around them. Kerry Hosek said, "I've never seen her that excited!"

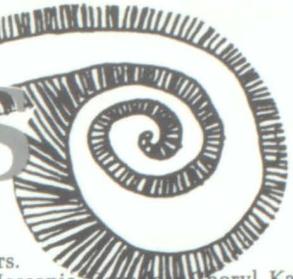

In this weekend students and faculty saw and heard a lot of things that they never expected. Afeni Shakur was a great surprise to fans of 2-Pac. Her story caught everyone's attention. "When I have a problem I ask myself, can I do anything about this? Then ask God to grant me serenity."

Peer Support helpers and Mr. J. McGowan encouraged all students and faculty to feel comfortable. Friends disclosed secrets in the confidence that they trusted all attendants. By sharing hardships, a sense of closure was reached for many who were troubled by issues in their personal lives.

AIDS EDUCATORS

Suffolk County is the highest County with people that have AIDS. Committing a great amount of time to weekly training sessions, a group of high school students is able to teach the eighth graders about AIDS. As one of the AIDS educator we not only went to the middle school to teach the eighth graders about AIDS but we also did role play skits. "AIDS is a very important subject in teenage life, so we should be careful with decisions" said Jamaal Wilson. The group came up with the idea of wearing black on December 1 and 5, they had to walk in silence all day to show respect to the victims who have AIDS. With the help of Mrs. R. Bonanno, Director of Physical Education, and Mr. E. Hishiver Suffolk County Health Department representative they helped a whole lot with preparing for role play skits and planning lessons for the eighth graders. "Respect yourself and Protect yourself from AIDS and HIV" said Mochia Thomas.

Academics In the Classroom

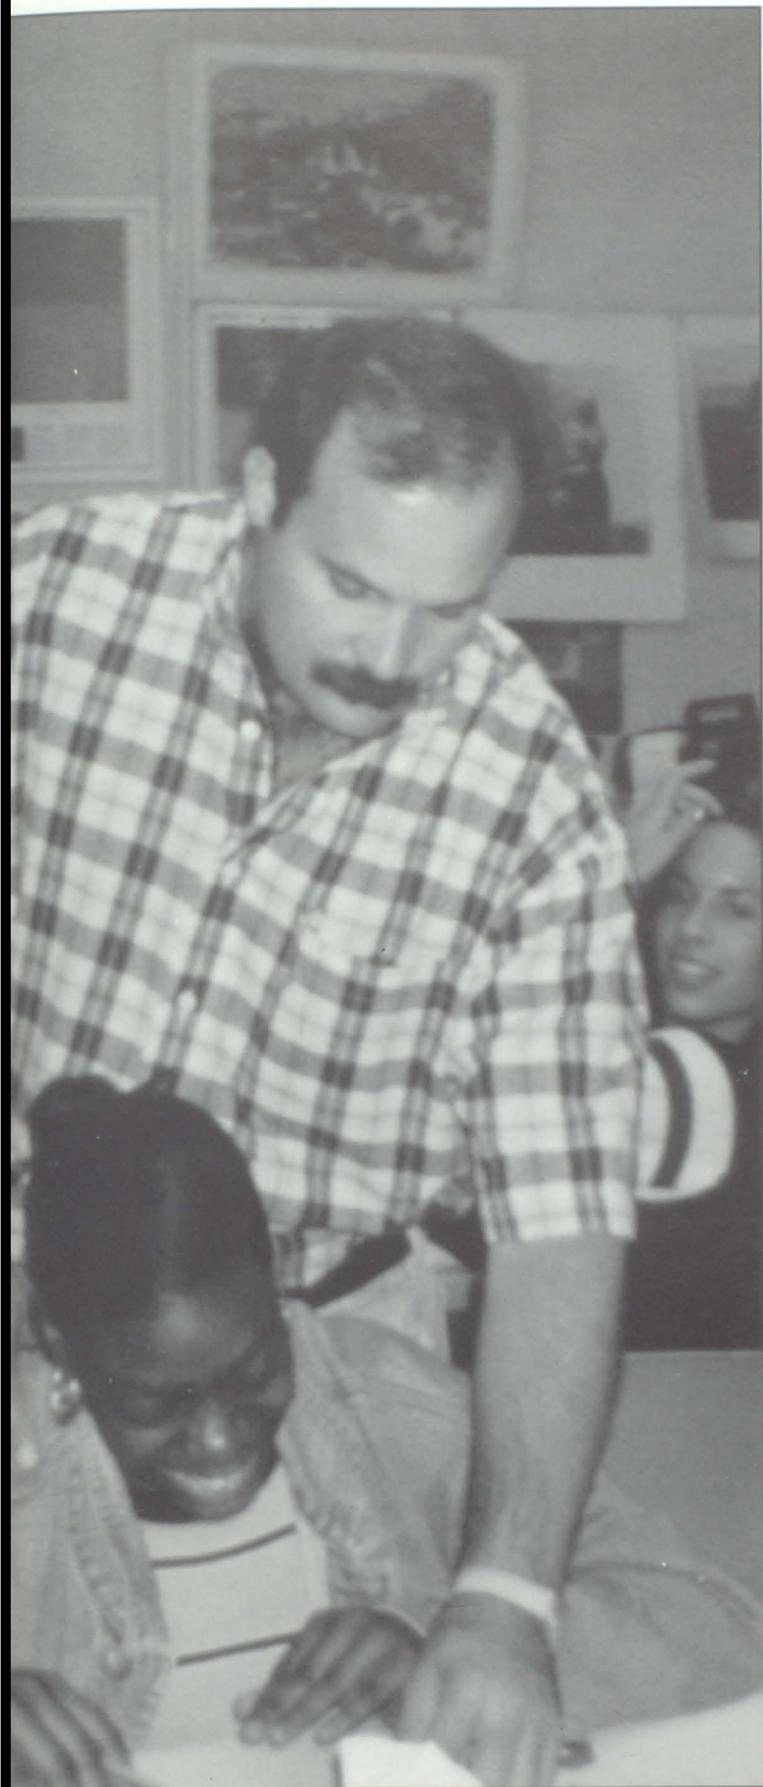

The one way students prepared to “face the world alone and prove that they could make it on their own” was through the pursuit of higher levels of learning. In their academic classes, students were challenged to observe, analyze, and draw conclusions. Through field trips, guest speakers, and the use of technology, students received practical instruction in a “hands-on” approach to education.

Year after year teachers continued to create new ways to make school more fun and encourage their students to be enthusiastic about learning. Counselors, teachers, administrators, secretaries, and aides all worked together to help students make the right decisions about their futures and to make these high school moments more memorable. It was a through collaborative effort that success could be achieved. Teachers attended dances, concerts, and sports events in an effort to prove that their support extended beyond the classroom. Friendships were formed as staff members stood ready to lend a helping hand for any problem which might arise.

The district may be one hundred years old, but its promise to achieve excellence in education is its ongoing goal.

Art Club

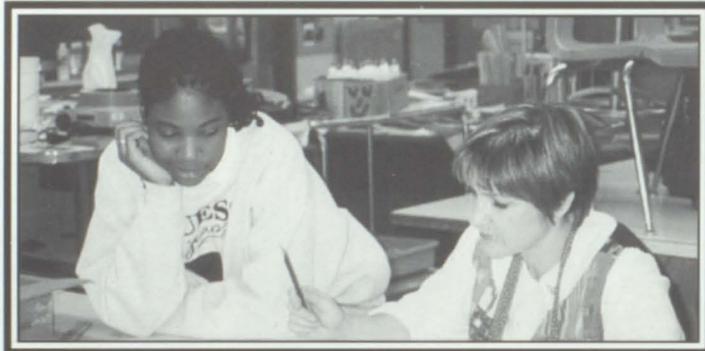

Colorful moments

In the relaxed atmosphere of the art room after school, artists gathered with art teacher, Mrs. N. Sherman to work on a variety of projects. While other students relieved themselves of the pressures of the day by playing ball or singing on the stage, these students were developing their skills in a variety of media. With Mrs. Sherman's guidance and support, some students were creating paintings on canvas while others were sculpting objects out of clay. While they worked, they talked about the day's activities or their personal lives or about their latest artistic endeavor. All were welcome in the art room to add a little color and imagination to their lives.

The members of the art club, many of whom were members of other art classes too, frequently displayed their work all over the school. At the annual Summit conference, people were impressed with the quality of the art work and the variety of subject matter. "It's fun, and it gives me something to do," said Richard Pennino who enjoyed the opportunities the art club provides.

Many of the students in the art club spent their afternoons preparing portfolios of their work to show to college admissions officers. Whatever their reasons for attending, the students enjoyed watching the images take shape on paper.

Sights and Sounds

Learning how to preserve the moment

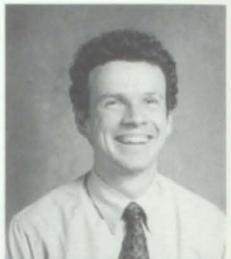

Like the yearbook and the school newspaper, the Sights and Sounds Club worked to preserve those special moments in a student's high school career. Working from its home base in room 325, members of the Sights and Sounds organization were dispatched to various locations throughout the building and to a variety of different activities. Mr. R. O'Neill started the club three years ago at the request of his film study students who wanted to further their understanding of film making and editing.

Our goal, said Mr. O'Neill, "is to learn the elements of basic video production." Some of the events that were recorded included: the Ethnic Pen Conference for the English Department, sports events for the Athletic Department, presentations by the AIDS Educators, Poetry Alive demonstrations, and theatrical productions.

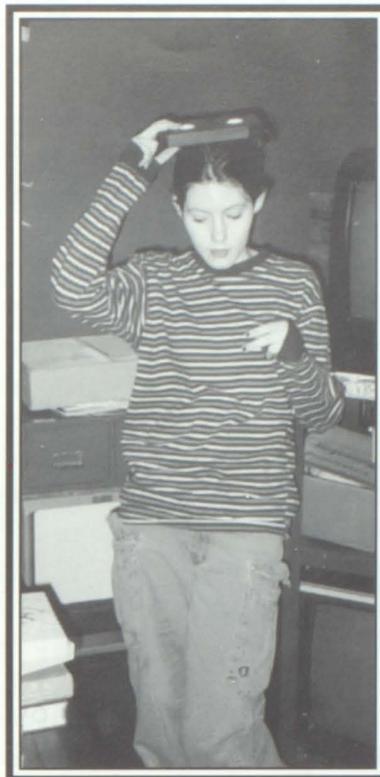

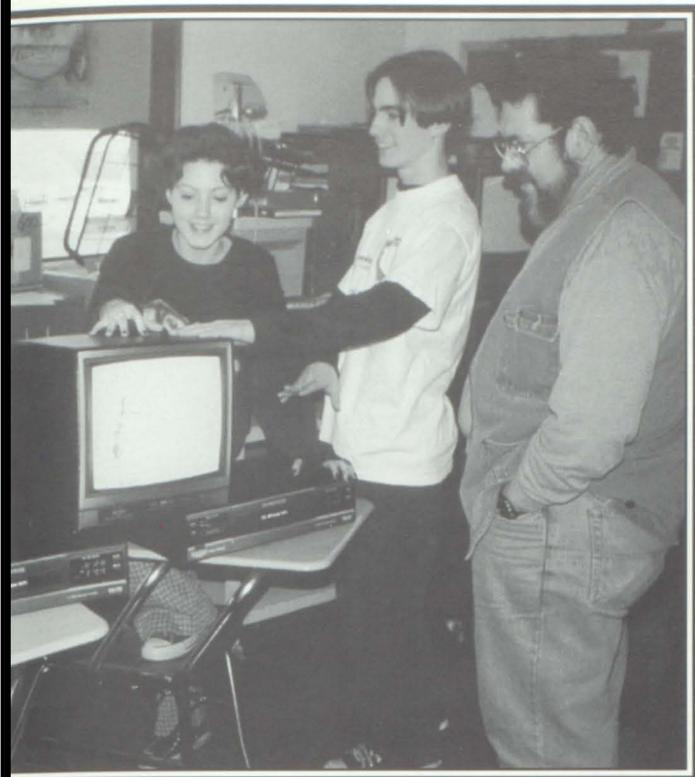

Many of the members hoped that their involvement and training would help them in college or in the pursuit of a career.

The dedicated men and women of the Sights and Sounds did their best to master the equipment and preserve the memory of those special moments for future generations of Bay Shore.

History Club

Historical Moments in Time

One of the newest and most exciting clubs that was started this year was the History Club. Started by social studies teacher, Miss C. Yonkus, the club participated in essay contests, traveled to Gettysburg, dined in the Medieval Times restaurant, analyzed the historical value of movies like "Braveheart." Meeting afternoons after school the club's members sought to make connections between the past and the present to gain insight into what the future will be like. The club enhanced the learning and activities that were discussed in social studies classes. They also discussed topics that dealt with the changes in lifestyles and fashions throughout history.

One of the main activities of the club was to participate in debates with other schools on Long Island. For each victory, the club won cash awards which were applied to a college scholarship fund. Some of the debates argued the circumstances of different Supreme Court cases.

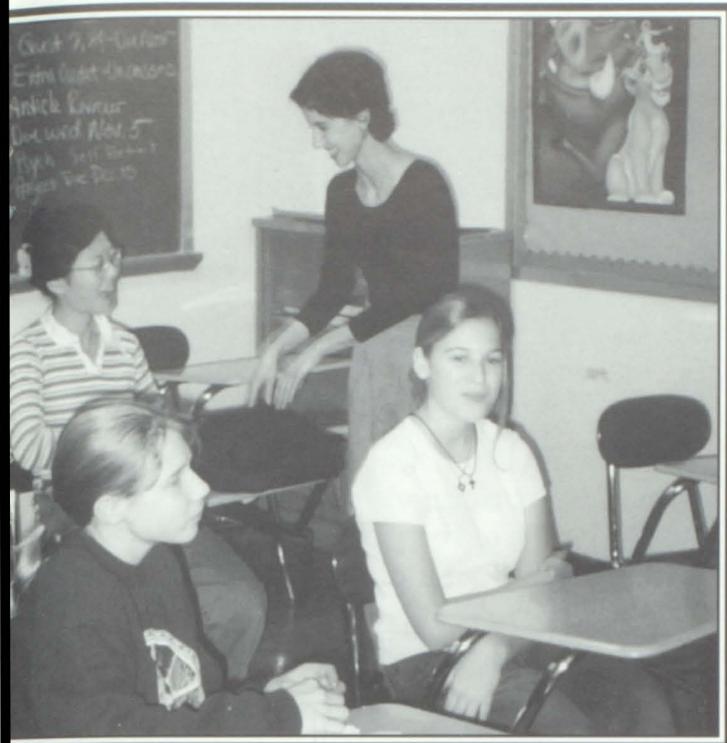

In its first year, the club was highly successful not only in improving the skills and knowledge of the members but also in winning many of the competitions into which they entered. Miss Yonkus said, "I am very proud with the students this year. They all worked very hard." She also added, "We hope to in the future to develop the History Club into a strong debate team."

Harmonious Moments

The power of their dream

There were many wonderful experiences throughout the year for the choir. Both the students and their director enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. To make the music more interesting choral advisor, Dr. C. Morrow chose some difficult opera medleys to sing. Included in the few selections were "Dont Cry For Me Argentina" from "Andrew Loyd Webber in Concert." Other great and favorite selections were from "The Phantom of The Opera". A major selection was "The Power of The Dream" from Disney's "Hercules," which was performed at the spring POPS concert. This was one of the many favorite selections of the year!

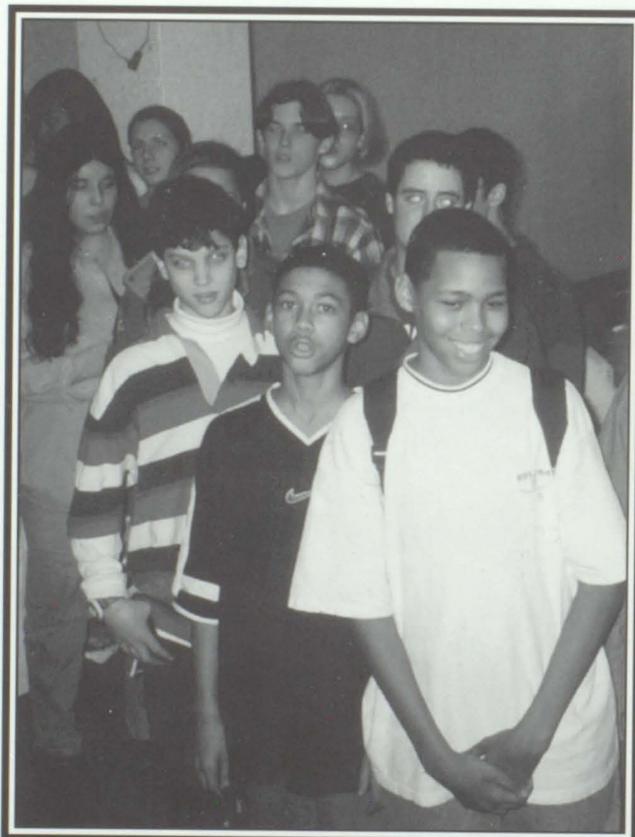

The creativity of some of the singers was also well recognized. "I wanted to try something new, so we chose to sing songs that some of the choir students wrote themselves!" Dr. C. Morrow was also pleasantly surprised with the exceptional interest in the choir program. He had never had as many students in past years as he had this year.

In addition to the regular choir classes, there were also after school choir groups such as the Madrigals for females and the Octet for males. Throughout the year there have been many favorable moments for both the students and Dr. C. Morrow. All the moments were both harmonious and magical.

Concert Band

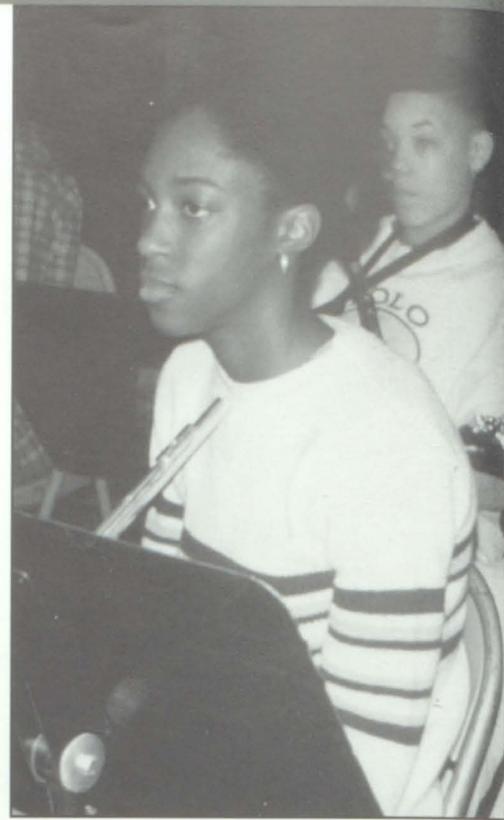

Magical Music Moments

Wherever students roamed on the third floor during fourth periods, they could hear the beautiful music being created by members of the band program. The music was always upbeat and lively, and the tunes were usually familiar to everyone's ears. The bands' directors, Mr. T. Scalzo and Mr. J. Mendolia, kept their musicians challenged and on the cutting edge of the latest styles of music. According to Mr. Scalzo, "This year's group was the best yet." The students continually worked to bring themselves to higher performance levels. They practiced long and hard and enjoyed every moment of it. Their rendition of selections from the score of "Les Miserables" impressed audience members, and their songs from the Dr. Seuss classic, How the Grinch Stole Christmas set the mood for the holidays.

At the annual Pops Concert, the bands, orchestra, and choir performed a combined "The Power of a Dream" from "Hercules" and left audiences applauding for more.

These talented musicians rehearsed every day correcting flaws, until their music was immaculate. They awed their audiences with their flutes, clarinets, and saxophones as they played every note with ease and precision. Mr. J. Mendolia said, "I'm very proud of them. They get better and better each day."

Math Club

Having fun with numbers and problems

The math club consisted of twelve intelligent students who continuously strived for excellence. Led by Mr. R. Lukaschek, the team members met Mondays to perfect their math skills. Working diligently, the team agreed that the math club was interesting and challenging. Trying to solve difficult problems in a limited amount of time was stimulating and brought a great deal of satisfaction when the right answer was achieved.

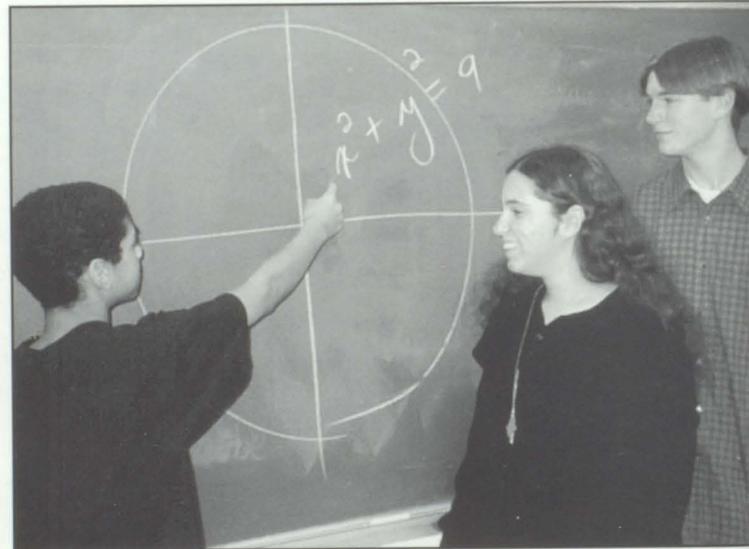

Competing five times throughout the school year with other high schools, each of the members set out to do his best. These competitions included three sets of two questions with a time limit of twelve minutes for each set. With much practice tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders gave it their best. President, Robin Hsuing stated, "The math competitions were very different from what we experienced in school; we have appreciated the knowledge that we have obtained to solve these intriguing word problems."

With members taking silver medals in competitions, Mr. R. Lukaschek stated, "The math club members were very intelligent and fun to work with." Whatever their future plans, math will be a part of their careers and professions.

Excited about their new upperclassman status, the juniors enthusiastically began their third year of high school. Special events such as the Junior Prom and the ring breakfast were are some of the events that the students looked forward to in anticipation. "The eleventh grade was very stressful because of the expectations that were put on us. We were pressured to grow up quickly into young adults. Somehow we managed to rise to the demands of our teachers as well as our parents," Tamika Lee said as she studied for her exams. Many Juniors agreed with this statement and went on to say that they were feeling nostalgic about their freshman and sophomore years. "I can still remember my first day of school. I was so intimidated by other juniors and seniors, but now I am one of those students that I used to look up to," Joe Martinez commented.

As these moments passed, the members of the junior class realized that their time here in high school was quickly coming to an end.

Creating memories that would last a lifetime, striving for grades to impress colleges, and being young while acting like an adult were what eleventh grade was all about.

Halloween

Imaginative Moments

While some students chose not to dress up for Halloween, many students did, as well as many faculty and other staff members. Dressed in a variety of costumes from different time periods and cartoon series, the day was filled with fun and excitement. Many agreed that this Halloween was one of the most creative yet. Mr. D'Antoni seized the moment and kept students and faculty guessing with his eccentric outfit dressed as his alter ego.

Halloween is one of the most popular holidays of the year. Senior Chasity Torres said, "Halloween is cool because you are allowed to act wild and freaky." "One thing I like about Halloween is it's nothing like the other holidays," said Lucy Garcia.

Secret judges were posted in the halls handing out yellow tickets for those who had the most unique costumes. At the end of the day those with a yellow ticket became finalists in the costume contest. Alex Oliveira, dressed like Jesus Christ, wore his own hair and won first place. Sophomore Curtis Tunstall, dressed as Grandma, kept students laughing all day.

Many staff and students have already started planning next year's costume.

Tropical Paradise

sets mood for Junior Prom

For a brief moment the large gymnasium, used for basketball games and gym classes, was transformed into an island paradise, complete with waterfall, footbridge, and moonlit sky. The juniors who attended the winter extravaganza were momentarily transformed as well. Dressed in suits and fancy dresses, the students danced and dined the night away. It was a great party and really brought the class closer together as they mingled at the tables and crowded onto the dance floor. Food was served by the underclass waiters and waitresses who even had time to join in the festivities. Prizes were awarded to the best dancers and for the best dressed.

Class advisor, Mr. A. Sullivan, was proud of the accomplishments of the students who built the waterfall which came with its own goldfish pond. The twinkling lights, centerpieces, and decorations revealed a great deal of planning on the committee's part, and the months of preparation by the sophomore class, the parents, and class advisors certainly were worth it all.

When juniors look back over the year, it will be the night of the junior prom that they all will recall with a smile.

SENIORS- their moment

These were the moments that the class of '98 will cherish for the rest of their lives. It took determination, maturity, and a lot of hard work to get to this point in their lives. The time has come for all seniors to enter the world of new experiences and to take with them the golden moments from their past. Seniors will always remember the times when they showed their school spirit during spirit week and homecoming. They will forever remember the magical moments of the fashion show where they came together to strut their stuff.

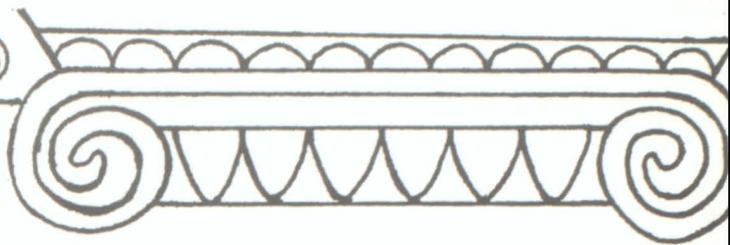

As the year progressed, the prom was no longer a distant dream but a reality. Talks of dates, dresses, and limos filled the halls for weeks as the senior class eagerly awaited the big night. The prom quickly came and went and became just a blurry memory. As the school year came to an end, everyone was prepared for graduation. Walking up to the podium and receiving that diploma were some the most memorable moments that the seniors have ever encountered.

The seniors have reached that final moment in their high school career.

SENIOR FASHION SHOW

The auditorium was charged with excitement on the night of the annual senior fashion show. For one day out of their high school career, seniors posed as models and walked down the runway, displaying a variety of fashions. As the young ladies and gentlemen "strut their stuff," the audience members cheered and applauded their friends and some of the outrageous fashions.

Part of the evening's activities included two performing groups which lip-synched the songs of the Spice Girls and Village People. The audience roared as the girls danced and the boys gyrated to the familiar tunes.

Coordinated by Ms. D. Doyle, the evening was a tremendous success for all involved. When the bride and groom made their entrances down the staircase which was part of the set for the fall comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," the audience gasped.

To Julia

I remember your first day of kindergarten.
You held on to me screaming and begging not to go.
Now, no one loves school more than you do.

You thought you'd never learn to dance,
make the team, win the ribbons,
Yet each and every time you faced your fears,
the Champion within you leaped out and cheered . . .
"You can do it . . . you're 'Julia De Great'!!!!

It's amazing how the things we fear most in life,
when faced with faith, become our greatest triumphs, strengths and dreams come true.

Let the Champion within continue to leap out in the midst of life's struggles and fears and lead you courageously with God and all he has for you in your life.

Never settle, but strive in all you do and all that you encounter for the rest of your life . . .
to live life like an MVP.

If you do, you'll accomplish your goals,
"live happy, and die laughing."

You're my pride and joy, my shining star!

Dear Faith

We can't believe that this time is here
After watching you grow throughout the years
We know you have always had a mind of your own
Which somehow makes it easy to believe, you'll never be alone.
We're so proud of you and for who you are
And we'll always be with you whether near or far.
Have confidence, peace, and self-esteem
Which will give you strength to follow your dreams
Always remember, we love you with all of our hearts
And will always believe in you as you make a new start.
Congratulations and keep well and be safe
Because you truly remain

"Our Beautiful Faith"

Love Forever,

Dad, Mom, & Dougie

*Every step you take . . . We take
 Be it good times or bad
 Just like that surprise on that 1st day of the 1st month of the 1st year of the eighties.
 We never stop being proud of all the things that make Meghan
 The classic girl rising up to change America
 Riding that uncloaked pony beyond the Ave.
 Stay alive in a microcosm of prepahos
 and guidobos
 Keep fighting for the right
 Knowing the awesomeness of Meghan
 This may be the end of something great
 This is the start of something fantastic.*

Love, Mom, Dad, Sara & Dave

OF COUNSEL

This was the moment. . .

As the year comes to an end, it has been the goal of the yearbook staff to hold onto the moment a little longer and cherish those special days of high school here in Bay Shore. The moment has come to an end, but every time a person opens this book the past comes alive again.

COLOPHON

This seventy-fifth volume of the Bay Shore MARAUDER was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Texas under the supervision of Mr. Neil Sanders, our Taylor representative. Mr. Doug Brehm from Riviera Studios was the official photographer. The cover was made from Maroon Lexotone/Vellum with silver foil for the design. 450 copies of the 200-page book which included two full-color signatures on #80 matte stock were printed. A student supplement will be added to complete the book and will include the closing activities of the 1997-98 school year. The stadard type face used throughout the book was Ballardvale, and all text was submittted on diskette by utilizing Taylor's Typevision Software. The yearbook was produced by the Creative Writing for Publication and the Graphic Design and Layout courses taught by Mr. Joseph B. D'Antoni and Ms. Maragaret Pesco.
