High school begins, a mystery to most. Filled with excitement, fear, curiosity, and nerves, we climb the steps, pass through the door, walk onto the field...all in the name of change. High school is, above all, a time for change. We change from kids to adults. We change from beginners to experts. We change from naive to experienced. When we cross over the many thresholds that we encounter over our four years at Bay Shore High School, we change. Our world around us changes. As an athlete, we may join a winning team in ninth grade that is a team in the midst of rebuilding during our twelfth grade year. Or, a team that was rebuilding in ninth grade could, in our graduating year, go to the playoffs for the first time. Exams change. Classes change. The building changes. Teachers change. And, of course, we change. These are our Changing Tides...

Ms. Sue Gosk, Guidance Office secretary, reviews the busy guidance office schedule for the day.

On the first day of school, most students are excited to start new classes, see old friends, and meet new teachers. The busiest people on the first day, however, are probably the guidance counselors, who spend the day correcting scheduling and placement errors. This hectic pace continues throughout the year, as the counselors and guidance staff cycle through many tasks.

With hundreds of college applications, class requests, and other student needs to attend to, it is puzzling how the Guidance staff keeps its composure throughout the year. Their friendly and helpful attitudes make them easy to consult and visit with regularly.

"The fall semester especially gets quite hectic due to the college process," explains Guidance secretary Nancy Pazderka.

With so many graduating seniors, the department has always had its hands full with applications and college material.

"My counselor has really helped me with the college process and in general throughout my high school career," said Morgan Hoffmann, senior.

During this period the counselors still manage to accommodate the rest of the students with scheduling conflicts and course changes.

"At the beginning of the year, the guidance counselors helped me find easy ways around the school," said Allanah Dykes, freshman. "They gave me advice, study tips, and made sure I stayed on track."

The counselors worked vigorously all year to accommodate all students. It is clear that the guidance staff treats its work with great passion.

"Although it can get very stressful and intertwining, I find my job to be very rewarding," said Mrs. Melvis Garcia, counselor.

Guidance Counselor Ms. Plett helps Tommie Lewis, senior, finish his college applications.

Ms. Acunzo helps Courtney Bacchieri decide which English class to take next year.

Mr. Ramirez and his student, Gires St. Paul, discuss the best material for an upcoming in-class presentation.

In English class, students were always able to have a fun time while learning. Whether it was doing a project in Critics Choice, acting out Romeo and Juliet in 9th grade, making music videos in Film Studies, English teachers continuously incorporated fun into their curriculum.

For example, Film Studies is a senior elective English class that encourages students to study film in the same way literature is studied. They look at what society was like during the release of a film, as well as what was happening historically at the time.

"My belief is that film is an essential part of culture and films say as much about our society as written literature and other art forms," said Ms. Nell Kalter, Film Studies teacher. "Film can entertain, inform, teach and inspire, and should be studied and respected."

In a specific unit, Slasher Films, students looked at theory and criticism, scene analysis, genre study, and whether or not these films can be seen as examples of feminism or misogyny, which is the hatred of women. Overall, the class is about scrutiny and hard work, yet at the same time bringing out the enjoyment in films.

All of the senior electives, such as African-American Literature, Mythology, and Expanding the Canon of Poetry, allowed seniors to study a genre they enjoyed as an underclassman, but now more in-depth than the underclass curriculum allows.

"I really enjoyed the Poetry class," said Nina Saglioca, senior. "I hadn't really enjoyed poetry over the years, but now I have a new love for it."

Mr. Fishon is busy consulting with numerous students in the Journalism elective.

Ms. Cuzzo helps Jamari Lawrence find a synonym for a word to use in his poem.

Ms. Kalter begins viewing a horror film in her popular Film Studies senior elective.

Mrs. Rooney, in after-school extra help, answers questions her students have so they can get a firmer grasp on the material.

Mrs. Rosen grades her AP Calculus students' most recent practice exams.

Members of the Math department are seen wearing their jerseys, one of many days they dressed in themed clothes.

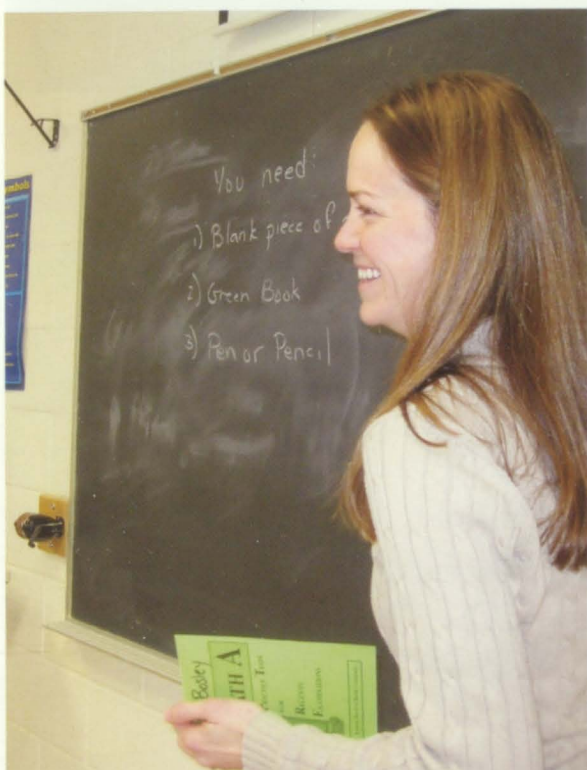

There have been many changes within the Math curriculum recently the biggest of which is the decision by the state to get rid of the Math A and Math B regents.

"I think the new modifications of the curriculum will help us and make math easier for those who are struggling," said Alicia McCormack, senior.

The current curriculum can be very stressful, and to keep things light, some of the Math teachers have certain days where they dress up. For example, "Football Jersey Day" and "Hawaiian Shirt Day."

"Something I look forward to seeing is when the Math teachers dress up," said Alyssa Leonard, junior. "I think it really shows their sense of humor."

Mrs. Mauri's class quietly takes notes from the overhead while hoping they will be able to understand the dreaded Math B curriculum.

Mrs. Bosley makes her students laugh while preparing for the upcoming Regents exam.

Mrs. Kaplar helps demonstrate to students the proper technique for dissecting squid.

A body is strewn haphazardly across the floor, blood stains splayed across the scene. Time of death? About three p.m.. Cause of death? Stabbing. Weapon? Missing. Suspect? Unknown.

These are the clues students had to work with during Forensic class. This intricate scene was just one of the many exciting Forensics labs that Bay Shore science students get to participate in.

"The Science department offers many electives to fulfill the science requirements," says Ms. Kami Ward.

Throughout a student's four years of high school they may learn about several topics of science, including Earth Science, Living Environment, Chemistry, Physics, Marine Biology and others.

With each science course, there are specific scientific experiments and labs to further ensure learning while grasping the attention of students. The Science department is run by Director Mrs. Donna Bettineli, who is determined to make each year of science a successful one with the help of each science teacher.

Mr. Morrison's students learn from a new perspective as he instructs them from the back of the classroom.

Mrs. Parker explains an intricate problem to Carling Rock, senior.

Social Studies

If you walked past a Social Studies classroom and saw students in suits arguing in front of a judge, you knew it was the annual Law Day.

"I think Law Day is the best idea the school has had for awhile," said Matt McCarthy, junior. "I like the idea that we can compete against our friends and see who the better arguer is."

Students sign up for one day of the year with their fellow classmates to make teams and compete against other teams in a wide variety of legal cases. The department brings in local attorneys to judge the cases and decide a verdict. Mrs. Marziliano, a former attorney, has been the coordinator of Law Day for many years.

"Law Day is our annual intramural mock trial competition," said Marziliano. "Each year over 100 students participate and lawyers from the Bay Shore community act as judges," said Marziliano. "The lawyers are always so impressed by the skills of our Bay Shore students."

Ranging from Law Seminar to African-American Studies to Psychology, the Social Studies department broadens students knowledge of history, government, and society.

"Even though Economics is a mandatory class, I'm glad we have such great teachers that show us how to make the best economic choices in the midst of this economic quagmire," said Nicole Weissert, senior. "The teachers teach us vital knowledge about the economy."

While teaching lessons of the past and still focusing on the present and our future, the Social Studies department educates its students in a positive way.

Mr. Sanesky spends a prep period inputting grades on a computer in the Social Studies office.

Ms. Doyle continues to be amazed by the insight her students offer into 11th grade U.S. History.

Mrs. Lipani teaches her World History class about the war erupting in Europe in the 1880s.

Mr. Cash shows his 12th grade Economics class the effect of a trickle down economy.

World Language and E.S.L.

During Multicultural Week, in room 101, visitors can smell the aroma of the freshly baked cookies, cakes, and coffee as if sitting in a café in Paris.

"Its like having France in your own classroom," said Megan O'Donovan, junior. "We put out all the foods and then served the administrators, teachers and students like we were actually in France."

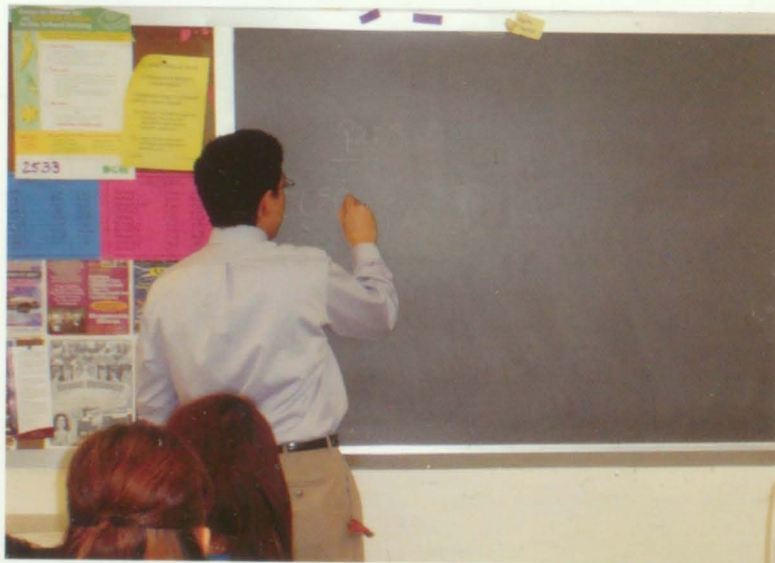

Multicultural Week is a tradition celebrated by the World Language Department. The event required an enormous amount of preparation from the students and faculty, such as creating beautiful scenery and putting up decorations in the classrooms.

"The students took advantage of the week to express themselves through poetry and drama in foreign languages such as French, Latin and Spanish," said Mrs. Warshaw, Spanish teacher.

Each day of the week there was a different and exciting way to celebrate Multicultural Week, such as a poster contest, formal dress contest and the French Café.

"Multicultural Week grew throughout the years while being enriched by students and faculty members through their cultural knowledge and experience," said Mrs. Marcela Pachon-Abbott, Spanish teacher.

Laughter, entertainment and fun filled the day of those attending the annual Bay Shore and Brightwaters Arts Festival. The students musically involved at Bay Shore High School played for the many people who came to enjoy the festival.

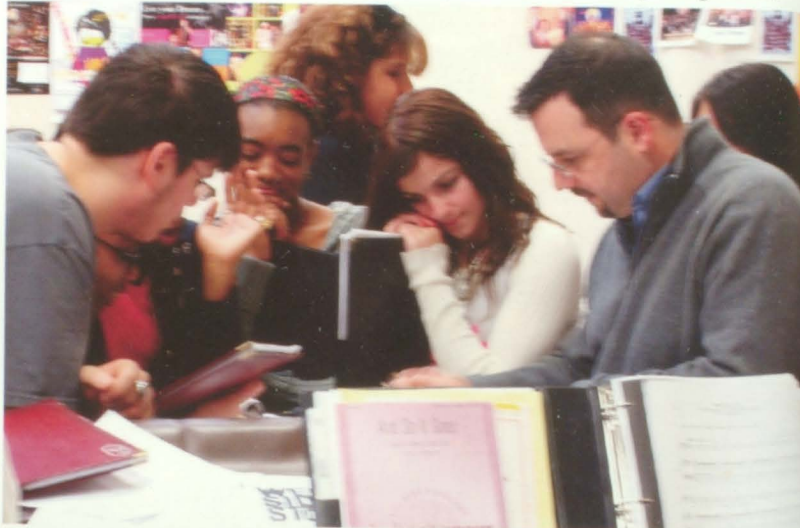

Every May at the Festival, the choir, band and orchestra play under the gazebo, drawing people in with the amazing tunes. Along with the many entertainment booths down Main Street, the music brought a lot of interest and pleasure.

"The festival is really fun," said Brenda Estrada, sophomore. "I go every year."

Bay Shore received musical recognition with its selection by the Grammy Foundation as a Grammy Signature school for Cultural Arts. This prestigious award exemplifies the dedication of the students and staff that succeed everyday within the Music Department.

"It is cool how our school won an award for music" said Amanda Coyne, sophomore.

New to the Art

Department this year was the Photography elective.

"It has been a very popular elective," said head of the Cultural Arts Department, Mr. Terry Negrelli.

The class, taught by Ms. Laura Moakley, educated the students about composing, editing, and appreciating photographs.

"Photography shows students how to look at life through a different lens," said Moakley.

In the class, students learned how to edit their own photographs using programs like Photoshop, while also getting the chance to enter photography contests. Some of the students' finished work was hung in the Art hallway for everyone to see.

The Art Department helped bring out the creativity of the students. Having shows and field trips opened up the minds of the students to a whole new world of art.

"Now I see everything in a different perspective because of the way I was taught in Photography and just being involved in the Art Department," said Catherine Brooke, senior.

Health

Towards the end of the second and fourth marking periods, it was common to bump into large poster boards students were carrying through the hallways, especially if you were walking by the health classrooms. This was because, at the end of each semester, Health projects are due. Many students agreed that this is the best part of Health class.

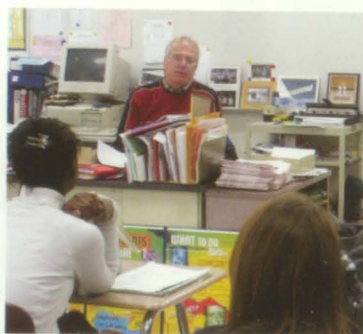

"Students look forward to the projects," said Mr. Geoffrey Broadhurst, Health teacher. "It gives them a chance to show a health issue they believe others should be aware of."

The final project requires students to bring in a visual and prepare a ten minute oral presentation on the topic of their choice. Some of the most popular topics were drug and alcohol abuse, cancer, and eating disorders.

"The projects help to spark interest in the student's topic," said Mr. Borbet, Health teacher. "It's nice to see that they want to know about different consequences that can come about from their actions."

The addition of a versatile new gymnasium gave Bay Shore students multiple opportunities to try new Physical Education electives. With a variety of classes available for students, ranging from Dance to Project Adventure, students developed a new interest in physical education.

"We are fortunate to have such an honorable complex to use," said Mr. Timothy Cox, gym teacher. "We have every piece of equipment known to man."

Self Defense, taught by Mr. Richard Damore, is a class designed to help students learn and practice defensive moves.

"This is a great class to teach kids about defending themselves from any type of attack," said Damore. "Kids should definitely be taught self defense."

Stephen Borbet

Mr. Stephen Borbet is retiring after a very triumphant 29 years at Bay Shore High School. After a full day of teaching Health classes, Mr. Borbet would spend hours in the afternoon coaching track. Having coached 108 consecutive track seasons, many of which were championship seasons, Mr. Borbet is happy to say that he will stay on as the girl's track coach.

Having more free time on his hands, Mr. Borbet is planning on visiting his family and traveling to Ireland and Alaska. To sum up his career, Mr. Borbet left us with these words: "I wouldn't trade any of this for the world and if I could do it all again, I would."

Ursula Limpert

After 23 years, Mrs. Ursula Limpert's love of her career has never faltered. "I had wanted to be a school librarian because it combined three things I loved: teaching students, promoting reading, and working with new technology," said Mrs. Limpert.

As a high school librarian, Mrs. Limpert has enjoyed watching the changes at Bay Shore High School mirror the changes of the world. The evolution of technology has greatly affected her students' daily learning.

Never losing the same excitement she felt her first year, Mrs. Limpert is happy to let time reveal the many possibilities that are in store for her.

Louise Rossen

After two decades of teaching Mathematics, Mrs. Louise Rossen has decided to retire. Mrs. Rossen has seen it all happen, from changes within the staff and administration to the beautiful building Bay Shore High School has transformed into.

Mrs. Rossen has enjoyed being a part of the Math department and has made many lifelong friends. "I will miss the camaraderie of the Math department the most," she said.

Mrs. Rossen has stacked up a high pile of memories that she will take with her when she leaves. "I will never forget the day I got the perfect parking spot."

Charles Kavanagh

Having been a Math teacher for just over twenty years, Mr. Charles Kavanagh decided to retire, with plans to devote his time traveling throughout the Southwest.

Mr. Kavanagh has been a Math teacher, a Science teacher, and the advisor to the Award-winning Robotics Club, fostering hard work and dedication from the club members.

"I will never forget my first year teaching- all of the endless paperwork and how there was never enough time," said Mr. Kavanagh.

He has enjoyed being part of the wonderful faculty and students.

"I will miss so many things about Bay Shore, but most of all, I will miss the boundless energy of all the students," summed up Mr. Kavanagh.

Retirees

Eric Lundgren

Whether it was teaching numerous classes or disciplining in the Dean's Office, Mr. Eric Lundgren retired after being a part of Bay Shore Schools for 32 years. The students at Bay Shore have kept him young and on his toes. Mr. Lundgren is looking forward to lots of surfing and lots of traveling, including a trip to Europe.

Both students and staff were wonderful to be around, which was what made him love his career and is something he will miss about Bay Shore. Likewise, students and staff are truly going to miss this incredible teacher and dean. "I wish my own children could have gone to Bay Shore!" Mr. Lundgren said.

Joanne Kent-Palumbo

After two decades of hard work and dedication, we are sad to see Mrs. Joanne Kent-Palumbo retire from Bay Shore High School. Starting as the school nurse, then proceeding to be a full time health teacher, Mrs. Kent-Palumbo has been a childbirth educator for students and developed the Teens Against Tobacco Use (T.A.T.U.) program.

Mrs. Kent-Palumbo is not planning on stopping her bust life though. In the future, she plans to do volunteer work with the American Cancer Society. Thinking back to her many years in Bay Shore, Mrs. Kent-Palumbo said, "it was a great job and a great way to earn a paycheck!"

Barbara Brown

With almost three decades at Bay Shore High School, Mrs. Barbara Brown has had many busy days. Her daily routine consisted mostly of data entry, processing college and NCAA applications, and grade changes.

In the future, Mrs. Brown plans on traveling and visiting friends around the world, taking a writing class, and volunteering at St. Katherine's Hospital.

Mrs. Brown has had a very successful life and reflected back on her years at Bay Shore: "Here in the Guidance Department, I've met many good friends along the way. It feels as if we're more like a family than anything."

We will miss you.

Football

With a great sense of school pride and determination, the boys of the varsity football team worked hard to not disappoint; they did not let their peers down.

These 44 players worked hard every practice and every game to become student athletes of high character who represented Bay Shore proudly. All of that hard work paid off when the boys won their first Homecoming game in over 10 years.

"This year we had a large senior class that we called upon to be great in '08," said Assistant Coach David Mayo. "That is exactly what we got."

Other than the big Homecoming win, an impressive victory at a Division II cross over game serves as a great introduction to the season they will have next year, since they will be moving into that Division.

"It was great being on the team, winning Homecoming and the Senior Day game for the first time in many years," said Rob Stark, senior.

"It's something I will carry with me for the rest of my life,"

There were more kids participating than ever, each one with his own spirit and drive for success. The boys were winners both on and off the field, putting their all into the games and their into volunteering fundraisers, such as the Judy Shesh Run.

"Our record wasn't as successful as we wanted it to be, but this class has created the foundation for this program to be a force in Suffolk County Football," said head Coach Jim Giatino.

This season was just the beginning for the team. With a new division next season, hopes of continually growing as a program and making playoffs linger in the minds of all the players.

"I'm sad that this is my last year playing with a team of great players," said Alex Quinn, senior captain. "But I definitely had fun for every second of it."

Field Hockey

Julia Loehle, senior captain, stops her opponent from advancing down the field.

With nine graduates gone, the returning Varsity Field Hockey team of 24 started its season with an already great chemistry from its experience playing together.

Coach Mary Drago took into consideration the difficulty that would be in store for the players and started ahead of the season in the Suffolk County Field Hockey Summer League.

"Summer League was great because it was a chance for us all to get ready for the season, but still have fun without all the pressure of a real game," said Julianne Green, senior.

Having their work cut out for them, the girls knew that being on the same page is what would matter the most.

"Everyone clicked really well. I had no doubt that every girl would put the team before her own personal wants," said Drago. "And that's something I want them to walk away with."

Unlike previous seasons, the team became much more competitive and serious about achieving goals. The players broke the ongoing curse of not passing the second round of playoffs by defying expectations and making it into Suffolk County's Final Four

"This year it wasn't about 'I', it was about 'we.'" said Rose McCallister, senior.

Senior captain Rob Vietri separates himself from the pack and attempts to set a new record at Sunken Meadow.

Senior captain Sebastian Navas runs through his fatigue to take first place in the the meet.

"Unified," replied head coach Kurt Langer when asked to describe the 2008 boys Cross Country team. He added, "This team worked together to achieve the success that they enjoyed."

The boys worked hard everyday after school from 2:15 until 5 o'clock. They mixed long runs with quicker, shorter ones. These different exercises helped them to achieve both speed and endurance.

Led by senior team captains Rob Vietri, Sebastian Navas, and Brandon Blanchard, the Marauders dominated League III once again. The boys ran their home meets at Sunken Meadow State Park, a course with a reputation for being extremely difficult. The team came into the 2008 season as somewhat of an underdog, having lost key runners from last year.

"Our league rivals thought we weren't as strong as we really were," said Navas. "So when we first raced a few league teams we caught them off guard and showed them we were the league's powerhouse."

Although the team as a whole did not make it to the county tournament, captains Navas and Vietri both qualified for the county tournament individually.

"We had a good run this year with a young team and, hopefully in the future, the team will go to places no one would ever expect us to go," said Vietri.

With only four seniors leaving in 2009, the Marauder boys cross country team should continue to grow even stronger.

"Hopefully next year when we are in college and come back and visit, we can talk to athletes on the cross country team telling us how awesome it was when they made it to the state championships," said Blanchard.

Girls Cross Country

Another successful season came from the hard working Girls Cross Country team. The girls were led by Co-Captains Stephanie Barnes, Olivia Civardi, and Kim Moran, seniors, who helped their team win at the County Championship. Barnes and Moran both finished in the Top Ten in the County.

"We lost to Northport early in the season at Sunken Meadow, which cost us the league title," said Barnes. "However, it forced us to work really hard and, in the end, we were able to prevail at the County Championship."

After winning Counties, the Lady Marauders were then faced with a bigger challenge: States. Luckily, States was held at Sunken Meadow, a challenging course the girls were used to.

"Going into States, we were confident coming off a great showing at Counties," said Moran. "Getting to run at Sunken Meadow during States gave us an edge over the other runners."

The team finished 2nd in the League, 1st at the County meet, and 3rd at the State meet. Moran won Suffolk County Runner of the Year. The girls worked hard to achieve this success. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon it wasn't rare to see a pack of girls running the streets of Bay Shore.

"I was very proud of the girls this year and how they overcame many obstacles," said Mr. Steve Borbet, head coach.

"They were able to overcome a loss early in the season then end up coming in 3rd at States."

The Marauders had a lot of underclassmen who were able to step up for the team and were a main part of their successful season. The members were able to run their best when it meant the most and they were able to cross the finish line in record time.

"Hardwork, determination, motivation, and fun" were the four words Dimas Escobar, senior, used to describe the 2008 Boys Varsity Soccer team. "We were more than just a team, we were a family."

"This was one of the best teams I have ever coached, not only from a talent perspective, but from a character perspective," said Head Coach Jon Nelson. "Making it into the playoffs this year was a drastic change for everyone on the team."

The team was tighter than ever before and possessed a confident attitude, which helped to carry them far into the playoffs. Everyone loved to play and worked hard to go far into the playoffs.

"This season was an experience that we'll never forget," added Nelson. "Not only because we had success on the field, but also because we had so much fun along the way."

The team had an unprecedented season this year, winning a second consecutive league title, ranking 14th in the state and 2nd in the county. They made it to the Suffolk County semi-finals and lost to the number one team in the nation.

"We have great chemistry, no matter who is on the pitch; we know how to play with each other and get the win," said Escobar. "Before every game we play locker room soccer, which helps us get ready for the game."

Ask anyone on the Girls Varsity Soccer team and they will likely say that the game which best defines their season was the night game against Walt Whitman High School. The girls went head to head with Whitman until the very end, when senior and captain Brittany Silipo scored the winning goal in overtime.

"It was a cold and rainy evening that turned into a joyous one for the Lady Marauders," said Coach Joe Flick. "It was unbelievable how well the girls played and how they never gave up."

The girls Varsity Soccer team's season consisted of a total of fifteen games played and vigorous two hour practices, six days a week. In that time they built a lasting bond that helped them not only remain a strong team on the field, but off the field as well.

The team ranked 5th place within their league. In addition, several members were honored with individual awards: Jessica Cohen was named Academic All-County, Gabi Wiegand was named All-Conference, Silipo was named All-County, and Stephanie DiLegge was named All State Goalie and the team's Most Valuable Player.

Boys Volleyball

Starting from scratch just four years ago, the Boys Varsity Volleyball team came together to bring back old traditions while focusing on their bright future.

First year coach Andres Borrromeo saw the opportunity he had in front of him and took full control.

"I was able to put my philosophy of coaching into effect. I was ready for the challenge", said Borrromeo, a paraprofessional in the district.

Having to fill the shoes of seven graduated starters, the 14 boys knew they had to step it up.

The boys showed off their pride for Bay Shore and their love for volleyball everyday and at school events such as "DigPink."

"Dig Pink was a fun project that the girls volleyball team set up to raise awareness and receive donations for breast cancer," said Billy Cunningham, junior.

The Marauders practiced six days a week, not leaving the gym until all team and personal goals were achieved for the day. With such dedication, they were a force to be reckoned with.

Senior Matt Goldberg summed up his final season with this thought: "Our hits make your heart rate spike!"

"Don't try, do!" exclaimed Coach Anastasia DeBonis at practice. DeBonis, along with captians Alyssa Leonard and Nicole Weissert, led the girls Varsity Volleyball team through an unbelievable season and, with tremendous efforts, they had a memorable outcome.

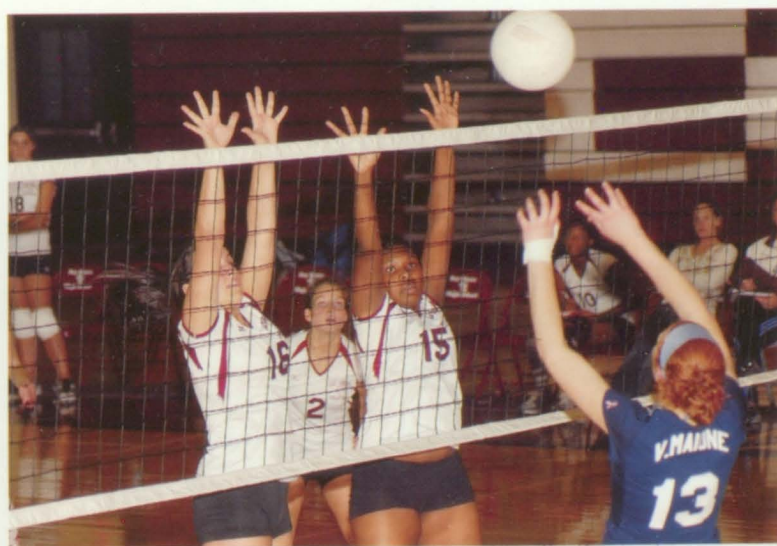

Playing a sport that only functions properly with absolute cooperation and precision, thorough practices helped the girls train for matches.

"We definitely had a great sense of chemistry," said Juliet Meltsner, senior. "That's what helped us compete on a higher level."

Their efforts and a combination of school spirit carried them along the season in every win and loss. DeBonis made it clear to her players that winning was not the primary goal; their effort was what mattered.

"It's not about winning, it's about being supportive and willing to play," said DeBonis.

This mentality is what allowed the team to achieve endless goals while carrying them into their playoffs.

The Varsity Swimming and Diving Team concluded its season with exceeded expectations. This year the girls went to the Suffolk County Championship breaking numerous schools records.

"Good Job, Girls. Job well done," Coach Mariusz Borkowski told his team. "You swam away with 5-4 record and placed 3rd in League I."

With hard work and sweat, the girls gave it their all at practices. This dedication was reflected at their meets.

"Some practices were really tough," said captain Alexa DeLyra, senior. "But in the end, it all paid off."

The team strived to reach their own personal goals while helping each other reach theirs. With their precise aim and finesse, these girls swam their way to victory.

"In the end, win or lose, we will always still be a team," said DeLyra.

Seniors, Morgan Hoffman, Alexa DeLyra, and Kyle Luqman get together before their big swim meet.

The varsity girls intensely watch the match while cheering on their fellow teammates, waiting patiently for their turn.

Sarah McLoughlin, sophomore, gracefully puts a winner shot down the alley.

Senior Jenny McCormack inhaled deeply as she gripped her racket and prepared to serve. Her breath came out in a rush as the ball flew over the net, and then she rejoiced at gaining the advantage.

The Girls Varsity Tennis team, coached by Jackie Fitzharris, was more than a team, they were a family.

"This year we were closer than ever, and I really think that helped a lot," said Sarah McLoughlin, sophomore.

Starting off the year with new goals and a new perspective, the team as a unit had a triumphant season, along with many successful individuals. Senior captains Brittney Sanders and Grace Wood made it to their semi-finals as a doubles team.

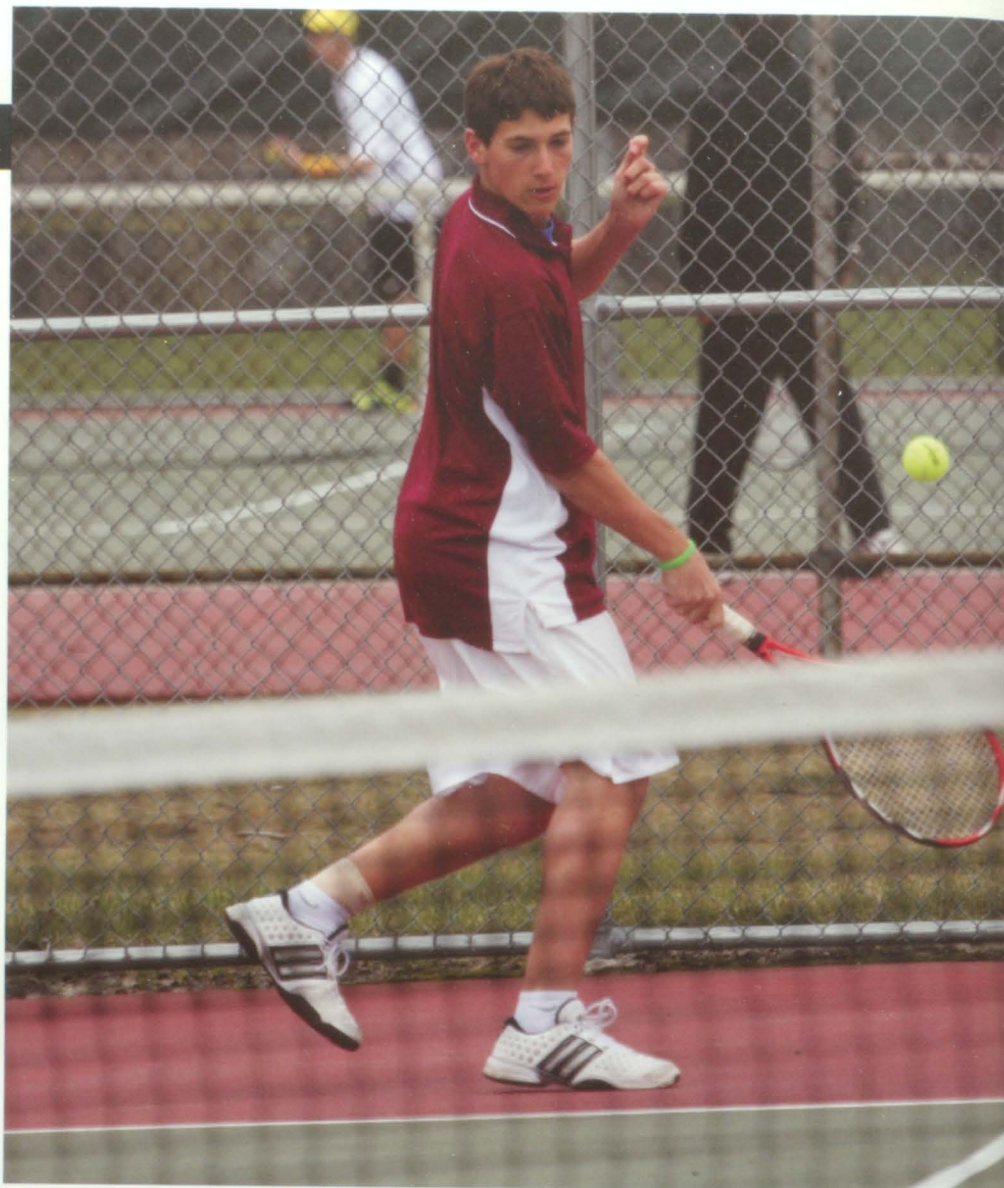

"We had more talent than ever," said Sanders, who was awarded MVP of the team. "The younger girls really stepped it up."

With most of the girls on the team graduating in the spring, this came as a relief.

Sophomore Cassie Davidson agreed that the team had seemed closer than past years: "I tried to make it further in conferences, said Davidson, "And I was able to because of the help from my team."

The girls finished off their season with the satisfaction of a job well done and a friendship that will last a lifetime.

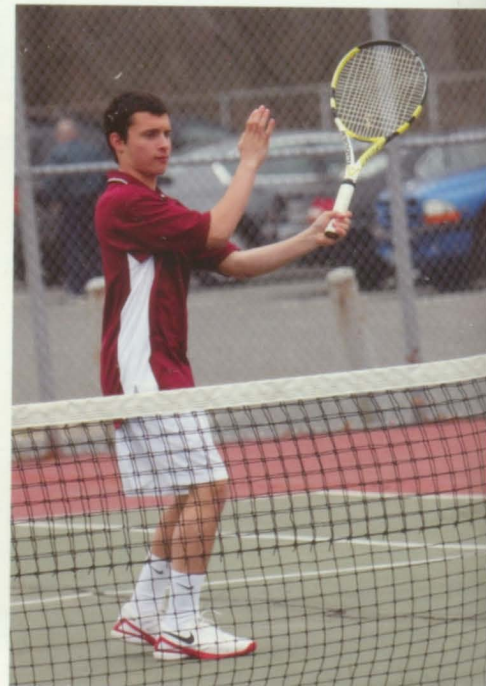

Andrew Cohen swiftly saves the ball to win the match.

"Out of my 11 years of coaching, this was the most competitive team I've ever had," said Mr. John Carney, coach and Business teacher.

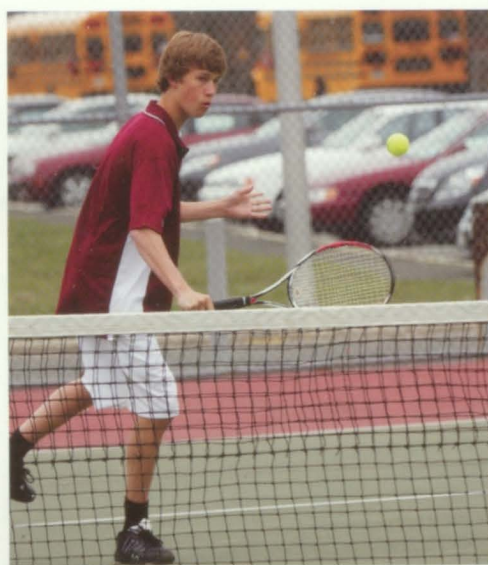

This year's team was more competitive because the key players from last year returned with improved skills, due to the off-season hard work from each player.

"During the off season, many of us played at Deer Park, Southward Ho, or took private lessons," said David Melstner, senior and co-captain. "This really helped us prepare for the season."

The primary goal of the season was to play solid tennis while having fun.

"Everyday we tried to have fun on the courts, but when the time came to be serious and hone our skills, we never let each other or Coach Carney down," said Matthew Racanelli, sophomore.

Schulyer Hayward, senior, gently places a dropshot over the net.

Wrestling

Last year, the wrestling team was heartbroken after it lost a match at the WT Clarke tournament. Clarke was able to beat Bay Shore easily, but this year, the Marauders were able to turn the tables upside down, and they crushed the rival team.

"We were able to beat Clarke because we improved greatly from last year," said Dick Rosener, head coach.

Under the leadership of Rosener, the wrestling team had a very successful turn-out, ending the season with four wins.

The team nearly tripled its league winners from three wrestlers last year to eight this year.

"In the off season we did the right things," said Rosener, "such as lift weights and attend wrestling camps."

With the hopes of more victories, the wrestlers welcomed the increased work.

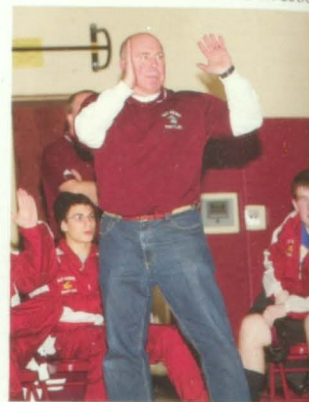

"I have been wrestling for a long time," said Christopher Young, junior.

"I like the hard work and I love the competition."

The team believes that its recent success is only the beginning for Bay Shore Wrestling.

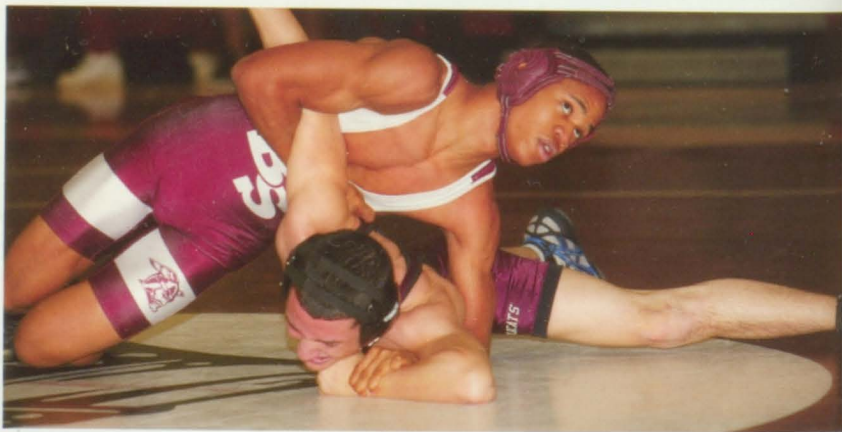

"We could be contenders for a league championship next year," said Rosener.

Girls Winter Track

The girls Winter Track team pushed themselves everyday to attain a ninth consecutive Suffolk County Championship.

Day after day, the girls began their workouts and did not stop until they had run about five miles. Although the team already met six days a week, many of these dedicated girls took it upon themselves to train on Sundays as well.

"Our workouts are on the track and always different and always hard," said Olivia Civardi, senior captain.

The girls finished the season ranked 1st in the league, county, and Newsday's Top 10. The 4x800 and 4xmile relay teams were also nationally ranked.

"We do not get enough credit, considering the numerous titles and medals we bring home," added Civardi.

"There are so many memories that I will carry with me, from tears in ridiculously hard workouts to laughs at States and Nationals."

The 2008-2009 girls winter track season ended with great accomplishments and high expectations for years to come.

Brittney Silipo, senior, dominates the 55m hurdles, blowing away all competition.

Stephanie Barnes, senior, triple jumps, hoping to break a Suffolk County record.

The boys winter track team has gained notoriety across Long Island. By the end of its successful season, the team had made it all the way to the Section XI Team Championships, as well as the League II Championships. The team surpassed its opponents with strength, cooperation and perseverance, led by their captains, Jake Agosto, Brandon Blanchard, Ed Brown and Rob Vietri.

"What comes to my mind is how we were devastated by injuries and illnesses all season long," said Head Coach Kurt Langer. "But when it came to the team championships, everyone pulled together."

Brandon Hutchinson, junior, went to the New York State Championship for the triple jump and Rob Vietri went for the 1000 meter run. Ed Brown, senior captain, qualified for nationals for the shot put. The team take 5th place at the Section XI team championships.

"Overall we had a good season," said Vietri, senior and co-captain. "A lot of the freshmen stepped up and I feel like we're leaving the team in good hands."

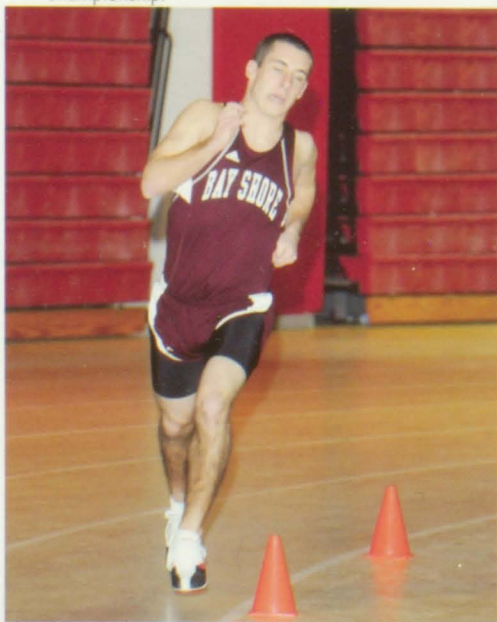

This was a year when freshmen truly excelled, with Kadesh Roberts being ranked the top-ranked freshman for long jump.

"Our team has a bright future ahead of it," added Vietri. "We surpassed our opponents with strength, cooperation and perseverance."

The team showed cooperation and was fully dedicated to their sport. The boys used their determination to win, achieved all their goals, and ended with a season full of memories.

Robert Vietri, senior captain, finishes his race with a strong kick allowing him to qualify for the New York State Championship.

Isaiah Millington, senior, leaves his opponents behind, as he finishes his race with ease.

The crowds were cheering in Bay Shore's gymnasium. With only ten seconds left on the clock, time ticking away rapidly, number 12, Barry Ingram, senior, jumped high in the air reaching for the basket, making the shot, and winning the game for his team.

The Boys Basketball Varsity team, coached by Mr. Kenny Parham and assistant coach Mr. Aaron Johnson, a social studies teacher, was a strong team that was built by providing the players with drills and activities to keep them practicing hard.

"It helps them improve their weakness in all differing areas," said Mr. Johnson.

They trained for hours at a time to help become stronger, which in turn gave them the opportunity to win more games.

"We were well prepared this year," said Mike Racanalli, senior. "The coach would have it no other way."

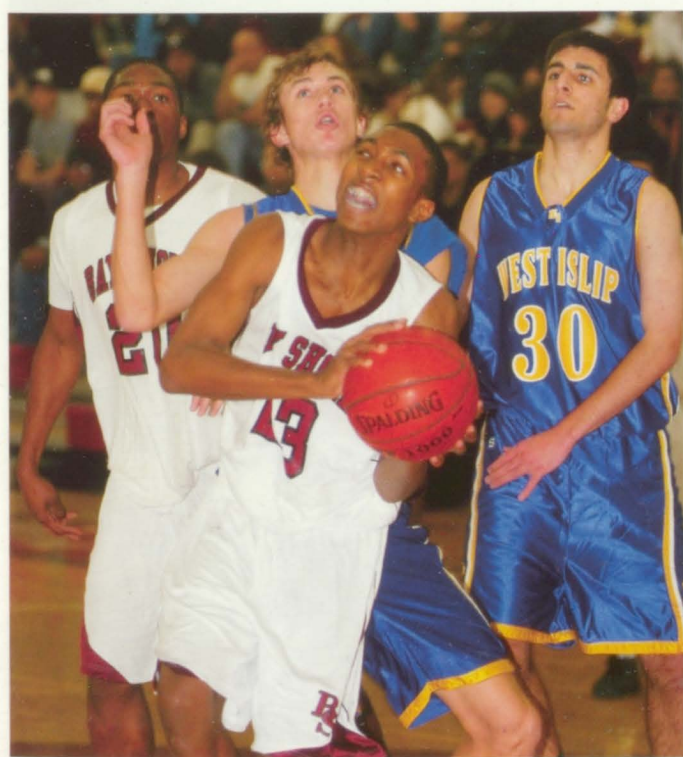

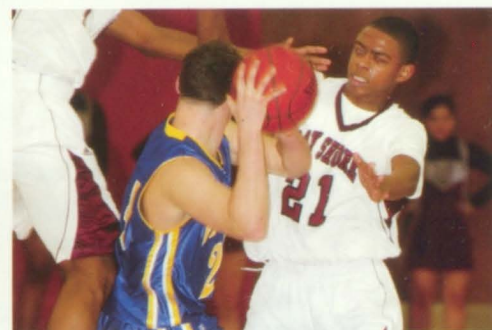

With support from fans, family and friends, and valuable tactics from the coaches, victory was sure to come.

"We had the opportunity to win it all," Ingram.

Despite losing the county semi-finals, the team members consider this a successful season where they saw significant improvement.

The girls varsity basketball team worked extremely hard this season. Led by captains Najjia Bangs and Ebonique Williams, juniors, and Ashley Oracwski, senior, the girls improved tremendously this season as a team as well as individually. Throughout the season the team grew closer together while creating friendships.

"It's not always about wins and losses, but the relationships that were built," said Oracewski.

Considered a re-building season, the coaches watched as their team improved daily. Losses were used as teaching opportunities.

"This year wasn't really about the wins and losses, but the learning experience and getting better for next season," said Taylor Lombardo, sophomore.

With ample support from their coaches, the players were able to excel in areas otherwise impossible.

"These were a fun group of girls to work with" said head coach Leslie Danowski.

The boys Bay Shore baseball team was coached by Dennis McManoa and assisted by Mike Herbst. The coaches trained the team hard for its games with determination to win them all. Coach McManoa's four years of experience has led the baseball team to three winnings.

"Baseball gives me a chance to be with friends, learn leadership and learn how to win," says Jonathan Smith, sophomore.

The team's goal was to become the best by practicing hard and always staying focused.

"The most important aspect of baseball are fundamentals such as hitting, throwing and catching," said McManoa.

The players had plenty of experience and were ready for what was sure to come. In the end, it was clear that training had paid off with in the success of their season. Everyday practices gave the team confidence they needed to make them more competitive.

"Practice helps us with our fundamental skills which allows us to be one of the powerhouse teams on Long Island," said John Soldinger, senior.

"Choices. Challenges. Championships." is the Bay Shore Softball team's motto. These three words motivate the girls to thrive and hit the diamond ready to conquer.

"The team is highly coachable and has a true desire to succeed," said Coach Jim McGowan, school social worker.

In 27 years, the softball team has reached an outstanding goal of 600 wins, an accomplishment that has labeled them the high school team with the most wins in New York State history.

The team is chockful of talented players who give their all for the sport they enjoy.

"With the addition of our new teammates and input of the upper-classmen, we will have an awarding season," said Nicolette Surkes, senior. "This 2009 team is very special. It's like our second family."

Players have won titles such as All County and All State, while the League II Pitcher of the Year came from the Lady Marauder's bullpen.

Brandon Hutchinson, junior, jumps over the bar for first place in the high jump event.

The Boys Track team kicked off to a good start, with the team winning its first dual meet of the year. The Marauders were led by All-County athletes Rob Vietri, senior, Brandon Hutchinson, junior, and Ed Brown, senior. The sprinting core was led by junior Zenel Hudson, junior, who returned to track after having knee surgery last year. These athletes racked up major points for the boys throughout the season.

"I have worked so hard to make it as far as I have and I hoped to have another outstanding season with the team, because after this it is all over for me," said Robert Vietri, senior captain.

This year, the boys were very team oriented, having the goal of winning the League II title and also competing for the Suffolk County title.

"With hard work and perseverance, we will succeed in anything that we do," said Edward Brown, senior captain.

Compensating for the loss of vital athletes from last year, the team recruited many younger runners.

"I am happy to say we have a large group of freshmen out for the squad, which bodes well for the future," said coach Kurt Langer.

This season, the girls track team expected victory and did not stand for anything less. The girls spring track team was coached by Stephen Borbet and assistant coaches Lori Indemaio, Suzy Allen, and shot put coach Mr. Anthony Forti. With 36 years of experience, Borbet has led the girls through several championship competitions.

The spring track season is made up of a variety of events, such as sprint, mid distance, and long distance. Sprinting events consist of the 100, 200, and 400 meter runs. Mid distance events consist of the 800 and 1500 meter race and the long distance event is the 3000 meter race. Some field events are the long jump, triple jump, high jump, pole vault, shot put, discus, race walks, and weight events. All events took time and effort to gain the skills needed to be the best of the best that have always represented Bay Shore.

"Track not only keeps me in shape, but it helps me to learn and prosper in life," said Stephanie Barnes, senior.

The team had many new faces that were determined to do their best too. As defending champions, Borbet stated that one of the goals of the team was to defend their title at Suffolk. Another goal he set for the team was to win Leagues and enjoy life while doing so.

"Track is something I've really grown to love and I plan to do it for the rest of my life," said Darleen Eierman, junior.

Although track is time consuming, the girls had to be sure to also work hard on their own. "The most important aspects of track are for people to have a good work ethic, budget their time and look to improve," said Borbet.

With a full season, countless opportunities and victory awaiting them, the girls surged forward.

Tate Gordon, senior and team manager, recorded the team's times and personal bests.

When a team dominates year after year, expectations are high before the season even begins. Ms. Allison Pfeffer, head coach and physical education teacher, along with the players, wanted to keep the winning tradition alive.

"The strength of the team this year was the six seniors on the team, our two goal tenders, and our four mid-fielders," said Pfeffer. "All of these players helped the team to play strong."

Among her many goals Coach Pfeffer wanted the girls lacrosse team to be a NYS Scholar-Athlete Team, division champs, and place in the Final Four in Suffolk County.

"The ultimate measure for the team is making it to states; it shows how hard we worked all season," said Alexa deLyra, senior captain.

Pfeffer also wanted the girls to become close friends and compete to their very best ability. The biggest challenges the team had to face this year were Ward Melville, Northport, and West Islip.

"This year, we had a mixture of experienced players and newcomers, who all wanted to do really well," said Gabi Weigand, senior captain.

"It is always a pleasure to work with such talented, hard working young women," said Pfeffer.

The Varsity Eight rows out very gracefully before their race

The JV Eight carries their boat back to the racks after another victory.

When discussing his expectations of the team, Coach Bill Blackman, physical education teacher, said, "I'm hoping for the boy's senior eight, JV eight and novice four crews to have a successful season."

With the addition of two girl coxswains, Michelle Traynor, senior, and Olivia Liu, junior, the boys' boats had weight lift. A coxswain sits in the back of the boat and controls where it goes.

"Having a girl coxswain is great for the boat because it's a lot less weight to pull in a race," said Alex Quinn, senior captain.

Practicing on the Connetquot River at Dowling College, the boys began with both a warm-up run and a row before beginning a hard day's work. Throughout practice, they focused on blade work, slide control and stroke technique as well as sprint and distance workouts. They took the competition by storm in big regattas such as Newburg, Greenwich, Saratoga and Oyster Bay. Since they are one of the only public schools on Long Island with a crew team, these boys really had to focus.

Ending the season with a close team and an impressive record, the boys crew team outdid itself.

John Lawlor, senior captain, summed up the season by saying, "It was a long road, but in the end, we all came together as a team and did our thing!"

"You have to give it 110% to win," said Coach Bruce Meirowitz. "My women have calluses on their hands; they are the women of the new millennium!"

With practice primarily located at Dowling College, the girls rowed intensely to prepare for their races. Five days a week, the girls used the ergometer to build stronger cardio during interval training while focusing and working together. By pushing each other to new heights, they became an extremely close knit team. The girls worked diligently both on and off the water to achieve their goals.

Last year, the girls varsity four boat was ranked fourth in

New York State and, as a team, were ranked second in the New York Scholastic Championships.

"With more returning seniors than previous years, the team was stronger, faster, and more agile on the water," said senior Morgan Hoffman.

The girls crew team prepared all season long in order to medal at the New York Scholastic Championships in hopes of making into nationals.

"We won't get this opportunity again, so we have to keep working hard to be able to fulfill our aspirations to place at States," said Jill Ferraro, senior.

Coach Bruce Meirowitz wishes Kristen Costigan, junior, good luck before she and her boat take off.

Boys Bowling

Strike! This year the boys bowling team was led by Chris Iraggi, senior, and coached by Anthony Cantore, elementary school teacher. The team practiced at the local Bay Shore Lanes and ended their season with a record of 11 wins and 3 losses.

"The team is a great experience and I recommend anyone who likes bowling to try it," said Martin Curley, Senior.

Vincent Bisogno, Martin Curley, Christopher Iraggi, David Rodriguez, Erik Seiferth, Wyce Rashaad, Brian Tierney, Angel Rodriguez, Coach Anthony Cantore

The team's motto was "Get better every time out, dont regress," which pushed them to always give their best.

The highlight of the season was when the team played Deer Park, crushing them 29 to 4.

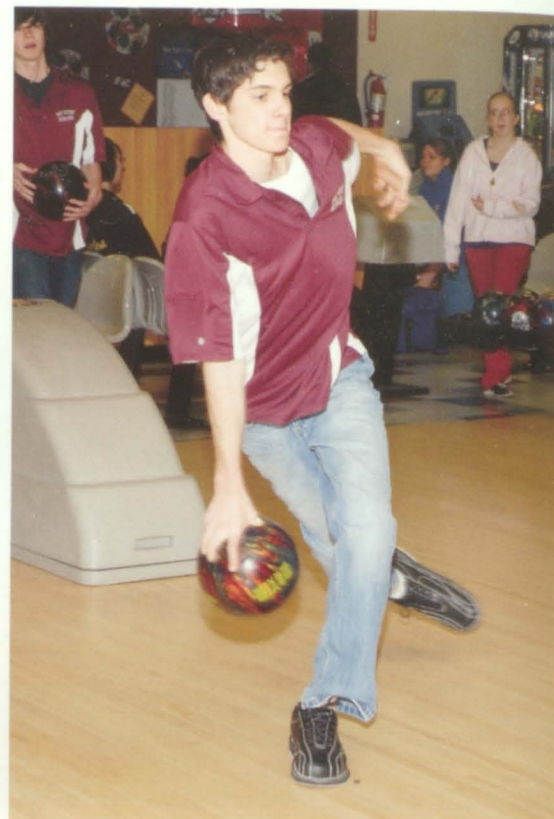

As a whole they felt their hard work and devotion paid off as they ranked 3rd in the league.

"I felt this season was the start of something good," said Cantore

Brian Tierney lines up the perfect shot to continue his quest for a perfect 300.

Eric Seiferth, Senior, shows his form as he tries for the spare.

Girls Bowling

Jackie Massoni, Senior, focuses on her target to bowl a strike.

Imagine bowling a softball down a bowling lane. Well, that's exactly what the girls bowling team would frequently do to perfect their precisicon. Monday through Friday from three to five, the girls bowling team worked hard at Bay Shore Bowl, improving their game with every practice, which consisted of focusing and aiming drills.

"Their willingness to improve, competitiveness, and hardwork really made these girls shine," said Ms. Lee Anne Abbriano, coach and gym teacher.

Some of the top bowlers on the team were seniors Nikki Surkes, Aja Johnson, and team captain, Jackie Massoni.

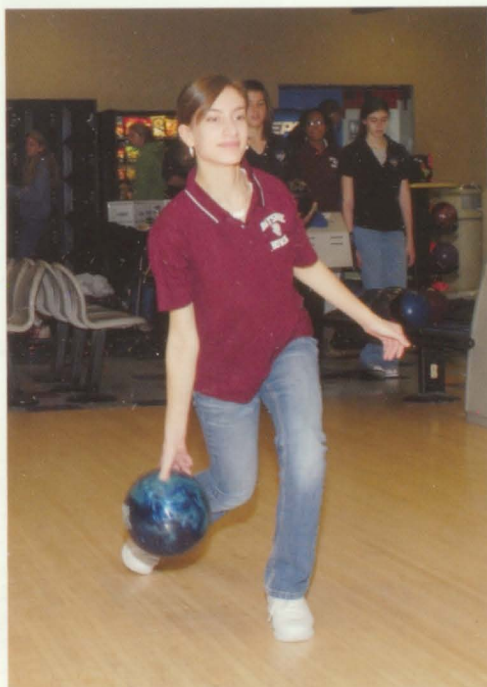

"We're so proud of what we accomplished," said Massoni. "We're a tight group of girls and we bowled really well."

The team consisted of fourteen hardworking girls who, by the end of the season, improved their individual averages by over twenty pins.

"The whole team was willing to learn and improve their game," said Ms. Abbriano.

The boys Varsity Golf team drove their way to victory this year. Led by first year coach Chris Cascio, the team managed to have one of the most successful seasons in its history.

"I knew we would be amazing this year, but I didn't think we would have dominated the conference like we did," said Michael Baker, senior.

The team tied for second in their division during the regular season. Their amazing efforts qualified six players for County playoffs in May.

"This years team had great chemistry," said Coach Cascio.

One of their most important achievements occurred when the team beat all the other teams in their division at the Molloy Cup, taking 1st place.

All these achievements were not made without hard work. The team practiced every day after school at the Hamlet Wind Watch Golf and Country Club in Hauppauge, where they would work on full swing work and their short game. To prepare for matches, they would play different stroke contests on the golf course.

"From lacrosse to soccer to track and every other sport that I've played, golf will always be the hardest, most technical and mentally challenging game that I play," said Matt Stickney, senior.

Girls Golf

Cheerleading

The cheerleading team entered the season with one goal on its mind: to improve and rebuild the entire program from the ground up. With the help of a new coach, Dejesus Missale, as well as upperclass leadership, the girls had an outstanding turnout.

"The girls came out with more potential than I originally thought," said Mr. Missale.

The team found many ways to stay active within the community. For example, they volunteered at the Breast Cancer Walk, the Thanksgiving Food Drive and Adopt-A-Family. It was events such as these that helped the team become more like a family.

"What I can do by myself is nothing compared to what we can do as a team," said Francesca Fabio, junior.

In the future Coach Missale would like to compete in more competitions including the UCA Regionals.

"I am going to miss the team, but I am really excited to see the improvement next year," said Kailee Han, senior captain.

Kailee Han, senior captain, begins to trust fall into her fellow cheerleaders' arms.

Alexa Leggio, junior, cradles confidently after the bases launch her into mid air.

Gymnastics

This was the gymnastic's second year as a varsity team and its first time in its league. The girls had a very competitive season, finishing well in their league and winning four matches this season.

"The team did better this season because they had a lot more comradery than last year," said Coach Jeff Reid.

"We all cheered for each other and we had a lot of faith to do the best we could," said Brenna O'Connor, sophomore.

For Coach Reid, the most memorable moment of the season was when the team scored its personal high score of 157.7 at a match against Smithtown. The team went far this season and the members enjoyed every minute of it. They feel they will go even further in the league next year, coming back together as a young and strong team.

"It was a fun season and a great year," said Daniella Defonte, sophomore.

Mackenzie O'Connor, sophomore, finishes an impressive routine on the balance beam.

Carli Rock, eighth grader, performs a perfect ten routine on the balance beam.

Student Government

Student Government, also known as Student Council, was where students met to plan upcoming school activities, such as Homecoming, Stuff-A-Bus, and Pep Rally. Each grade met once a week to discuss their plans, and at the end of the month all of the class administrations met together for a group meeting, allowing everyone to voice an opinion about school matters, regardless of what grade they were in.

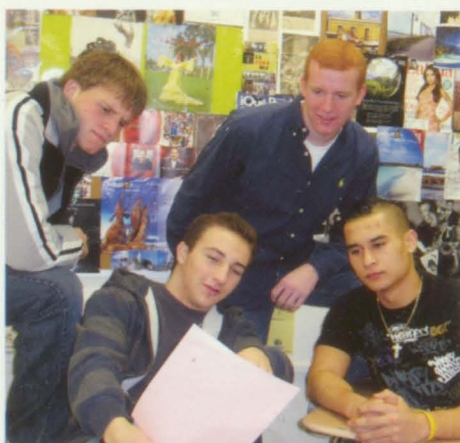

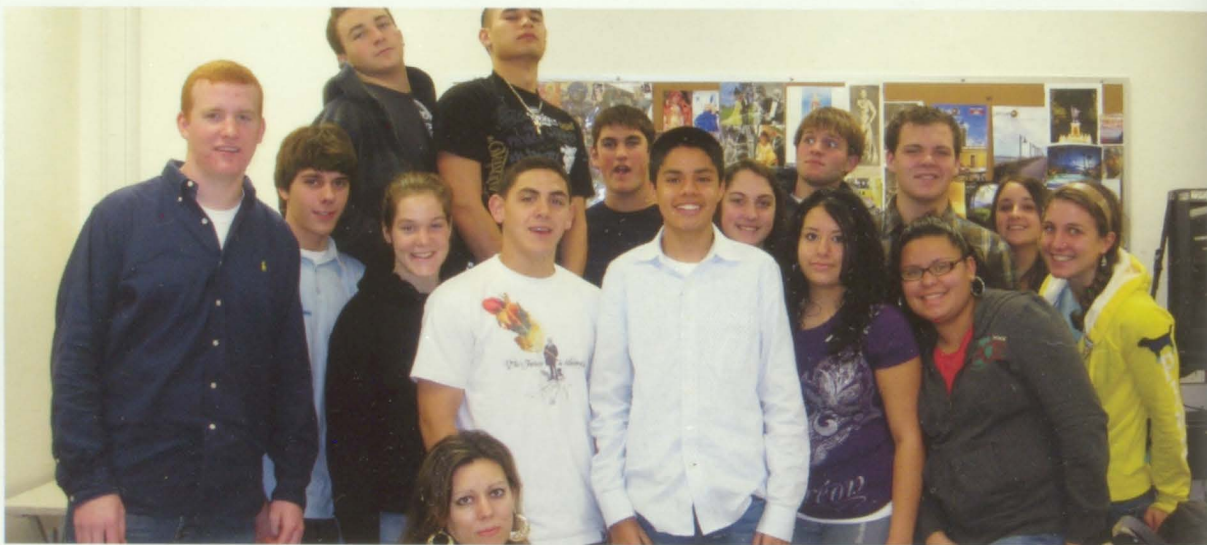

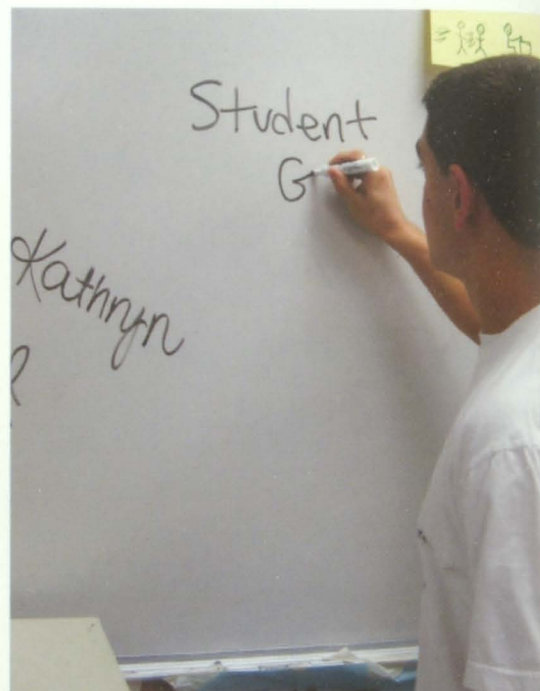

"I think it is important for us to get all the ideas of the students out around the school so they feel they have a say in what goes on," said senior class President Michael Barreda.

Each grade had its own president who represented their class. There was also a Student Council president Sebastian Navas, who represented the entire student body.

"The officers act as leaders and role models," said Ms. Concetta Acunzo, English teacher and adviser.

Along with Ms. Acunzo, Ms. Jacqueline Side and Ms. Kimberly Lipani advised the classes.

National Honor Society

Some students learn best from other students, which is why members of the National Honor Society tutored students from any of the Bay Shore schools.

"I feel that the National Honor Society is an important student organization because we help fellow students academically," said Doug Zangre, senior and Vice President of the local chapter.

A club recognized all over the United States for over 100 years, National Honor Society provided recognition to high school students who excelled in four areas: scholarship, leadership, service, and character.

In order to qualify for "scholarship," students needed at least a 90.5 un-weighted GPA for their entire high school career. In order to determine the other three areas, faculty members were given a survey and asked to rate each potential member in each of the qualities. The nominees are asked to assemble an application packet, which includes teacher recommendations, and the results were given to the Faculty Council, who made the final decision.

"I am proud to be part of the National Honor Society," said Dr. Bill Herbst, adviser and Latin Teacher.

Along with Mr. Dan Tonsetic, Dr. Herbst organized and ran the National Honor Society.

"The National Honor Society is a great program, not only because of the work we do in the community, but also because of the enthusiasm and dedication of all its members," said Megan Corcoran, senior and President.

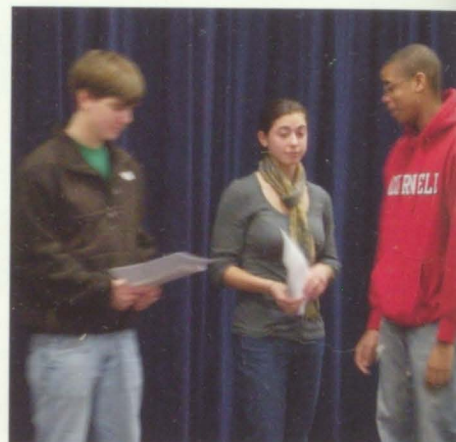

The members took a big deal of pride for being part of this prestigious organization.

Service Honor Society

Determination and passion were two emotions fully emphasized by the members of The Service Honor Society, which consisted of a mixture of students from different grades with the same goal: help make our world a better place.

"In Service Honor Society, students get to meet new people," said Ms. Denise Kaplar, co-adviser of the club. "There are a lot of fun activities and random acts of kindness that make the members feel good."

The local organization has been going strong for more than five years, with an underlying purpose of recognizing students who regularly perform community service and create social awareness in the community through many projects, events, and fundraisers.

The biggest project the students work on is known as "Spring Fling," a dance for senior citizens. The members get together to enjoy a day of dancing, food and fun.

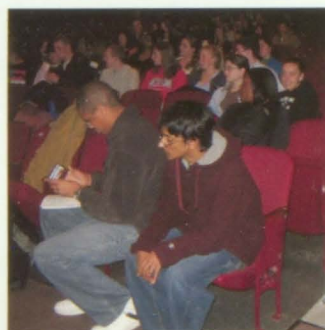

The advisors of the club, Mrs. Denise Kaplar and Mrs. Keri De Graff, are always welcoming new students to come join.

"This is a great club because it helps you give back to your community," said Brianna Harrison, sophomore. "Meanwhile, you're really giving back to yourself."

Members of both National Honor Society and Service Honor Society plan "Spring Fling."

Art Honor Society

Dedicated to helping the community and world through the arts, the National Art Honor Society has made a huge difference in the lives of many, not only in our community, but across the globe.

Keeping its goal in mind, the Art Honor Society conducted helpful projects year round, such as The Memory Project, in which students received pictures of underprivileged orphans from Ecuador, created a portrait of the child, and then sent it back to them with letters of praise and photos of themselves.

"It helps our students learn compassion," said Ms. Margaret Shultz, adviser and Art teacher.

The club's activities peaked in the culmination of Art Week, during which students tried a different type of art each day. The week ended with a film festival that displayed short films and music videos created by Bay Shore students.

"Art Honor Society is fun because you get to help and meet new people," said Christina Sciorilli, senior. "You can share your passion for art."

The National Art Honor Society kept its optimistic goal all year, helping people through the arts.

Tri-M Music Honor Society

Tri-M is a society to honor students who had excelled musically and academically. Within the organization, students are able to display their musicianship to others. "Performance is a big part of Tri-M," said Mary Louise Senatore, Orchestra teacher and adviser of the Tri-M Music Honor Society. "We try to have at least one student perform at every meeting."

Any student with an 85 percent average or better in his or her regular classes, and a ninety percent average in any music class, can be inducted into Tri-M.

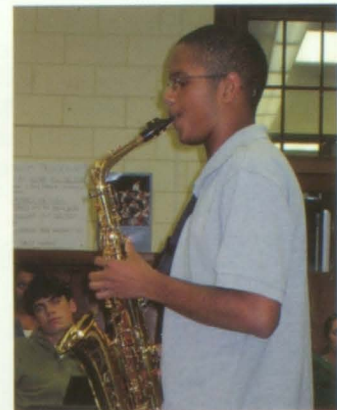

During meetings, members discuss different ways to raise money to donate to different causes and charities, listen to each other play their instruments, sing, dance, and vote on what concerts to go see.

"Every year we go to the city," said Doug Zangre, senior and president of Tri-M.

The students and adviser have many aspiring dreams for Tri-M.

"We would love to get involved with other districts' Tri-M organizations and do performances and other cool things together," Ms. Senatore said. "I would also like to start something like a barbershop quartet or quintet. Maybe even an octet!"

Tuesday Night Hip Katz

Jazz is America's first original art form, according to Bay Shore High School's Tuesday Night Hip Katz. With Mr. Ted Scalzo, music teacher, as their director the student musicians took time out of their busy schedules to come together every Tuesday and Thursday to perfect their performing skills.

"Jazz is one of the most important influences in my life because it lets me express myself through my favorite musical genre," said Jason Greenspan, senior.

Students got to be part of several special Jazz events, including the Pops concert at the Bay Shore Arts Festival in June. The musicians took their jazz skills to the next level using improvisation to create a great show.

"This is by far one of the most talented groups I've had in all my thirty years," said Mr. Scalzo.

The younger jazz enthusiasts also have time to let loose with jazz. Every Thursday night, the organization known as the Thursday Night Jazz Project meets under the leadership of Mr. Michael Rotello.

"I love jazz, I really do," said Jason Lombardo, senior. "And, it's the time where I can let loose and really have fun with the music."

Coming together to bring their passion for jazz to life, the Tuesday Night Hip Katz outdid themselves this year. Every aspect of the organization rose above expectations and kept the jazz spirit alive!

Marching Band

It was chilly as the beautiful music came from the field. The members of the marching band were practicing in the freezing cold and enjoying every moment of it. Performing is the highlight of the seasons for both students and the director, Mr. Michael Rotello.

"Being such an endeavor, the amount of hours spent working with the musicians is as rewarding an experience as any teacher could hope," said Mr. Rotello. "The most fun activity is band camp because I feel the camaraderie that we develop as a band is unsurpassed in any other area of the music department."

The students spent an entire week in the heat of August where they played music and learned showmanship.

Marching Band performances this year included special events such as home football games, Homecoming, Pep Rally and parades, such as the Columbus, Saint Patricks and Memorial Day parades.

"Marching Band enabled me to make a lot of new friends and increase my passion for the saxophone," says Ashley Oracewski, senior.

Marching Band requires students to do their best to perfect their performances during September and October.

"Marching Band takes a lot of time and it is hard work too, but Mr. Rotello is cool," said Doug Zangre, senior.

String Ensemble

Twenty five of the most highly talented and extremely dedicated advanced string musicians are a part of String Ensemble. This group provides extra enrichment for advanced musicians, while also entertaining the community and school.

The group performed all over our community, including Breast Cancer Benefits, The Bay Shore Hall of Fame Alumni Dinner, a senior nursing home, and at the Community Chamber Concert.

"I enjoy playing music and I love for people in our community who enjoy it as well," said Justina Russo, senior.

A typical meeting included tuning the instruments and rehearsing music of all types, but mostly classical and chamber music. Members enjoyed exploring various styles of music such as jazz and contemporary, not typically known for string instruments.

"I am continuously inspired by my students' love and dedication to their music," said Director Ms. Marylouise Senatore. "I care about what they love to say."

Showstoppers

Showstoppers was a group created to showcase the most outstanding singers in the school, but also to provide an opportunity for the band and orchestra students to participate in a singing ensemble.

"Showstoppers is a great way to showcase Bay Shores premium singers and performers," said Mr. Chris Billella, director and choral teacher.

Students had so much fun at meetings, it never seemed like work when it came time to organize the various community events in which they participated, such as the annual Tree Lighting during the holidays.

"It was just so much fun," said Stephen Zino, junior. "It was the best part of my day."

Maroon Echo

Enter the Maroon Echo staff room on any given day and you would have found young journalists hard at work on the next informative edition of the Maroon Echo.

"They say the news never sleeps and the Maroon Echo students are certainly tireless in their endeavors to produce the best paper possible," said Mr. Walter Fishon, English teacher and club adviser.

The Maroon Echo helped educate students on issues that impacted their daily lives and was also a source of entertainment for teenagers throughout the entire school. The paper was delivered to classrooms once a month and students could not seem to put it down.

"The Maroon Echo is a great opportunity for students to have their work read by the whole student body," said senior and Editor-In-Chief Jill Ferarro.

This year, the staff produced special editions that covered the economic crisis and the results of the Presidential Election.

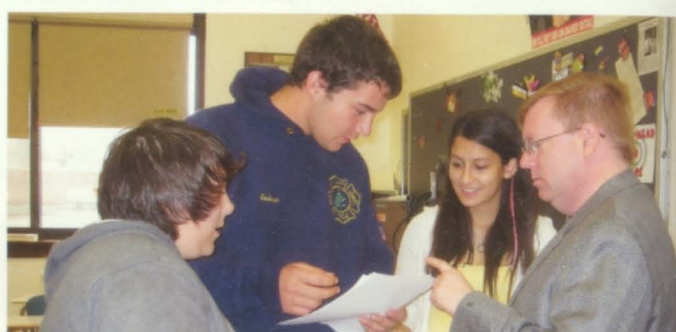

The Maroon Echo staff met every day, putting in a lot of time and effort into the finished products.

"I am constantly amazed at the talent and dedication that these students exhibit," said Fishon. "They truly want to give students the best newspaper in the country and I think they do it in spades."

Seniors Alexa DeLyra and Lindsey Beakes, along with other members of the Maroon Echo staff, diligently work to meet their quickly approaching deadline.

Art Club

Expressing themselves through art is something many people cannot do. Yet, when students walked into Art Club, they found an abundance of creativity and personal style. These artists were your everyday students who walked the halls with you, ate lunch with you, and may have even been in a class or two with you.

"Art Club is a way to sit back and be creative while learning new forms of art," said Chris Vela, senior.

Once a week, Mr. Joe Scinto, art teacher, opened up his classroom and shared his knowledge and passion for art with the club members. Scinto often allowed the students to use the computers, sculpt clay, paint in all different styles, and use colored pencils to design their own masterpieces.

"Art is a great activity that helps kids be creative and just relax; to access the right brain and just 'zone out'," said Scinto.

Many of the students who participated in Art Club had their own sketchbooks and created art on their own time as well.

"We are a community of crazy people who love art and love to create," said senior and Art Club president Tessa Fiore.

Art Club was warm and welcoming, as it has been for many years. This club was an active part in its member's lives and the communities around them.

BSOSS

The BSOSS steppers get into their ready position to begin practicing a new routine.

"Step up or get stepped on!"

Any day after school, if you walked by the cafeteria, you would hear loud stomps from the BSOSS Step Team. The team created new rhythms and new chants in order to practice for competitions. They also performed during halftime at basketball games.

BSOSS, which stands for Brothers and Sisters of Scholarship Society, also helped to better the community. They went to nursing homes and entertained the residents with step, while also engaging in intellectual conversation.

Throughout the year, BSOSS had many competitions and exhibitions. All profits the group received from these events went toward operation of the club and future competitions. Every Tuesday and Thursday the club sold pizza after school and it also hosted a fashion and talent show.

"It is a great club to be apart of," said Karla Quintanilla, senior captain of the team. "We did a lot of community service and we also enjoy what we love: stepping."

Bible Club

Senior Amanda Dambra helps fellow senior Tempestt Russell understand a complicated verse.

"For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there I am in the midst of them..." Psalms of grace and faith filled the room as a verse was read from the Bible.

The Bible Club met once a week to help guide and educate those who seek enlightenment through scripture.

"Bible Club members are believers in Jesus Christ; they are Christians from all denominations," said adviser Allison Pfeffer.

Under her supervision, students learned to decipher and understand intricate verses.

Originally started by a select few, the club has grown over the years, presently encompassing 12 seniors, two juniors, and eight sophomores.

"It's a great club for people who believe in Jesus," said Amanda Dambra, senior.

"They know they're not alone and have people supporting them."

The club not only read the Bible, but also conducted religious debates and discussions, listened to music, and occasionally gathered around the flagpole to pray for the school, each other, and their problems.

Through Bible Club, its members allow faith to carry them through their lives.

Junior Evelin Treminio prepares for the day's meeting by writing an optimistic hymn on the board.

Computer Club

Computer Club was a time of peace after school where its members got to relax and have fun.

"It was a new way of learning and a way to increase one's potential in our technological world," said Mr. Bill Eggert, adviser and math teacher.

Eggert created an atmosphere where members could relax and unwind after a long day of school.

"It's important for students to have a chance to kick back and have some fun with computers," said Eggert. "At the same time, to survive in today's world they need to learn to be proficient with cutting-edge technology."

"I enjoy Computer Club because it is a good way to relieve stress after school," said Chris Irraggi, senior.

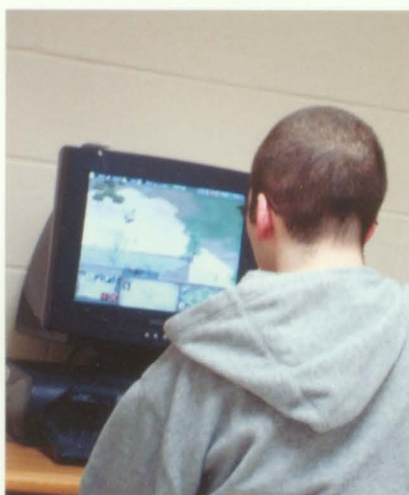

Students worked hard to learn how to code applications and design web pages, but there was fun to be had, too.

"People participated in the Computer Club to learn more about computers, but also to be social and meet new people," said Martin Curley, senior. "I benefit from Computer Club because it is a fun environment where everyone makes new friends."

Christopher Madeska, junior, focuses intently on a dangerous virtual adventure.

Junior Jason Dumont spends time perfecting the code for his latest digital creation.

Creative Writing Club

Creative Writing Club was a place where people went to express themselves in literature and poetry, with 30-40 regulars at each meeting.

Mr. Matt Pasca, adviser since 1999, said, "The only requirements that are necessary are an open mind, creativity, a sense of humor, and, most importantly, a respect for others in the club."

Junior Alyssa Jenkins is deep in thought as she puts pen to paper to create a new work of poetry.

Seniors Tessa Fiore and Jackie Flores work together to write an introspective and imaginative short story.

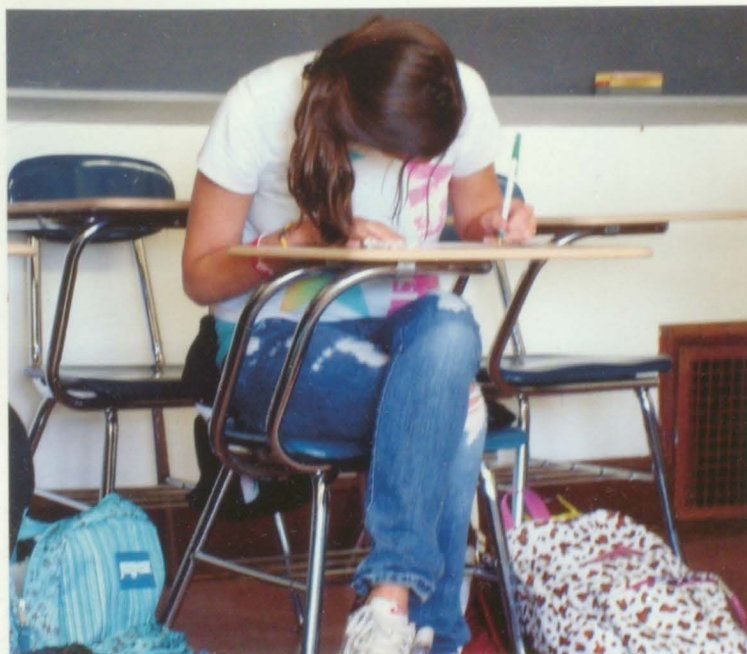

The club put on several poetry jams throughout the year and released a major publication, "The Writers Block," a collection of poems and short stories showcasing work by club members.

This was a place for those interested in furthering their mind through writing and looking at the world through new perspectives.

"I think the club is so popular because it provides a safe haven for students, even teachers, where they can express their thoughts, feelings and oddities freely, and learn about themselves, others and the world at large," said Pasca.

Creative Writing Club was where we all could reside, where we all could write in peace, and where we could all be open and non-judgemental.

Dance Club

Gracefully leaping from the the gym floor to Hofstra University, the dancers in the Dance Club surely made a name for themselves.

"Having dance after school let us get all the stress and tension out from the day," said Emileigh Liebetrueth, senior. "Dance is my release."

The three branches of the Dance Club included the Dance Team, the Lyrical Ensemble, and the Jazz Company. Each group was provided with the opportunity to perform at school and community events.

The Dance Club has been around the longest, starting originally as a jazz group. The students adapted this group over time to become based around hip-hop and performed at more events such as basketball games, pep rallies, the Summit, Bay Shore Dances, and the Arts Festival, developing into a well-known squad in the community.

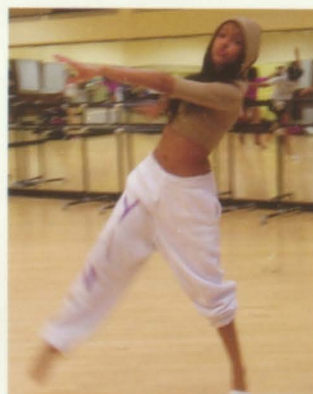

The Lyrical Ensemble and Jazz Company focus more on fusing different styles together in order to interpret works and music through movement. Both groups performed in various activities in the community to show off their skills.

"Lyrical Ensemble has helped me become active in the school and go to events I normally wouldn't go to," said Michelle Loehle, sophomore.

With the help of the Arts Education Fund, Advisor Ms. Michelle Denino hopes to offer master classes in more styles.

"This will create well-rounded dancers who can continue their studies when they graduate from high school," said Ms. Denino.

Environmental Club

"Think Globally, Act Locally," was the motto of the Environmental Club, which helped keep its members motivated to do their part and help clean up our planet.

"It's important that we learn better ways to use the resources we have, and the Environmental Club is a way to get that information to our students," said senior Sunny Velez.

The club's ultimate goal is a school wide Earth Day, but until then they continue to work on a recycling program in which different receptacles are placed in various classrooms to keep everything separated and out of landfills.

"Of course we recycle," added junior Rob Neill. "We're the Environmental Club!"

At each meeting, members discussed upcoming events and ideas for school, such as the Beach Cleanup Day and the Seal Walk.

These events combined community service and ways of learning first hand about the environment.

Adviser Kami Ward, Science teacher, believes in a long term goal of having less waste in the cafeterias. Using permanent lunch trays and silverware creates less garbage and waste for landfills.

"We would like to change the climate of the school to include greener ideas," explained Ms. Ward.

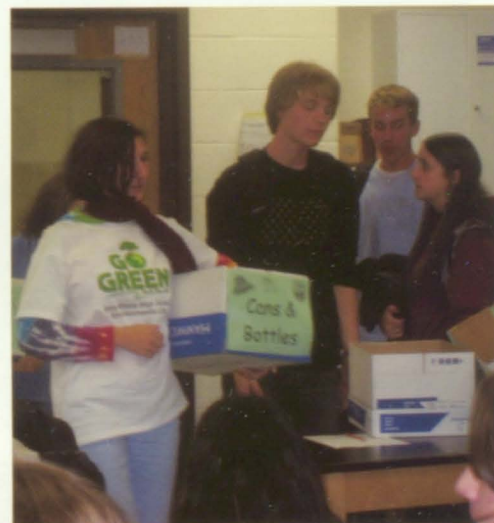

The club worked for the greater good and went to extreme lengths to clean up our school, gaining more members than ever, helping to improve the quality of its actions.

Senior Yalissa Taveras agreed: "For a fresher future, we need a safe start. Keep our world green!"

Film Club

Film Club was the place to go to learn about modern media in a creative way. Advised by Ms. Nell Kalter, English teacher, 30 students worked diligently to make various audio/visual productions.

"This club was created to provide a supportive environment to work on films and to keep cinematic enthusiasm going even after school," said Ms. Kalter.

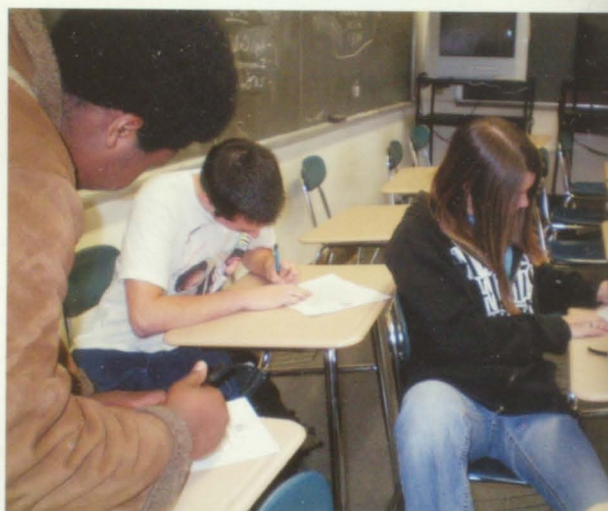

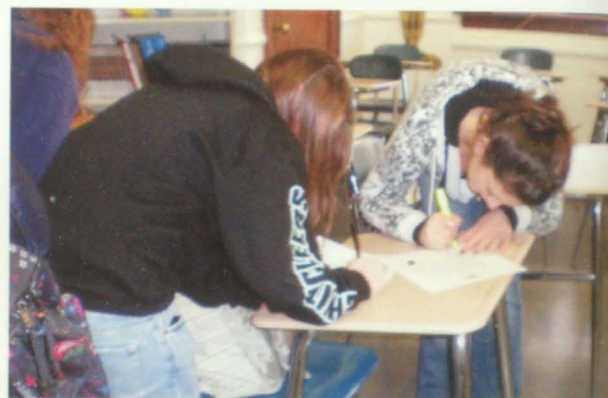

Over the past four years, the club has ventured from discussions about movies to actually producing and directing films.

To achieve the goal of celebrating films and their producers, the club held special events, such as the music video film festival and various movie nights.

Every Wednesday, the club met after school for a typical meeting of movie discussions or to plan events.

"Film club is so much fun," said Ashley Komoroski, senior. "I am so glad we had a club like this at Bay Shore. Everyone should have joined."

Justine Dellamorte and Alexa Leggio read about new movies to be shown at the next club meeting.

Club President and senior Angel Garay addresses the group about an important upcoming event.

"In the words of Donald Trump, 'It's never too early to introduce students to business concepts,'" said Mrs. Maria Fagan, Business teacher.

This ideology defined the well-established club Future Business Leaders of America. FBLA was created to provide students with leadership opportunities and to spark their interest in possible business careers.

About 30 students got the chance to participate in fundraisers such as Dress for Success and a holiday fundraiser.

The group's main events and competitions included "Field Day," to build team spirit, and the stock market competition, in which the group battled other schools, gaining experience in trading stocks.

"We worked very hard to make sure all of our members understand the inner workings of corporate America," said David Meltsner, senior.

Advised by business teachers Ms. Melissa Taylor and Mrs. Fagan, FBLA met once a week when the officers addressed the group about current events and the stock market competition.

FBLA is a national academic and professional organization founded over 30 years ago with the purpose of providing students with scholarship opportunities.

"Business is not only a future career," said Ms. Taylor. "It's also keeping ahead of the money game."

This club helped students be successful this year and its impact will help into their futures.

Gay Straight Alliance

It was another successful year for the Gay Straight Alliance, which helped make Bay Shore a more comfortable place for everyone, regardless of his or her sexual orientation. Led by Mr. Walter Fishon, English teacher, and Ms. Erin Garland, Science teacher, students were welcomed with open arms to each weekly meeting and club-sponsored event.

"The goal of this club was to raise awareness among gay and straight members, as well as the school, and the community," said Ms. Garland.

This year's club got involved with many events, including "National Coming Out Day," which campaigns for human rights, and the "National Day of Silence," a yearly event that attempts to highlight how many gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender people cannot be open about who they are. Students who participate remain silent the entire day, just as many people feel forced to stay silent about themselves.

The club also attempted to bring awareness of Harvey Milk, a Bay Shore graduate and American politician who was the first openly gay man to be elected into public office in the United States.

"A lot more kids come in open about their relationships," said Mr. Fishon. "They really want to take an active role in making Bay Shore an accepting place."

Each member of the G.S.A. was responsible for forming a more accepting Bay Shore community. Many students are thankful to have a club like the Gay Straight Alliance to create a safer and more equal environment for everyone.

Gourmet Food Club

If you were lucky enough to walk past room 107 on a Thursday afternoon, you would have enjoyed the aroma of an incredible, freshly made meal as you heard the ding of the oven timer.

The Gourmet Foods Club was created to allow students more time to explore their culinary interests.

"We must learn to let our food be our medicine and our medicine be our food," said Ms Rosalyn Reid-McKenzie, Cooking teacher.

The goal of the club was to help students refine their culinary skills and introduce them to ideas about better nutritional choices.

"Cooking is my passion and my life," said Tianna Brown, senior.

Students were free to experiment with different recipes, while also learning about the nutritional aspects of their creations.

"That is why I run this club, so students who love cooking as much as I do get to experience it more than just in class," said Reid-McKenzie.

During meetings, students suggested recipe ideas to prepare at the next meeting and then sat down and enjoy the meal they tirelessly created.

International Club

In order to promote cultural awareness, while also learning about other parts of the world, the International Club helped students connect in order to promote cultural acceptance and empathy.

"The International Club represents many cultures," said Rejine Laraya, junior.

The club, which was led by ESL teachers Ms. Naomi Moro and Mrs. Laura Solis, met once a week where members discussed different cultures and ethnic backgrounds and shared their different experiences and histories.

"We promote the idea of a global community," said Mrs. Solis.

This year, students were part of a pen pal program with the ESL students at Brook Avenue Elementary School. The members wrote to the younger students to share their own experiences. Then they would wait anxiously for replies from the elementary school students so that they could, in turn, learn about their younger counterparts.

"It's great to relate to students from different countries," said Cindy Menjivar, sophomore.

The club was a way to learn about and appreciate others; it was a place where international students could feel comfortable and not be afraid to express their ideas.

"I feel like this is my second family," said Rafaelina Nolasco, senior.

Lincoln-Douglas Debate

If you were to pass by the courtroom on any given Friday, you might have thought there was a fight taking place inside. However, the arguing you overheard was, in fact, the Lincoln-Douglas Debate Team doing what they do best. Students from all grades came together to debate topic after topic.

In its third year, the Debate Team has made an excellent name for itself.

"We have become a force to be reckoned with in the world of high school debating," said Mr. John Selzer, social studies teacher and club adviser.

Mr. Selzer was very proud of how membership has increased each year and how all participants were able to handle themselves properly and efficiently at competitions.

"We did well this year and made an even better name for ourselves in the debate world," said Matt Hutchinson, senior. "There is nothing I enjoy more than a good debate to end a long, hard week of school."

Debating became a way for the students to organize their thoughts and opinions on many current issues, such as the Presidential election.

"In the heat of one of the most historic elections ever, debating for your favorite candidate made you feel like you had an impact on the upcoming election," said Erin Dalo, senior.

Women of the Future

The transition from a girl to a woman can be difficult, but Women of the Future Cclub makes this transition a little easier, as members learn the skills necessary to become adults in today's society.

The club's co-advisers were Ms. Meagan Lowery and Ms. Cynthia Monthie, both Suffolk Network on Adolescent Pregnancy (SNAP) facilitators. Women of the Future was sponsored by SNAP Long Island, which was founded in 1979 and has been working with Bay Shore High School since 1994.

"At a typical meeting we talk about real life," said Lowery.

Lowery felt that the main purpose of the club was to help women make healthier decisions. During meetings, members of the club would learn tips to make healthier decisions in all aspects of their lives, discussing teen pregnancy, body image, racism, and teen sexuality.

"Women of the Future is a way for us, as females, to come together, vent, discuss, and elaborate on the daily issues we all face," said Ikeia McDonald, senior.

Women of the Future has been involved with Dress for Success, Unity in the Community, Big Sister, and other activities in the community. The group also made various college visits.

Those who went to Women of the Future learned life lessons and experiences. Students felt comfortable going to the club because they were able to talk about their life and how to improve it. Members learned how to become more understanding by learning about others.

"The ladies in this program teach me something every time we meet," said Lowery. "The passion they show inspires and touches me and others each day. The choices they learn to make assist them to achieve their goals. I am excited to see all the positive decisions they will make in the future. They are the true leaders of the future."

Men of the Future

In the Men of the Future club, there was always a group of young males sharing ideas, goals, and problems.

Mr. Brent Loffreto, adviser of the Men of the Future club, established the main purpose of the club to help the members of the club develop the leadership skills necessary to be successful throughout life. He designed programs to help the members to be better men.

"The essence of leadership is to empower others," Mr. Loffreto said.

Mr. Loffreto wanted to empower the members to make healthier decision so that one day they can be leaders.

"Suffolk Network for Adolescent Pregnancy [SNAP] gives us an opportunity to learn and discuss issues we otherwise wouldn't," said Jamel Hudson, freshman.

The Men of the Future club was a safe place where young men could discuss social issues and feel comfortable doing so. At a typical meeting, social issues such as pregnancy, bullying, and other topics that occur in school were brought up and discussed.

Along with discussing issues at meetings, the club was involved in many different activities, such as various community service projects like Unity in the Community and Leaders of the Future Conference.

The club grew in numbers this year, and the achievements and accomplishments grew as well.

Mock Trial

"Order! Order! This Court is now in session!"

If you found yourself at school arguing the facts in a public forum, then you were probably on the Mock Trial team.

"Mock Trial is a fun way to experience the law first hand," said Betsy Brunton, senior.

Mock trial was more than just fun and games; members were highly trained by Mr. John Selzer, Social Studies teacher.

"He got the team to think on its feet while still speaking in an organized manner," said Erin Dalo, senior.

For every trial, the team was split up into two sub-teams, the Plaintiffs and the Defendants, and each team met after school in the courtroom to discuss the facts of the case and prepare witnesses. Both sides discussed what would hurt their cases and what would help their cases.

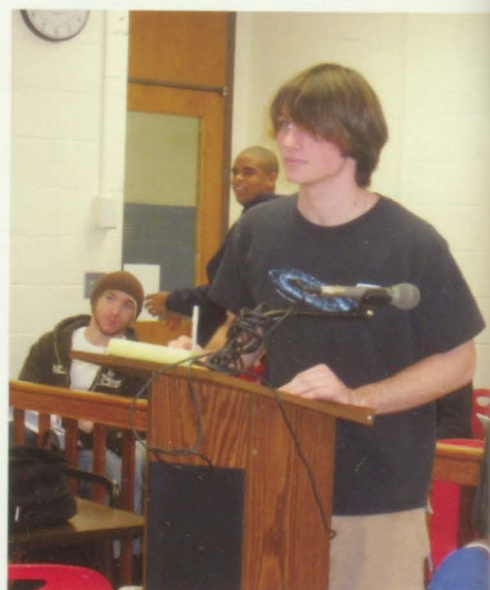

While the team had more non-experienced than experienced members, the goal of the team was the same: to win the Long Island Regional Championships title, last won in 2007.

Model U.N.

Matthew McCarthy and James Rainis, juniors, put their heads together to plan their arguments in hopes of another successful debate.

Senior Michael LaRose will always remember the feeling he got as he stood in the United Nations building in New York City and prepared himself to represent the nation of Cote D'ivoir at Nationals.

LaRose was a member of the Model United Nations, which met once a week under the supervision of Mrs. Heather Niedzwiecki, Social Studies teacher.

The club's goal was to educate students about global issues and make them aware of ways they can affect the world. During meetings, the club discussed major world events that had occurred in order to prepare themselves for debates.

"The meetings helped the students develop speaking skills," said Mrs. Niedzwiecki.

The reasons to join the club go far beyond improving ones speaking skills, however.

"The purpose was to understand the inner workings of the United Nations and its entities," said LaRose, co-president of the club, along with Megan Corcoran and Elizabeth Brunton, seniors.

Along with weekly meetings and debates, the club held many fundraisers.

"We sold T-shirts," said Clarence O'Conner, freshman. "And donated half the proceeds we made to a specific organization dealing with the situation we've been discussing."

A few of the world issues Model U.N. had discussed were human trafficking, nuclear weapons, and human torture.

"The issues we talked about," said O'Conner, "really did bring us closer as a team."

Dedicated to helping students feel more comfortable with themselves and each other, Peer Support trained students to assist teens dealing with difficulties in their lives. Through workshops and group building exercises, the Peer Supporters increased their listening skills and community participation.

"Life skills learned as Peer Supporters will enable students to be healthier and happier adolescents," said group co-advisor, Mr. Jim McGowan, School Social Worker.

Every member of Peer Support took time out of their already busy schedules to help with mediating between their peers.

"I think this club really does help," said Jessica

Deutsch, senior and third year member. "I know I feel more comfortable talking to people my own age going through the same issues."

Not only did the club have open doors during school hours, but it was also involved in many other activities helping the school and community.

One such program was Awareness Weekend. Students spent the weekend at the school while participating in workshops and getting to know one another on a more personal level.

"There's a level of comfort with Awareness Weekend, making you feel like you can open up to people you may not know or think you would talk to," said John Soldinger, senior.

Along with a weekend of fun comes hard, yet rewarding, work," said Ms. Shannon Handley, co-adviser and English teacher.

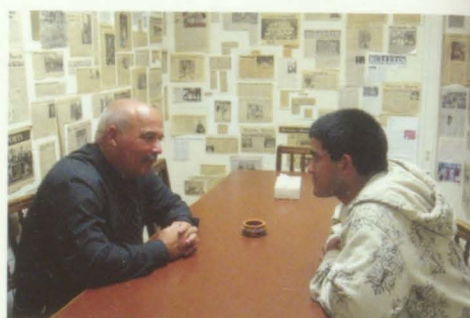

Some of the community-wide programs completed this year were Christmas Magic, the Thanksgiving Food Drive, and Adopt-A-Family, all created to enrich the lives of many residents of Bay Shore.

"By becoming closer with the people in the school and community, Peer Supporters taught their peers to open up and deal with things in a healthier way," said Ms. Handley

"I'm going to miss Peer Support and being involved with all these great people," said senior Gary Guinta. "It was an experience I'll never forget."

Robotics Club

Robotics club made the idea of building a start-from-scratch R2-D2 a reality, meeting every week to take its members passion for math, science, and technology to the next level.

Whether the students were designing their robots on the computer, or using industrial machines to bring them to life, the Robotics Club put as much effort and dedication into its accomplishments as any sports team.

"The Robotics Team turns all the math and science we have learned and applies it to something real," said adviser Charles Kavanagh. "It has a purpose. The Robotics competitions we attend are Super Bowl games for us."

Students join this club in order to learn more about the robotics industry, which many believe will play an enormous role in our society's future. These members feel they will be better prepared to participate and compete in the 21st century workforce.

At the same time, there was a desire to compete in, and win, the many competitions, both on the state and national levels.

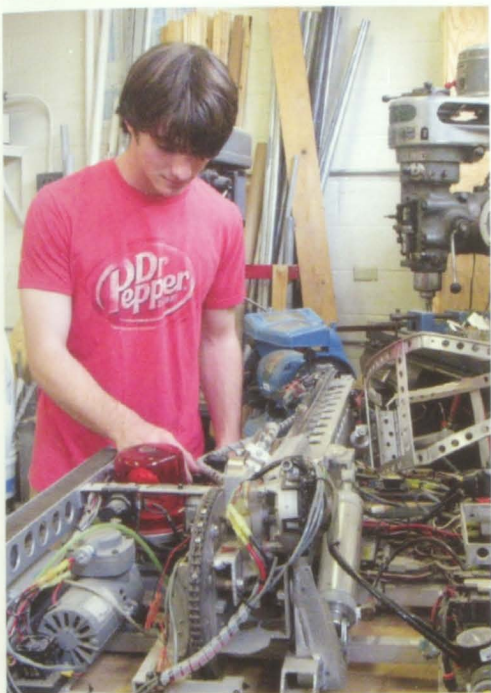

The club traveled to Deer Park High School for a competition where 20 other high schools competed to earn the Regional Championship and the pride of having the winning creation. The competition got a little more intense when the Robotics Club traveled to places such as Hofstra University, New York City, and even as far as Atlanta, Georgia.

"Robotics is more than just a sport," said Paul Bianca, club captain. "It's the future in technology."

Learning how to design and build robots brings about appreciation for science, math, and technology by using creativity as motivation. This club has brought new ideas that prove, with technology, anything is possible.

Bianca perfectly sums up the seriousness with which the club works towards its goals: "This is not Battle Bots!"

Michael LaRose, senior, dismantles his robot in order to perfect its abilities.

Science Olympiads

Whether students hoped for a future in science or just wanted to have fun, members of Science Olympiads loved the feeling of designing and creating experiments.

"Science Olympiads is so much fun because you get to do hands-on things and think outside of the box," said Michele Posillico, junior. "Working on fun science projects helps you learn so much more."

The purpose of this club was to enhance each student's scientific knowledge, then use that knowledge to compete with other schools.

"Science Olympiads was a chance for students to explore various aspects of science that the classroom setting does not always allow time for," said

Mr. Bill Behrens, science teacher. "I believe the hands-on activities allow students to become involved in science in a new way."

Members of the club felt as though there was always enough space for new faces.

"Science Olympiads was a fun club," said Shae Felicien, senior. "It's a lot cooler than it sounds, and more people should definitely get involved with the program."

In order to win the regional competition in Science Olympiads, students understood that practice was essential for a great performance. With hard work and dedication, each member put in the time and effort, after the school day to get the job done.

Juniors Deborah Boktor and Darleen Eiermann brainstorm about experiments they would like to create.

Shakespeare Club

"To join or not to join?" That was the question the members of the Shakespeare Club asked themselves.

The Shakespeare Club was created for students to enjoy the works of the Bard without the pressures of classroom requirements. Because it was an after school activity, the goal was to try to have fun with Shakespeare beyond the school's required curriculum.

"It's just more interesting and relaxing to learn about Shakespeare in this way," said Olivia Civardi, senior and club president. "There's no pressure with things like tests or essays."

Over the years the club has progressed in making the works of Shakespeare come to life.

"It's fun to act out scenes, but also to watch them in all of the different versions of Shakespeare movies," said Courtney Kayser, senior.

As the members, most of whom have belonged to the club since ninth grade, have gotten older, they have learned about Shakespeare from their classes and brought new points back to the club.

"It's interesting to see, from year to year, how the members view Shakespeare's works differently," said Mr. Michael Hochman, English teacher and club adviser.

At a typical meeting, students watched scenes from a Shakespeare movie, acted out parts of the play, and sometimes played a Shakespeare board game called "Playing Shakespeare," which mixes Shakespearean acting with charades.

"Most people don't realize how much fun Shakespeare can be," said Civardi.

Deirdre Feeney and Olivia Civardi get carried away as they immerse themselves in a scene from Hamlet.

Tate Gordon and Deirdre Feeney, seniors, show their love for the Bard in a mock sword fight.

Spanish Club

"Hola estudiantes, ven conmigo en el exciante mundo del club de Espanol," shouts Senora Marcela Pachon-Abbott, Spanish teacher, before the start of every meeting of the Spanish Club.

This year, the group was more eager than ever, with new students, new activities, and more cultural interaction, all dedicated to enhance Spanish speaking.

"I started coming just for the point on my average, but now it's something fun to look forward to," Julia Berke, junior. "It's a less serious Spanish and it's easier to comprehend."

Since the club consists of all grades, the members' skill levels were varied. Every meeting there were new faces that entered the room.

It's a very diverse club, and that's one reason why I love it," said Shannon Christie, junior and club officer.

Spanish Club is known for its wonderful performances at Multicultural Week and middle school presentations that stress the importance of taking a high school-level language. To prepare for these educational activities, the students create dialogues, dances, and cultural games to inform their peers.

"To me, Spanish club is like a fiesta everyday and it opened the door to a whole new culture," said Rob Neill, junior.

Christopher Cruz, junior, has a deep passion for Spanish as he writes out Spanish verbs in the present tense.

Nicole Mahoney, Katie Lawlor, Maureen Aromi, Michelle Posillico, Julia Berke, and Justine Ball, juniors, work together to take their team to victory while playing a game of Spanish Bingo.

S.A.D.D.

Angelica Valle, freshman, diligently takes notes about the topic of the week.

"Life is sad and S.A.D.D. is life," said Kaitlyn Rajczewski, senior and club officer.

This year, S.A.D.D. members have made many changes to get their point across, including a name change from Students Against Drunk Driving to Students Against Destructive Decisions. Participants of S.A.D.D. felt that they should expand beyond drunk driving and move on to other topics, such as teen suicide and violence.

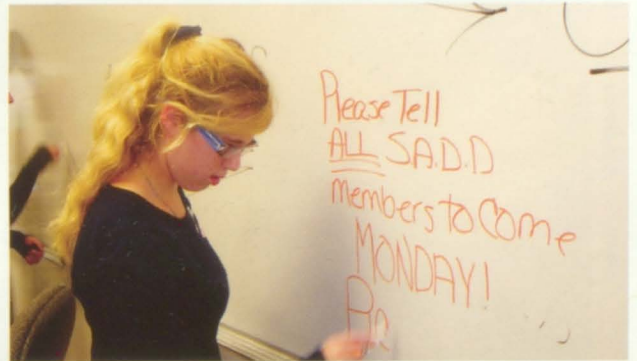

"Having so many positive people for the future of our country is wonderful, and that's what I love most about this club," said adviser Mr. Geoffrey Broadhurst, Health teacher.

Every student sees the hard work of S.A.D.D. members on Grim Reaper Day, a full day dedicated to anyone whose life was taken due to a drunk driving accident. On that day, every thirty minutes a bell rang and a student was taken out of the classroom, symbolizing the death of an innocent person.

Other S.A.D.D. activities included selling flowers on Valentine's Day with S.A.D.D. messages on them, The Prom Night Hotline, and Rock-N-Rhyme.

"After four years of being here, it's amazing how many people are here to help not only themselves, but others," said Chelseare Gerardino, senior.

Derek Ettinger and Randy Owens, juniors, create a lesson plan to prevent young adults from making bad decisions.

Ashley Armstrong, junior, starts off the meeting by writing an announcement on the board.

Thespian Troupe

The Drama Club met every day after school in the auditorium, inviting students from all grades to participate, with one goal: to put on the best show possible.

"This year, the club was mostly Juniors," said director Chris Bilella, Choir teacher.

Mr. Bilella played the role of directing both productions, "Little Shop of Horrors" and "Guys and Dolls," as well as advising the Thespian troupe, which chose the shows that were performed.

"If you're not into acting, or have stage fright like I do, backstage crew is a great way to get involved with the show in another way," said Cassandra Diemer, senior.

The backstage crew built all the sets, painted the backdrops, and did all the "dirty work" that made the stage come alive during a show. Lighting and sound crew were also major components to the successful productions.

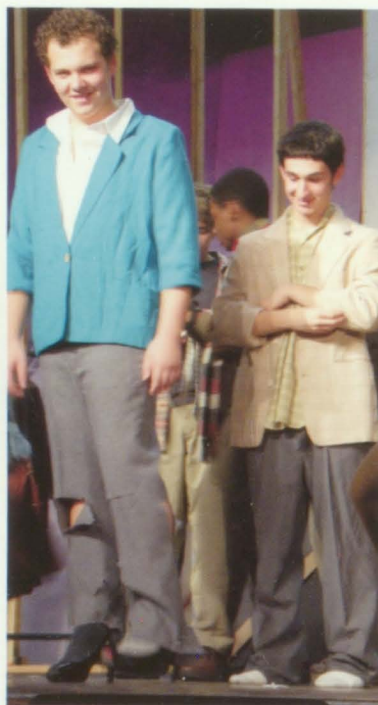

It takes a lot of hard work, effort, and time for a production to become what the audience sees.

"We spent our lives here," joked Ashley Alberto, junior.

The cast and crew attended mandatory long and tedious rehearsals, but had fun doing it.

"We're like a big family," laughed Mary Wilson, junior.

Kevin LaRose and Rich Hubbard work diligently to prepare the set of Little Shop of Horrors.

Nick Gurinsky and Kevin Mehler, juniors, run through their lines during the last dress rehearsal before the show.

Teens Against Tobacco Use is a club filled with positive and influential students. TATU members gathered once a week and discussed methods to help younger generations of children understand the adverse effects of smoking.

"The members do such a good job as positive role models for younger kids," said Ms. Joanne Kent-Palumbo, adviser.

The members of TATU, on special occasions, went to district schools such as Gardiner Manor, South Country, and the middle school to spread the word on the dangers of smoking. To connect with the kids, TATU members practiced skits that related to the feelings and thoughts of students in peer pressure situations.

"The skits are very educational and fun," said Shelby Vaccaro, junior.

TATU members used their free time to help kids understand why smoking is bad for the body and mind.

"With kids getting pressured by their own friends to smoke, it is important to have someone to help guide them," said Victoria Tiedemann, junior.

TATU is the help that guides kids to make the right decisions to not smoke.

"Teens Against Tobacco Use helps make kids aware of the dangers of smoking," said Sebastian Navas, senior.

Louis Miranda, Christian Katzer, Michael Lifavi and Catherine Schmidt work together to get the message across to the children.

Trivia Team

"With members of great intellect, the Bay Shore trivia team's knowledge expanded daily. The team learns from each other's knowledge everyday; that's what makes us closer and also a top competitor locally," explained Michael Baker, senior.

Each member contributed his or her knowledge of trivia to help the team stay on top. Throughout the year, the trivia team aided and corrected each other creating a bond that was unbreakable.

"There is no such thing as useless knowledge," stated the team's coach Dan Sullivan.

The team traveled around the island and into the city to compete against other talented teams, and was invited to be on News 12 "Trivia Challenge," showing its stuff by routinely defeating the opposing team.

Accumulating various victories, the young and talented team showed it had the knowledge to compete on the same level as the past years.

Whether meeting every Wednesday in room 301, competing against each other, practicing, or contending against other schools, the Trivia Team proved to be intellectual champions.

Mr. Sullivan shows Arun Bodapati, junior, the correct answer to a question.

Web Design

Ethan Madigan, Cathrine Iacona, and Rachel Haberstroh carefully review the new additions to their project.

The Web Design club had a small but dedicated staff that routinely met in the school's cutting-edge multimedia room to create and maintain the school website for frequent viewers.

More than just creating the website, however, the club hoped to produce an online spot for students and other visitors to acquire information about the community and showcase the school's accomplishments.

"We have passionate members who are willing to try new things," said Zach Halpin. "The club will keep on moving forward."

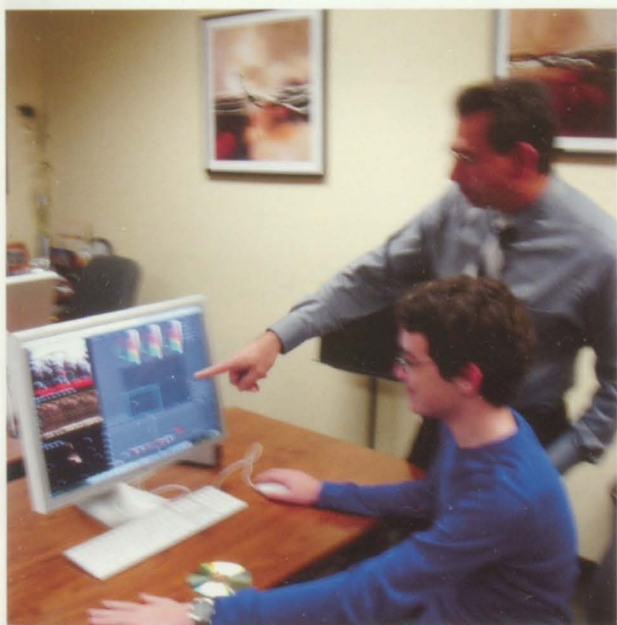

Mr. Scalzo, club adviser, has dedicated his time and great effort in overseeing the creating of the school's outstanding new website, designed primarily by Halpin.

"As each year passes, the club's efficiency progresses," said Mr. Scalzo.

The Web Design Club accomplished a lot with a relatively small group of members. It is not surprising that the members grew very close over the year.

"I really enjoyed working with the Web Design team because, when we meet, it's a comfortable environment and we work well together," said Rachel Haberstroh.

Mr. Ted Scalzo and Zach Halpin, sophomore, work together to improve the design of the high school webpage.

Seniors Brittney Sanders, Stephanie Dilege, Caitlin Duddy, and Kim Moran work on their pages.

Michelle Traynor, editor, works a snack into her busy design session.

Michelle Traynor; Kailee Han, and Julia Loehle, seniors and Editors, with Mr. Michael Hochman, adviser, look at the 'book in progress' binder, making sure the Marauder is on track.

It takes a few important things to make a good yearbook: time, dedication, and an eye for detail. Everyday, 8th period, nearly 30 students worked diligently to encase all the memories and unforgettable moments of the past ten months into just 260 pages. This year's book was exceptional because the staff took an entirely new approach to yearbook design.

"We approached this book in such a different direction and we used a lot of new ideas that we got from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Conference in November," said Michelle Traynor, senior and editor. "A lot of effort was put into it by a lot of people."

The staff changed publishing companies and switched to a more traditional style and layout than previous years. The new book is even expected to include a Spring supplement, so events that take place later in the year, and were not traditionally covered, will appear in additional pages. These pages will be sent to everyone over the summer.

The Marauder not only had a new design, but also a new adviser. Mr. Michael Hochman, English teacher, took over the heavy responsibility of the yearbook this year.

"We wanted to make this year's book bigger and better than any other in Bay Shore's history," said Mr. Hochman. "That's a lot of history to live up to."

Each student interviewed coaches, took pictures, and created layouts on the computer to make pages that people will keep forever. Many obstacles were encountered along the way, but the staff stayed dedicated to making deadlines and offering a meticulous product.

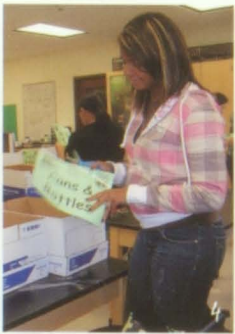

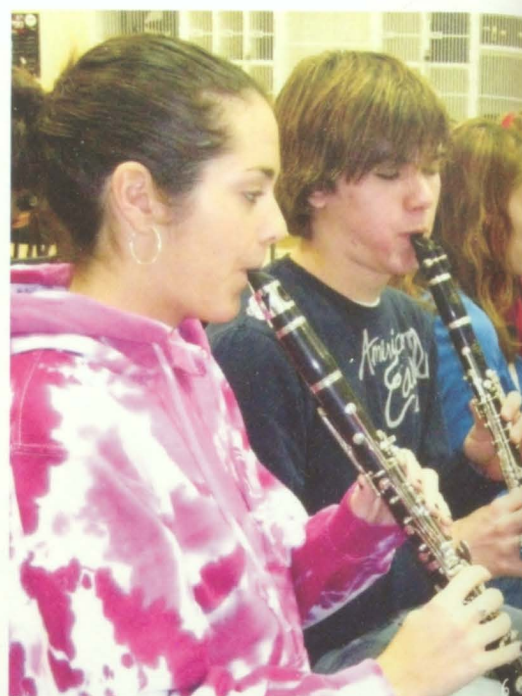

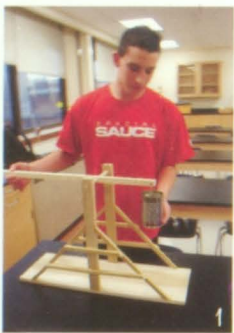

"This staff has been incredible, dealing with every curveball that's been thrown its way," said Mr. Hochman. "This job has been a lot of responsibility and hard work, but I've enjoyed every minute of it."

Kailee Han, senior and Editor, explains the new layout designs to Abigail Arzberger and Brittney Sanders, also seniors.

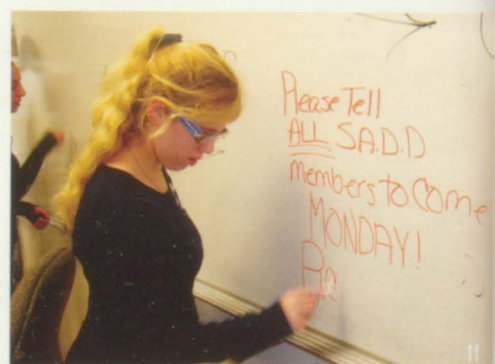

Jenny McCormack and Jessica Deutsch, seniors, put the finishing touches on their assigned pages.

Rebekah,

*As this chapter of your life comes to an end,
may God continue to bless you throughout your life's journey and endeavors. Keep your eyes on Christ, have faith, and pray knowing and believing that with God, All Things Are Possible.
In the words of my favorite song for you:*

*I hope you never lose your sense of wonder.
You get your fill to eat but always keep that hunger.
May you never take one single breath for granted,
God forbid love ever leaves you empty handed.*

*I hope you still feel small when you stand beside the ocean,
Whenever one door closes, I hope one more opens,
Promise me that you'll give faith a fighting chance,
And when you get the choice, to sit it out or dance
I hope you dance I hope you dance.*

*I hope you never fear those mountains in the distance,
Never settle for the path of least resistance
Living might mean taking chances, but they're worth taking,
Loving might be a mistake but it's worth making,*

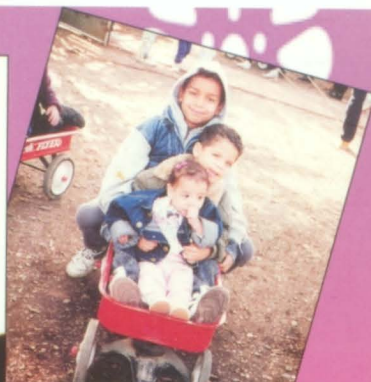

*Don't let some hell bent heart leave you bitter,
When you come close to selling out, reconsider.
Give the heavens above more than just a passing glance,
And when you get the choice, to sit it out or dance*

CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATE AND GOD BLESS YOU!

As our four years of high school come to a close, we can look back at the many ways we've changed. Through our changes we've laughed, we've learned, we've hugged...we've walked off the competition field arm in arm in victory. We've cried as we walked out of a packed gym, arm in arm in defeat. We've lost friends along the way, but mostly made many new ones. We've built bonds that will stand the test of time. Some of our friendships may have changed, but a true friend is always there. Though we've changed teachers from year to year, the difference they have made in our lives will never change. In our four years we've changed Principals; we've changed Presidents. We watched America change before our eyes, as barriers have been smashed down, and while others have, unfortunately, been built up. We've seen the world around us change; we've seen ourselves change. Bay Shore has changed but, yet, has a magical way of staying the same. Now we move on to other lives. Some to college, some to the armed forces, and some to careers. Though our tides have changed, one thing will always rise and fall with us, and that's our memories of the last four years. We will always have these memories together, and these memories will never change. They will never fade. A tide, by definition, is always changing. Our lives are always changing. And while the tides may pull us in many different directions over the course of our lives, Bay Shore will always be pulling us back, the ebb and the flow of our lives always pushing us forward, but always bringing us back.

The 2009 Marauder Yearbook was published by Jostens and produced entirely by a staff of 29 students under the supervision of Adviser Michael Hochman.

Computers: Dell and MaxTerm computers were used for the majority of work, with iMac and MacBook Pros helping.

Software: The Marauder was produced entirely using Jostens online design program, Yearbook Avenue. Photography edits were made with Adobe Photoshop.

Fonts: Body type are 10 pt Clearface, captions and rosters are 8 pt Chantily Light, Headlines are 48 pt Kaufmann Script, and page numbers are 10 pt Elmore. The side index is 10 pt Rowdy. Various fonts are used through the Recognition Ad section, at the discretion of the editors and parents.

Senior surveys, found on the Senior portrait pages, were based on answers gathered by polling the senior class. Only responses that were submitted were used in completing that section. Senior superlatives were based on votes gathered from the senior class.

550 copies were printed of this 260 page book, the 86th volume of the Marauder, which was printed in full color on 100# matte paper. A 24-page supplement, covering Spring events, was planned for release in July.

Thank You

The 2009 Marauder was the work of so many people, and the staff would like to acknowledge their individual contributions, without which you would not be reading this book:

Mr. Walter Fishon: His countless hours editing and proofing these pages are so greatly appreciated. Any errors you see in this book are not because he missed them, but because we missed his corrections. We're calling him 'Eagle Eye' from now on.

Mr. Robert Pashkin: For his endless support of our ideas and efforts.

Lifetouch Photography: The phenomenal athletic photos you've enjoyed are all the result of the talented photographers at Lifetouch. And especially to Rita, who coordinated all of the photo sessions. How she juggles it all we'll never know.

Mr. Joe Scinto and Ms. Marissa O'Meally: Their Photoshop-ing skills have been invaluable. Marissa: can't wait to have you on staff next year. Scinto: Thanks for teaching her how to work her magic.

The Jostens staff, especially Mr. Matt Stucchio and Ms. Crystal Gault: We'll never forget what you did for us. You're all amazing!

Ms. Jillian Ferraro: The fifth Beatle to our Yearbook Staff, you have been so helpful.

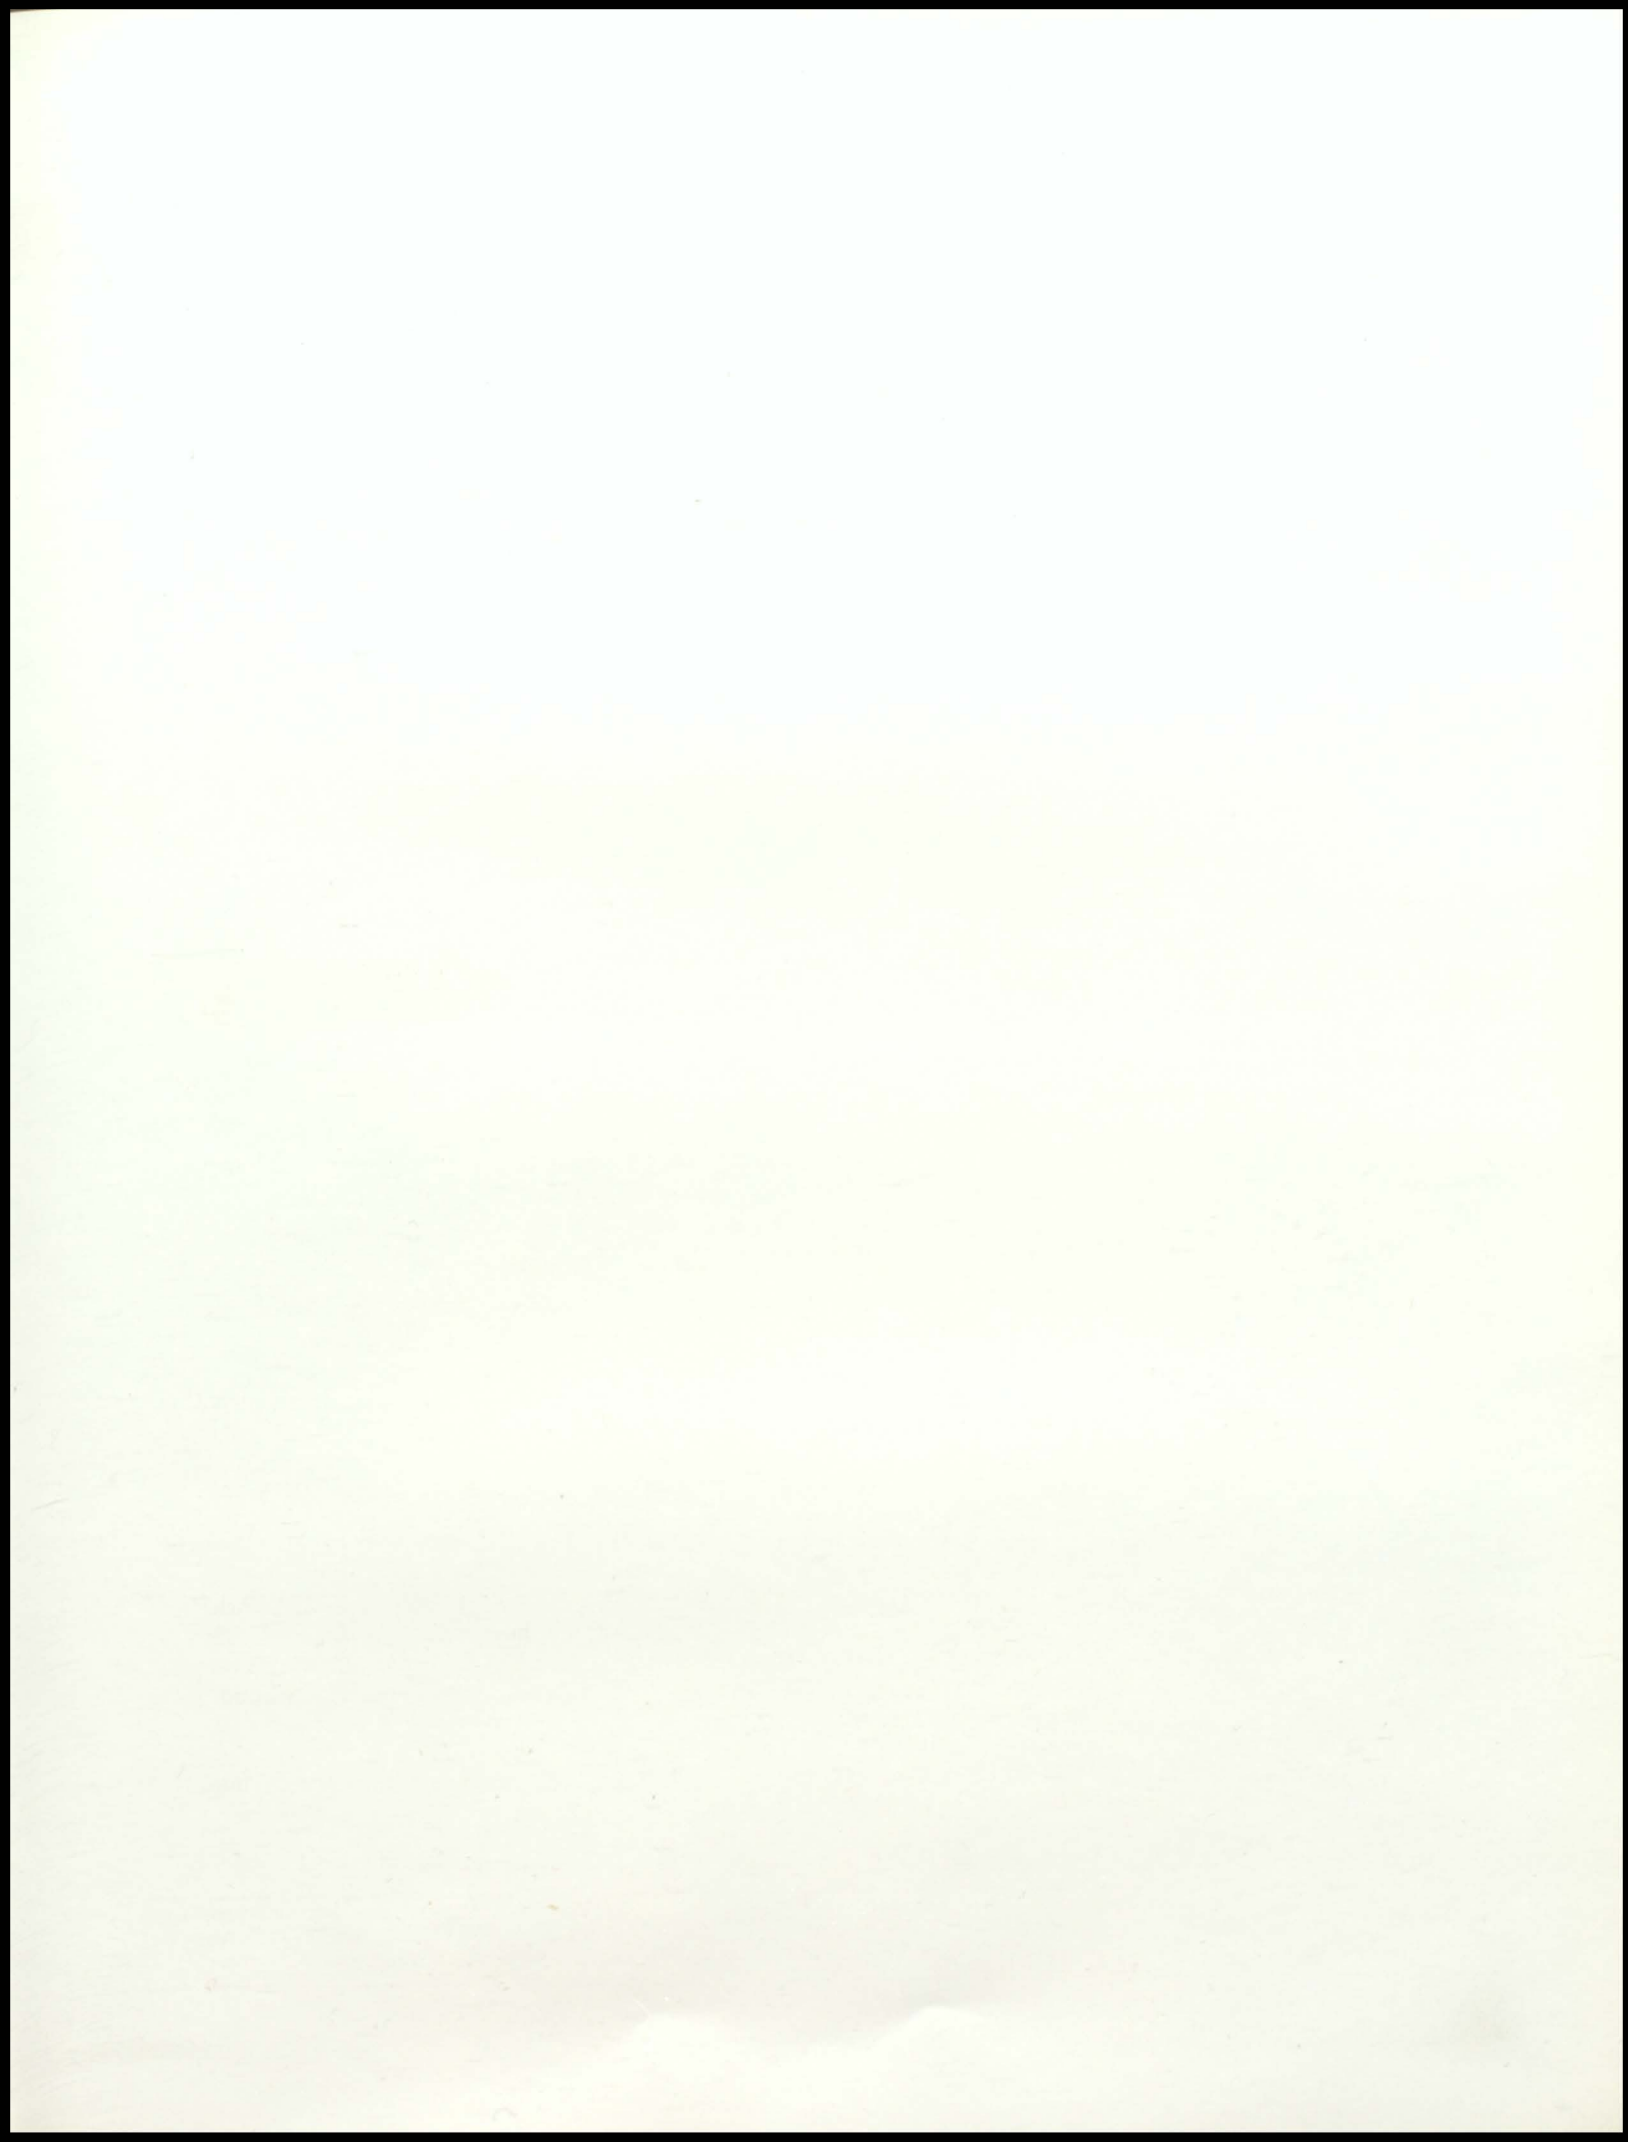

To every single secretary in the entire school district: thank you for everything you do. We'd like to especially acknowledge Arlene Boeree and Joni McLaughlin in Mr. Pashkin's office, who smiled no matter what we needed from them. Laura Giordano and Vicki Kristiansen, from the Main Office, for the same smiles and for the endless announcements we asked of them. To Lorraine Bowler in the Athletics office who provided rosters, schedules, and more. And Christina Nardone, who had a class list ready for us within minutes of being asked, not to mention the fastest letter-folding machine ever made.

We'd also like to thank Dawn Vallone, Mark Fielbig, Joe Hodosky, and the rest of the IT crew. No computer issue ever took more than an hour to address. You guys have been incredible, and we truly appreciate it.

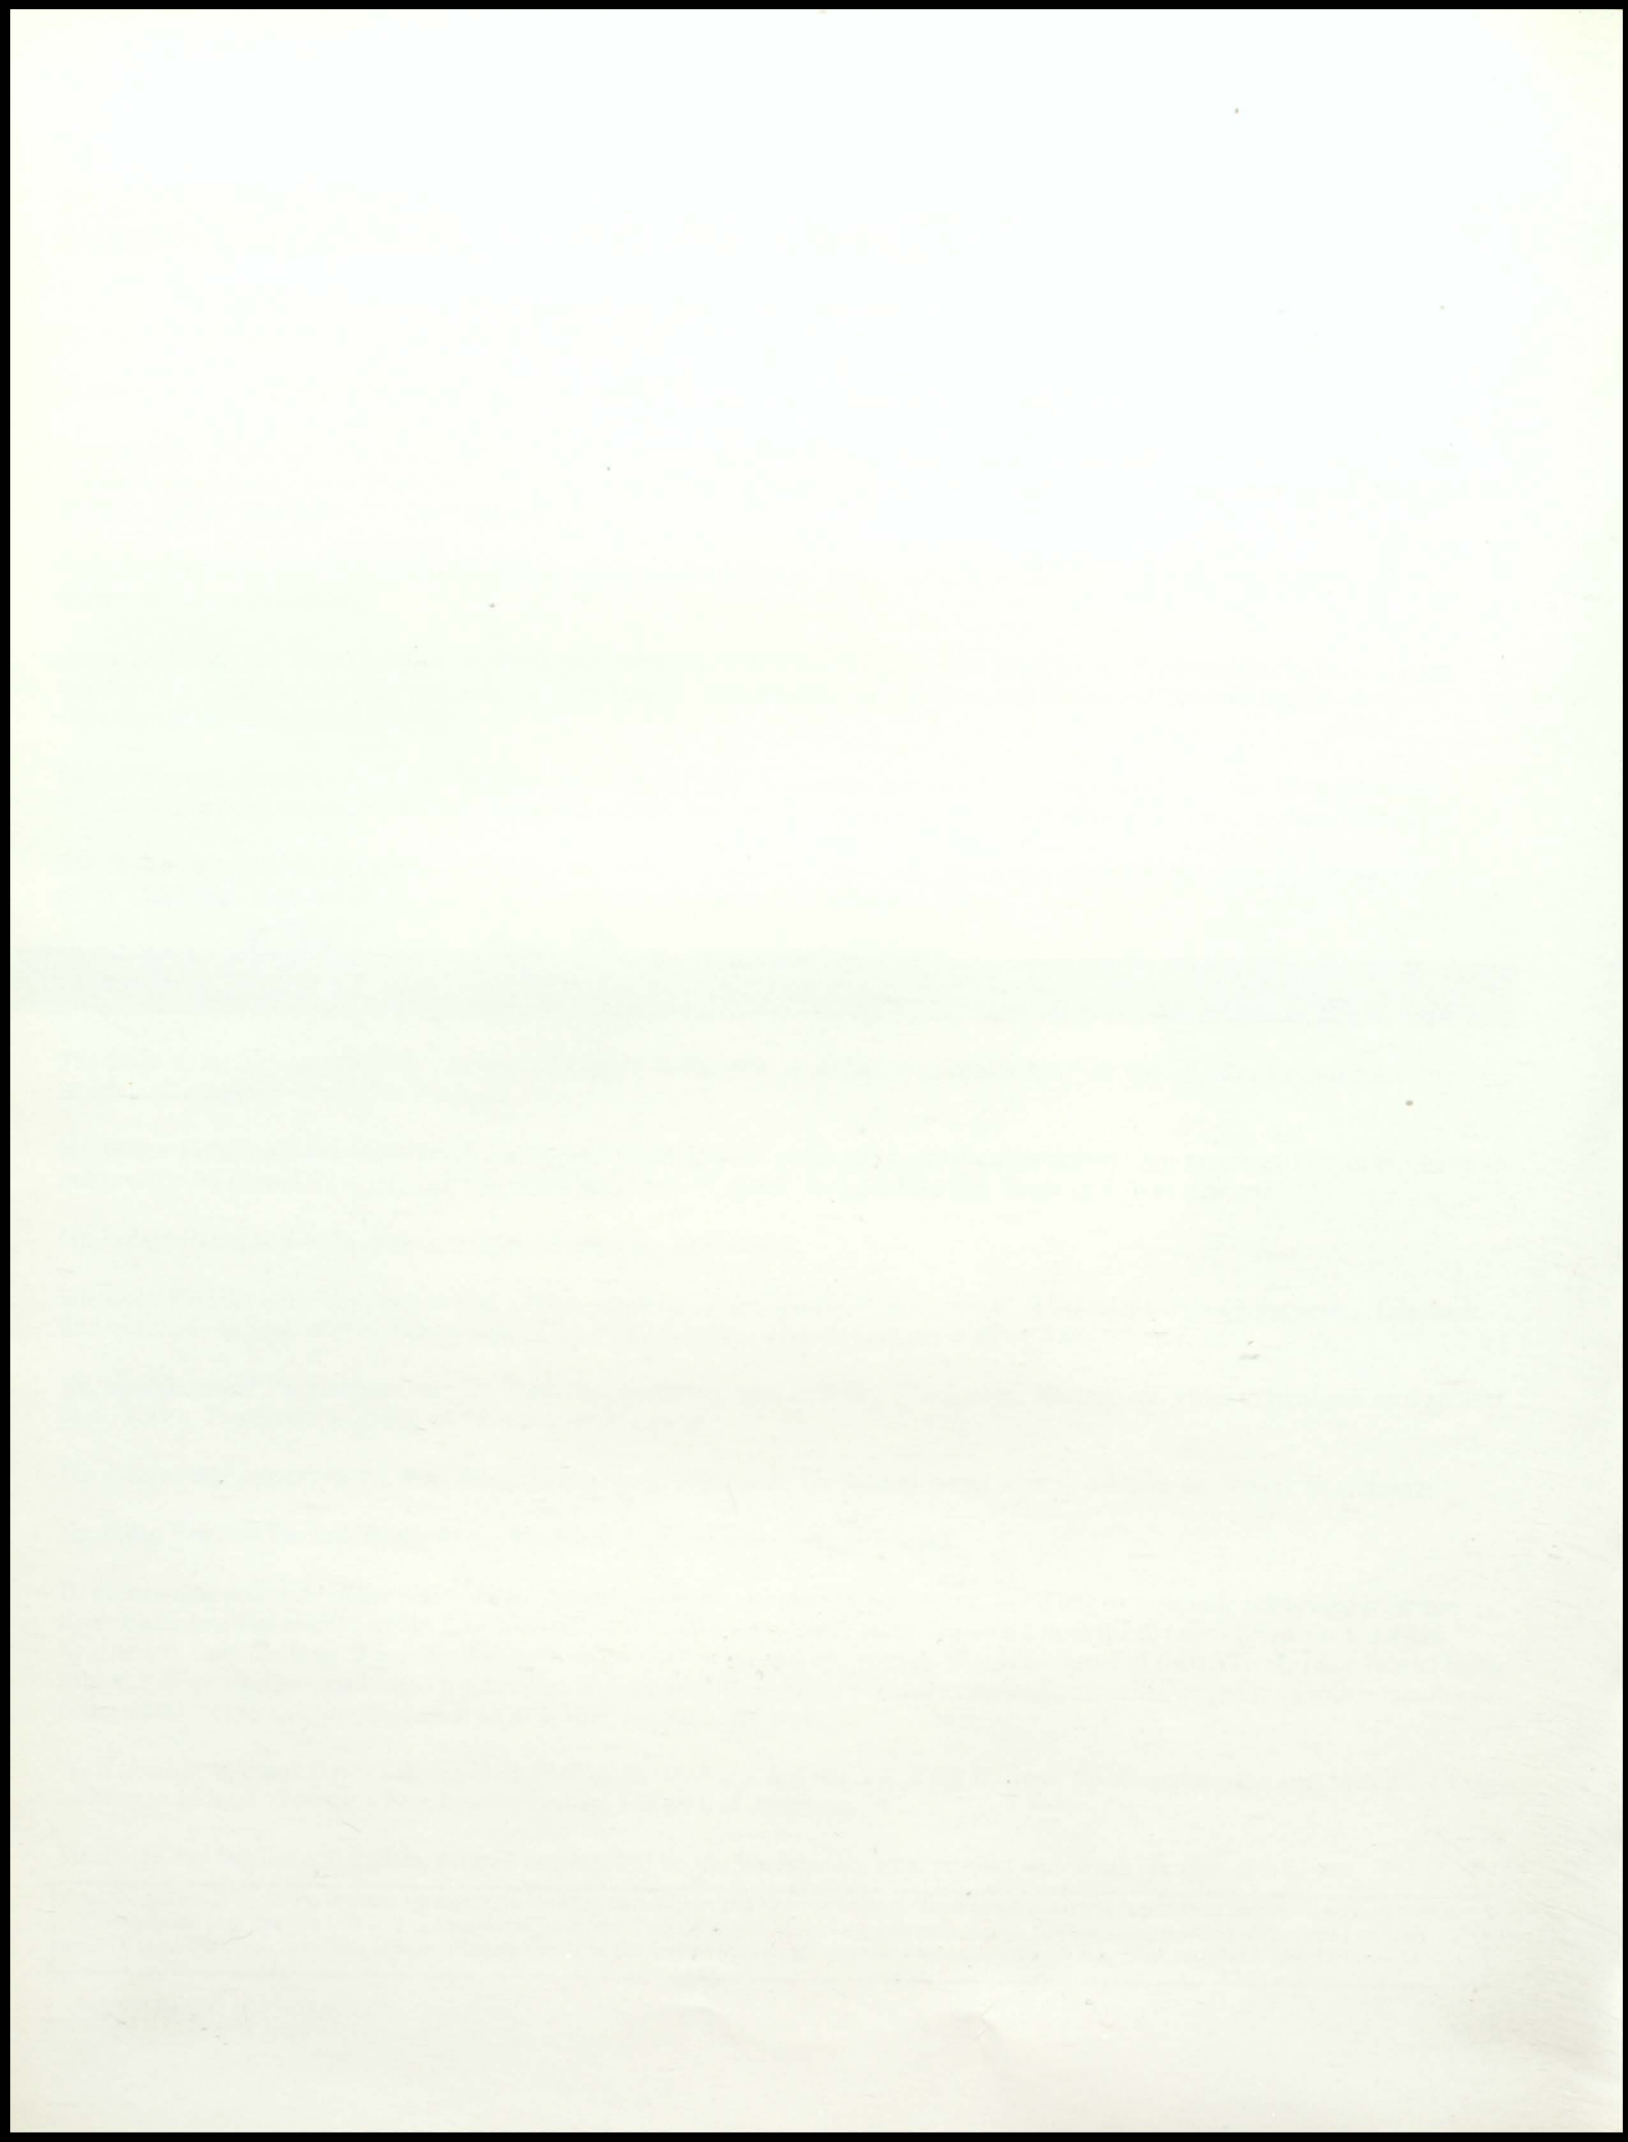

Finally, to our families and friends, who we neglected at times. We hope the final product was worth the time apart.

From the Advisor: I would like to thank my editors, Kailee Han, Julia Loehle, and Michelle Traynor. The amount of curveballs that were thrown at you is incredible, but you handled each obstacle with style and a smile on your face. I am going to miss working with each of you. You are amazing young women and I am truly honored to have had you as my first editors. You will forever be the spirit of the new and improved Marauder. Thank you, thank you, thank you. I'll miss you.

The background of the page is a complex, abstract pattern of overlapping circles. The circles are in various colors, including shades of blue, green, yellow, orange, red, and purple. The circles overlap in a way that creates a sense of depth and movement. The colors are muted and earthy, giving the design a calm and sophisticated feel.
