Focus on 1999

The world is spinning out of control as we prepare to take our role.

We patiently endeavor to keep things in their place and worry about issues staring us in the face.

The future new millenium is filled with mystery as we start a new page in history.

Technology, discovery, and political strife will all impact on our quality of life.

For now we focus on our immediate plans like college or football and cheering in the stands.

We remember the friendships, laughter, and tears that somehow carried us through the years.

We try to take the world in stride and hop aboard for the long new ride.

Bay Shore has helped us get ready to face the professional world and the human race.

As we keep an eye on the history of man

Throughout this book you'll see a picture of who we are with focus on our present dreams and our reach for a star.

The decade is coming to an end and a whole new world is waiting 'round the bend.

See our story as it unfolds on these pages
our memory that will last throughout the ages.

Seniors

In their last year of high school, seniors focus their attention on decisions that they have put off thinking about. Now they must face the reality of the future and decide what they will do after graduation. They must focus on college entrance exams, selecting a school, financial aid, living facilities, and how that college career will improve the quality of their lives in the future. Focusing on academics becomes a harder task as seniors have many distractions. Many are working part time jobs to defray expenses, pay car insurance, and maintain their standards of living. They work harder to pass their required courses because they are necessary for their graduation requirements. They realize that this was their last Homecoming and their last season playing high school sports.

They now begin to prioritize their time and their lives. They focus on tomorrow and realize that the future is in their hands.

School Life

A student's day didn't end with dismissal after the last class. From 1:45 to as late as 11:00 at night, the building was still ablaze with activity and people working on a variety of projects. Drama and musical rehearsals and set work often ended as late as 11:00 during the last week before the productions. Jazz band and music groups rehearsed at night for the next concerts. Evening dances, sponsored by clubs and student council, kept students working on decorations and cleaning up long after the majority of students had left the building. Working on school publications, such as the yearbook, newspaper, and literary-arts magazine, could only be done when the computers were available after the classes had finished. For those students who were involved, school was a source of education and also fun. They joined clubs and activities to continue working with their friends and teachers on subjects of interest to them. They didn't mind the extra hours and often enjoyed the camaraderie.

For many students, it was the extra-curricular activities that they will remember most about high school and that they focus on when they think of their years in Bay Shore High School.

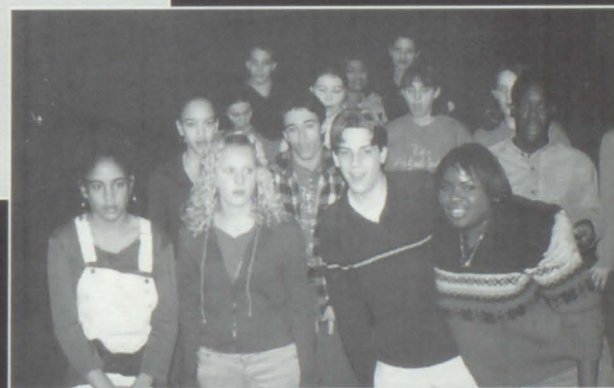

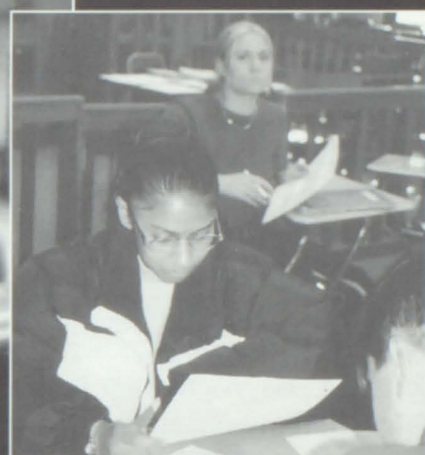

While sitting in the stands, Danielle Catalano plays in the band for one of the home football games.

It's Show Time

They've done it again! For its fall production the Thespian Troupe tackled the challenging comedy classic, "The Philadelphia Story." Most audience members were familiar with the Katherine Hepburn, Cary Grant and Jimmy Stewart movie, and the players sought to recreate the characters made popular by those famous actors. The work was at times difficult, trying to master the intricate personalities and memorize the countless number of lines. Amanda Conlon as Tracy Lord was magnificent as the sophisticated girl confused over which man to marry. Dexter Havens, played by senior Matt Patterson, was a cunning ex-husband who did everything in his power to get his former wife from the clutches of George Kittredge, played by Rob Adams. It was an outstanding cast with a few surprises such as when Tracy is carried back into the house by Mike Connor as played by Kai McNeil. Every time Alex Dunkel, as Uncle Willie, appeared, the audience howled with laughter.

This production was just one more in a long list of outstanding shows.

Creative Crew

The backstage crew kept its reputation as some of the hardest working people in show business. The crew worked to construct sets for the fall production of "The Philadelphia Story" and for the spring musical. Working everyday of the week and even some Saturdays, the crew succeeded in building an upper class, house, which brought the audience straight into the living room of the Lords. As the curtain opened for both shows, the audience was heard gasping at the beautiful, realistic scenery that far surpassed most high school productions. Under the direction of art teacher, Mr. M. Bicknell, the students learned a variety of painting and construction techniques. Even the crew members were amazed when they viewed the sets from the seats. What they accomplished with hammer, nails, sponges, cardboard, and styrofoam was nothing short of amazing.

"The crew was not afraid to work, and the members were very dedicated," said Michael DiMatteo. The backstage club also included the lighting and sound students. They welcomed the new challenges of each new production with an open tool box and new paint cans.

Playing with Pride

Once again the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. R. Burns, astounded audiences with the quality of its music. The trained instrumentalists in this group of talented musicians played a variety of music from jazz to pop to classical and even rock and country. The music played by the orchestra students was selected to develop the skills of the musicians and challenge their abilities to the fullest. "The music was challenging, but within our range of accomplishment," said Shalea Dowdell. At the annual winter concert, the orchestra played new selections from "The Dave Matthews Band." On Monday evening members of the String Ensemble rehearsed, and this year several small quartets were featured in a special concert before Thanksgiving.

They practiced long and hard, and many took private lessons. It all paid off in the quality of sound produced by this group.

Sparkling Spirit

Everywhere the Marching Band appeared, the girls' Colorguard and Danceline appeared as well. With lively routines and high stepping, the girls entertained the fans while the band accompanied them. The Memorial Day Parade, Hofstra showcase, and West Point were some of the sites where the talented two groups performed. They held their heads high as the band marched up Fifth Avenue for the Columbus Day Parade and were part of the second place award that the groups received. No matter what the weather, the girls' spirit shone through their routines and sparkled in the sunlight, along with their glittering costumes.

Under the direction of Mrs. M. DiLegge and Mrs. S. Brenner, the girls practiced their routines and maintained perfect cadence. Each year's routines was totally new and different. Many of the girls gave up their lunch periods to be a part of this performing group, but the time and work were well worth it.

Chess Club Learns The Moves

Chess is a game of concentration, but it is also a lot of fun. The Chess Club has been in existence for the past fifteen years and has been advised by math coordinator Mr. R. Lukaschek, for the last ten years.

At meetings, the members played practice games, learned openings, and were taught new strategies by the advisor who is probably one of the most experienced chess players in the school. Even though enough members show up to field a team for competition, the club always welcomed new members.

The club also competed in many tournaments as part of the Long Island Interscholastic Chess Association. In those tournaments, they competed with such schools as East Islip, Connetquot, Northport, and Lindenhurst. The club hoped to get far enough to once again take first place in the county championships as it did in 1990. The club also competed in the United States Chess Federation tournaments held in the City and in the state tournaments held once a year. Mr. Lukaschek said, "Chess is enjoyable and trains the mind to solve problems."

Making Academics Interesting

When most students think of the Academic Club they think of a group of extremely intelligent students discussing quantum physics theories and calculus. However, this club brings students together to test their knowledge of trivia while at the same time having fun.

Under the supervision of advisor Ms. L. Torinese, students met once a week to practice and attended regional quiz bowls. At these competitions, the students were divided into JV and Varsity teams and were quizzed for three rounds. The club faced Copiague, Brentwood, West Islip, and other schools in the region, answering questions on a variety of topics. Not all competitions were just for fun. The club also attended quiz bowls where money was raised for diseases like cerebral palsy and breast cancer. When the team wasn't competing, it spent hours in and out of school and practiced its knowledge of trivial information.

The club remembered to study hard, never give up, and always have fun. Its objective was clearly pointed out when President Susan Kane stated, "Our goal is to have fun...a bonus is to win!"

Law and Order.

Law and Order was the main goal of the eleven students on the Mock Trial Team. Advisor Mr. R. Richardson held auditions early in the year and looked for students who could speak clearly and make believable statements.

Mr. R. Richardson observed each student's abilities and decided what part the student could best portray. He said, "I decided if a student could withstand questioning as a witness." Prosecution and defense parts were given to those who were good at memorizing facts and could speak with poise speak in front of groups. When their parts were given, they held mock trials among themselves to train for competition against other schools. In all, the team competed against thirty-two schools on Long Island.

The Moot Court members were students who entered the High School with no law experience. The purpose of Moot Court was to train underclassmen with what it takes to compete. Even though the members of Moot Court did not compete with other schools, they did compete among themselves. Students who stuck with the program and enjoyed it could continue on the Mock Trial Team the following year.

Bible Club- keeping the faith.

Every Thursday the Bible Club advisor, Mrs. A. Pfeffer, and the members started their meeting with a prayer. They read a section from the Bible which raised questions and discussion topics about moral issues that students encountered on a daily basis. In Bible Club, the students learned how to deal with everyday problems and how to love, understand, and be more patient with others. Francene Campbell said, "As a devotional prayer person, I joined Bible Club for one reason and that was to serve the Lord I love. This is the first year that I have been in the club. I recommend other believers in Christ to join. It's great fun, and I hope to see new members." The Bible Club showed that there are students who cared and are willing to help their classmates as much as they can. Juliana Ramos added, "As secretary of Bible Club, it has been a great experience so far, and I'm excited for the upcoming events. It's a great opportunity to get together with other Christian believers of Jesus Christ whom I love dearly." The Bible club does not only helped kids to help others but it also help them to understand life better.

A Helping Hand

Students who make it to the top of their class and consistently earned high academic grades were invited to be inducted into the prestigious National Honor Society. In order to maintain the high standards of the organization, the candidates also received recommendations and evaluations from their classroom teachers. Being able to list membership in the Honor Society brought the students additional recognition for their efforts and special recognition from prospective colleges and employers.

Coordinator, Mr. G. Schecter, stated that only the best students could receive the distinction of membership in the national organization. Inductions were held twice during the year, and following initiation, the members were expected to become involved in community service activities. The Honor Society ran a tutoring service for students having academic difficulties. They invited local hospitals and conducted food drives around the holidays.

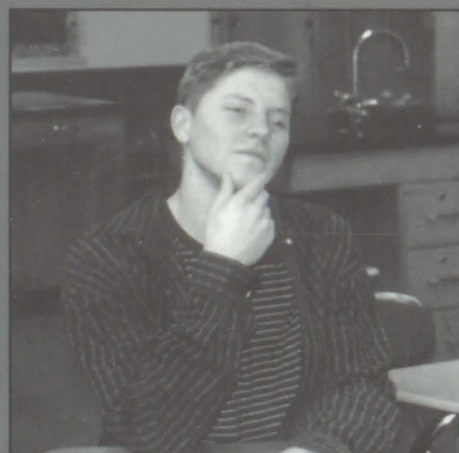

The members of the Honor Society enjoyed helping their peers and the needy members of the community. "The members enjoy the experience of working with the community," said Jamie Crean.

F.B.L.A. Looks Ahead.

Ready for the corporate world? That's how F.B.L.A. spent the year. Mrs. E. Ringer and Mrs. M. Fagan, who are the coordinators of the club, taught the students to build the confidence that they will need in their future work and to become successful. Future Business Leaders of America gave the students the opportunities, outside of their daily classes, to gain the experience in the real world by conducting fundraisers, developing projects, and entering competitive events against other schools across Long Island. The students had the chance to travel to Rochester, New York to compete in business related tests against other students all over New York State. By organizing a Thanksgiving food drive and selling candy during Christmas, the group of young students learned the techniques of leadership and improved their knowledge of the business world.

Martin Rodriguez, the president, said, "I am proud to see such a diverse group of people working together as one. I think this year's group was the best ever." F.B.L.A. gave students a push towards the business world and entrepreneurship.

Think Twice

"Driving while intoxicated," said co-president Jay Scalfani while shaking his head, "not a smart thing to do." That's the message S.A.D.D. (Students Against Driving Drunk) tried to get across to the community. With a group of about thirty kids in grades nine through twelve led by health teacher Mr. G. Broadhurst and co-presidents Jay Scalfani and Katie Heege, the members took their work seriously. They held fundraisers, visited the Middle School to speak to the students about alcohol and its effects, and they marched in many parades with banners to get their message across to both the students and adults.

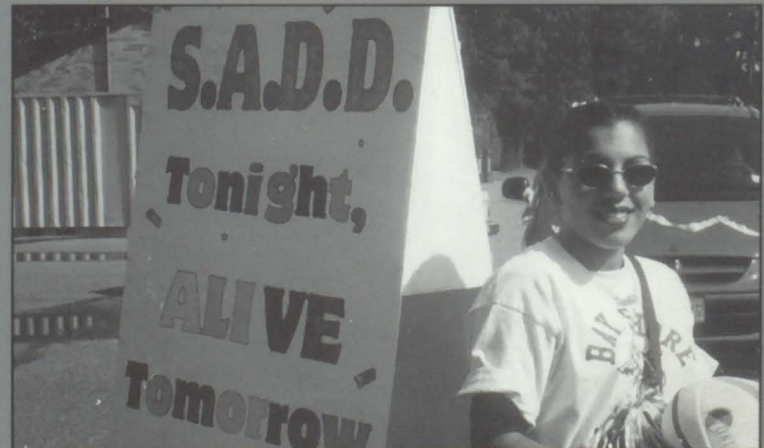

"You can't stop the drinking at parties, but you can make them safe by having a designated driver," said Edde Bazne, who is one of the most devoted members in S.A.D.D. Their annual Grim Reaper Day helped students to realize the dire consequences of drinking and driving. If only one student's life is spared, then this club has accomplished its primary goal.

Computer Wizards

As the computer wizzes of Mr. D. McGilvray's Computer Club met each Tuesday after school, they tried to beat the high scores of the many programs and games offered.

Many students came through to room 100A and just had fun while relaxing and playing games on the computer. Other times the students tried helping the teachers who needed assistance using the computer. The club was also involved in making banners for certain events such as Awareness Weekend, the Pep Rally, and other school functions.

Some of the kids who were more advanced could make their own programs or learn how to use Basic and Pascal languages. All of the students had their own password to get into the programs to avoid tampering with other students' files.

"I'm glad that the kids would come after a tough day at school and get on the computers," said Mr. McGilvray.

The Voice of B.S.O.S.S.

Brothers and Sisters Organization for Student Scholarship worked hard to accomplish its many goals. Advisor, Mr. N. Certain, club sponsor since its inception, hoped that it would remain active even after his retirement in June.

At meetings, the members discussed problems and concerns such as college plans, racial tensions, ethnic sharing, and trips. In addition, they discussed their plans for fundraisers for their scholarship program. B.S.O.S.S. also ran several activities such as a health fair, dance, college tours, fashion-talent show, and movie night. They watched the movie, "Amistad," and then discussed its plot and major themes.

During Black History month, guest speakers came to the school to talk to students. One of these was Dr. Henry Silva, a black activist and associate of Dr. Martin Luther King, who is presently a teacher at Piedmont Community College. Melvina Harris said, "B.S.O.S.S. is stronger this year than it has been in the past."

Crave The Wave

"Surf's up everyone." This was not something that would be heard in any other school! It is Bay Shore's proximity to the water that makes this club a must for the students. We have a combination of young experienced dedicated fun guys," said math teacher and longtime surfer, Mr. S. Fandale who organized the club a few years ago.

When the group can't hit the beach or find the waves, the guys sit around in the classroom and have discussions about personal experiences, the latest surfing attire, and where to find the best waves. They shared tips on how they can improve their skills.

When the water got too cold and the air was nippy, some of them were just crazy enough to throw on their wet suits, to catch the waves. Others retired their boards for the winter and dragged out the snowboards and skis for hitting the slopes.

No matter what the season or temperature, this group always found the way to have fun.

Spread the News

For the past two years, the Maroon Echo brought home gold and silver awards in national journalism competitions, sponsored by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. The school newspaper has been published since the 1920's, "Longer than some school districts have been in existence," said Mr. Litwin, the advisor of the club. With their hard work and dedication, the staff managed to use the same techniques for publication as the New York Times and Newsday which was one of the reasons that the newspaper has received so many awards and commendations. In addition to the after school club, Mr. J. D'Antoni taught a journalism class which was responsible for writing most of the news stories, editorials, and feature articles. In the class, students were taught writing skills and journalism terminology.

Editors, Emma Katz and Aphrodite Montalvo, oversaw the whole operation. They selected articles for publication and made sure that everyone met the required deadlines.

The goal of the Maroon Echo staff was to work on improving the quality of the paper and to fulfill its duty to spread the news of events concerning the High School and Bay Shore community.

Saving Lives

"A few moments of pleasure can bring a lifetime of pain. You would have been better if you had just abstained." That was one of the mottos of the A.I.D.S. Educators. Although many people had never heard of the club, the group met once a week at night so that the students could continue to do their other activities and sports.

During the meetings they participated in many different training sessions which instructed them on how to present a lesson to eighth grade students. They watched each other perform and gave suggestions about how to improve. There were also role playing workshops and presentations from guest speakers which explained methods of testing for the disease and various clinics that offer assistance to the afflicted.

The A.I.D.S. Educators participated in World A.I.D.S. Day in an effort to bring their message to the student body. At a candlelit school assembly, the educators presented dramatic readings of the biographies of people who had died from this incurable disease.

The A.I.D.S. Educators took their jobs seriously and provided a valuable lesson to the students and community.

Focus on the Memories

Long hours and much dedication went into this year's '99 Marauder yearbook. The staff, along with the helping hands of Mr. J. D'Antoni and Ms. M. Pesco, worked extremely hard throughout the school day, as well as afternoons on Tuesdays and Thursdays. On many days the staff and advisors were the only ones left in the building as they tried to identify a face in a photo or finish writing an article. Interviewing coaches and team members, getting quotes, and meeting deadlines became a regular routine for the members of the Creative Writing and Graphic Arts classes.

Focus was the theme that the classes agreed on for the final book of this millenium.

There was never a dull moment upstairs in room 321. BOCES students rushed in after their buses had dropped them off. People traveled back and forth to one hour film processing centers. Joe Nardone stated, "We were like a big family; we all worked together helping each other in every way we could and we always got along." They were focused on giving the community an outstanding publication.

Tears and Laughs

"A weekend full of tears and laughs," said Jamie Crean who attended this year's awareness weekend. Two weekends out of the school year, students and teachers came together to raise awareness about many issues that involve drugs, rape, and abuse. The school lobby was filled with people checking in and looking up who was in their family groups. Each family group was made up of students and a teacher facilitator.

Speakers attended awareness weekends to educate high school students with important issues. Each family group conducted discussions involving issues dealing with what the last speaker had talked about. During the weekends many started to feel comfortable with the group and chose to hit center stage to share their rough situations. Sharing their feelings with the group was just one more thing that made awareness weekend special to a lot of people. Mr. J. McGowan coordinated these two emotional weekends that brought together a lot of people in many ways. Every awareness weekend gave those in attendance a great deal of strength and encouragement.

Musical Notes

The students in the various choral groups, such as choir, Madrigals, and men's chorus, enjoyed singing as much as their director Dr. C. Morrow. He is a very talented musician who arranged many of the songs the choir sang, such as a medley from the popular Broadway show "Jekyll and Hyde." As an inspiration, the choir travelled into New York City to see "Jekyll and Hyde." Once again, the choir sang at the Brightwaters Christmas tree lighting ceremony. The choir's rendition had the audience dazzled by its dynamics and helped kick off the holiday spirit.

The choir also went to Hershey park and did an exceptional job leaving the crowd excited and wanting to hear more. "This year the choir had one of the most outstanding men's sections we have ever had," said Dr. C. Morrow. The Madrigals and the men's chorus often performed together and appeared together at the South Shore Mall's opening ceremonies for Lord and Taylor. Over the years, the singers have shared many happy moments together. Many have planned on going into music careers as a result of this experience.

Breaking New Records

Once again the Marauder Marching Band took all the kudos this year. Whether playing for home football games, Renaissance assemblies, Homecoming, the Columbus Day Parade, West Point, or the Hofstra Festival, the Marauders brought home accolades from the parents and spectators alike. Led by drum majorette, Regina Mehler, along with her assistant drum majorettes Jean Del Vecchio and Kim Mullen, the group stayed perfectly in step and performed its routines flawlessly. This year the marching band placed second in the Columbus Day Parade for the first time in eight years. The entire organization was also invited to play at the West Point Band Day alongside West Point's band.

Once band season ended, the students returned indoors to rehearse for concert band and perform at the winter and spring concerts and the annual Pops Concert. With hard work, dedication, and lots of practice during and after school, the Marauders finished an outstanding year and will continue to break records for its performances.

Artistic Creations Come To Life

An artist sat in a quiet room carving sculptures from wood. With each cut, the block of wood was transformed into a work of art. After a few finishing touches, the artist wiped off his artwork and proudly displayed his sculpture.

No, this was not a glimpse at some prestigious art school but at the art club which met once a week in room eight. Students discussed art, worked on a variety of projects, and explored their talents. Guided by advisor, Ms. N. Sherman, the students were encouraged to express their views on art and bring their artwork to life. Much of the artwork was displayed throughout the school and was featured in, "Reflections," the literary-arts magazine. Everyone was welcomed and encouraged to join. Ms. N. Sherman stated, "The students are able to work in a relaxed atmosphere where all the materials are provided for them and they are free to work on either class projects or personal ones."

Whether working on portfolios for colleges or sketching scenes, the students enjoyed creating art.

Scenes of Sights and Sounds

No other organization was aware of the importance of keeping things in "focus" as was the Sights and Sounds Club, advised by Mr. R. O'Neill. Looking through the lens of a video camera, the students always had to be conscious of camera adjustments while taping to make sure that the image on the screen remained in focus.

On Friday afternoons, students gathered in room 325 to learn more about videotaping strategies, new cameras, and color monitors. They covered all activities that were held during the school year by preserving the memories of drama productions, concerts, court cases, A.I.D.S. Educators' presentations, the community Summit, Ethnic Pen, and Renaissance assemblies.

Mr. R. O'Neill provided all of the equipment for his students. When they entered his room, they felt as if they had just walked into a movie theater. The walls of his classroom were lined with posters from hit movies of the past and present. "We make movie magic by learning how to use the basic tools, like stop-go animation," said president, Dan Verga.

Glancing Back

People who are interested in history were able to enjoy it more and learn much more about it by joining the History Club. These students realized that not all history is found in textbooks in the classroom. The meetings provided students with an opportunity to discuss history as it is being made each day both here and abroad.

Students participated in such activities as debates, essay contests, field trips, and competitions such as National History Days. They debated in Great Neck with as many as twenty other schools attending. Advisor, Mrs. C. DeJose was pleased with how the club has grown in the past two years with between twelve and fifteen students attending the weekly meetings.

The club planned to take its history studies on the road by going on as many field trips as possible. They planned trips to Medieval Times and Washington, D.C. "By exploring history we will enhance the future," said Mrs. DeJose who hoped that the club would grow in popularity in years to come.

Excitement With Numbers

While many students struggled with math, the students of the math club had fun staying after school to solve difficult problems and equations. Seven enthusiastic students competed against Central Islip, Islip, and East Islip schools. Their skilled advisor, Mr. R. Lukaschek, taught them challenging techniques on how to unravel the most challenging math problems. The math club meets several times a week to work out solutions, develop math skills and just have fun. "Some people laugh when we say math is exciting, but it is when we are competing with some of the top teams in New York," said Carmen Kuit who ranks mathematics as her favorite school subject.

"This year our members were very dedicated and worked to the best of their ability. That's all I asked from the members," said Mr. Lukaschek. The math club competed in local and national tournaments and was represented at the Mathematics Association of America Contest.

Student Council Lends A Hand

The Student Council celebrated yet another successful year with tremendous support from the school population. What was so satisfying to the members of the Student Council was the great increase in participation by both the students and faculty members. After starting the year with one of the biggest school events, Homecoming Week, the Student Council sponsored other events such as the Halloween costume contest, the Thanksgiving food drive, and the Junior Prom. Before the holidays, the annual Christmas tree lighting took place with the help of Dr. C. Morrow and the choir.

The Student Council was not only recognized as a school organization but also as a great contributor to those in need in the community with events such as the Penny Drive and Adopt-a-Family. Mrs. C. DiPane stated, "I'm so proud of the Student Council! This was probably one of the most successful years ever!"

Whether through school activities or serving the people in need, the Student Council showed that even the highest goals can be reached through the dedication of many hardworking individuals.

Dealing With Conflict

All high school students experience periods of stress. Peer supporters are students who are willing to help other students with their problems. They help students gain insight into their own behavior. They also help students increase self-esteem. In the time out room the P.S. Helpers are able to meet with students and talk about anything that the student needs while it is kept confidential.

They trained every Wednesday and learned how to act with everyday problems. A huge part of their training came from the Awareness Weekend that is run by them and their advisor Mr. McGowan. Being a P.S. Helper means being yourself and using your skills to help others in a way that is comfortable for you. One thing they did to help is just being available through Mr. McGowan to be matched with someone who was looking for someone to talk to. Another thing they did was to reach out to other students with a smile, a hug, or simply with information. Molly Finnerty said "it's easier to seek advice from people your own age and that is why the Peer support program is so crucial."

"Guys and Dolls" A Hit

As the curtain rose on the Broadway street scene, the audience knew it was in for a treat. Crowds crossed the street and dancers filled the stage. From start to finish it was one great dance number and song after another. Under the direction of Mr. J. D'Antoni, the show moved along with laughs and entertainment as student performers re-created the famous Damon Runyon characters. Miss Adelaide, played by senior Amanda Conlon, stole the scenes she was in with her nasal voice and sparkling personality. Nathan Detroit, her fiancée of fourteen years, was played convincingly by senior Matt Patterson. Ellen Shave, as Sarah Brown, and Vinny Tortorici, as Sky Masterson, delighted audiences with their ballads and romance. The choreography, under the direction of Mrs. S. Brenner, was lively and perfectly in keeping with the gamblers and their dolls. The sewer scene, designed by Mr. M. Bicknell, was so realistic that one could almost smell the stench from the pipes below. The pit orchestra, conducted by Mr. D. Persia, complemented the performances of the cast and added that professional touch. The vocals, especially during "Sit DOWN You're Rocking The Boat," were outstanding and revealed harmonizing and vocal dynamics. With the help of retiring director, Mr. J. Guzas, the show was perfect right down to the program.

Once again the theater and music departments left their audiences on their feet. It was a great night of entertainment for all!

Sports

For many students the focus throughout the school year is on sports and athletic activities. They spend hours after school working out in the weight room, running track, and stretching muscles to improve their personal strength and endurance. A spirit of competition and a desire to bring fame to their school motivates these students to surpass previous personal and team records.

While most students were sleeping in the morning or relaxing at home in the afternoons, athletes were in the building practicing cheerleading routines and building their pitching arm at 5: 30 in the morning. Practices extended long into the evening as basketball and volleyball players vied for gym space. What a memorable year it was for the basketball, football, and track teams which were able to surpass past records and bring recognition to themselves and their school.

Playing Hard...

To Be Champions

Coach Mr. J. McGowan and Assistant Coach Ms. K. Wheeler entered the season enthusiastic and ready to defend the 1998 New York State Championship. Having coached the Varsity team for sixteen years, Coach McGowan was responsible for bringing the team successfully through eight consecutive division championships and four of the last five State championships. "I think they'll maintain the tradition that their predecessors have established through their commitment to excellence and pride in the program," said Coach McGowan. The girls knew they had to work well with each other and play hard, if they were to emerge victorious after another exciting and challenging season. Team captains, Kim Ryan and Lauren Bettinelli, took their leadership role seriously and provided guidance and support for the players.

The JV team was a brand new team, since no girls returned from last year. With a previous record of 14 -5, Coach Mr. A. Cantore taught his team how to win and how to practice hard and survive tough games. "They're a very young team that's going to work very hard," said Coach Cantore. Without playoffs for JV teams, they simply played for the love of the game and the goal of making varsity next year. All they needed was experience.

Determined To Win

Winning Tradition

The baseball team was ready for another hard-hitting season after last year's run for the Suffolk County title. With only three returning starting seniors, Steve Russo, Gerard Renner, and John Rossiello, the players had to give it all they had and work together as a team to bring another victory home to Bay Shore. With a new coaching staff the team had some adapting to do and at the same time concentrate on the season.

Gerard Renner said, "We lost seven all league seniors to college and have only three returning starters, so a lot of pressure is falling on this year's team." Having won four league championships in a row, the team was determined to uphold the tradition. To do so the players came to practice ready to work and gave a 100% everyday. Steve Russo said, "Bay Shore Baseball has had a winning tradition, and this team is going to do everything in its power to maintain that tradition."

Girls and Boys lacrosse capture glory

With a championship season last year, the boys' lacrosse team anticipated yet another exciting and rewarding season. The lacrosse team started getting into shape with weight training once a week and jogging out in the cold weather. The team, coached by Mr. T. Cox, worked hard to become the best. "We are a very young team this year, but with the talent we have we can go very far this season," coach Cox said in a confident voice. All County player T. J. Barnett returned for his third year on varsity. "We have worked very hard this year and it's paying off big time; I love this game," said T.J. The boys started the season off with a dominant win over Lindenhurst.

Winning- that's what the girls' lacrosse teams are known for, and they were determined to stay at the top of their game. With coaches, Mr. J. Pfeffer and Mrs. A. Pfeffer, the girls held grueling practices five times a week even in cold and stormy weather. They ran repeatedly at practice to build the endurance and strength they need to win over their opponents. One of the leaders of the team, Alison O'Brien, said, "We all worked our hardest during practice and games. We are all like sisters."

Fighting For The Win

Dedication and Hard Work

As spring approached, the girls' varsity volleyball team got ready for another intense season. In her final year of teaching and coaching, Ms. E. Eckman was determined to make this her most successful year ever. The team, composed mostly of seniors, worked together everyday pushing themselves to go all the way. With a new member on the team from Yugoslavia, Tanja Nauparac, the starting line up was very strong. "This team put a lot of dedication and hard work; it's rewarding to see it all pays off," said returning player Melissa Leonhardt.

The girls were really excited about playing together. They brought all of their athletic talent to the court and became a very close unit. Before big games, the girls along with Ms. E. Eckman had a team dinner at one of the player's homes. This helped to build their spirit and camaraderie in preparation for the next day's games.

Following behind varsity was the J.V. team, coached by Mr. J. Bayer. The girls worked hard to learn the basic skills to the game. They not only put a lot of time into the team but practiced hard everyday after school.

Fearing the Opponents

Fire On The Court

As spring approached, the varsity team worked intensely on developing its skills and stamina. Coach Mr. J. Morrison worked his players at practice each day to prepare them for a tough and challenging season. Drew Arbeiter, captain, was an exemplar for the team with his dedication and commitment to the players. In a non-league scrimmage against Brentwood, the team won 5-2. It was a good match and predicted a successful season for the team. The team has been voted most likely to finish number one in its league by the coaches from the county. The players all agreed to work their hardest to make Mr. Morrison's last season a memorable one before he retires.

Hitting the court hard and serving up some real action, the JV Tennis team played tough and worked hard to reach its goal of becoming league champs. With all the new players in the team along with the returning players there are lots of different ideas on how to get their opponents to fear the ball. Mr. C. Jones said, "I strived to get the players to perform to their greatest abilities to keep the high tradition of Bay Shore tennis alive." The JV team is very diverse with all the new players in the team along with their skills.

A stroke in time

Thirty strokes per minute was a ripple in time for the athletes of the crew team to reach their goal in each race they rowed. March was the month when it all began. The water was in the mid-forties, and the team bundled in layers of clothes to keep warm as they rowed for the fastest time. Pulling their hardest increased their speed, and lifting weights all year long made them stronger. For its second season on the water at Dowling College, Mr. B. Blackman held an outstanding outlook for the future of the crew team. The boys trained with Mr. B. Blackman while the girls trained with assistant coach Ms. B. Burke to be one of the top schools with a crew team. The team left at 1:50 everyday to load the boats into the water and prepare for stroke-after-stroke for a two thousand-meter race. The boys loaded two boats for them to practice, one for four people and then one for eight. The girls loaded their six boats into the water. Sabrina Yass, a senior on the team for the first time, said, "The endurance you have is what you need to succeed to become a true rower." The team competed against certain schools on the Island and in upstate New York. The team had a motto that helped them get through each race "Row is row; everyone else plays games".

Right on Track

Hurdling to Greater Heights

After the outstanding performance at this year's high school national championships in Boston, both the boys' and girls' track teams expected to do extremely well in the Spring. Dedicating four days to strenuous three hour long practices, members of the team not only built their stamina but also their confidence. With an immense air of confidence, Shayna Staton stated, "After our performance at the Nationals, I think that we're going to do well this spring."

Part of the athletes' drive to dedicate so much of their free time to track was from the guidance of the coaches and assistant coaches. The coaches spent hours of their own time not only giving advice to the athletes on how to do the long jump properly or how to position themselves in the starting blocks but also helping to build moral values essential in everyday life, such as communicating with others and being a part of a team. Mr. N. Certain stated, "We have a lot of returning athletes, and I believe the future should be bright. With the addition of a large number of new athletes as well, this should be a good season."

Dedication, hard work, and perseverance were just some of the key factors of the great success of this year's Spring track teams, whose goal wasn't just to win but also to improve their personal individual records.

Putting on the Green

A Hole in One

The golf team started the season out with excitement and they were confident that the team was going to be determined to overcome all competitions and zero in on team work and winning. The team concentrated on a perfect performance even after losing three seniors. They knew with practice and hard work their team would be a success. Their coach Mr. B. Mahler showed the team what hard work was all about by speaking softly and carrying a club! The team was made up of thirteen devoted players. The players felt that one of their better strengths was having more younger players playing on the team. The team played fifteen games and had a success of eight wins and only seven losses. They played against Bellport with a victory of nine to zero. They also played against Lindenhurst with a win of eight to one. The players played well as they drove each and every ball on the green. Along with the dedication the team had many exciting times and learned more about golf. They are looking forward to another fun season of success. The team shared many memories and had many good times. "The key to our success is morale and if morale is low all else fails," said well by Bryan Whitlock. The team was considered a hole in one!

The Young and Talented

Pride and Dedication

With no seniors remaining on the girls' cheerleading squad, the girls had to work extra hard to remain a classic team. These talented girls prepared all summer in camp where they were awarded the title of "Superior Team" out of many teams from around the U.S.

With seven All-Americans, these girls practiced at 5:30 A.M. when they had strenuous work outs and runs to build up endurance. This young talented team led by Captains, Nicole Russo and Rictoria Brothers, had an exciting season, cheering for the football, basketball, and the wrestling team. The girls aroused the fans with their superior cheers and thrilling moves during every game or match. Nicole Russo said, "It doesn't matter to us that we are so young. We all stayed together and help each other out. That's what makes us better than the rest." These girls are superb athletes who strived to perform their best. And this year's team did that and more.

These girls wouldn't be great without the outstanding coaching of Mrs. D. Kaplar. "They are very ambitious girls, and they always go the distance," Coach Kaplar said. The girls' goal for the year was to go all the way to the nationals in Tennessee.

Playing Tough

"Win tougher" was the motto for the soccer teams this year. Their strong defense proved worthy with a memorable 1-0 win against Commack, which had remained undefeated for five years. Although the team did not make it to the finals, it finished the season with a 4-6-1 record. Many of the players believed this team worked extremely well this year including Joe Martinez who stated, "This was the hardest working bunch of guys I ever saw. I loved playing with these guys. By far the most fun I had in all my years playing." With a lot of practice and team spirit the Varsity team proved it truly was a team of winners.

The JV team came into this season knowing things were harder for them after having lost Billy Germano and David Farrell, who both moved up to Varsity. Coach Mr. J. Nelson said, "The team was playing well at the second half of the season. They're starting to play together as a team; we're getting good results." The team had strong defense and a strong mid-field with Bryan Spencer and Kristian Montenegro and first time goalie Pat McCurdy did very well. Midway through the season the team pulled together with several shutouts in a row including a hard fought 1-0 victory over St. Anthony's. The JV team played well this year and even though there were no playoffs, they were still ready to dominate.

Zero in on the field

The girls' soccer team struggled to work together as one to have a successful season. The practices for the girls were tough as they worked on improving their skills with tactical moves and shots on net which no goalie could handle. The girls' coach, Mr. B. Brachio, worked the girls through intense and frustrating practices. Assistant coach, Ms. K. Owen, helped manage the team to work together to have a strong successful season. "My girls are a dedicated and cohesive unit on and off the field," said Coach B.

Captains, Jamie Crean, Alison O'Brien, and Kathleen Owen, pulled the girls together and had fun on and off the field. Corner kicks were centered as the offense line moved to score the winning goals to make the game a winning shut out against Central Islip. "The team was really hard working and our goal was set out to have a good, fun season," said captain Alison O'Brien. Although the girls had a record of four wins and ten defeats, they worked hard during all their games.

Coach Cortese of the Junior Varsity pulled together a strong team and had a very successful season. The girls had a shut out game against Copiague winning seven to zero. Captains Catlyn Green, Jean DelVecchio, and Jenn McLean helped the girls to become future varsity players.

Crossing the Finish Line

For the win

"It's a big year for us, and things are looking great. We hope to take a trip to Lake Placid for the state meet," said team co-captain Maria Palermo. With one of the best freshman squads in the county, new coach, Ms. L. Vickers looked forward to taking the place of last year's coach, Mr. L. Pena, and having another outstanding year. "We have a young team that's motivated, and we're having fun," said Coach Vickers. The girls did well and exceeded their expectations by finishing 5-0, winning the league and Division II championships. Then they went on to the county championships.

"We looked forward to the leagues. Our performance at Bear Mt. was satisfactory," said boys' coach Mr. N. Certain. They started off on a positive note by running everyday since the end of August. The boys seemed to stay on track through late practices from 2:30-6:00 after school, while still keeping their grades their number one priority. "We had six out of seven starters this year," said co-captain Kevin Meehan. "We also had many strong underclassmen this year, which helped the team out a lot," said co-captain Vernon Mickle. The team finished with a record of 5-0, won the league III championship and went on to the county championships.

Spiking to Success

Setting goals

"Got it! I go!" was heard when entering the Ralph Elliot gym this fall during the boys' varsity volleyball home games. On the court the team members worked together to improve their skills to defeat their opposition. At practice all ten boys focused on trying to make the season a successful one. The team's success did not only mean winning all of its games; it also meant accomplishing the personal goals set by each player.

Captains, Jason Pike and Andres Borromeo, led the way through an intense season. The game against Hauptpage that was truly unforgettable. The boys were losing the fifth match, 11-13; but they were determined to dominate the court, and they did. After a timeout the boys came back and won the last game together. "They were off to a slow start, but as the season progressed the team started to gel," said Coach Ms. E. Eckman. The team ended its hard working season with five wins and eleven losses.

The junior varsity players practiced to improve their skills in anticipation of becoming varsity players next year. Coach Ms. L. Schultz helped the team to develop positive attitudes and to be successful.

Dominating the Court

Swinging with pride

The girls continued to be a successful part of the school athletic program this year. The varsity coach Mr. J. Morrison said, "They are a great team. They worked hard and they only played to win." The team's most competitive match was played against Babylon, when they dominated Babylon with a score of 6-1. Captains Cynthia Both and Molly McLaughlin both said "The coach expected us to work to our full potential but only because he knows that we are capable of doing the work."

The J.V. team led by the fun but stern Mr. Jones also had a great season on the court. The team worked hard and with each victory or each defeat gained experience while reaching a new level of achievement.

Mr. Jones was very pleased with the way the team has performed. He quoted "I stress fun and this team was fun to work with. They showed a great deal of devotion and I am very pleased with the way the team improved".

The team had such a strong ability it was difficult to choose a captain. The most competitive match was played against Babylon. The team played seven games. They were down in the beginning but all their hard work and training brought them back and gave them the lead.

Midnight Madness on the Field

Speed and Accuracy

While most students were home sleeping in their beds, the field hockey teams were practicing under the lights on the field at midnight. The girls wanted the distinction of being the first team in the county to start their summer practices. They slept in the gym and started their workout while it was still dark. That's the kind of enthusiasm and spirit that led the team through their successful season.

That same stamina was visible during every game throughout the season. Fatigue was excluded from their vocabulary. Through it all, the grueling practices, the season's games, and the playoffs, the girls persevered and managed to have fun at the same time. They frequently joked about playing the game of capture the chicken.

"Stop the ball," "I am open," "Come on score!" were the words that were heard on the sidelines during the games. When Bridget Moreira passed the ball to Katherine Farrell to score a goal, the team cheered as victory against was in sight. The team met East Islip three times and came out victorious in all three games. Captains, Bridget Moreira and Katherine Farrell, held this talented team together on and off the field. "This is the best team I ever played on. We have improved a lot since the last season," said Katherine Farrell. Ms. Kauer their coach also agreed. Both the JV and Varsity teams always worked hard.

Striving to become perfect

Flipping into Action

The boys varsity gymnastics team showed a great deal of teamwork and enthusiasm this year. They consistently fought to be the best that they could be. With a small team of five dedicated guys who worked extremely hard for success. From the rings to the parallel bars, training for three hours a night, six days a week, for a month and a half. The team has had six meets with no wins, but this does not bother them. They learn more and more from each meet, and know where they need to improve. Their coach Mr. J. Jackowski put it best when he stated, "It's not about competing against the other team. We're competing against ourselves that's what makes our meets so important to us." And keeping this in mind the guys have all highered their scores to a personal best.

Since none of the team members will be graduating this year. The coach and the team knows that next year their team will be stronger knowing what to expect. Captain Elgin Aponte stated, "Our team has a lot of potential and can achieve anything." The Varsity Gymnastics team ended their year with 1 meet won and 6 meets lost. Juan Pichardo said, "We had a great team this year but we needed to practice a little harder to achieve a goal. We did good this year but we're planning on doing better next year."

The Unknown Team

Swimming to Success

As many students know, basketball, football, and track were among the predominant sports in our school. What many students weren't aware of was there also was a girls' and boys' Varsity swimming team. The teams didn't receive as much recognition though the teams had existed for years.

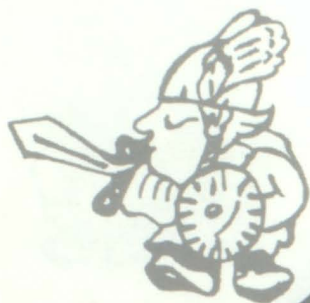

The girls' team, led by Coach Ramsey, practiced individually at different locations; one in Connetquot, another in Nassau, and the other two members at West Islip High School. Though most teams competed together, they did not. Peggy Cihlar explained, "We went to races as a team but we didn't swim for team points, only for individual points." The girls placed in the top spots in , many races, including third in the 100m breaststroke, third in the 200m freestyle, and fourth in the 50m freestyle at the State Championship.

The boys' team, led by Coach B. Blackman also swam under the same conditions as the girls' team. The boys' team practiced at West Islip High School. Brian Alfano said, "This was only our second year and we performed well." All the team members swam well placing in the top ten in many races with swimmers qualifying for the division and state championships.

With hard work and the continued dedication, both the boys' and girls' team should be a more recognized as well as successful sport.

Where it Counts

As the hot summer sun beamed on the Varsity and JV football teams during double sessions in August, the guys gave it all they had. With the Varsity coming from a 0-8 season last year and the JV team coming from a 0-7 season, the athletes were fired up and ready to give the season everything they had. Varsity coaches, Mr. T. Cox and Mr. J. Giattino, used new defensive and offensive strategies. The JV team recruited a new head coach, Mr. J. Segel, and Mr. B. Blackman returned as his assistant coach. By the end of the summer and the beginning of a new season, the Varsity and JV teams were ready to take on any competition.

In the first game against Riverhead, the Varsity prevailed for a 20-19 victory. This game broke a ten-year record as it was the first time Bay Shore won its season opener. After the game, Rick Morales said, "All the hard work paid off for the feeling of this win." The team went on to have other successes against Newfield, Walt Whitman, and Centereach and end the season with a record of 4-4.

The JV team also had a successful season and ended with a 5-3 record.

Running to Glory

On your mark, get set, go! Coach Mrs. L. Vickers pushed the girls' track team to do its very best. Jogging for many long strenuous hours helped to improve the stamina and endurance of the girls which in turn made for a successful season. The girls were dedicated to the team and competed many times through out the track season. The team had many invitations to compete against different schools. They competed against Stony Brook and had a successful win. The team also went to Yale and won the 4 by 8 and the 4 by 2 with a new record of 147.2. They returned to the Millrose Games and went for the state and the county championships with a strong relay team. The team had more county championship winners than any other school on Long Island.

Coach Mr. N. Certain worked his runners hard, but it all paid off. The boys' relay team won the distinction of being chosen to compete in the prestigious Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden. The long hours of practicing weekdays and weekends helped the boys improve the skills that they needed to stay on top. Competing against Brown University in the distance medley race, the team did an outstanding job. "Our ability to defeat Brown University proved that our team was one of the best on the Island," said a proud Mr. Certain in his last year of coaching.

Taking a last shot

At the Buzzer

The boys of the Varsity Basketball team started off on a positive note. They looked strong and impressive on opening night as they defeated Brentwood by thirty-one points and a score of 87 to 56. The team came into the season pumped up after they finished their last season with an overall final record of 13-6 and won the league championships. The Coach Mr. K. Parham looked to continue with the progress and hoped to again make the playoffs and advance further than the leagues. "If we come out everyday and do what we're supposed to do, we'll be a good team this year," said Coach Parham. Even with the loss of last year's captain and four-year starter Billy Parker, the team had a goal to win every game that it played.

The JV team was very different this season. It included only eighth and ninth graders and was a whole new team since Warren Mack and Roberto Richardson moved up to Varsity. The team started off well including a close 52-50 victory over Hempstead in the early part of the season. Coach Mr. S. Greene said, "They're young, and they have a long way to go. Winning is very big for them and we're looking forward to playing a League II schedule." Even though the team was so young, it played well against other JV teams that were older and a little more experienced.

Hoop It Up

Girls' basketball continued to be one of the most exciting sports around. Players labored to be the best by playing with discipline and intensity making this sport enjoyable for fans and players alike.

Everyday after school the teams worked hard to improve their skills and learn more about the game. Varsity captains, Jamie Crean and Ebony Mickle, were the team's leading scorers and guided the girls through some of their early season. The teams had a rough start because of the change of coaches. Varsity and junior varsity coaches, Mr. J. Cody and Mr. L. Quinn, had a lot of learning to do since this was the first year of coaching basketball for both men. Each girl had to submit herself to strict discipline and physical aches and pains. Through their hard work and dedication they proved that there are no limits to what may be achieved in the future. The team really showed how much improved in the game against Northport. The girls played with a new defensive intensity and lost only due to the good shooting of their opposition. The JV team had a somewhat better season and were victorious over Central Islip, Centereach, and Commack.

Sweat and Tears

With nine motivated seniors and seven all-league athletes, the varsity wrestling team started off an explosive season. With League II championship hopes in their eyes, they started the season in Albany, where the team took home the third place trophy and had wrestlers place in the sixteen team holiday tournament. On January 2nd Bay Shore hosted the Third Annual Cliff Clark Classic. The tournament was stacked with ten of the top teams on Long Island. Three state ranked teams, three county ranked teams and two Catholic state ranked teams all participated in the event. Bay Shore's Kevin Miller, Joe Nardone and Dan Najera led the Marauders, qualifying for the finals and earning the silver medal. Chris Sydnor and Matt Dimartino took third in their weight classes. "We saw some of the best wrestling on the Island, and we were right there with them. Now coaches are worried about our strengths," said Coach Mr. M. Porcelli. The varsity team owed its conditioning and stamina to the example set by coaches Porcelli and DelDucca, who devoted all their time and energy to the team.

The J.V.I team, coached by Mr. A. DelDucca, once again showed its winning ways against its opponents. The J.V. II was coached by Coach Mr. "Jumper" Leggio, who put together a tough team. These wrestlers, too, had a winning season.

Shooting for Strikes

On those cold winter afternoons while some athletes were running through the town trying to keep warm, the members of the bowling team were inside practicing their strikes and spares in the comfort of a heated alley. Faced with the difficult challenge of re-building its team, the many new players worked to their fullest potential and developed skills along the way. They set high goals for themselves and then worked to achieve them. They practiced additional hours and worked hard to make Coach Mr. J. Morrison's last year a memorable one. Led by captain Bill Platnick, the bowlers remained focused throughout the season. Mr. Morrison was proud of the dedication displayed by the athletes who practiced daily at Bay Shore Bowl and competed with teams from neighboring districts.

The team had an average of 857 and a high game of 267 by Ray Bryant. The team's highest individual series went to Bill Platnick with a series total of 659.

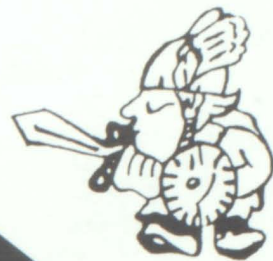

Although the team lost several key players, Mr. J. Morrison said the members never gave up. He was proud to work with them in his final year of teaching and coaching.

Focus on . . .

Academics

The focus of all of the students' activities throughout the day was always on academics. Achieving academic success and working to their fullest potential were a top priority of the professional staff and student body. Students were engaged in a variety of classroom activities to enhance their learning and increase their knowledge. Cases were tried in the courtroom, experiments were conducted in labs, and masterpieces were created in the writing center. Artists created sculptures from clay, humanities students tried the guilt of Victor Frankenstein, and MST students built a robot to enter in a competition.

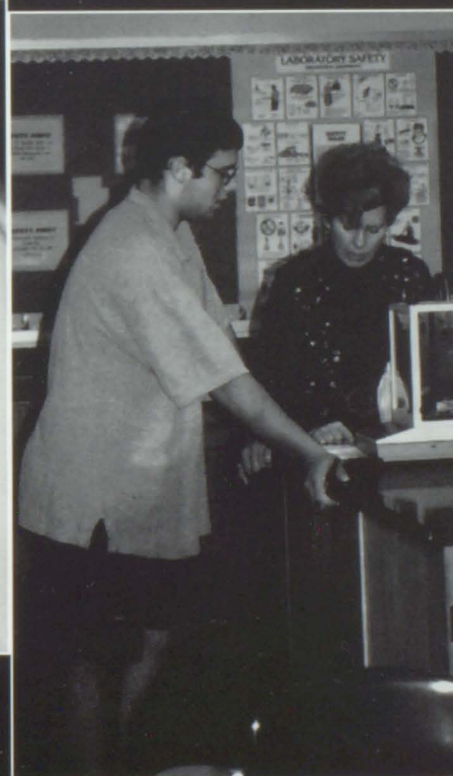

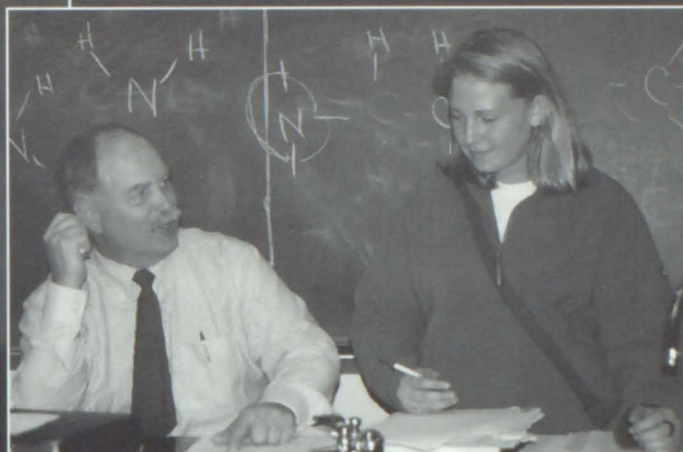

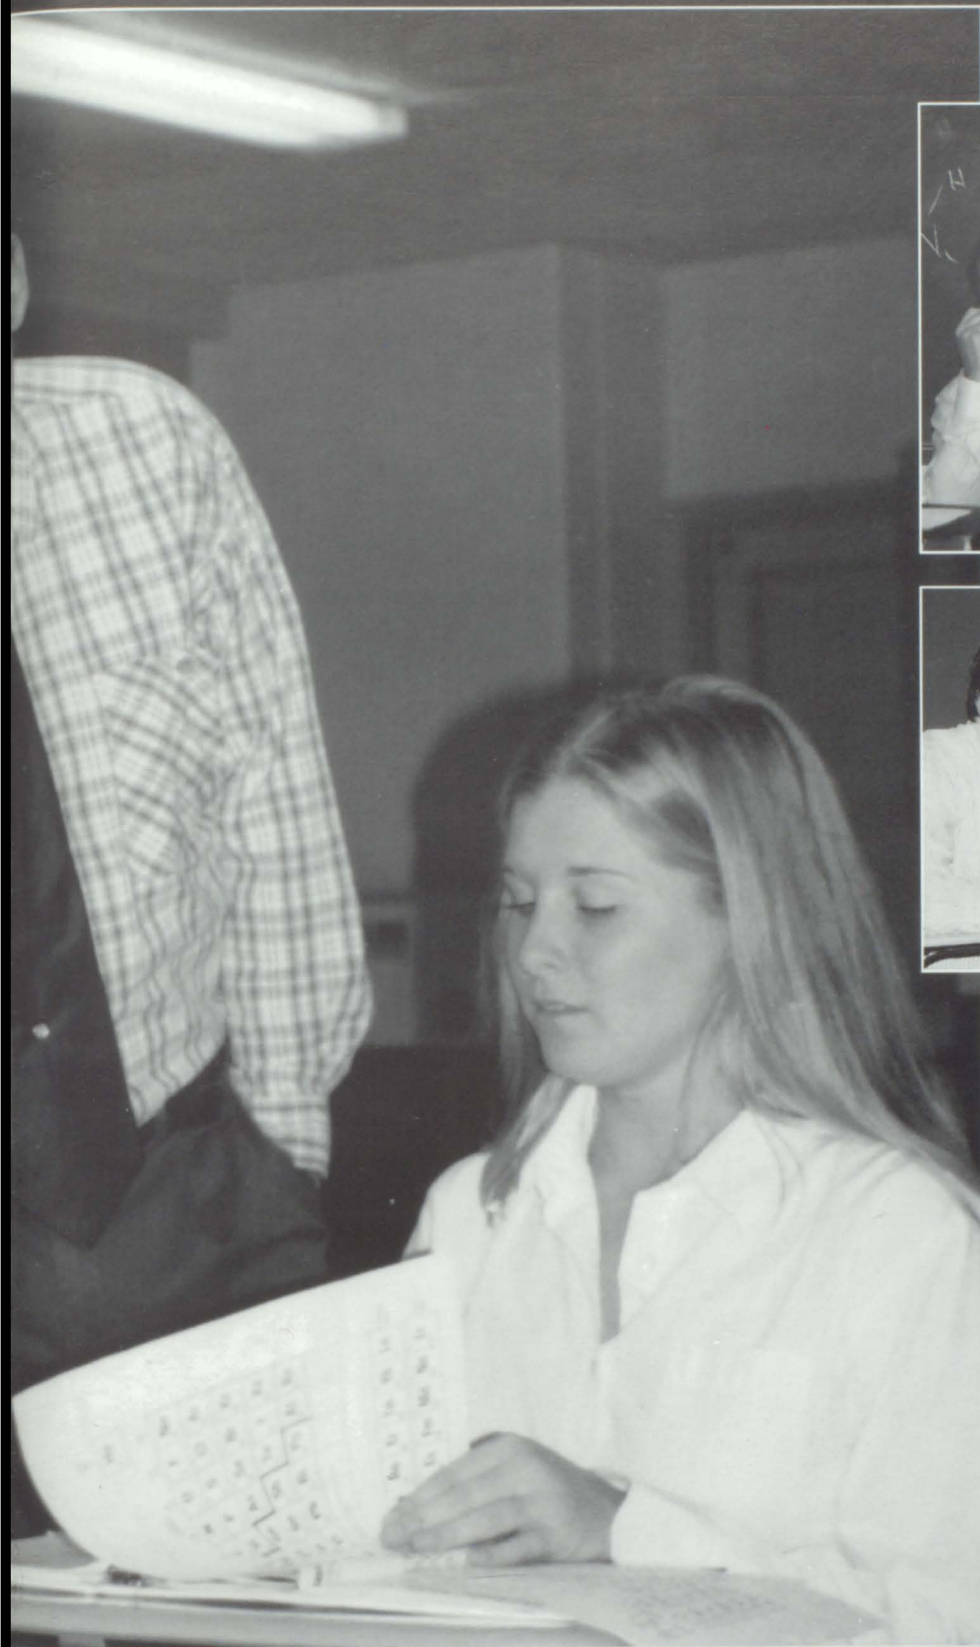

While some organizations concentrated on making school fun, the goals of the classroom teachers focused on higher thinking and analytical skills. With new demands made by the Board of Regents and the S.A.T.'s, students had greater pressures to contend with; however, with the assistance and support of a highly dedicated professional and support staff, students reached new levels of excellence.

At the end of the year, students bid a fond farewell to the many retiring teachers who had made such an impact on their lives.

BEST OF WISHES

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness. It was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness." Approaching the millennium, we ponder Dickens' dilemma with a glimmer of recognition. We are proud of our students' success as we participate in New York State's educational standards raising initiative. We laud the latest evidence that many students now soar to mastery level. S.A.T. scores jumped another 46 points this year for a two-year increase of 100 points, demonstrating our students' ability to compete with our country's best and brightest. With scores above the state and national averages, we are clearly meeting the Board of Education's goal of higher academic standards.

We also worry about the impact of state changes on less academically motivated or able students and now offer tutorial programs, summer school classes and after-school remedial sessions. Our nation's economy remains strong, but one out of three students in the United States enters kindergarten lacking the most basic skills; one out of five children lives in poverty. Thus, we celebrate the "Light" and seek ways to lead our youth out of "Darkness."

Before we enter the new millennium, which promises advances in the area of technological literacy. Let us salvage the best of the 20th century. The Board of Education's Civic/Character Goal reminds us that we cannot profit academically if we lose our civic soul. At the high school, the new Service Honor Society underscores our students' ability to uphold the highest character standards through service to others. Students must resist being swept away by the seductive sirens' call of 21st century electronics and maintain a balance between technology and humanity.

Continuing Bay Shore's tradition of excellence, our students approach the millennium knowing that their heritage and their hopes have prepared them to make the new century the very "best of times."

Business and Technology

After graduating from Oklahoma North Western Teachers' College in 1967 and serving in the navy for two years, Roger Herold taught in Patchogue- Medford for two years and then came to Bay Shore where he has taught technology for the past twenty-eight years.

During his time here, he has seen many changes in the building. More students are in classes, and fewer are roaming the halls. Education has become more demanding, so students don't have the time to take as many electives. Students will have to learn how to deal with the many pressures and obstacles placed upon them by society

Mr. Herold's future plans are not certain yet, but he hopes to pursue a career doing private woodworking. He states, "Retiring is a scary thing."

Reading, gardening, playing bridge and, traveling are all a part of what Mrs. M. Bedford has in mind for her retirement plans. She taught English for thirty-six years in Bay Shore including grades seven through twelve. One outstanding memory she has was when she was teaching seventh and eighth grade. One boy would always ask, "Is this a game?" Today that boy is a doctor. That was important for her to know because even though it may not have seemed like it, he was serious about his education, and she had taken part in it. She has seen many changes in her years of teaching. There is a greater variety of ways for students to excel than there used to be. "Find some part of what you do that you think is important, and do that well," said Mrs. Bedford.

After attending Bay Shore High School himself and teaching English in the same school for thirty-six years, Mr. Morrison decided it was his time to retire. "I believe God made me for a purpose, and that purpose was teaching, and when I do it well, I feel His pleasure," said Mr. Morrison about his experience. Mr. Morrison is working on writing a book which is currently in manuscript. In his thirty-six years he's seen enormous changes in the standards and a school board, superintendent and faculty that were very committed to meeting those standards. Mr. Morrison had mixed emotions about leaving and will miss the intellectual stimulation and affecting young lives; however, he will not miss the halls or the language the students use. One of Mr. Morrisons' favorite memories was having a donation made in his name to the Bay Shore Student Aid Fund by the 1998 Girls' Varsity Tennis team.

Theater Arts, Public Speaking, Film Study, Stagecraft, Regents English and basically every area of English were all a part of Mr. Ron O'Neill's thirty-three year teaching career at Bay Shore High School. Prior to coming here he taught in Colorado. Mr. O'Neill also directed the High School musicals for a number of years.

His retirement plans include going for a doctorate's degree in video production. One outstanding memory among the many from his illustrious career was being able to teach Patty Austin, who appeared in his production of "Bye-Bye Birdie." Now, she has won four Grammy Awards for her performance of rhythm and blues music. Mr. O'Neill will miss many people, but he thinks his retirement is going to be exciting. He said, "I'm not retiring from, I'm retiring to."

Social Studies Department

After thirty-three years in the classroom, Mr. C. Jones has decided to retire. During his years as a professional educator, he taught a variety of courses including: American history, social problems, global studies, and even physical education. He has enjoyed his years in the classroom and on the tennis courts where he coached boys' and girls' tennis. Mr. C. Jones stated, "I was never bored; everyday was as exhilarating as the next." Known for his wit and laid back attitude in the classroom, students will miss his distinctive personality and good teaching style.

Mr. Jones plans to travel with his wife after they both retire. He had mixed emotions about leaving the High School because although he felt happy that he had fulfilled his goals as a teacher and had always worked to his fullest extent, he was sad that he would be leaving his colleagues and friends.

After thirty-five years in the classroom, Mr. A. LiBrizzi retired. He started his career in California and Colorado, before coming to New York. He enjoyed the experience of working with students in different parts of the country, but decided on Long Island to work and raise his family. He taught courses in history, global studies, economics, and even math.

He and his wife, Ms. J. Kranzle are moving to FLorida where they have had a new home built. Once they are settled, he plans on opening t a business dealing with real estate and construction. He also plans to go to law school and further his education. Mr. A. Librizzi has been a vital part of the High School throughout his career. He looks forward to his retirement and plans to remain active in the business world for many years.

— Jason Dyrland

"Mr. Certain, Mr. Jones, and Mr. LiBrizzi have had long distinguished careers in the Bay Shore School District. Each brought unique talents to the classroom. Over the years they have been remembered by former students for their hard work and dedication. Their classroom talents will be hard to replace, and their friendships will be irreplaceable. They will be missed by both staff and students." -Mr. J. Nardi

After teaching for thirty-two years, Mr. N. Certain decided to retire and move on to the next stage in his life. Over the years, Mr. Certain has used his classroom as a forum to interact with students over controversial issues. His aim has been to help ease tension in the school. Mr. Jones and Mr. Certain started activities such as Ethnic Sharing and taught a Black History course in the sixties to help students deal with the prejudice. Mr. N. Certain spent a great deal of time working with students as advisor to the B.S.O.S.S. organization and as coach of the boys' track team.

After retiring he plans to go into business with his son. Mr. N. Certain has many fond recollections of his years at Bay Shore. He hopes that students will continue to dedicate themselves to their education and their futures.

Science Department

For thirty-four years, Mr. Charles Litwin taught chemistry to hundreds of students at both the High School and Middle School, dedicating hours to making teaching plans to ensure that students received the best education he could provide. He constantly reminded students that school was more important than they realized and if more effort were put into their work, it would be beneficial in the future. He also served twenty years as the "Maroon Echo" advisor which under his supervision won many distinguished awards, including the Columbia School Press Award, the Gold Medal Award, and the Silver Medal Award. He will always remember the good friends he had here. Mr. Litwin plans to stay on Long Island. "I want to do whatever I want when I want and eat lunch at a normal time. It's been long and fun, but it is time!"

Mr. J. Romansky, after thirty-one years of teaching, retired, but doesn't intend to slow his pace one bit. "We bought a log cabin in the Adirondacks which I want to use as a base for hiking, skiing, and mountain climbing," he stated. When he wasn't climbing to the bottom of the Grand Canyon, photographing Kodiak Bears in Alaska, or visiting exotic places like Africa, he was teaching earth science to students. At one point in his career, he received a $100,000 grant to study the erosion of Fire Island and conducted studies that were never done in any high school in the world. One of his most memorable accomplishments was the discovery of a dead baby whale on the coast of the Long Island Sound which he used in class to show comparative anatomy to humans. This was a record breaking feat because it was the only specimen of this species ever put together in the world! He believes strongly in the preservation of the community. "I've lived here all my life... let's work together to make it even better."

Along with many graduating seniors, Mr. Reuss graduated from the staff. After teaching for two years in Australia, he worked in Bay Shore for the rest of his thirty-two year career. No matter where he taught, the subject area was always biology. In addition to being a classroom teacher, Mr. Reuss served as the president of the Teachers Association for a number of years.

Mr. Reuss will miss his friends and his contact with students when he leaves. After retirement, he is moving to Florida to play golf and scuba dive. He is looking forward to sleeping until eight o'clock rather than six and will develop his skills as a nature photographer. "Thanks for the memories," said Mr. Reuss. His favorite memory was the unity the teachers had when they went on strike for one day about seven years ago.

— Jeff Lento

"Together, Mr. Litwin, Mr. Reuss, and Mr. Romansky represent over a century of science education in Bay Shore. Mr. Reuss and Mr. Litwin have been teacher union presidents. Mr. Romansky involved students in two major federal grant programs to benefit the environment. They will be missed, and we wish them well." -Gary Schechter

Math Department

With more than half of his life spent teaching all grade levels of math in high school, Mr. J. Guzas ended his thirty-five year career. Mr. Guzas taught in Baldwin Harbor Junior High School for four years and in Bay Shore for thirty-one years. Although Mr. J. Guzas is known for his masterful teaching techniques, he is also involved in many other activities. He worked with the student council for many years and also was the colorguard director for ten years. But most of his favorite memories come from his involvement with the spring musicals. "I will never forget performing on stage with Mr. D. Lemp in the musical, 'Bye Bye Birdie'."

Mr. Guzas will miss his students and the fun he has had over the years. He will continue to teach math at St. Joseph's College and extend his travel plans to the western part of the U.S. and overseas as well.

— Joe Nardone

"Ingrid Vetsch is an excellent teacher. Her message to her students bore much success: 'Always try your best and I'll always be there to help you try your best!'"

"Mr. J. Guzas contributed much to the entire school operation. We will miss all his activities, but above all, we will miss his teaching. Jonh loves the art of teaching and he has perfected it!"

After twenty-one years of teaching high school math, Mrs. I. Vetsch decided to retire from the profession she loves so much. She was a substitute teacher in Huntington, South Huntington, and Cold Spring Harbor and then came to Bay Shore where she taught Math full time. "Working here was such a great experience for me. This school has so many different cultures and every day is a different learning experience," says Mrs. Vetsch. "I'm going to miss working with young people, and I'm also going to miss my colleagues."

Mrs. Vetsch plans to travel the world and spend more time with her immediate and extended family in Europe. She also wants to start flower gardening and cooking as well as learn Spanish. Her final message to students is: "Believe in yourself, set high goals and standards, and try to achieve them in an honest way. Try to be a leader, but don't forget to be a team player. Most of all try to be a good person."

After thirteen years in Bay Shore, Mrs. Hope Saravis ended her twenty year teaching career. Known for her dedication and knowledge of Spanish, Mrs. Saravis who is also known for her coordination of the renaissance Program, has retired to spend her time sleeping late and tacking care of her grandson. Mrs. Saravis always enjoyed doing creative things with her students and she will be remembered as the lady of so many voices heard on the morning announcements. It was a joy for her to see her students do something on their own and being successful at it. Most of all she will miss eating lunch with her colleagues and hopes to visit often.

Mrs. J. Baker has spent more than twenty-seven years teaching Latin. For more than twenty-seven years, Ms. J. Baker has taught foreign language to many students. At the beginning of her teaching She started her career at Connetquot High School and Center Moriches and then returned to education after a nine year hiatus to raise her family. One of her many accomplishments was becoming a teacher and instructing students in Latin, a dream she has been pursuing since a child. She will miss sharing celebrations, the student trips to Italy, daily interactions with students, and Matt Amato's shouting, "Magistra Baker!" After retirement, she plans to travel, read many novels, and engage in outdoor activities such as hiking and kayaking.

"Je ne vous oublierai jamais!" said Mrs. S. Orobona excited about her upcoming retirement, which when translated means "I will always have you in my thoughts." Mrs. Orobona taught French for thirty-three years in Bay Shore. Over the years she accumulated a collection of fine memories, too many for her to name just one. Teaching was a confirmation. It was the right profession for her and a good choice on her part. She is glad she came to Long Island after being born and raised in Pennsylvania. She plans to move to Southwest Florida, and in her first year of retirement will read books, play tennis, and write. She would one day like to become an educational consultant. Mrs. Orobona will never forget the colleagues she taught with and the young lives she touched.

For twenty-six years Mrs. C. Martin has been the principal's secretary. She has served six different principals and two acting ones throughout her career. Upon retiring, she plans to sleep late, run her dance studio, and travel.

One of the benefits of her position was that it allowed her to watch her own son and daughter attend classes and graduate from this building.

Mrs. Martin hopes that future generations of Bay Shore students will set high goals for themselves and always respect each other.

"This school has been such a major part of my life. Although I have seen many changes, some good and some bad, I've always been happy to be a part of it. One of the saddest parts will be leaving my friends and the students, whom I will miss. It is time for me to move on to another chapter of my life. # Physical Education

One of the only people in her family to graduate from college and pursue a career, Ms. Eleanor Eckman will be remembered for all of her dedication and time as a physical education teacher. She served in the High School for thirty-one years. In addition to her illustrious teaching career, Ms. Eckman has distinguished herself with her successful coaching of such girls' teams as gymnastics, tennis, softball, and volleyball. She also coached the boys' volleyball team. Ms. Eckman liked to think of herself as being very strict but also very fair.

Ms. Eckman has seen many different changes in education throughout her lengthy career. As she leaves, Ms. Eckman has both sad and sweet feelings about her retirement. She will miss her colleagues and many of her students, but she is happy that she will not have the constraints of a daily schedule to follow. Her plans for the future are indefinite but she leaves future students with the advice: "You are young once so make the most of it while you still can."

—Melvina Harris

*"She has compiled 291 career victories in Volleyball. Her accolades include: Who's Who Among American Teachers, 1998; NYS Coaches Honor Award, 1989; Stony Brook U. Cup for Excellence in Volleyball Coaching; Coach of the Year for Volleyball; Volleyball Coaches Association Service Award, 1990; contributions to women in sports. Many of Ms. Eckman's athletes have gone on to play at the college level and at least three have played at the professional level. # Art and Music Department

Since 1975, Ms. Nancy Sherman has been teaching art to hundreds of students at all the district schools except the Brook Avenue School and Gardiner Manor. Ms. Sherman, a great lover of the arts, enjoyed teaching students how to create sculptural forms and proudly states, "I've never had one student's clay project come out badly." She enjoyed the years spent working in the Humanities program and strongly believed in the use of art for students to express their feelings freely. She states, "The key to helping educate students is a disciplined teaching environment. This environment helps them to see the meaning of their education and prepare them for both college and life experiences."

After she retires, Ms. Sherman plans to sail on her boat "Ms. Liberty", travel, and take a long vacation in Florida. She stated, "I am looking forward to the day when I literally throw my alarm clock into the Great South Bay!"

Junior Prom

Decorated with street signs, backgrounds of buildings, and even a Statue of Liberty, the gymnasium was transformed into a recreation of New York City. The juniors, dressed up in elegant suits and dresses, held dance contests and gave out prizes for the best hairstyles, the best dressed, and the best couples. Everyone looked really great, and thanks to Mr. A. Sullivan, the junior class advisor, Ms. A. Marino, the sophomore class advisor, everyone had a great time. All of the planning and hard work paid off in the end as this year's Junior Prom boasted the largest attendance in the three year history of the activity. Those who attended enjoyed dancing the night away to a variety of music provided by the D.J.

Food, donated by parents, was a highlight of the evening. Students posed with friends on the bridge over Central Park and later joined the Statue of Liberty on the dance floor. The faculty chaperones joined in the fun, too. In all it was a night to be remembered and gave the juniors one more reason to look forward to their senior year.

On the Move

After a full year as the youngest members of the school, the sophomores knew the ropes and what was expected of them as high school students. They were the key figures in orienting the new freshmen to the building. They knew the rules and regulations and participated in the many activities offered to them.

Sophomores made their presence known by attending football and basketball games. They were the backbone of such clubs and activities as the cheerleading squad and the theater arts program. They helped plan and decorate for the junior prom and served food. The sophomores planned the candy-gram olympics for Valentine's Day and organized a trip for the sophomores and freshmen to go skiing at Brodie Mountain.

The sophomores looked forward to their junior year when they could start planning for colleges and S.A.T.'s.

New Students' Orientation

The planning by the freshman leadership group began at the end of last school year and continued throughout the summer. The week before school started the freshman class came for an orientation, organized by Spanish teacher, Ms. C. Sce-Smith. The morning started with a breakfast consisting of gourmet donuts and fruit juice. Principal Dr. E. Frazier greeted the new students and welcomed them to their new school. Mr. M. Mahoney also addressed the gathering and hoped that the students would take advantage of the many activities that the school offered. After breakfast, the freshmen of the class of '02 were divided into three groups. One group went to the auditorium where they were entertained with a presentation by the cheerleaders and the Thespian Troupe. Hosted by Mr. J. D'Antoni and Mrs. D. Kaplar, the presentation was designed to give an overview of school life. In addition the students received an introduction to the R.I.C.E. program which taught students about how to manage themselves in a variety of situations. The audience enjoyed the presentations by the students and entered into some lively discussion. By the end they, too, knew what the R.I.C.E. thing to do would be. The next part of the orientation program was a tour of the building which appeared overwhelming to the freshmen. With its odd and even sides and three floors, the freshmen wondered how they would ever get to class on time. Finally, the new students had a chance to meet Mr. R. Damore who played a few games from the Project Adventure Program.

With the help of Ms. Sce-Smith and her freshmen leadership students, the new students left the building with a feeling of confidence, ready to take on the challenges of high school life.

Hand in Hand

Upon entering the High School, most freshmen fear of what they will learn as they come together as one. Class advisor, Mrs. Aromando, made the transition easier by opening her doors to the newcomers. She and the class officers conducted meetings to help the freshmen get involved and stay informed with events and activities going on in the building. Their goal was to build school spirit. If the freshmen could get off to a good start by feeling comfortable and taking an active interest, it was hoped that that enthusiasm would continue into the other grade levels.

The Freshman class competed with other classes to earn the most spirit points and win a day off from school. Freshmen spirit was evidenced at such activities as the Adopt-a-family, Athletic olympics, Renaissance activities, and the Halloween costume contest.

In addition, the class sponsored some social events that are unique to the Freshman class. In September, they began by discussing the Ice Cream Social that was held in October. From then on, the freshmen formed a cohesive group and was represented in the Homecoming Parade, the dance, and the rest of the activities throughout the year.

Dear Regan,

*"To laugh often and much; to win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children; to earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty, and find the best in others; to leave the world a bit better; to know even one life has breathed easier because you lived.
This is to have succeeded."*

Dearest Amanda — our shining star!

We are so proud of the woman you have become. Your strengths lie in your determined persistence (sometimes stubbornness!) to do and be what you dream. You have the wonderful ability to commit yourself to your dreams and to take risks for those dreams. These qualities will take you wherever you want to go in life.

Nothing in the world can take the place of Persistence.

Talent will not; nothing is more commonplace than unsuccessful men with talent.

Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb.

Education alone will not; the world is full of educated derelicts.

Persistence and Determination alone are omnipotent.

The McLaughlin Family

Dear Molly,

As you graduate from Bay Shore High School in June, your entire family is proud that you have followed in the footsteps of your grandmother, Phoebe Stewart McLaughlin, a BSHS graduate in 1921, and your father, J. Stewart McLaughlin, a BSHS graduate in 1955. In addition, your grandfather, Warde G. McLaughlin, served as the BSHS principal from 1939 to 1962, and we are pleased that his legendary leadership and professional expertise helped create the BSHS from you are about to graduate.

With this firm foundation of tradition in learning, may you now go forth and continue to make us proud and do your own good works.

With love,
Mom and Dad

The world stands out on either side,
No wider than the heart is wide;
Above the world is stretched the sky,

No higher than the soul is high.
The heart can push the sea and land

Farther away on either hand;
The soul can split the sky in two,
And let the face of God shine through.

From "Renaissance," Edna St.
Vincent Millay

God speed, Maggie

Much love,

Mom, Dad, Sarah, Dave, and

"A Leaf"

.....is only a part of a tree, just as your high school
years are to your life.
When your life grows through meaningful experiences and more leaves are added, you will in time, find a life more wonderful than you ever imagined. Since you were three you have been inspired by J. R. R.

To the Class of '99

We have completed the four years of high school with great felicity. Some moments were poignant, but good friends helped us move forward through the most difficult days. Friends made us realize we're not as weak as we thought. We'll miss the clamorous classrooms, the whispers and gossips. From freshmen to seniors, we've made impetuous decisions. We've accepted the apologies of our best friends with great generosity. Half of us meandered the hallways of the school quietly while others sat in class gazing out of a window. But when it was time for fun, wild spirits and crazy, creative moods appeared in all of us. These are spontaneous moments that will be cherished. The times we've spent here are sacred to all of us. Graduation is an auspicious event, a commencement as we step into the future. Let us embrace the opportunity to achieve our dreams.

*You are a shining example of what a daughter can be,
Beautiful and good, honest and principled,
Determined and independent, sensitive and intelligent.
You are a shining example of what every parent wishes their daughter were
And we are so very proud.
Always believe in yourself and know that you are loved.
Our family is a circle of strength and love,
With every joy shared adds more love,
With every crisis faced together makes the circle stronger.
You have shown so many people how special you are.
Now is the time to pursue your next path, to reach for the next star and Achieve the things that are so important to you.
May life bring you much happiness and success.
May every dream in your heart come true for you.*

Love Always,
Mom, Dad, Kelli, P.J. and Lori

Focus... For a few minutes as we look over the pictures in this book and read the many articles, we will have a chance to reflect on the events of the past school year. The sports, the academic classes, the teachers, the clubs and activities that have filled our days as students come quickly to an end for the seniors. Our goal as writers, photographers, and artists was to help us to focus on those things that make Bay Shore truly special in its own way. The years of our lives will continue to move at a quick pace, and as we rush to keep up, we can stop every once-in-a- while and focus again on what it was like growing up in the year 1998-1999 at the end of a century.

COLOPHON

This seventy-sixth volume of the Bay Shore MARAUDER was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Texas under the supervision of Mr. Neil Sanders, our Taylor representative. Mr. Doug Brehm, Mr. Joe Lachat, Ms. Margaret Pesco, and Mr. Joseph D'Antoni were the official photographers. The cover was made from black binder board with maroon and silver silkscreened color lettering. 450 copies of the two hundred page book which include two full-color signatures on #80 matte stock were printed. A student supplement will be added to complete the book and will include the closing activities of the '98-99 school year. The standard typeface used throughout the book was Korina, and all of the text and layouts were submitted on computer disks by utilizing Taylor's Ultravision software. The yearbook was produced by the Creative Writing for Publication and the Graphic Design and Layout courses taught by Mr. Joseph B. D'Antoni and Miss Margaret Pesco.
