

MARAUDER

Burning Brighter

To burn brighter is to undergo brilliant change. When students enter Bay Shore High School, they experience this "brilliant change" that evolves into one of the brightest memories of their lives. The vivid display of prodigious academics, activities, and diversity make us incomparable to all others. Each freshman brings along an endless beginning and each senior leaves behind everlasting illuminations of greatness. This cycle of knowledge and dedication proves that both the students and staff of Bay Shore High School, truly know what success is and are dedicated to attaining that goal.

When we entered Bay Shore High School, we were like dim stars that one must strain to see. But, year after year, our shimmer seemed to brighten. Each radiant star that encompasses our school creates a beam of light that diminishes the darkness of uncertain futures. After graduation, one may believe that those new born stars' glow will begin to flicker and slowly fade. Bay Shore graduates never fade. Undoubtedly, the glow and spirit that is cultivated in each star will remain enclosed within our school forever.

a stressful year filled with worntes about grades, SAT scores, and the overwhelmingly complicated college process, the 2006 BayShore HighSchool Juniors were ready to take a break. Junior Prom was the perfect opportunity for these upperclassmen to unwind and have some fun. Everyone seemed to be looking forward to reinforcing the bonds shared among classmates. "I had a great time at Junior Prom. It was a nice way to mark the beginning of the end," recalled Melissa Rivera honestly. With stars and moons hanging high above the dance floor, the little gym was decorated beautifully in the twilight theme, "Dancing in the Moonlight." As the class reminisced about the past years, they looked towards their futures with a sense of opportunity and excitement. "The gym was beautiful. It made me look forward to Senior Prom even more than I already did," gleamed Erin Gallienne. The Junior Prom kicked Moonlight off the start of the much anticipated senior year for all members of the class of 2007.

Sentor Banquet

February 15th, 2007 Captain Bill's 7 to 10 pm

> Class of 2007

"Senior year is almost over!" This sentiment was felt by all members of the class of 2007, upon walking into Captain Bill's. A feeling of anticipation filled the room, and the excitement was felt by all. These mixed emotions, highlighted by nervousness and joy, were shared among all twelfth graders, who, for the first time, felt unified as the graduating class.

The buffet stretched around the room, as seniors mingled with different groups of friends. As chatter began to fill the air the DJ came on and everyone raced to get on the dance floor. New songs brought a unifying excitement while the "oldies" allowed memories from past years to come flooding back. "Spice up your life" and "Ballin'!" blasted out of the speakers, bringing the class of 2007 to their feet. Brittany Clayton had only one request: "It was a beautiful night that really brought our senior class together. But next time, there needs to be at least one mosh pit!"

"It was a lot of fun with my senior colleagues," Jordan Murphy remembered fondly. This three hour celebration seemed to be over in the blink of an eye, truly bringing another milestone of senior year to an end. As the music faded, lights turned on high, and the DJ announced the night was officially over, the 2007 Senior Banquet was deemed a success by all who attended. Luisa Naranjo Morales put it best when she said, "Experiencing Senior Banquet was a great opportunity to share with my class, it was a memorable night we will never forget it."

The girls' spirits were high and their determination fierce. "After a rough start this summer, the girls exceeded my expectations by coming together and developing strong bonds that allowed them to find great success," said Coach Perotta.

When the team was not practicing, they busied themselves making generous contributions to the Bay Shore community. "We were involved in the Jones Beach Breast Cancer Walk, The Thanksgiving Food Drive and made several hospital visits to the pediatrics ward," reflected senior Briana Devine. Each girl displayed an enormous amount of leadership as well as sportsmanship. They were truly talent personified.

FOOTBALL, BIGGER, FASTER, STRONGER

The 2006-2007 varsity and junior varsity football teams lived up to their team motto, "Bigger, Faster, Stronger." Beginning their pre-season practices in March, the team brushed up their skills with a series of weight room visits, defensive and offensive clinics in the summer, and a week of intense double-sessions in August. With all this preparation, the team grew as a united force to be reckoned with. Each player demonstrated a spirit of unity while maintaining their "never die" attitude. The team practiced new tackling and passing drills while brushing up on their individual football skills, creating one of the best teams Bay Shore had seen in years. Students and faculty collaborated in support of the teams all season long. They were seen cheering at each and every home game and even designed t-shirts that read "Football Pride." When asked about the team's success, junior wide receiver, Orayne McEacheron stated, "If it's meant to be, it's up to me to do it."

When asked to describe the important characteristics that set his junior varsity football team apart from the others, Coach D. Ali stated, Our team had a tremendous amount of speed, discipline, along with the ability to read plays. They loved contact." The Junior Varsity Football te broke their two-year losing streak by crushing Northport on Bay Shore's home field 30-12. They continued their success crushing Central Islip on their turf 30-0. The 2006-2007 junior varsity football team will step up and shine just as bright as the 2006-2007 varsity football team, continuing its success

The 2006-2007 boys cross country team increased in both talent and size. Their ability and skill improved beyond their wildest expectations. The team paved their way to the league championships and proved their excellence. Coach K. Carter said, "I expect the boys to show a great deal of dedication and hard work each year." Obviously, this team did not disappoint.

The boys have intensified their work ethic and began practicing every day for hours on end. As a result of this intensive practice schedule, the team made extensive accomplishments. "We had a very successful season. This year was the second league championship we have won in a row and the first time we have gone undefeated since 2001. I believe this was a great start for a great program," stated senior Jesse Thompson. When asked about his seniors, Coach Carter responded, "I wish all of my seniors good luck. They will all be missed!" These boys definately proved that they were a force to be reckoned with.

The 2006-2007 varsity girls cross country team sprinted their way to victory. Their triumph was well deserved due to their ardent committment and determination. Members of this nationally ranked team started their season early, beginning to train in the summer of 2006. Junior, Kate Cangelosi said, "I loved and hated the summer practices; even though they were strenuous in the summer heat, I knew they would be beneficial." Coming into the season, the girls maintained high expectations. Holding the ranking of first on Long Island and twenty-second in the United States, this strong-willed team pulled together to retain those ranks with the passion, determination and hard work each runner embodied.

Said Coach S. Borbet, "The girls worked very hard over the summer and prepared to go up against the best teams in New York State, the Northeast, and will hopefully compete at the national level." The team was greatly motivated by Coach Borbet, due to his abundance of experience and expertise. "This could be an outstanding team, with the potential to be the best ever at Bay Shore," Borbet. And he was right. The season ended on a high note with this talented team winning the League Championships. This amazing victory extended the team's winning streak to 51 straight meets. These Suffolk County Champions placed 6th at the New York State Public High School Championship and 7th at the New York State Federation Championship. This honor earned the team a 10th place ranking in the Northeast and they are also one of the top 40 teams in the United States. Way to go girls!

The varsity field hockey team started the season with scintillating passion. With eighteen returning players, the girls rose to fill the void left after graduating six starting players. The girls truly stepped up to the challenge, scoring more goals in their first game than their entire previous season.

Under the new rule meant to eliminate the ties that plagued last season, the girls went 9-10, including non-league games and the playoffs. The team was composed of three seniors, nine juniors, nine sophomores and one talented freshman. Third-year varsity Coach M. Drago stated, "Each player from the bottom of the bench, to the top of the starting lineup contributed to our success."

Keeping with tradition, the girls choreographed a pep rally dance that exhibited their desire to have fun, as well as the strength of their friendship. For the third year in a row, the team advanced to the second round of the playoffs. With great attitudes the girls managed to intermingle fun and hard work during every practice and game, creating lifelong memories and friends along the way.

The determination to succeed and the desire to win helped fuel the 2006-2007 junior varsity field hockey team achieve all their goals. Guided by Coach L. Abbriano, the team consisted of both sophomores and freshmen, who were all extremely versatile on the field. The phrase, "The ends justify the means," was often overheard after intense practices. These "chicks with sticks" played their hearts out, and fulfilled their expectations beyond the shadow of a doubt. Like an everlasting fire, the girls beamed with strength every step of the way.

With practice and confidence, young stars were formed on the golf course this year. Under Coach A. Sullivan's guidance and expertise, the varsity boys golf team certainly accomplished their goals. "They understood the relationship between practice and results," stated Coach Sullivan, when asked about the team's success. Winning a tie for second place at the Suffolk County Golf Championship Tournament, the boys showed they surpassed the gap between competition and the love for the game.

The 2006-2007 junior varsity boys golf team enjoyed an outstanding year. With determination and the desire to improve, the team honed their golf skills and prepared for play at the varsity level. "In a few years, we will have a very good and deep team," said Coach J. Morrison.

Elias Romero started off with the ball and kicked it up to Dimas Escobar. Escobar then paced up the field and passed the ball off to Jorge Vasquez who then paused and adjusted himself before the opposing team closed in on him. Vasquez kicked the ball towards the right corner of the net, hoping to score a goal. SWOOSH! Bay Shore won the game.

In soccer, the keys to success are team work and cooperation. This year's varsity boys soccer team was more than a team, they were a second family. Team events such as pasta parties, picnics and game day breakfasts filled the team with a sense of unity. Together, they were highly motivated and disciplined, aware that their hard work would soon pay off. "Bay Shore boys soccer is back among the best teams in the county. After a disappointing season last year, this year's seniors worked hard to bring the team together for a run at the playoffs," remarked Coach Nelson with pride.

Junior varsity coach Karl Mattsen stated, "The boys continued to persevere throughout the season, they stepped up and played better than they have in years." Having numerous players who had the opportunity to play in different countries, this unique team certainly surpassed previous years. Team player Andres Ramirez stated, "At the beginning of the season, we were a little disorganized. But in the end, we played as a team." The team earned a respectable record and reached their goal to set higher standards for next season. By practicing during the off-season, they junior varsity players continued to strive and meet achievement in everything they did. This year, the varsity girls soccer team sparked up another great season. With fierce determination, the girls displayed an intense amount of passion in every game they played. "This year was the best year for girls soccer in a long time. Not only did we make it to the second round of playoffs, but the girls on the team had a lot of fun together," said Erin Gallienne.

The team enjoyed had a winning record of seven wins, two losses and one tie. This ignited the flame which made them more determined to succeed in the playoffs and continue their winning season. "This was one of the most talented soccer teams that Bay Shore has ever had," stated Coach Otto with pride. The girls met six days a week and displayed a tremendous devotion to the game. The team possessed important characterisitics, attributes, and skills that propelled them through their successful season.

"JUST KEEP SWIMMING ...."

Stephanie Thom back strokes her way to a superior victory.

In only its fifth year as a team, the girls swimming team worked its way to the top. With great enthusiasm, the girls surpassed all expectations. However, this could not have happened without the combined effort of the talented swimmers. The strenuous practices six days a week certainly helped this cause. This year, they faced another difficulty, the loss of senior members who had been there right from the start. "It's hard to say goodbye to those who have made you a better person," commented Stephanie Thom, senior, "but it's good to know that even when a member leaves, the legacy will live on."

This team learned to cope and grow together as one great big family. "The word team is the title we carry," said Coach Borkowski, "but family is what we are. Good sportsmanship and cheering each other on when we are weak is what ties us closer together." Indeed, this year has been very successful, and many milestones were reached. Morgan Hoffman, Alexa DeLyra, Nayab Ashfaq, and Kyle Lugman all made times that qualified them for championship competition. Academic prowess was also seen. For the fourth year in a row, the swimmers received the Team Scholar Award from the New York State Coaches' Association. Their 3.905 grade point average also earned them awards from the N.I.S.C.A. In addition, the team finished the season strong, ultimately reaching the League Championship.

> In their second year as a varsity team, the varsity boys volleyball team strived to become "the team to beat." The ultimate drive for victory began five years ago, when Coach Jill Pickus rebuilt the boys volleyball program. Each season since that time, the goal has been to take the team to the playoffs. "This team is goal-oriented, determined and full of heart," Pickus reflected proudly. The varsity team blazed brighter this season, consistently beating skilled and highly ranked teams. The varsity team began the season ranked low, under 22 teams. Their desire and determination propelled them to finish the season ranked 12th. "These boys have been working hard together since seventh and eigth grade," Pickus said. A portion of the team not only played during the season, but also on a traveling team year-round. This hard-working team ended the season with a record of 8-8. They continuously sparkled and will continue to do so for years to come.

> "The junior varsity boys volleyball team had high expectations this season," stated Coach Andres Borremeo. Borremeo felt this was the best team he ever had ever coached. With seven sophomores and four freshmen, the team was ready to spike down the opposition. When asked what his expectations were for the year, Mansoor Farooq said, "I hope we win more matches this year than in previous years." This team believed in their motto: "Team work makes the dream work." They showed this cohesive spirit all season long. The 2006-2007 varsity girls volleyball team was a smaller squad compared to the past, but they continued their intense effort. "I can confidently put any bench player in at any time," said Coach Stasia DeBonis proudly. Each player showed blazing skills, dedicating six days a week to practice. "They give their heart and soul to our program and I am extremely proud of them," said DeBonis. The team's small size did not impede them. "Since we have a smaller squad than the past, we are really able to appreciate what every member of the team has to offer," said two-year captain, Casie Damore. With athleticism and heart, the team was able to make the best of their talent. They had a great season, ending with an 8-4 record. The varsity girls volleyball team truly sparkled, standing out from the crowd and making a name for themselves as a team to be reckoned with.

The junior varsity girls volleyball team ignited its reputation this year by clearly proving that, "JV is just a team name, not a level," as declared by Jenn Hannett and Juliet Meltsner. All their training has allowed their success to grow. "The team proudly showed evidence of this success after competing and winning in varsity tournaments," said Coach Jennifer Mackin with pride and passion. This cohesive group surpassed Coach Mackin's expectations by working together as a unit. They had a strong season, ending 12-3. "There may be cliques in school, but when it comes to our team, we work as a unit," said Lili Moreira with honor.

Finishing the season with a record of 9-2, they emerged as one of the best teams Bay Shore had ever seen. Co-captains Christopher Obi and Barry Ingram worked well together, leading their team through this winning season. First year varsity coach, N. Robinson, set multiple goals for these athletic boys to achieve. Practicing six days a week, the team exceeded all expectations. "We all worked hard, but at the same time bonded very well together," said Christopher Obi.

Similarly, the junior varsity boys enjoyed one of the best seasons on record. "Our private practices determined our public performances," stated Steve Rivera. Also practicing six days a week, coach M. Carter worked his team hard in order to have a successful season, finishing with a record of 11-4. "We hope to continue our great play on varsity," Richard Hall explained.

Both the varsity and junior varsity team became League Champions this year, quite an accomplishment. Basketball had an amazing set of fans this year, who attended every single game in order to show their school spirit and support for the teams. The fans even followed the varsity team to Stony Brook for the finals. The boys, along with the entire school, were so proud of their season.

In her second year of coaching this extremely talented team, Coach Danowski expected many things. Most importantly, she wanted the girls to function not only as a team, but as a family. "They're not only hard workers who want to succeed but they are a lot of fun to be around," added Danowski. It is clear to see that this team has grown throughout the years. "This season, we have raised our level of play," commented co-captain LaTiqua Williams on the effort of their successful year. Danowski led the girls to a 10-9 season that even went as far to compete in playoffs. The girls' great sportsmanship and their true representation of the Bay Shore Lady Marauders only added to their excellent season and this year where they did succeed to bond and become a close-knit family.

In similar fashion their varsity peers, the junior varsity girls basketball team also had a successful season under returning Coach Mazzie's strategies and methods. The girls followed in the varsity team's footsteps and succeeded in becoming more of a family than a team. Mazzie was very satisfied with her team and their effort stating, "Every one of my athletes possesses a positive attitude and the willingness to work hard. By the end of the season, the girls all had motivation and worked hard together." This cohesive unit certainly shined and enjoyed a season to remember.

There is no defense in bowling. Just fill the frames and see what happens.

Bouling

The varsity bowling team bowled excellently all season long. Veteran Coach A. Cantore has coached this team for eight years now and set the bar high for this team. These "supposed underdogs" upped the anti and became true League I contenders. The marvelous team of thirteen members showed consistent talent and dedication throughout the season.

There were numerous milestones reached this season, proving just how fierce these bowlers were. This talented group of bowlers battled their way through the competition to secure second place in the counties. This was the best finish Bay Shore Bowling had ever seen. Individually, Captain Jon Trzcinski enjoyed a season to remember. His 229 average was the highest high school average on Long Island and his 1604 series broke the record set in 1999 by 144 pins in the county tournament. This team worked together and certainly achieved greatness. Bay Shore High School's 2006-2007 Bowling team was an inspiration to aspiring bowlers everywhere.

"This is our super bow! Who are we? We're Bay Shore! Let's show' em!" With this much motivation, the 2006-2007 boys whiter track team was able to triumph their way to success and demonstrated their unique passion for track. Even though there were difficult transitions during the start of the season, such as losing key seniors and adjusting to a new head coach, the boys were able to run all their worries away and rise above any obstacle.

The team sintense practice schedule played as ignificant role in the outcome of many meets. With meets once a week, the boys had no other alternative than to practice at least six days a week. They were consistently seen running through the streets of Bay Shore in prutally cold weather, bundled up in layers to keep warm. But the cold weather, in no way became an impediment to their victory.

When asked about his team, firstyear head coach, Andres Borromeo stated, "All team members have the same goalt to win The County Championships for the second straight year." And with the skills and knowledge accumulated by Coach Borromeo as assistant for the past two years, the boys winter track team was able to surpass each and every single ambition and expectation.

Victory after victory the Bay Shore Girls Winter Track team continued to improve and surpass their already high standards. Although the team this year was similar to the teams of the past, the younger athletes progressed faster than expected and all of the athletes seem to improve. Made up of 82 members, the girls winter track team ranked among the best on Long Island, New York State, and even nationally. "The coaches are very happy with the work ethic this team has shown," stated Coach Steve Borbet with pride.

Besides being good competitors, most of the athletes achieved personal bests this season and their heightened achievements were made possible by a rigorous practicing schedule where they ran six days a week. Some of the expectation's Coach Borbet had, in his 34th year of coaching were to win the League Championship, very realistic as Bay Shore has not lost since 1990, and to win their seventh consecutive Suffolk County Championships. "We have a team that is made up of good students. They are a pleasure to coach, and they are extremely talented," Coach Borbet said, firmly displaying his enthusiasm for this team.

The students and faculty of Bay Shore High School always look forward to the annual Halloween Costume Contest. Two separate contests were held this year, one for the students and one for the faculty. Each year on Halloween, one is guaranteed to see some superheroes, cartoon characters, bloody victims, and witches, just to name a few. Bay Shore High School is one of the many school districts whose Board of Education allows us to create and participate in such a festive event. However, Bay Shore High School's 2006 Halloween celebration stood out from the rest. Some contestants took excessive time in planning their costumes which really showcased the creativity Bay Shore High School students and faculty possessed.

When asked about his costume selection and preparation, Mr. Niedzwiecki, who posed as a Julius Caesar Roman Statue said, "I saw the costume in the store and as a history teacher, it caught my eye. Putting the costume together was easy. However, it took more than an hour to put the costume ON, and that is without the hair and makeup!" It was obvious how much effort went into this holiday, making this year the spookiest Bay Shore High School has ever seen.

The class of 2008 was able to keep their heads high despite all obstacles. They came a long way from the day they entered Bay Shore High School. Under the guidance and leadership of President Jessica D'Angelo, they were able to excel in all their endeavors. # CLASS OF 2009

After settling into a routine at Bay Shore Middle School, suddenly, the time had come for the class of 2010 to prepare for a dazzling new beginning. Some were worried, while others remained confident in their transition. When asked about the range of emotions experienced, Najia Bangs explained, "My thoughts upon entering the high school were very positive because I had already become familiar with the atmosphere prior to entering the building." On the contrary, Narcisa Anazco disagreed, saying, huge and I was going to get lost. I felt so Becoming high school students was initially 2010 made their way through. The freshmen their paths, getting to class on time, which halls and navigating the recent addition of the "new wing." Nicole Ackerson entered Bay Shore High school with some clearly focused goals. "I wanted to make new friends, not have any problems with my best friend and set high standards for myself." The class of 2010 seemed to have thoroughly enjoyed their freshman year. They were aware that the future was even brighter as they looked forward to spending their next few years growing and learning alongside one another.

Within every school, there is a superior group of individuals who work harder than any student could possibly imagine. At Bay Shore High School, this particular group of leaders fuels the fire within each student who enters the doors of our school. Moreover, as midterms, Regents and final exams approached, many teachers rearranged their weekend schedules to hold intense review sessions on Saturdays and even Sundays in order to help any student in need. The definition of a true teacher can be found within the halls of Bay Shore High School. They were the ones who taught with zeal. By vivaciously enlightening our student population, it seemed the entire staff could never be given enough thanks from not only the graduating class of 2007, but all underclassmen and future students as well.

Bay Shore High School offers many activities. Students have a plethora of choices and really got involved in the 2006-2007 school year. "I feel lucky to be at Bay Shore High School because there are many activities to choose from both in and after school," commented senior, Anum Bokhari. There were so many notable highlights from this school year.

"After school activities help many students keep up with their work and provide each person in the school with an opportunity to meet new people with similar interests. Everyone should find an activity that he or she likes and join," suggested junior, Velvet Williams. These activities helped students learn more about the things that they liked and also influenced them to make the right decisions. With these activities, students excelled in every way possible and made a positive impact on both our school and the Bay Shore community.

In its seventh year of existence, the A.I.D.S. Educators program and its members displayed more exuberance and zeal than ever before. "The members are so dedicated to this cause and portray a deep sentiment of love for it," exclaimed junior and secondyear member, Kristina Boccio. The 55 members gave up numerous hours of their free time weekly to take part in this prestigious program. "We met weekly on Thursdays from 4:30- 6:30. Even though the timing can be problematic, it was not too bad because we had fun and free food," commented second-year member, Courtney Cox, between bites of a succulent sandwich. "I enjoy interacting with the students and observing their passion and commitment to this cause," said adviser Claude Kasman. Kasman has advised this club since its inception with the assistance, knowledge and expertise of Dr. Ed Hyshiver.

The goal of the club was for members to acquire an in-depth understanding of the H.I.V. and A.I.D.S. illnesses and then explain them thoroughly to their peers. The apex of this club was in early February when they traveled to the middle school passing on their awareness to the 8th graders. "It was really cool to go to the middle school and teach the 8th graders. The students got really involved and it felt good to see them learning and becoming more aware," stated junior and second-year member, Alexandra Vullo. This eclectic collection of students, coming from numerous ethnic backgrounds made sure to emphasize, above all else, that A.I.D.S. does not discriminate.

William Hansen explores the new Flash and Photoshop programs on the Mac computers.

There was no doubt in your mind where you where when you walked into room 240 after school on Thursday afternoons. You were in Art Club, and that fact was plastered around the room, from students learning to use graphic design programs to people sitting at tables, with open sketchbooks and a big box of colored pencils in disarray. You saw huge gray mounds on the table, being carved up with sharp tools by careful hands. They were in all stages of development. You noticed unrecognizable shapes that were impossible to believe would become art and professional looking sculptures that seemed perfect, yet the artist continued to add complicated detail that you would never have thought of. Clearly, creativity was abundant.

Unfortunately, creating art was put on hiatus for the first two months of school. Instead, this club cleaned out the art rooms, led by Ms. Ruter, who graciously volunteered to supervise the club in Joe Scinto's absence. The students anxiously awaited the return of their instructor and fearless leader. Wild rumors circulated as to explain his absence, the most popular of which, started by Scinto himself, being that he was mauled by a bear while visiting relatives in Canada. The bear quickly became the club's mascot. Scinto said, "Art helps develop the human mind!" Students also had their own reasons to delve into the artistic world. Dona Yu said it best when she claimed, "If I could say it in words, there would be no reason to paint."

Bille And Hope, Fatth, Love

The 2007 Bible Club, led by 14-year adviser, Mrs. Pfeffer, worked harder than ever to ensure a fantastic and fulfilling year. The club met every Thursday from 2:00 to 2:30 p.m. and was open to all students. Seniors made up the majority of the group's members this year and their dedication was clearly seen each week. Members were not required to attend each week, but most did anyway. This showed their passion and dedication to their faith.

Amanda Dambra, the club's newest student leader, worked hard in order to come up with new ideas for community service and teen Christian fellowship. The group even handed out books about hope to the students before Christmas vacation. "They worked together and became close friends," explained Mrs. Pfeffer. Each meeting usually consisted of reading some scriptures and analyzing them, praying, and discussing topics of concern to teenagers.

The club allowed students of the same faith to gather together and openly speak about their beliefs and issues regarding the Christian faith. As an end to one of their meetings, the club read Matthew 18:20, "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there I am in the midst of them..." These types of passages created a feeling of community and a shared appreciation for faith each and every day.

With a new club adviser, the 2007 B.S.O.S.S. Club exceeded all expectations. Mrs. Lors helped the club to become more involved in the community and school. Their contributions were astounding. The club met at least two times a week, while the step team practiced nearly every day of the school year.

Brothers and Sisters Organization for Student Scholarships worked hard all year to achieve their goals. All of the members were enthusiastic and dedicated to this club. The officers, Earnestina Leftenant, Carolyn Hunter, and Amethyst Wilson, went out of their way to ensure that the B.S.O.S.S. club enjoyed a prosperous year.

"It's more than rhythm. It's more than dancing. It's more than music...It's stepping," explained Amethyst Wilson. In hopes to place, this year's step team entered many more competitions and showcases than in previous years. They were also awarded commendations as well as a proclamation from the town of Islip. "Either step up, or get stepped on," Mrs. Lors could often be heard saying, in an attempt to motivate the steppers. With this determined attitude, it was an extremely successful year for the B.S.O.S.S. Club.

The Color Guard was made up of 12 members who were full of experience. The luxury of having two talented advisers helped this club shine. Third-year adviser, Mis. S. Warshaw, teamed up with 11th year adviser, Mrs. S. Brenner, and opened up an opportunity to be able to practice a lot more and strengthen the group's skills. Meeting third period every day, and Tuesday nights from 6:00-7:30pm, the girls were certainly ready for any challenge.

The members of the color guard had to be able to accept constructive criticism in order to better themselves. Brenner said time and time again, "Chin up and smile girls! Smile!" These spirited words encouraged the girls to never put their heads down and always keep a smile on their faces. In addition to competitions, the color guard has the opportunity to be part of the band. Together, they performed in exciting events this year, such as Pep Rally, the Homecoming Parade, football games, and the St. Patrick's Day Parade. In the end, their sweat and tears paid off.

The 2006-2007 Computer Club consisted of nearly 40 students, making it one of the biggest clubs in Bay Shore High School. Computer Club was designed for the students to enjoy the male and make new friends. This club was a great via for students to unwind after school and true show themselves. Meeting every Tuesday and Thursday under the supervision of Mr. Eggert, this club knew how to remove the stresses of daily high school field.

"Computer Club is designed to bri together different kinds of people and share a common interest in computers," said Eggert And since this club was so large, the a lot of opportunity to make new friends an then take on those friends in intense, hands games. ### Reflective, Healing, Passionate Thoughts, feelings, and emotions through written and spoken word: That is what Creative Writing Club is all about. Each Friday, Adviser, Mr. M. Pasca and numerous creative individuals gathered together to intensify their writing skills and express themselves through poetic writing. "I think the club has become as popular as it has because it provides a safe haven for students, even teachers," said Pasca. The club's participation was tremendous this year, perhaps in part to its laid back atmosphere. "There are new faces, styles and belief systems every year," said Pasca.

In addition to the normal Friday meetings, this club published our vivid high school literary magazine, "The Writers' Block." This award-winning publication truly showcased the writing talent of our school. The Club also held two amazing poetry jams this year. These intense activities allowed the students to become more involved in our school and the community as a whole. The students of the Creative Writing Club continued their passionate love for written expression by being more "focused on getting feedback and improving their writing," said Pasca. These were certainly passions worth pursuing.

Passion

Grace, Joise

This year's dance team certainly left their mark on Bay Shore by entertaining more than most high schools on Long Island. While most dance teams performed only in basketball half times, our dance team performed at Bay Shore's annual Summit, the annual Black History Presentation at the middle school, the annual B.S.O.S.S. Fashion Show, the Bay Shore dance recital, the annual Arts Festival and still had time to get the crowd pumped for the second-half of every basketball game. "This is a more consistent group than in past years," said adviser and choreographer, Mrs. M. Denino. No member of the team allowed a hard combination to frustrate them. Instead, their ability to work harder when steps were more complicated showcased how truly dedicated and talented they were.

The dance club was one of the few clubs that did not have a president or captain. "Even though we do not have official "captains" on this team, there are a few girls who take leadership roles whenever needed. I have come to count on them and the team looks up to them as well. These girls were always at practice; they learned choreography quickly and were quick to lend a helping hand. They exceeded my expectations this year," said Denino. Thanks to the B.S.S.A.E.F., the dance team had the rare opportunity to work with esteemed professional choreographers throughout the year. Each member was able to enhance his or her future in dance, and dazzle the rest of the school with their knowledge and passion and pure talent.

Mr. Selzer. the debate team's fearless leader.

Competing in schools across the country, the Lincoln-Douglas Debate Team showed its best. In its first year, this newly created club brought together members of all different academic levels to debate various relevant issues. The members who attended the club on a regular basis, showed dedication and talent, and made this first year an impressive one. "The Bay Shore High School Lincoln-Douglas Debate Team is a highly competitive and prestigious team that competed in tournaments all across the country," said Mr. Selzer, the adviser for the Debate Team. A debate day was held in April which turned out to be a huge success. It truly exemplified the strenght of the new club.

With a love for arguing and a skill for quick thinking, the Lincoln-Douglas Debaters exceeded any expectations. "Our first-year tested the best and brightest of those interested in social sciences, law, and philosophy. I see a lot of strong competitive players in our future," stated Alex Sedler. The passion displayed by members will certainly allow this club to be around for decades to come.

Reduce. Reuze. Recycle...

"Save the earth, it's the only planet with chocolate," joked Ms. K. Ward, adviser of the Environmental Club. With twelve devoted members with the passion to save the earth, these earth-friendly students met once a week throughout the year. With more involvement and enthuslasm, this second-year proved to be as successful as the first. All grades were represented and all showed devotion for a cause, optimism, and devout dedication. Spreading environmental awareness throughout Bay Shore was extremely fruitful this year. The beach clean up was one of the most successful events held by the Environmental Club who met and cleaned Gilgo Beach. "The beach clean up was a cool way for a bunch of students to get together for a good cause," said member, Megan Smith. With this mindset in place, hopefully Bay Shore High School's Environmental Club will give Al Gore a run for his money.

Ever wonder how a film is made? Or what makes a film great? Well every Thursday after school, students fill room 324 eager to watch, create and learn about films. Ms. N. Kalter, in her seventh year advising these eager film makers, advised students on all the ins and outs of filmmaking. Having more underclassmen in the club this year than ever before, Kalter was pleased to see so many students interested in film. She said, "The participants of Film Club were bright, perceptive, quirky individuals. They radiated creativity."

The members of this club shared a mutual love for film, the ability to analyze film, and the enthusiasm to pursue this creativity. These talented club members achieved their goal of planning and executing the Annual Music Video Film Festival. Said Kalter, "The roster of music videos submitted for the festival included all genres and were executed in various styles. They were technically incredibly impressive!" One of the unknown facts about the members in the club is that most of them entered their work in film festivals that were held outside of school. Her true passion for film inspired Kalter to encourage others that film is a form of art and expression that is as relevant and powerful as any other.

F.B.L.A. is dedicated to bringing career education to innovative business students all over the country. Bay Shore High School's Future Business Leaders of America met every Thursday in room 385 after school. First-year adviser, Mr. K. Carrion, proudly stated "This year's F.B.L.A. members possessed extreme dedication to their club, community and to each other."

In the 2006-2007 school year, F.B.L.A. hoped to compete on a local level and gain knowledge along with important career etiquette necessary to succeed in the fast growing business world. In order to join this prestigious club, members needed to first successfully obtain a business credit that provided them with the foundation and knowledge necessary to succeed. F.B.L.A. gained better recognition by holding school functions such as their recycling project where they collected and recycled ink cartridges. Throughout the 2006-2007 school year, F.B.L.A. continued to conduct other fundraisers and events that truly showcased their undying support for this club.

"Humans are like the colors of the rainbow. We are all different...but together, we are beautiful." - G.S.A.

With a great deal of intolerance surrounding homosexuality, the Bay Shore High School created a very safe haven called the Gay Straight Alliance. This cutting-edge club is comprised of faculty members and students who plan to break the barriers between homosexuals and heterosexuals. This club proved to be unlike all others. The G.S.A. was designed to raise awareness about some of the problems in gay communities, such as the significant amount of hate crimes. Co-Adviser Mr. W. Fishon's goal for this year's group was, "to become more active in the school and community."

Every Wednesday, the club met in room 321, to discuss issues throughout the school and in the gay/ straight community at large. "This year's group was more active, enthusiastic, and eager to really make a difference in the community," proclaimed co-adviser, Mr. J. Tomaszewski. The G.S.A. devoted themselves to bringing a sense of acceptance regarding all choices of sexuality. When asked about the members' attributes, Fishon exclaimed, "The members were organized, committed to the cause, compassionate towards others, and vocal with their opinions." The unique part about G.S.A. was that it is open to anyone, regardless of grade, race, gender, or sexuality. This club had the ability to brighten the dark clouds that linger in the acceptance of homosexuals.

" Unity In Motion "

As Ms. Moro walked around her classroom observing her students, she could see each one of them absorbing information on a variety of cultural pictures laid out in front of them. "This here, students, is the Panama Canal, a canal which connects the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The other two countries in front of you are Chile and Argentina." Each student's face gleamed with fascination as they learned about other cultures and lifestyles. International club focuses on different cultures around the world.

Members participated in community service activities such as becoming pen pals with ESL students from Brook Avenue Elementary School. The club related in every way to its students by promoting cultural sensitivity and empathy. Club advisers, Ms. Moro and Ms. Solis cheerfully stated, "We promoted the idea of a global community so that we come to appreciate each other's differences and similarities." Learning about other countries and cultures not only satisfies a person's curiousity, but educates as well.

Managing Editor: Nicole Jewell The 2006-2007 Marauder Yearbook Staff strived to achieve excellence with the production of the 84th Edition. Each year, the task of creating an amazing book grows increasingly difficult, as the Marauder seems to evolve with creativity, skill, and ingenuity. Christina Perez said, "In all the years I've been a member of the yearbook staff, I have never seen as much energy and dedication as I have this year. Our staff focused all their efforts on making each and every page better than the next. I will definitely miss it when I graduate!" Students who had the opportunity to be a part of the Creative Writing for Publication Class were given a unique, real-life experience. Our staff wore many hats throughout the school year. We were photographers, interviewers, writers, graphic designers, advertising marketers, and above all else: team players. Adviser, Ms. Kelly Cuozzo said, "Each staff member contributed to the success of this edition. I couldn't be prouder of this group." Capping of the year with organizing and planning a signing party to distribute the 1000 books ordered was an enormous feat in itself. This year's staff continually tapped into their innate talents and capabilities and pulled off such challenges with ease.

Amidst the chaos of working with a new publishing company and a complicated new software, the staff overcame many obstacles and exerted themselves beyond any and all limitations. "At times, the hectic world of yearbook became overwhelming. But, I have realized that all the hard work and stress I have endured over the past two years was worth it," said Nicole Jewell. With this drive for success, members worked past the bell daily to ensure that quality work, design, photos and articles appeared on each page. Said Cuozzo, "Adobe In-Design CS2 is not an easy program and the staff was able to create spreads and design pages that amazed me."

The skills displayed by the yearbook staff attributed to the staff's outstanding year. The 2007 Marauder Yearbook will set a precedent that all future yearbooks will be measured against. This volume will certainly "burn brighter" for years to come.

Click, Click, Click... This sound was frequently heard in room 321 all year long. Students worked diligently to meet rigorous deadlines. Pens tapped desks as students' minds raced for new and creative stories to catch the attention of their school. Goals were high for this year's Maroon Echo Staff. "I would like the students to repeat the award-winning year they had last year," said advisor, W. Fishon. "They are the best student reporters on Long Island and in the United States." To continue their award-winning year, students worked hard in journalism class everyday. They worked hard and long hours, both in and outside of school to reach their goals. Inquisitive, intelligent, and motivated were only a few of the many qualities that these members possessed, and these traits propelled these young reporters to consistently create a newspaper that was interesting, attractive, and covered each and every story within the halls of Bay Shore High School and beyond.

The 2006-2007 Maroon Echo Staff brought talent and creativity to a new level. The work never stopped for this group. From day to day, they multi-tasked as journalists, layout designers, photographers, and editors. Their arduous spirit was expressed through each page of every paper put out this year. The students showed through every step of publishing an issue, that a journalist's job is never done.

This year, the talented and ambitious team aspired to make it to the final round of the Suffolk County Championship Playoffs. "With the dedication and excitement that all our team members possess, this promises to be the best year yet for our Mock Trial Team," said adviser, Mr. J. Selzer. The Mock Trial Team acquired various skills all year long, and was able to defeat many teams. Quick thinking, speaking skills, determination, and sheer hard-work allowed this team to reach their goals. "We lost a lot of talent from last year's team, but our current members are more prepared than any other year. We'll be in the finals for sure," said Alex Herd. Every Thursday after school, Bay Shore students met and discussed world issues in a club called the Model United Nation. In a room packed with students from all grade levels, approximately 50 students who were interested in understanding and solving global concerns met and attempted to outdo the teams of the past. Last year's team won third place at the National High School Model U.N. Competition. This accomplishment propelled this year's team to strive for even more. Ms. H. Thompson, three-year adviser, and Ms. S. Litrel, who founded the club six years ago said, "Model U.N. offers a unique perspective on global conflict as students examine these issues solve quite foreign to their own."

At the National Competition this year, the members of Model U.N. hosted two conferences. The Bay Shore High School Peer Support club was established more than twenty years with the sole purpose of helping those students in need. Led by co-advisers, Mr. J. McGowan, who has successfully run the club for over fifteen years, and Ms. S Handley, who has been a committed member for four years, this club has continued to grow each year, continuing to provide students with the opportunity to assist their peers in a positive way.

Peer Support met every Wednesday after school and also had additional training at night and on weekends. The dedication of each and every member was remarkable. "The Peer Support Help Program is a true reflection of the Bay Shore High School and community," said McGowan. This year, Peer Support had the largest number of students involved. "I get support from everyone. It makes me feel like I am a part of something," stated Linh Nugyn, a member of this club. For the past three years, the Shakespeare Club has demonstrated glowing passion and this year it was heightened even more. Although they continued to appreciate the works of William Shakespeare, this club has taken that appreciation to the next level. Meeting every Thursday, the Shakespeare Club consisted of mostly sophomores and juniors who were rebuilding the leadership left behind from their past senior leaders. Besides being academically curious and culturally aware, the members must also possess an interest in moving beyond the level of knowledge obtained in previous years. "It allows us to look at Shakespeare beyond the basic school requirements," proudly stated Shakespeare Club adviser, Mr. M. Hochman.

This year's club was extremely anxious to promote Shakespearean material. Keeping that goal in mind, the Shakespeare Club hosted the Knighthorse Theatre. The members of the club have also continued to take field trips that clearly demonstrated their alluring infatuation for the works of William Shakespeare. "It's a really relaxing, no pressure club that makes learning Shakespeare fun!" commented Sarah McCuy with pride and motivation. All year long, this club realized that celebrating the timelessness of William Shakespeare's works was a wonderful way to spend an afternoon.

In order to excel in improving language skills, native and non-native speakers of the Spanish language met once a week in room 113. The club kept its members motivated while offering a variety of methods to practice the language. Spelling bees, creative discussions, and board games gave the club the spark that united these members. "The Spanish Conversation Club was an outlet for those students who are genuinely interested in Hispanic' culture, and who want to add another dimension to their Spanish language studies," stated club adviser, Mrs. M. All the members enjoyed the Spanish Club because they knew they were making a difference in expanding this wonderful language to everyone. "Being part of the Spanish Club was a unique and meaningful experience, where creativity and growth took place. We took pride in sharing the many treasures of Hispanic culture," said Francesca Alegre and Carlos Mendoza. As a result of the many fatal accidents that have been caused by drunk driving, Bay Shore High School's Students Against Drunk Driving met every Friday to share ideas about spreading this awareness to other people. All club members possessed the willingness to help and had an ardent concern about the issue of drunk driving. "As the adviser, I can't imagine a more positive, concerned, and helpful group of young adults," said club adviser, Mr. G. Broadhurst, who has been guiding S.A.D.D. for nearly fifteen years.

To spread awareness, members have consistently participated in the annual Grim Reaper Day and coordinated Red Ribbon Week to demonstrate the stunning reality of destructive decisions. In addition, club officers pushed for a permanent display of a car crash to raise the awareness of the real life consequences that are oftentimes realized with drunk driving. "If they represent this generation, our world will be in good hands when they take over," said Broadhurst. S.A.D.D. definitely illuminated the year by helping to tackle the dangers of drinking and driving faced by our society and most importantly the students of our school.

"Imagine a product that is so deadly, that it kills up to half of its best customers. It doesn't kill them instantly, but slowly through various toxins and cancers. Meet the cigarette." This opening speech started off the lesson plan for one of the group members of Teens Against Tobacco Use, a group devoted to curbing a new generation from acquiring the deadly habit of smoking. "Our mission is to educate the younger grades, specifically, Bay Shore Middle School, Gardiner Manor, and South Country Elementary School from the dangers of smoking," said adviser Mrs. J. Kent.

This year, the group had a total of 36 members, consisting solely of freshmen and seniors. The club has grown significantly, and this was the largest number of members to join the anti-tobacco cause, to date. "It was a really great experience," said Alexandra Panos, a senior and second-year member. Added fellow senior Justine Gordy, "It was the best feeling...we connected with the younger kids and know that we have made an impact on their lives." T.A.T.U. members met every Friday to plan different innovative techniques that attempted to spread their anti-smoking message and allow it to reach the masses. They came up with interactive games, posters and creative slogans in order to help put the flame out on future cigarettes.

Lights, Camera, Action

Each day, the auditorium was filled with student performers, who truly knew how it feels to be exhausted. This group of aspiring performers put on productions that were unlike any other. There was a wide representation from every grade level in the 2007 Thespian Troupe. As a whole, they discovered just how much time and energy go into putting on a successful production. There are so many things that make a Bay Shore High School show amazing. And, many of these efforts remained unrecognized to the audience. Behind the scenes, magic happened.

The troupe spent hours upon hours putting on productions and rehearsing for their opening night. The Thespian Troupe displayed dedication, commitment and drive and achieved excellence in all their performances this year. This year the troupe put on three productions, "Mullens Alley," "Clue," and "Singin' in the Rain." This was the first year that the Thespian Troupe was able to pull off three profuctions. While, it was tough work, it was surely worth it in the end. Audiences loved each and every performance. Director, Mr. C. Bilella, said, "I have seen these students grow up and watched them bloom into young adults who are incredible people and talented actors." This bunch of aspiring actors were truly one of a kind.

Seniors Thomas McCarthy, Michael Millan, Kiera Mcneil, Kea Trevett, Angela Neumann, Camila Allay, Kaitlin Stevens, Anthony Rodriguez, Theresa Frank, Michelle Turk, Joseph Scalisi, and Ashley Hernandez spend their last moments together backstage awaiting the cast list.

"10 seconds left. Does anyone have an answer to the winning question?" Could you feel the pressure that this group of talented academics experienced through every time they competed in a challenge? You may not think that it was much, but try having hundreds of people watching while you attempt to figure out the answer to an important question, with the clock running. This year's group of trivia champions were a mixture of both talent and true knowledge combined.

This team of young determined students hoped to place high in the Southwestern Suffolk Quiz Bowl Division. Adviser, Mrs. A. Southworth said, "Trivia team members are highly competitive academic athletes." And this talent was ultimately showcased this winter, when the Bay Shore High School Trivia Team competed on the News 12 Long Island Challenge and soundly defeated Comsowogue, making it to the second round of the challenge. They represented our school with pride and answered extremely challenging questions, showcasing their genuine talent.

Creativity, Ingenuity, Imagination

"Creativity is a necessity, not an option," said Web Design Adviser Mr. T. Scalzo. For the six members of Web Design Team, creativity flowed endlessly as they redesigned the high school website and updated its overall look. This year, the three freshmen, two juniors and one talented senior, met everyday from 2 to 3pm. after school in the music technology lab. The Web Design Team also had technology on their side; meetings were conducted outside of the school building, via the internet, a major step for Bay Shore High School.

Led for the past eight years by Scalzo, this year's Web Design Team possessed two extremely important characteristics: a ton of creativity, and the willingness to learn. "The Web Design Team is an opportunity to shape how the world sees your school," stated Scalzo. It was a tall order, but the Web Design Team was ready to work as this year's team was driven by innovation, imagination, scintillation, passion and true dedication.

With members from all different grade levels, each and every student somehow contributed to the club as a whole. Whether it was creativity, hard work, or devotion, it was seen in this year's woodworking club.

"I was proud of the members this year. They surpassed beginner level skills by working hard and showing dedication," stated Mr. B. Raskin, club adviser for the past four years. Raskin's main goal was for each member to have fun and finish projects that he or she could be proud of. "They wanted to be here and wanted to work," said Raskin. Meeting every Tuesday in the woodshop, all members were successful in making their projects and learning workshop skills that could be used both in class and in the real world.

Design, Construct, Create

With a focus on high achievement for the 2006-2007 school year, Bay Shore High School provided students with a variety of academic programs to participate in. These programs helped students prepare for the dreams and aspirations they hoped to bring to fruition in the future. Plenty of hard work comes along with the process of getting ahead; nevertheless Bay Shore High School was there to help ease any stresses students may face. Each faculty member was readily available

The seniors of 2007 worked intensely and prepared for college and the life that comes with the transition from the high school to college. Senior, Lavaughnza Jackson explained, "The anticipation of graduation and this being my last year of high school is a continuous thought." Even with the stresses, all-nighters, and hard work necessary, ultimately, these efforts paved the way for the radiant future of a Bay Shore High School graduate.

Art Honor Society

National Art Honor Society was a place where many students of Bay Shore High School who are artistic, creative, passionate students could be found in Bay Shore High School. The 2006-2007 N.A.H.S. had 25 members from grades 10 - 12 who created new art every chance they were given. These students attempted to raise awareness for art in the school, community, and tried to recruit future members for the club as well. "This was my second year in the club and my first as president. I love promoting the arts and love National Art Honor Society," said Michael Ruggiere. NAHS also recognized students who wanted to pursue careers in the world of art after high school. Each student showed a prominent ability in art. The club only allowed students freedom to to create new art, they also talked about and focused on all different types of art. Every member of the N.A.H.S. made new friends, and brightened their futures in art.

All the students who have joined the band have had an intense passion for music. "Students participate in band because they have a lot of love for music," said Mr. Rotello. Symphonic Band, Wind Ensemble, and Concert Band were among the most prestigious academics in our school. Every music student starts out in ninth grade in Concert Band. Then student have the opportunity to move up to Symphonic Band or Wind Ensemble. Additionally, students have the chance to be a part of Bay Shore's extremely talented Marching Band.

"The dedication of time was truly inspiring," said Mr. Rotello. This dedication was seen every day when these talented groups got together to showcase their talent, meeting every day third and fifth periods. The Concert Band and Symphonic Band rehearsed daily with Mr.Rotello, while the Wind Ensemble thrived under the leadership of Mr. Scalzo. Some of the goals of these groups were to increase their musical technique as well as their level of play. "This was my first year in Wind Ensemble and I could not be happier with my experience. Mr. Scalzo got the group to a point I never thought I could reach. The music we played comes from all over and offered such a variety. I just wish I joined in tenth grade when I had the opportunity," said Kristen Hinrichs.

The 2006-2007 Bay Shore High School Concert Choir was definitely one that has shined brighter than the groups of the past. Led for the last 19 years by Dr. C. Morrow, this group, along with accompanist David Ramirez, rehearsed diligently five days a week. Each day, the choir worked hard to improve and expand on both their singing and performance skills. Finishing the year, it was obvious that they were indeed successful.

With a group of 87 students, ranging from grade nine to grade 12, this choir out-sung any and all competition. Involvement has increased over the years, making the choir a great addition to any schedule. "This group, different than the others, was not only filled with singers, but also dancers and actors as well," said Morrow.

Throughout the year, the choir performed at Pilgrim State Rehabilitation Center as they have for the past eighteen years. They also received top awards at Six Flags Great Adventure, Hershey Park and Dorney Park. "If it wasn't for Dr. Morrow, I wouldn't have the self-confidence or singing skills I have now," exclaimed senior Camila Allary in support of choir's fearless leader. Choir not only allowed students to develop beautiful voices, but it also helped them grow into brighter wellrounded human beings.

"Jazz is an important part of American history," said Mr. M. Rotello. Every Tuesday and Thursday nights, a handful of students got to express their special jazz talents. Mr. T. Scalzo, director of the Tuesday Night Hip Katz and Rotello, director of the Thursday Night Jazz Project agreed that this group was focused and had a deep interest in jazz music.

Every Tuesday night, the Hip Katz practiced from 7 to 9pm. in the wind ensemble room. "This is the best group I've been involved in, in my three years with the Hip Katz," said Mr. Scalzo when asked how this year's group differed from previous years. Mr. Scalzo continued, saying, "Each member is the cream of the crop, musically speaking." This year's group was a well balance group of 21, six seniors, seven juniors and eight sophomores.

Similarly, Rotello allowed his students to spread their musical wings and led the members of the Thursday Night Jazz Project every Thursday night also from 7 to 9pm. Each meeting, they gained more knowledge of jazz and had a great time doing so. "The power of jazz music is a great feeling. All of our hearts, including the great Mr. Rotello, have accepted this feeling," said senior Eric Stickney. "Mr. Rotello has touched my heart and I'm sure I touched his." The 32 members, grades 9-12, performed standard jazz classics and also incorporated other forms of music associated with the jazz genre. This fusion of music led to greatness.

These ensembles grew close and strengthened bonds, both musically and in friendship. Each shared a love of jazz and that allowed passion to fuel each performance. As their knowledge of jazz grew, their musical talent flourished as well.

Rational Honor Society

Scholarship, Leadership, Service

The 2006- 2007 Bay Shore High School chapter of the National Honor Society really lived up to their "C.S.L.S." logo this year, which stands for "Character, Scholarship, Leadership, Service." The 66 Juniors and Seniors have goals such as creating enthusiasm for scholarship, rendering service, and deveolping character in all students. The indcutions, which take place twice per year, are decided upon by the faculty council.

Mr. Dugger, a second-year adviser, met with the club every other week to discuss new programs and activities. This year, they developed a new tutoring program where N.H.S. members helped out P.M. school students who were struggling academically..

"The Honor Society represents some of the finest students that Bay Shore High School has to offef. With regard to academic achievement, community service, leadership, and character, all National Honor Society members have proven themselves worthy of a seat," said Mr. Dugger.

The 2006-2007 Science Olympiads had a bright and successful year. Each Science Olympiad strives to excel in a particular area of science. These areas include biology, chemistry, earth science, physics, and engineering. The members prepared various types of science projects and competed at the end of the year.

The club's goal was for the team to finish in a better position overall than last year. The four seniors, five juniors, six sophomores looked forward all year to their strongest event, robotics. The burning determination of the participants was reflected by the efforts put forth in every event this year. The advisors, Mr. Tomaszewski and Mr. Loewen, really supported the bright and motivated Science Olympiads, trying to instill cooperation, determination, and loyalty in all of them.

Four-year member Andrea Welsh said, "Being on the team for four years and co-captain this year has been an enriching experience, reinforcing my love of the sciences. I am sad that this is my last year." Not only did the olympiads compete in events, but the club allowed them to explore further scientific areas such as astronomy and entomology.

Service Honor Society...

This is an organization geared towards students who have a desire to get involved and make a difference. The goal set by Service Honor Society this year was to increase the awareness and importance of doing volunteer work in the school and the surrounding community. Second-year adviser, Mrs. J. Ehlers stated, "We are always looking to expand our membership numbers." With the passion these members have displayed all year long, many students are sure to be inspired.

With a year behind her, Mrs. Ehlers now knows what to expect from her compassionate and genuine members. Different than previous years, this year had more freshmen than ever getting involved, allowing more students to achieve the prestigious honor of becoming Keystone Members, which comes after four consecutive years of service. To become inducted into Service Honor Society, one must complete of a minimum of fifteen hours of community service. Some ways students got these fifteen hours was through Spring Fling, Stuff-A-Bus, Christmas wreath hanging, and the Breast Cancer Brunch. Others took their time and went beyond the school and volunteered elsewhere in the community. This group of motivated, caring students made a huge difference to lives of many individuals and helped make the Bay Shore schools and community continue to be a wonderful place to be educated and live.

Perspiration lightly glistened on the musicians' foreheads as they played their hearts out during each performance. When they completed the final selection of the evening, string ensemble teacher, Ms. M. Senatore, turned to the crowd and bowed, showing true pride in her musicians.

The Bay Shore High School's String Ensemble performed in the All-District Jazz Concert, the Breast Cancer Benefit, the Hall of Fame Event, and at The University of American Women. "This group was very enthusiastic and very talented," said Senatore. String ensemble is such a unique gem to Bay Shore High School, and also to their adviser. When asked how this year's group measured up, Senatore said proudly, "I can relay this one quote: 'I am having so much fun performing, I feel almost guilty. I think, my God, I hope no one comes and busts me for this.' That was said by musician David Crosby." The joy string instruments bring to every listener is simply indescribable.

"This year's members possesed dedication, responsibility, and a genuine interest in helping others," raved Jacqueline Side about her 2006-2007 student council. Advisers J. Side and C. Acunzo have been the co-advisers of this selfless club for the past 6 years. On the last Monday of every month, an eclectic group of members, consisting of each grade, convened in room 121 to discuss pending issues and activities pertaining to the high school and Bay Shore community. Some of these activities included the annual Stuff-a-Bus, Spirit Week, the Homecomming Parade, and Adopt-a-Family. "After 3 years in student council, I have met so many amazing people and participated in many community service projects which were such awarding experiences," exclaimed Junior Class President, Jessica D'Angelo nostalgically about her experiences in this program.

Possibly the greatest aspect of this club is its flexibility. "Members vary, but officers are required to attend. Many students come out to help with programs of their interests. People come and at their own pleasure each week to get involved in school or community service. "Joining Student Council gave me an opportunity to help many people, but also to have tons of fun doing it," shouted Freshman Class President, Destiny Lalane. "I love to see kids serve the community, because it helps them fell even better about themselves when they help others," said Ms. Side with sorrow in realization that another successful year of student council had ended.

Ethnic Pen was one of the most unique activities of Bay Shore High School. Available by invitation only to juniors and seniors, it contained only the best of the best students. Group members were required to read two books from different visiting authors and help arrange and run the activities of the Ethnic Pen Conference. "Ethnic Pen Club has become an integral component of the Ethnic Pen Conference," said Ms. Handley when asked of the club's part in the annual activities.

Ethnic Pen was a program that consisted of a contest to write prose or poetry about a particular subject, (this year Injustice in Society), and then a one day in-school event. It was designed to broaden student's awareness of the world around them and to teach them to use their talent to create amazing works of art in the form of writing. Authors visited and talked with students for workshops, and other programs of all types were available. It allowed all who attended to grow as a writer and as a person.

Awaveness Weekend

Awareness Weekend has separated Bay Shore High School from all other schools. It is a truly an extraordinary program that touches all the students who attend. It allows the students to get to know their peers as well as faculty members on a much more personal basis. This year, the program united kids with different background and in different "cliques." It allowed them to share personal information among their peers and to get a better understand of people. "Awareness Weekend has enabled me connect with kids in the school who I never thought I would," said Kayleen Romano.

To ensure that all the students interacted with ones they would not normally associate with, the facilitators divided all the students and staff into "family groups" that consist of individuals who do not know one another. The "family group" is a place where you can feel the most comfortable due in large part to the small group setting. This is especially helpful for students who do not feel comfortable talking in the community sharing where all participants meet up in the little theater to share among the large group.

Awareness Weekend has consistently helped many kids deal with their problems and provided them the support they needed. "It has opened my eyes to the issues facing my peers and allowed me to realize that we are not as different as I once thought," said senior. Gevene Dupuy.

"Awareness weekend never seems to get old. From facilitating, family groups and different guest speakers, it is always an amazing weekend that leaves you with a profound message," said Ashley Green. Awareness Weekend has been bettering the relationship among students for the past eighteen years and will continue to do so for years to come.

Camila Allary and Jenna Young express themselves in an exciting duet.

Poetry Jam has evolved into a bi-annual event, organized by Mr. M. Pasca's Creative Writing Club, where students can open up and show their true colors through words. This stress-free environment allows the students to share their works with their peers. The Poetry Jam also allows students to voice their opinion on any topic through poetry and/or music. "The people expressed themselves well and I could feel their emotions through the music," commented senior, Christian SanPascual. At Poetry Jam, no one is judged or put down. Every student or teacher's voice is just as important as the next. It has become a place where you can talk freely and the audience listens to you and cares.

This wonderful celebration takes place twice a year in the little theater and is open to all student, teachers, staff, and administrators. Students really enjoyed staying after school and sharing with their peers. They connected with kids they never thought they would. "It was so much fun. I enjoyed listening to other people's feelings," said Kyana Binford. This open celebration of sharing and writing is sure to continue for years to come.

The boys practiced six days a week at Gardiner Manor, and still found time to dedicate adequate time to their school work. They played as a cohesive unit and communicated well with the coaches and one another. Coach Drago said, "Talent is desire in disguise. Talent is good, but it only takes you so far. Desire supercedes your talent to take you to the top." The boys' desire this year paid off, and it will help them strengthen the varsity team later in their high school careers.

The 2007 varsity softball team started the year with a winning streak. This season marked the 25th year of Jim McGowan's coaching tenure at Bay Shore High School. During this time, the Lady Marauders have set the standard for softball on Long Island. With a promising history, the 2007 team aimed to be the best of the best. "We have a very young team," McGowan stated. "There is only one senior, Regional All-American pitcher, Erika Sullivan. The rest of the team is composed of mainly freshmen. Although the team was young, the feeling of unity they shared was felt all season long. Each player needed to contribute to the team. The strength of the team was its unity. "There is no easy way to be succesful," stated McGowan. This dedication was readily seen with each 5am morning practice, and multiple three-way scrimage. "Through preparation, passion and intensity it becomes our way."

The junior varsity softball team despite having less players than previous years, came out strong. The team devoted six days a week to practice and worked hard throughout the season to master their skills and strengthen their abilities. The Junior Varsity team ranged from grades 8-11, bonging together, showing amazing teamwork and cooperation on the field. "It's is our goal to help our players become better students, better athletes and most importantly better people." stated Coach Pasquerella. "We place major emphasis on respect and discipline, both on and off the field. The lives of the girls who are involved with the softball program will be change in a postive manner and it will be something they never forget." sparkled Coach Pasquerella. Eric Madsen and Daniel Miller display their oars after rowing rigorously during a match.

"It takes all eight to move the boat," stated Coach B. Blackman. This is the mentality that the 2007 Bay Shore High School Boys Crew Team lived by. Each member used his strength and attitude to make this season one to remember. The opportunity to race and compete against both public and private school programs pushed this team work even harder. "Crew has been one of the greatest activities I have been involved in. It has taught me discipline and how to work well with others," said Erik Madsen.

The team consisted of various grade levels and worked very hard to make this year a success and emerge victorious. This year's team was exceedingly strong. Weight training added to their practice and made a drastic change in their ability to perform. Crew not only taught these players discipline, it taught them how to work together as a true cohesive unit.

This year, the Bay Shore High School Girls Crew team started the season with tremendous enthusiasm and spirit. "Crew is like unlike any other sport. It requires the use of every muscle. They have to give 110% even when their bodies say it's impossible," said Coach B. Meirowitz. Despite having no seniors on the team, the girls entered the season earning first place in Long Island and even fourth in states. The girls demonstrated that this year's team had a deep understanding of the word "unit," and they certainly displayed it in their accomplishments.

The girls worked with dedication all seaon long. This team, who managed to practice Monday through Friday, stepped up their game proving their true devotion to the sport. They were dedicated and truly enjoyed being part of a team. "I love the comraderie of this sport. Everyone knows each other's strengths and weaknesses and helps each other become better rowers," said junior Lauren Weber.

Under Coach Tim Cox's leadership, the boys varsity lacrosse team started their much anticipated season with a bang by defeating their first several opponents. Beginning to prepare for the season in the winter, the boys were able to generate energy and skill and followed through with another successful season. The team worked hard on groundballs, handling, shooting, and defensive skills. Vast improvements were seen in almost every player. When asked about the team's goals for the season, Cox stated, "We expect to qualify for the playoffs to compete for a county championship." One of the main goals for this hard working team was to improve themselevs as a pack and team, "Go hard or go home!!" team captain, Nick Baglio enthusiastically should before each game. This team worked together to form a strong bond among the players and enjoyed a season filled with triumph.

The 2007 boys junior varsity lacrosse team follwed in the varsity team's footsteps. Similarly, they consistently showed spirit and started the season off big. First-year Coach Ryan Obloj pushed the boys to reach the top of their game all season long. "Goaline extended!" were the words that were heard often from Coach Obloj at the Brooke Avenue field where the boys worked together to strive for success. "Talk on the field!!" shouted Gary Guinta to his teammates before games which encouraged them to leave everything on the field along with a "W" for win." The boys worked) extremely hard each day and were able to drastically improve their games," said Obloj. "They enjoy playing the exciting game of lacrosse." The junior varsity lacrosse team left all of their energy on the field and learned many new skills, especially teamwork.

"Label us NOTORIOUS!" This was the motio heard all season long. The 2007 varsity girls lacrosse team had a lot to live up to considering the success reached over the past two years. This team practiced six days a week at Mary G. Clarkson Elementary School, refining their defensive and shooting skills. Junior Breana Leonard, when asked what motivated the team stated, "We want to be the first girls lacrosse team from Bay Shore to win a state championship. We want to be the first team in our league to be undefeated for three consecutive years." This group of girls worked together effectively both on and off the field. They raised money for both the "Kathleen Roskot Scholarship Fund," and the "Judi Shesh Cancer Foundation." Coaches A. Pfeffer and J. Pfeffer expected nothing but great things from their girls. With these focused goals in mind, 2007 truly was a season to remember.

In similar fashion, the 2007 junior varsity girls lacrosse enjoyed a tremendous season. The team came together in a circle at the start each game to build morale and unite. Shelby Vaccaro looked over at Sara Fuchs and asked, "Are you read it bring it, girls?" Then, Kelsey Healy yelled, "Yeah, we are!!" This spirited team consisted of 20 members. The girls were driven with a competitive attitude and a great deal of drive. Led by head coach, Katy Hahn, in her sixth year, the team exceeded expectations. "I hope to increase their knowledge and love of lacrosse. They always gave me 110% during their games," said Hahn. The team had a great mix of ability, and skill. Some girls were brand new to the game, while others had been playing for years. Having the varsity team rank in the top five in the county enhanced their skills and determination. Said Hahn, "They were excited to play and got better everyday."

The 2007 varsity boys tennis team had a rough start to their season, but were then able to turn it around and end strongly. "Having practice every day and working hard, helped the team as a whole to improve their skills," Coach J. Carney stated proudly. "Our goal was to gain experience through match time, especially the younger players," Carney continued. With an array of students both from the high school and middle school level, all team members maintained the desire to surpass all team expectations. Team player, Anthony Padovano commented, "Coming from Walt Whitman High School, Bay Shore Tennis is ten times better!"

"Love is nothing in Tennis, but in life it's everything" said Coach Villa of the junior varsity boys tennis team. In 2007, this team consisted of fourteen team members who ranged from grades seven through eleven. Practice was held Monday through Friday each week, and this team diligently worked towards their goal of uniting as a team to finish the season strong. "Our hunger is as big as our game. We eat like cows and play like men," said Will Hoffman. This mentality propelled this team through a season filled with spirit and determination.

GRESGOLF Allign, Atim, Ace

This year's varsity girls golf team seized success despite the loss of several superb senior golfers from the class of 2006. The fifteen girls, ranging from grade 8 to 12, consistently displayed their potential as they quickly developed their skills and putting capabilities. "I was astonished by how fast the younger girls were able to catch on and learn the sport," said junior, Emily Lawson, after shooting a perfect hole-in-one. This year, almost half the team consisted of underclassmen, many of them being first- year members of the team. "It was an experience for all of us to spend two hours every day together and chat over a game of golf," said Sarah Baker, upon completing her third year on the team.

Besides their talents on the course, the girls displayed just as much zeal and enthusiasm for golf off the course. During the 2006 season, the golf girls team created their very own exclusive clique known as "G.G.C.," further reflecting their camaraderie. On the day of every match, the entire team was seen sporting their golf polos as they walked proudly through the halls of Bay Shore High School. The biggest event of the team was their theme-based pasta parties. Each night before their matches, one designated member of the team invited all the members to her house for food and festivities. Some of their themes included Potluck Monday, Taco Tuesday, and Italian Stallion. At the end of the 2007 season, the girls proved to be just as spirited off the course as on it.

More Endurance, Power and Speed

"Giving up was never on our minds," said senior Henry Gonzalez. The 2007 boys spring track team pushed themselves in order to continue their undefeated reputation and go on to become All-County Champions once again. Since the team had only five seniors this year, the underclassmen had to push themselves in order to pull their own weight. Throughout the season, this team battled and in doing so, continued their undefeated ways that has been consistent over the past 11 years. "The freshmen have really stepped up and surprised all the upper classmen," said Senior Rob Sainvil. With such a wellbalanced, supportive team, it is no surprise they were able to achieve such greatness.

This positive attitude was seen all season long. "It's hard to not have this mentality when a majority of the members posses many athletic qualities such as speed, endurance and the will power to succeed," said Isaiah Millington. "The team this year has the most heart compared to previous years," said senior Rob Sanvil. They even ran when they were experiencing extreme pain. No one wanted to let the team down. This year's team worked together and finished the season strong. They certainly did carry on the tradition of success that the boy's spring track team has always reaches.

The 2007 girls spring track team displayed much passion and fervor for their sport. Coming off of an outstanding winter season, two key runners were national champions: Sarah McCurdy in the 800 meter run and Callie Hogan in the mile run. Bay Shore was lucky to have outstanding individuals in almost every event. Coach Steve Borbet is extremely proud to announce that the girls have won five straight Suffolk County Championships, an astonishing feat.

Their major commitment during the season was to win the Suffolk County Championship and the League Championship. When asked about his team, Coach Borbet said, "We are younger and more inexperienced. The younger athletes will have to mature and develop to carry the team in 2008." However, the younger runners were encouraged by the top athletes, and this propelled the team to become more united in their practices. As a result, this team defeated almost all their competitors. Borbet was confident of this. He said, "We have enough talent to win the League and County Championships." And with that positivity and determination, it was obvious why nothing was impossible for this amazingly talented team.

What's hot? What's not? This question is frequently asked everywhere. Media and music have an ever-growing influence on today's coolest and hottest trends. From Bape hoodies to Uggs boots, Bay Shore High School is definitely a place where fashion came alive all year long. We are a very diverse school, with many trends and styles walking through the hallways, hanging in the library, cafeteria or even hard at work in class. You could spot Bay Shore's fashion icons sporting North Face fleeces, high belts, and flats or carrying the latest sidekicks and video ipods. We are a Long Island school that puts fashion on the map.

Locks of Love

Locks of Love is a public non-profit organization that provides hairpieces to financially disadvantaged children under the age of 18 who suffer from long-term medical hair loss. Locks of Love meets a unique need for children by using donated hair to create the highest quality hair prosthetics. Most of the children helped by Locks of Love have lost their hair due to a medical condition called alopecia areata, which has no known cause or cure. Others suffer from leukemia, lupus, burns or a series of radiation and/or chemotherapy. The prostheses provided helps to restore the children's self-esteem and confidence, enabling them to better face the world and their peers.

Requirements For Donating Hair:

- 1. 10" minimum hair length (tip to tip). wigs, falls, or synthetic hair is not accepted.
- 2. Hair must be bundled in ponytail or braid.
- 3. Hair needs to be clean, dry, placed in a plastic bag, then a padded envelope.
- 4. Hair is needed from men and women, young and old, all colors and races.
- 5. Hair may be colored or permed, but not bleached or chemically damaged (if unsure, ask your stylist).
- 6. Hair swept off the floor is not usable.
- 7. Hair cut years ago is usable if it has been stored in a ponytail or braid.
- 8. Hair that is short, gray, or unsuitable for children will be separated from the ponytails and sold at fair market value to offset the cost of manufacturing.
- 9. You may pull curly hair straight to measure the minimum 10".
- 10. Layered hair may be divided into multiple ponytails for donation.

"We do not remember days, we remember moments!"

I remember Kaylee always trying to poke her foot through her mommy's belly, trying to get a head start on the road of life. As a little girl, she loved to dress up in all the princess outfits, and then leave them on her bedroom floor! She would make me open the pool in the middle of May, so she could have her birthday pool party and I'd watch while her lips turned blue from the cold water. Because of her love for cheerleading, I got her into a halftime show at a NY Dragons game. Her love for horses, movies, and there's so much more I could write, but most important - thank goodness for her love of knowledge! There's no telling how many miles you will have to run to chase your dream, but learn as much as you can while you're young, since life becomes too busy later!

To my First Born and Only Child,

You've worked so hard to do the dam thing and yes it was hard and sometimes unpleasant, the way you had to learn all that you know, but in the end after all that is said and done, you are a hardworking, intelligent, young beautiful Afro-American woman who will one day change this unique but complex world and we are happy that God blessed us with you on March 3, 1989. ## COLOPHON AND CLOSING

Love, Mom, Dad, Kam, Tiahna & Erick

The 2007 Marauder Yearbook, entitled "Burning Brighter," marked a new phase in Bay Shore High School Yearbook history. The 2007 Yearbook Staff truly shined as they made the eighty-fourth volume of the Marauder one that will be remembered for a lifetime. The passion, time and effort put forth by the staff showed just how talented the students of Bay Shore were.

Under the guidance of adviser, Ms. Kelly Cuozzo, the staff was successful in making the 2007 Marauder a colorful piece of history. This year's artistic staff had many opportunities to work with very talented individuals. Mr. Jim Wikso, a local professional photographer, began working with the yearbook staff in 2006 and has since provided the Marauder with beautiful aerial shots of Bay Shore High School and the surrounding area, as seen on the background of this page. Managing Editor, Nicole Jewell, contributed to the outside photography seen within the Marauder as well. Her pictures appear on the title page, on the background of parent ads, and on the closing page of the book. These photographs truly helped make the 2007 Marauder the masterpiece it is.

The Marauder was printed by Herff Jones Yearbooks, under the supervision of Mr. Steven Lerner. The formal photography seen within the book is credited to Quaser-Lifetouch Studios. Any additional photographs were taken by the yearbook staff. This book was produced by Ms. Cuozzo's 2006-2007 Creative Writing for Publication Class.

The cover was designed by editor-in-chief, Kaylee Graswald. One thousand copies of this book were printed in all-color for the first time in Bay Shore High School history. The standard type face utilized throughout was Franklin Gothic Book, Demi, and Heavy. The staff utilized Adobe InDesign CS2 and Adobe Photoshop 7.0 for the creation of each and every page within the Marauder.

But to every mind there openeth, A way, and way, and away, A high soul climbs the highway, And the low soul gropes the low, And in between on the misty flats, The rest drift to and fro.

But to every man there openeth, A high way and a low, And every mind decideth, The way his soul shall go.

One ship sails East, And another West, By the self-same winds that blow, Tis the set of the sails And not the gales, That tells the way we go.

Like the winds of the sea Are the waves of time, As we journey along through life, Tis the set of the soul, That determines the goal, And not the calm or the strife.

- Ella Wheeler Wilcox
